EISENHOWER LEADS IN CAMPUS STRAW VOTE

Discussion About Foreign Policies Forum-Sponsored

Peterson, Ewing Talk On Critical Campaign Issues; Debate Hotly

Thursday, October 23, Governor Val Peterson of Nebraska, and Mr. Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator, were the guest speakers in a panel discussion sponsored by the Political Forum Club. The subject of the talk in the Auditorium was the present foreign policies of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Frances Wilcox '53, president of Political Forum, introduced the speakers and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Chester Destler, president of the League of Women Voters in the New London Area. As moderator, Mrs. Destler prefaced the speeches of both panelists with introductory remarks, and directed the question period following the discussion.

Governor Peterson, representing the Republican party, reviewed in his speech foreign policy under the Democratic administration with emphasis on the Far East and the conduct of the Korean war. He declared that the American people are faced with a choice of either "godless, dictatorial communism" or a chance for democracy, and that the present threat to our security cannot be over emphasized.

Of the present policy in the Far East, Governor Peterson said that it is "the greatest single blunder in the field of American diplomacy." He criticized the conduct of the Korean war, urging that we fight to win and utilize all our power to that end, or withdraw our troops completely.

Continuing his attack, the governor said, regarding the propaganda war, that above all we are being "outsold in the battle for the minds of men," and suggested the use of more efficient methods of spreading democracy.

In the conclusion of his speech, he recommended General Eisen-

UTS Prof. Roberts Will Speak Sunday

Speaking at the 7 p.m. vesper service Sunday, November 2, in Harkness Chapel, will be David E. Roberts, professor of the philosophy of religion in Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

Dr. Roberts is a graduate of Occidental College, Los Angeles, Calif. He has pursued graduate studies in the Universities of Oxford, Edinburgh, Marburg, and Göttingen, and took his theological work in Union Theological Seminary.

Dr. Roberts is a well-known speaker on many college campuses and on two separate occasions has been the leader of the annual religious emphasis period at the College.

He is the editor and co-author of Liberal Theology, the author of Psychotherapy and a Christian View of Man and of a more recent book on Existentialism.

OSCAR EWING

hower as the best candidate for the job ahead, citing the general's military and administrative experience in Europe and his diplomatic experience in NATO.

Mr. Oscar Ewing followed Governor Peterson on the platform. He explained and defended the foreign policy of the Democratic party, refining its principles as a "working with friends to end aggression." As examples of the success of this policy, he gave, among others, the Truman and Marshall Plans, NATO, and the Pacific Treaty. Mr. Ewing stated three objectives of our present policy: to settle disputes at the conference table, to set up defenses, and to eliminate the causes of Communism.

The spokesman for the Democratic National Committee concluded his speech with a description of Governor Stevenson's capabilities in the administrative department. Following Mr. Ewing's speech, Mrs. Destler opened a period of questions from the floor. The large audience responded with many questions that provoked spirited repartee between the two panelists.

Literary Contest's Deadline Here Soon

Students are reminded of the Quarterly contest which will close November 5. Prospective editors of the college literary magazine should turn in two examples of their creative talent to the Quarterly box in Fanning.

East African Adventure Film, Ivory Hunter, to Be Shown on Sat. Night

Ivory Hunter, an exciting African adventure film, will be shown in Palmer Auditorium on Saturday, November 1, at 7:30 p.m. The Film Estimate Board gives this movie a star rating for an outstanding picture of its kind.

Briefly, the plot is that of a young game warden in East Africa who creates a sanctuary to protect native animals from extermination at the hands of ivory poachers and greedy natives. The photography of East Africa is superb, both in the hair-raising scenes and in the tranquil scenic shots.

National Elections Change Amalgo Date

The next Student Government Amalgamation meeting will be held on Thursday, November 6, in Palmer Auditorium, at 7:00 p.m.

The date of this meeting was changed from the usual first night of the month, because Tuesday, November 4, is Election Day and many students who will be going home to vote would not be able to attend the meeting.

