Peace Meeting at W.M.I. To Be Led by C.C. President

On Thursday, November 11, there will be an all-day peace meeting at W.M.I. in New London. In support of the meeting, and sponsored by the American Association of University Women, New London League, the New London Teachers League, Teachers' League, YWCA, St. Mary's Guild, and Tunxis Society, will be continued at Buell auditorium.

At eight o'clock it will open with a program of choral music, and the direction of Miss Gertrude Millshead and the school glee club. The program of patriotic songs. Following this President Schaeffer will introduce a panel of speakers who will have much to say regarding the work which the country has to do in the future.

Miss Schaeffer's topic will be the proposition that peace is a moral obligation of all, and that education and organizations for the peace of the world will be an important part of the program of the New London League. Miss Schaeffer will speak on the need of the United Nations being realized by the people and the world in general.

All the members of the student body and of the faculty have been invited to attend this all day meeting.

Rev. P. E. Osgood, Boston Rector, to Speak at Vespers

The Rev. Mr. Phillips Endicott Osgood, rector of Emmanuel Church, Old Time Church Drama, will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, November 13, in Hardwick chapel. A graduate of Wesleyan University and a descendant of the first governor of that state, Mr. Osgood was graduated from Harvard university and did his theological work in the Episcopal theological school in Cambridge. After having served parishes in New Haven, Transylvania, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, and Mansfield, he was called to his present church of which he has been rector since 1933. Since that date too, he has been lector of homiletics in the Episcopal theological school, at present.

Always interested in youth, Dr. Osgood has done much work in the religious education work of the diocese of Massachusetts and in the senior department of his church. He is chairman of the committee of the Massachusetts bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church and his bishop is browsing the daily papers. He is the author of Solomon's Temple, Transylvania, and in the children's department of the present "Concordant and Modern Conception of Jewish Art," which he is now compiling.

After the party, the freshmen will be invited to the senior dorms for refreshments.

This year the plan is to hold a special concert on November 25. The senior party will be held sometime next week, and the head of the Personnel department will talk to the seniors about filling in their personnel cards.

Dr. Wessel Joins Ranks of Teachers Here 25 Years Ago

By Jane Rutter '46

Dr. Arnold Wessel, professor of sociology, has just completed her twenty-fifth year on the faculty of Connecticut college. In 1919, when he was working in the field of sociology, Dr. Wessel was called to teach at Connecticut college. He began his work on the first floor of the Hinkley building, where he was to work in the field of sociology, a field that he has been working in for the last twenty-five years. In this time, he has contributed a number of articles to the field of sociology, which have been published in various journals.

Iron Pills Suggested To Regenerate Blood

Arrangements have been completed for the visitors to receive iron sulfite pills to spend the return to their homes.

The study made on young men in the blood transfusion section and in other laboratories indicated that, in the majority of cases, the iron sulfite administration of the blood is regenerated more rapidly, after the transfusion, when iron pills are taken. In a few cases last year, the blood donors were associated with the taking of the pills. This year the plan is to increase the number of the pills taken more gradually, and thus to lessen the possibility of an upset.

Blood donors who wish to take advantage of the iron pills may secure them on Thursday when they go to make their appointed directions for taking the pills will also be given.

Library Acquires New Books Through Grants and Gifts

The library staff has announced that there will be a collection of the permanent book collection of the library.

The Rockefeller Grant to the German Department has made possible the purchase of a number of books which pertain to the work of the college. The United Aircraft Corporation of Hartford has given several books and pamphlets on engineering projects. While Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. presented the college library with a number of books and events written by his father.

Many volumes have been ordered for the library and will be added to the catalogues as soon as received from the publishers.

Italian Club Plans To Aid Torn Italy

The first meeting of the Italian club was held Tuesday, November 13, at 7:30 p.m. in the Commutet's room.

The main purpose of this meeting was to discuss the tentative plans for the activities of the club for the coming year. It was decided that the Italian club would cooperate with the War Services committee, which is sponsoring a number of projects in Italy.

The War Services committee has decided to accept any plans which might have to do with aiding the work of the Italian club. Other plans include sponsoring a number of Italian clubs, the Italian club for the coming year and inviting speakers to talk on various topics connected with the Italian politics and literature.

Before the close of the meeting, Rosalia Tusteds '46 was elected secretary-treasurer of the Italian club for the coming year.