Drama Class Gives Aristophanes' The Frogs, November 5

The Play Production Class, under the direction of Miss Margaret Hazlewood, will present Aristophanes' play The Frogs in Palmer Auditorium on Wednesday, November 5, at 8:00 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

In the show, Dionysius, Greek god of drama, believes that his society has not produced a prominent playwright to entertain the dissatisfied public. He goes down to Hades to hold a contest and weigh the merits of the most outstanding author. The winner will be privileged to return to earth.

The Frogs are the members of the Chorus, who croak at Dionysius as he crosses the river Styx between Earth and Hades.

Dionysius is played by Dorie Knap '54, Eteschylus by Mary Alice Robertson '54, and Euripides by Ann Dygert '54.

The play is based on the Greek comic theater whose performers wear vivid colors, short, padded costumes, and large, spectacular masks. This year, the Play Production Class is studying the use of the mask in the theater. Future productions illustrating this theme will be At the Hawk's Well, W. B. Yeats and The Great God Brown by Eugene O'Neill.

Stage manager is Susie Bloomer '53; scenery is under the direction of Judith Morse '53; costumes are designed by Debbie Phillips '54; masks are created by Anne Matthews '54; props are constructed by Mar Robertson '54, and lighting is handled by Connie Demarest '54.

Announce Harvard Graduate Program

Harvard University has announced a fellowship program which will enable students to spend their fifth year at Harvard earning credit toward the degree of Master of Arts in Teaching or Master of Education. By means of participation in this fellowship program, college graduates can supplement knowledge of their major field with necessary theoretical information and practical experience in the area of education.

This program has been established by a group of twenty-nine institutions, including Connecticut College, which are now cooperating to develop more qualified pub-

Faculty and Staff Balloting Gives Stevenson Slight Edge

In a straw vote taken on campus Thursday night following the Political Forum meeting, and Friday morning in Fanning, 778 members of the college community voted, with Eisenhower coming out ahead.

Of this total vote, 674 votes were cast by students, and 104 votes by faculty and administration members.

The percentage tabulation of the total vote showed that 71% of the college community voting in favor of Eisenhower. The remaining 29% were for Stevenson.

Straw Vote

	Eisenhower	Stevenson	Total Votes Cast
Students	475	156	631
Per cent	75%	25%	100%
Faculty and Administration	50	54	104
Per cent	48%	52%	100%
Unclassified Ballots	25	18	43
Per cent	58%	42%	100%
Combined Vote	550	228	778
Per cent	71%	29%	100%
Breakdown of Vote by Class
Class of '53	96	27	123
Per cent	78%	22%	100%
Class of '54	97	41	138
Per cent	71%	29%	100%
Class of '55	110	35	145
Per cent	76%	24%	100%
Class of '56	172	53	225
Per cent	76%	24%	100%

The interpretation of the class votes are as follows: Class of '53: 78% for Eisenhower, 22% for Stevenson; Class of '54: 41% for Eisenhower, 29% for Stevenson; Class of '55: 76% for Eisenhower, 24% for Stevenson; Class of '56: 76% for Eisenhower, 24% for Stevenson.

The combined faculty and staff vote was 48% for Eisenhower, 52% for Stevenson. In addition to these figures, 43 additional votes were submitted without faculty or class markings. In this block, 59% of the votes were for Eisenhower, and 42% were for Stevenson.

These figures show that the student body favors the election of Dwight D. Eisenhower for the presidency of the United States. The faculty and administration vote indicates a close division of feeling, with Adlai Stevenson leading by only 4%.

The voting was under the direction of the Political Forum Voting Committee Chairman, Sue Brown. This straw vote was a special feature of the pre-election program sponsored by Political Forum. Other members of the voting committee included Marjorie Blech, Annellen Fine, Leta Weiss, Barbara Pollok, Barbara Gordon, and Zeta Flaherty.

Wig & Candle Members Plan November Meetings

Members of Wig and Candle production board will meet on Wednesday, November 5, at 4:20 p.m. in the Auditorium Workshop. On November 13 Wig and Candle will hold a meeting of the club at 4:30 in the Auditorium Workshop.

Stevenson Stop Is Greeted by Large Crowd at Station

Governor Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president, spoke in New London, Monday, October 27, at 4:47 p.m. The governor's appearance followed a colorful parade of bands, decorated automobiles, and banner-bearing citizens of New London, the surrounding areas, and Connecticut College.