Foreign Students, Faculty to Relate Educational Views

Camps Speakers Will Lead November 19-20 International' Weekend

International Weekend will be held this year on Friday, November 19-20, in the dormitory. The theme for the weekend will be "Education and Promise." This year no outside guests have been invited. Instead the interest will be concentrated on the foreign students at the college and the foreign professors on the faculty.

Preliminaries to the weekend will be International Students day on Wednesday, November 18, and an organ recital. A musical program presented by Professors of Musical Education.

Education To Be Discussed

On Friday evening at 7:30 in Knowlton salon, a new study at Connecticut college will take place on the value of education and the various methods which they would set in place for the education of the youth. The speakers will include Miss Gertrude M. Wessel, authoress of "Sociology and Education." Dr. Hannah R. Swett, author of "The Voice of Reason," will speak on "Education in the United States" and Dr. A. George, author of "The Voice of Reason," will speak on "Education in the United States." The topic of the event will be discussed in the Knowlton salon throughout the night.

Harvesters' Wages Will Help Support One Chinese Child

The group of students who participated in the experimental potato crop under the direction of Dr. H. M. Knowlton at the Connecticut college received a blanket check for $15 in addition to their wages for the work of 1943. These students had been under the impression that the work had been done on a volunteer basis, but the harvesters received a notice to this effect from Dr. Avery.

It was decided that the $15 should be donated to the Allied Nations Relief fund and that the rest of the cost of feeding and clothing one Chinese child for a year will be covered by the proceeds from the sale of the Chinese child for a year will be $25.00. The profits from the sale of the child will be obtained from Volunteer Student Loan Employees not working for student credit.

Due Process of Law

As Allied troops are advancing over the European continent, the desire of Germany's final defeat is moving nearer. This release of paints and inscriptions of numbers gives the following advice to the population:

"Pick your rear seat! Now when the Allies come, there may not be enough Nazis to go around." There is no question about the fact that the peoples of the occupied countries will deal swiftly and without mercy with as many Nazis as they can handle. The newly set-up Allied commission in London which is acting to condemn criminals, reports that it would take fifteen years for any single court to handle the mass of cases.

Trial of Criminals

The Moscow declarations, with regard to the desire of prisoners, that the responsible criminals will be sent to the liberated countries in which the crimes were committed, is being accepted according to the laws of nations. It is understood that the laws of several countries will have to be changed in order to meet this situation which is now prevalent in the world. At the present time, the German and Italian courts of different European countries, but a select group of criminal cases, will be dealt with. The criminals are expected to stand trial and be found guilty of war crimes. Besides the war criminals, reports that it would take several years for any single court to handle the mass of cases.

Students Who Gave Their Lives

Connecticut college will join many other colleges and universities of the world in the observance of International Students Day on November 17. This day will have a particular poignancy for all those who notice how close is the relationship between International Students Day and AMERICAN Tomorrows.

This relationship is seen not only in the proximity in which the days are observed, but also in the similarity of the ideals for which both students and soldiers gave their lives.

For twenty-five years now we have bowed our heads in prayer for those who gave their lives for humanity's betterment during the last war. We served, but also in the similarity of the ideals for which both students and soldiers gave their lives.

Twenty-five Years After

Tomorrows, November 11, marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the signing of the armistice which brought World War I to a close. When that famous declaration was reported to the world, there was good reason to feel and to hope that this was the end of all wars. Tomorrow, however, we will read of the battles going on in all parts of the globe and of the principle of peace. We have been told many reasons for the outbreak of this second war, but what we have missed is that freedom was being trampled underfoot, we were willing to sacrifice peace that the battles of those who gave their lives for humanity's betterment.

It is to some graduates who would have wished that it soon after we commemorate their deaths we also pray that they may have the right to study and to express freely what they had learned. There were always the few who were tortured and repressed for spreading the truth which they manned to glean in spite of suppression of free thought, but at least they might be able to continue their study and a more humane world. Students whom we commemorate November 17 gave their lives in the most humanly's betterment, even as did the soldiers of the last war whom we commemorate on November 11. The ideals for which these two groups died are the same, and must not be merely commemorated, but made to live unhampered by those of us who are still free.
Fellowship Enables a Student to Continue Work in Major Field

The Katharine Blunt Graduate Fellowship, which has grown steadily since Class Day in June 1943, when Emily Warner Cad- dock, president of the Alumnae Association, announced the plan to honor President Blunt and her splendid leadership in the cause of the College's development.

Mr. Caddock declared, "It is not surprising to honor in this manner his president that Connecticut college has flour- ished." The fellowship plan was so active in the city and the district of New London, de- vised.

C.C. girls really have originality! One look at their rooms would convince anybody of that.

1. Take Ethel Sproul Felts '44 for instance. One stop into that room and you feel like dancing to the music and singing, and you feel like the school is really shipshape.

2. Marge Oeupel's ('44) gallery is a perfect example of the adage that "No woman is confined to the walls of her marriage chamber when she has a mind for it.

3. Miss Ruth Teaching, who is teaching the course, has requested that the girls wear gym-suits and sneakers and bring notebooks and pencils.

Contributions Are Feathers In C.C.'s Caps by Alice Adams '44

Have you pledged to the Community Chest yet? If you have, you are probably sporting a snappy red feather by now unless your particular Community Chest floor aide was a little negligent and we're sure she isn't.

Perhaps you have wondered about the significance of the red feather in connection with this annual drive; we have too. In case you are interested, the feather is not peculiar to Connecticut college.

The Boston Herald had a red feather printed on the front page of one of its recent issues in connection with this drive in Boston.

In trying to find out the symbolic meaning of the feather, we failed to get any information of national importance, but what we have to offer is slightly interesting if not educational. It seems that several years ago when the first Community Chest drive was launched, the chairman thought such a plan was necessary, too many dollars like feathers were placed therein.

An ingenious plan! The benefits from this invention are two-fold: 1. the faculty members now wear their feathers (do not take this too literally), and 2. succeeding Community Chest chairman will not have to make room in their closets for a huge box of feathers.

Home Nursing Course To Get Under Way Shortly

The home nursing course is tentatively scheduled to begin November 17, as at least seven of the patients must be completed before Christmas. Two different times have been suggested for meetings: Wednesdays at 7:30 to 8:30 and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

Strange Requests Add Laughs To Busy Life of Carpenter

by Betty Reiffel '46

Mr. Chapman, our carpenter, is a tall, friendly, hairy-haired man with a twinkle in his eye and a love for the unusual—which must be part of the reason why he has enjoyed working at Connecticut college for the past 20 years. The following plan will give you an idea of the daily surprises in Mr. Chapman's busy day.

"Mr. Chapman, will you look at the ceiling to see if it's likely to fall in?"

It all started 20 years ago when this busy carpenter-painter came to take care of the five original buildings: New London hall, Flint, Branford, Blackstone, and the gym. Since that time, the carpentry shop has been enlarged, and the big, neat paint shop at the rear of the building behind Winthrop was added 12 years ago. Today a large, bright, well-equipped building is the work-shop for the crew of six full-time carpenters who are kept busy by our never ending complaints about those wayward windows and stubborn doors.

Beware of Carelessness

A few warnings to careless carpenters hang conspicuously along the hall to remind them of the workmen that:

"Two hands"
"Two feet"
"That's all you'll ever have."

About 10 or 12 requests deluge the shop daily, usually requiring from three minutes to three days' work. One of them really takes the prize for requiring a pathetic plight.

"Please fix window so it can be opened."

That unfortunate person wondered: "Is there a storm door for her kitchen door? Wind blows under, around, and through the door."

Two other requests revolve the rough and tough treatment that the furniture on campus has to bear up against:

"Put blocks behind sofa to prevent tilting."

"Put blocks behind sofa to protect wall."

And the following are just a few of the many memos to the carpenter that adds laughs to his hands and long days.

"Fix stools which I'm having sent to you. (One has an exposed rusty bolt, and the other is wobbly.)"

"When things easy up a bit—a good football extras weekend—will Miss Warren to paint the first door of that room to cover plastering molding?"

"Please fix chair so it can be opened only halfway—if possible.""

"New lock put on door so that it can be locked. (The other day I found one of the delivery men helping himself to ice-cream.)"

The End of Sympathy

The war hasn't had much bad effect on the carpentry shop. Aside from the difficulty of getting supplies, the work has been going pretty smoothly. Lately, the carpenters have had a steady job of tending to those merciless splinters on chair legs that are death to our precious nylon.

Mr. Chapman raises turkeys, collects antiques—as hobbies, and owns a faithful dog who solves the butter shortage problem for him. As an example of the kind of antiques he collects, your re- porter was shown a small, straight chair, equipped with an old-fashioned music box beneath the seat that plays two melodies increased under a person's weight.

I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving.—Olive Wendell Holmes.