At 4:50 p.m. an unfortunate incident gave the Democratic nominee for president an opportunity to show his wit. The platform in front of the railroad station collapsed, and the governor claimed this was due to the great number of people who wished to climb aboard the Democratic platform. Great applause greeted this statement.

Before Mr. Stevenson spoke, various local Democratic candidates were introduced, as were certain well-known celebrities travelling on the governor's train. Among them were Lauren Bacall, Humphrey Bogart, Robert Ryan and even Mrs. India Edwards, who was nominated for the vice-presidency.

After mentioning some of Connecticut's Democratic candidates

Cabinet Cabinet Discusses Campus Committee, New Edition of "C"

The meeting was called to order by Barbara Painton at 5:15 p.m. on Wednesday, October 22, 1952.

The following announcements were made:

A letter from the American Friends Service Committee announcing a conference entitled The Struggle and Strategy of Racial Justice to be held at Harvard, October 21-Nov. 2 was read. The letter will be posted in Fanning for the benefit of interested students.

A letter was recently received from Mr. Niebuhr thanking the students for their interest in the Iron Curtain Refugee Campaign and stating that he hoped we would be able to contribute to the Fund at a later date.

The first meeting of the Student-Faculty Forum will probably be held in November after the Election.

Cabinet was informed that, in general, chapel attendance has been much better this year than it was last year.

Political Forum plans to take a poll of students and faculty in the near future.

Students should be aware of the fact that they are continually regarded by others as being representatives of the college.

Cabinet discussed the Campus Committee and decided that the committee should be continued, that it fulfilled an important function on campus not so much by instigating new activities but rather by creating enthusiasm for existing opportunities. It was suggested that the committee be composed of a few members of Cabinet and representatives from each class.

The suggestion was made to the effect that some more centralized means of posting announcements could be found. Cabinet, however, was of the opinion that the Fanning bulletin boards, while numerous, were yet as centralized as possible.

The reorganization of the "C" book was discussed. The task will probably be performed by House of Representatives and a committee composed of the new "C" book editor and members from each

Accusations Do Not Abridge, But Overextend, Free Speech

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech . . ."

The above quotation is taken from the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It has been misinterpreted by numerous people to mean that we can say anything we please. Senator Joseph McCarthy of Minnesota seems to be one of those people.

What so many of us, and most of all Mr. McCarthy, forget is that the rights guaranteed us by the Constitution carry with them certain responsibilities. As the right to vote carries with it the responsibility of going to the polls on election day, so the right to free speech carries with it the responsibility of its judicious use.

We are uncertain, after the Senator's most recent defamation of character, whether he has ever heard of the phrase, "judicious use."

We would like to point out the meaning of this phrase, which is that free speech should be used in a positive sense rather than in a negative one. In other words, speeches such as the one by McCarthy, which do not one iota of good, but rather irreparable harm, and which exemplify a dismaying failure to use a privilege wisely, would be better omitted.

Although the facts used by McCarthy cannot actually be called false, they are distorted, taken out of context, and used to insinuate false suppositions.

In our opinion, Senator McCarthy is a rabble-rouser who cannot possibly be concerned with the welfare of the country as a whole, since he has done nothing other than to stir up a frantic, paralyzing fear of Communism, which threatens, more than Communism itself, to destroy all the democratic values we cherish.

Perhaps Mr. McCarthy sincerely wants to see the Republican party in power, but we, as Americans, have never believed that the end justified the means. Though many of us believe in the end, we cannot sanction the means.

Senator McCarthy's TV speech on Monday evening, October 27, was an unsavory peak in an unsavory career.—EMB

The meeting was adjourned at 5:45.

Free Speech

A Forum of Opinion from
On and Off the Campus

The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

As free-thinking, independent voters, we were appalled tonight by Senator McCarthy's radio speech.

We cherish our democratic rights and support them fully. As a citizen Senator McCarthy abused his privileges. His deliberate distortion of facts and unfounded statements made a mockery of free speech. Irrational thinking regardless of partisan politics is a threat to a democrat. A nation whose mind is beclouded with hysterical, unsupported accusations cannot hope to conquer communism effectively.

Let us combat this menace by electing responsible leaders who will work within the framework of our constitution—work through the machinery that we, as citizens, have set up. And in order to safeguard our "inalienable rights" we must select leaders who will set an example—men who will not reduce our freedom of speech to mere rabble rousing. Only with a calm, clear thinking America can we hope to perpetuate democracy.

Public Demand Can Reinstate Lectures on Current Topics

At the close of the 1951-52 school year, the series of current events lectures, scheduled each Monday during chapel period, were quietly eliminated.

The decision to drop the current events program raised little or no comment among the student body. Here and there, a few girls remarked that it was a pity to discontinue these lectures, but on the whole, no one seemed to care very much.

The administration had a valid reason for the abolishment of current events—one which is very much to our discredit; namely, that since so few students attended the sessions, faculty members could hardly be expected to go to considerable trouble in preparing a lecture.

That we did not, in sufficient numbers, attend current events, reflects on us as individuals who are supposedly somewhat intelligent, and can therefore be expected to show some signs of interest in affairs of the national and international scene.

That we have not made the slightest effort to have the current events lectures reinstated, is no less to our discredit.

It might be supposed that our enlightened student body is so well informed in this field that we have no need for any such talks. Unfortunately, this is not the case.

Recently, a furious discussion was taking place during Sunday dinner in one of the upper-class dormitories, on the subject of free speech. What the participants were condemning most heartily was the Smith Act. Dinner being over, the discussion continued, when suddenly one brave soul turned to another girl and confessed hesitantly that she didn't really know just what the Smith Act was. Whereupon it turned out that, although several girls had some vague ideas on the subject, not one could actually give a concrete explanation of it.

Again, while waiting in front of Union Station for President Truman's arrival, a student wearing one of the large-sized Ike buttons was heard to comment that she didn't like Sparkman.

This particular girl had probably made such remarks at numerous other times, but on this particular occasion, she had the misfortune to be heard and challenged by the wife of one of our faculty members. The question put to the girl was: "What, precisely, do you know about Sparkman?"

It evolved that apparently she knew absolutely nothing about Sparkman, but was simply parroting some vague, unsubstantiated comments she had heard from others.

If these incidents, then, are any indication, it seems that we are not as well informed as we should be, or as we would like to have people believe we are.

Current events lectures would be of untold help in clarifying current happenings, and in relating them to the general scheme of foreign and national policy. The only means by which current events lectures will be again scheduled is through student demand. We believe it's time that the students so demand!—EMB

Palmer Memorial Library Collections Pay Honor to Victor Hugo, UN, Opera, Religious Fellowship, and the Bible

Many exhibits are being shown at Palmer Library and more will be shown during the coming month.

The library is presently paying tribute to the works of Victor Hugo. This display is composed of a large plate sent from the French Exhibition to Mr. Chadourne of the French department, some photographs, and many books from Palmer Library.

The UN exhibition was opened October 19, the first day of United Nations Week. There are many pieces from various UN countries, including jewelry from Colombia, Greece, India, Mexico, Peru, and Siam; perfume from France; leather goods from France, Mexico, and Italy; embroidery from Switzerland; and dolls from Peru, Mexico, and other countries. There also are UN posters and pamphlets.

Books are being shown for the Religious Fellowship Conference, October 25. These books were given to the library by Religious Fellowship.

An exhibit displaying pictures and material on opera is in honor of the Metropolitan Opera, which has improved so greatly under the director of Rudolph Bing. This exhibit will open November 11.

During November, an exhibition may be expected of books designed by Bruce Rogers, one of the

Russian Programs To Include Films And Choral Group

On October 22, at 7:00 p.m., CC's Russian Club held its first meeting in the Grace Smith recreation room.

President Betty Koulomzin '54, opened the organizational meeting by outlining the coming year's program. On November 15 Russian movies will be shown in Palmer Auditorium; and a trip to Norwich to hear a Russian choral group is planned for November 22.

Russia Versus Communism

The club will learn Russian songs to sing at the International Christmas Party on December 12. Igor Youskevitch, probably the greatest male ballet dancer in the world today, is to appear in this vicinity within the year, and plans are being made to secure him for an informal talk.

Mr. Kasem-Beg, head of the Russian Department, spoke on the advantages of belonging to the Russian Club and of knowing more about Russian culture. He pointed out that as the United States and Russia are the leading nations in the world today, it is imperative for American youth to know more about Russia, and to realize that the Russian nation and communist doctrine are two separate things.

Mr. Kasem-Beg told the group that one way to know a nation well is through its arts, and the Russian nation is fond of arts. He spoke of Tchaikovsky and the great Russian ballet as examples of leaders in the arts of Russia.

Foreign Film Shorts

At the close of his talk, Mr. Kasem-Beg elaborated upon the Russian movies to be shown in Palmer Auditorium on November 15. There will be three "shorts" and one long film. All will be in color and will have English narration and dialogue. The subject of the first short will be Yalta, the second will be a cartoon based on a fairy tale, and the third will be on the paintings of Shishkin. The main feature will be on the Circus Arena of Russia.

The meeting closed with the playing of representative Russian music while refreshments were served.

Centeno Talks on Spanish Holidays

Spanish Club's first meeting was held in the Commuter's Lounge last Thursday evening at 7:00.

Mr. Centeno spoke on the celebration of holidays in Spain, taking special notice of those which we do not have in our country, or which we celebrate differently.

Elvira Trujillo sang and played beautifully. Her selection was Rosalia, a song native to her country.

Miss Harriet Nash Talks to Those in Child Development

On October 23 Miss Harriet Nash, preschool and parental education consultant to the Connecticut State Board of Education, met with the Child Development majors at the nursery school. She related the present status of nursery schools and the problems which must be faced in pre-school education.

The importance of pre-school education is becoming more and more widely accepted in the United States, and plans are now being formulated to incorporate private nursery schools into the public educational systems. These plans for more complex educational systems are necessitated by the increasing number of children in the nursery school and kindergarten age groups.

Two of the foremost problems in our educational system today are the shortage of well qualified teachers and the inadequacy of instructive facilities. Following Miss Nash's talk and informal group discussion, refreshments were served.

Religious Weekend Allows Evaluation Of Good Existence

Religious Emphasis Weekend, on October 25-26 was a successful venture, not in terms of the number of participants, but in the spirit of enthusiasm evidenced in the few conference delegates.

In the keynote speech of the conference, Wayne Underhill, director of the Christian Association at the University of Connecticut, described his conception of a religious conference: to "examine what life means to us and how it can mean more." This process of self-evaluation is demanded of us by the fact of our existence in a vast universe where one must live with other people and with oneself.

The weekend consisted primarily of open discussions involving both faculty and students. Delegates from Yale and Yale Divinity School provided an intercollegiate atmosphere and gave CC participants a notion of how other students deal with campus problems.

Such problems were considered as that of choosing a vocation for possibilities of "success," or because it is the best thing to do according to one's religious principles. Also discussed was the failure of the church and the family to uphold consistent ideals, with the result that a child learns conflicting habits.

Arboretum Projects Involve Natural Area Preservation

Much work has been done in recent months in the Connecticut College arboretum. The arboretum is part of an effort to preserve natural areas where plants and animals are left completely undisturbed, but available for scientific research.

Among the different projects evolving from the planning of projects for this area are the booklet distributed this year on the arboretum, and a long-term project, involving scientific research on plant and animal life within the arboretum. The bulletin which came out this fall was published at the expense of the Arboretum Association. The purpose of this bulletin was to inform the students of the activities of the college in regard to the arboretum.

Recently, the college received a $400 grant from the Connecticut Geological and Natural Survey. This grant enabled the college to start a long range scientific survey of the vegetation of the natural area. This survey was carried out with the help of five members of the student body, who stayed for three weeks after school ended in June.

These botany majors, Susan Shaeffer '54, Dorothy Lou Voorhees '54, Susan Green '54, Ethel Monzert '54, and Rae Ferguson '53, helped plot out certain areas, which are permanently marked off. Throughout the next 100 years, periodic studies will be made of these areas, which are now minutely catalogued as regards the vegetation now there; and a running catalogue of the results of this survey will be kept.

CC Graduates in Class of 1952 Hold Positions in Fields of Government; Education; Many Alumnae Now Married

As a result of questionnaires sent out by the Personnel Bureau to the class of 1952, NEWS presents a report on last year's seniors, who comprised a graduating class of 187.

Many of the members of this class are married, most of whom list homemaking as their occupation. Among them are: Sidney Brown Kincaid, Ann Knox Adler, Kay Nelles McClure, Brenda Bennett Bell, Jane Hough MacElliott, Betty Lee Patterson Manahan, Norma Anchin Untermeyer, Bette Snow Knowlton, Rosemary Dunne Carson, and Helen Knight Johnson.

Also included in this group are: Bev Weber Raynor, Corinne Fisher Smythe, Jean Hewitt Thomas, Rachael Kilbourne Gould, Pat Sherman LeFevre, Evelyn Moore Sheehy, Joyce Leeming Mayfield, and Ivy Templeton Spracklin.

Also married, although their married names are unknown, are Janet Schmitz, Mary Sessions, Mary Sheldon, Jane Law, Natalie Sperry, Caroline Gibson, Pat Terrell, Lofton Wilson, Claire Carpenter, Elinor Haider, and Nancy Alderman.

Working Wives

Several working wives are included in CC's most recent alumnae. Eleanor Russell Scheffler is a lab technician in the Home Economics department of the University of Maine; Shirley Lukens Rousseau, library assistant at U-Conn's Wilbur Cross Library; and Helene Paris Dyke, secretary for the McGraw-Hill Publishing Company in Washington, D. C.

Pat Wardley Hamilton is writing promotion for the Educational Advisory Department of the Houghton Mifflin Publishing Company in Boston; Alice Green Grant, personnel work for the Hathaway Manufacturing Company, New Bedford, Mass.; and Janet Lindstrom Telian is a nutritionist for the Beech-Nut Packing Company in Cranston, Rhode Island.

Graduate assistant in Yale's Psychology department is Kitty Fischer Frank; Barbara Rex Kaemmerlen is a secretary in the Dietary department of the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital in Boston; and Sue Fifield Nauss, lab technician in the Nutrition department of Harvard's School of Public Health.

Many Teachers

The greatest number of '52 graduates in any one occupational group are the teachers. Evelyn Oberem is a fifth-grade teacher for the Harwinton Consolidated Schools, Harwinton, Conn. Nancy Laidley and Winann Meyer are apprentice teachers at the Shady Hill School in Cambridge, Mass.

In the nearby Uncasville School, Montville, Conn., Sylvia Gundersen is teaching third grade. As an assistant shop teacher, Jean Lewis is at the Brearley School in New York City. Alida Van Bronkhorst teaches kindergarten at the Wantagh School, Wantagh, Long Island.

Follow Major Interests

Many of the alumnae now teaching hold positions closely related to their major fields. Barbara Goldman is a nursery school teacher for the Jewish Community Center in Cincinnati, Ohio. Natalie Comen combines the positions of substitute Latin teacher and library supervisor for the Superintendent of Schools in Bridgeport. Another nursery teacher is Ann Foster, at the Kinder Kraft Nursery School, Kansas City, Missouri.

Two English majors have found positions in their major field: Mary Harrison at the Bloomfield High School, Bloomfield, New Jersey; and Nancy Morton, at the Bartram School, Jacksonville, Florida. Joan Purcell is teaching social studies at a junior high school in North Reading, Mass.; and Sue Rockwell teaches physical education at the Low-Heywood School, Stamford.

Working in government agencies in Washington, D. C., are Helen Fricke, Francine LaPointe, Dene Laib, Elizabeth Richtmeyer, Barbara West, and Mariamne Newbold, all as analytic aids; Sally Deisroth; and Susan Crowe, Jane Gerhardt, and Kathleen O'Toole, as research analysts.

Insurance work has attracted several recent CC graduates, in-

A. A. Plans Include Interclass Games, Annual Fun Party

by Midge Briggs and Ann Matthews

Inter-class games are just getting under way this week so news from the sports front is pretty meager. Football games seem to be the only form of athletic activity occupying our time at the moment.

The problem of getting the inter-class competitions started earlier has, however, finally been solved by A.A. From now on, the sports heads will be elected earlier so that the practices and games can be scheduled earlier. Moreover, the sport heads for the following year are to be elected before the sport ends.

Spooks and witches will invade the gym tomorrow night for the annual Halloween party given by A.A. for students, faculty, and faculty children.

There will be many different kinds of entertainment including a horror chamber, the Conchords, concession booths, a freak show and prizes for the most original costumes. Everyone is urged to forget test week and come join the fun.

Students, Faculty Give 139 Pints of Blood in RC Drive

In rewarding contrast to previous visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the CC campus, more than 150 persons donated 139 pints of blood when the Bloodmobile arrived here on Tuesday, October 21.

Previous donations, for last year and the year before, were 98 pints and 87 pints, respectively. This year a total of 167 people volunteered to give blood, including 155 faculty, students, and staff.

The visit of the Bloodmobile was arranged under the auspices of the Post War Services Committee. Miss Mildred Burdett of the Home Ec Department, chairman in charge of organization and local recruitment, was assisted by Miss Harriet Warner, director of the college Nursery School. Members of the student committee who aided with publicity and organization were Frederica Hines, Betty Johnson, and Lydia Richards, all members of the senior class.

Because of the large turn-out there were unfortunate delays in keeping the individual schedules on time. Consideration is being given to this problem so that in another year the full operation of blood donation will proceed more smoothly.

U. S. Civil Service Commission to Give Junior Management Assistant Exams

JMA
The Junior Management Assistant Examination will be held on December 6, 1952, at the New London Post Office. Applications must be filed by Thursday, November 13, 1952, with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

The JMA examination is open to all seniors who will have a bachelor's degree in June, 1953, including 30 semester hours of study in one or a combination of the following fields: public or business administration, political science, government, economics, international relations, industrial management, industrial engineering, sociology, psychology, anthropology (social or cultural), geography (economic or political), or history.

JMA appointees are given training assignments that prepare them for higher level position in Federal agencies throughout the country. Fourteen Federal Agencies are participating in the 1952-1953 program. After successful completion of the JMA examination, a candidate may apply for appointment in any of the 14 Agencies.

Most JMA appointees begin at a salary of $3410 per year which is a threshold grade in Government positions.

Announcements giving further details, application blanks, and sample questions may be obtained from the Personnel Bureau. A special work-shop meeting will be held from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, October 30 at 110 Fanning Hall. At this time all students interested in applying for the examination will be given the opportunity to examine literature in U. S. Civil Service, make out applications and ask specific questions.

Student and Trainee Exam

The Student Aid Trainee examination for probational summer employment will be held sometime in the early part of 1953. Majors in mathematics, chemistry, and physics completing their junior or senior year this spring are eligible. Positions are available in laboratories and agencies for summer work at a salary of $2950 per year. Successful completion of this examination and summer employment can lead to permanent Civil Service rating and employment without further examination.

C.C. Aids Children In Social Service At Learned House

Learned House, the community center in downtown New London, offers a wonderful opportunity for any girls interested in working with people, especially small children.

Girls interested in Scouting may work with Girl Scout Troops; music majors have a chance to work with singing groups and to teach piano; expert knitters may instruct in that art; girls who are interested in Home Economics have the opportunity to display their proficiency in that field; art majors may help with crayon and color work.

This is worthwhile and interesting work and requires only one hour a week. Mrs. John Kashanski is the full time director

Applications for the Student Aid Trainee summer program are also available in the Personnel Office. Applications for this examination must be submitted by November 5, 1952.

Welcome Back!

Connecticut College is glad to welcome back Dr. Lilian Warnshuis, college physician, after a protracted illness which prevented her from returning to CC in September.

Student thanks are extended to Dr. Helen Ferguson who took time from her own practice to serve temporarily as college physician.

Stevenson

such as Bill Benton and Mr. Ribicoff, and paying a tribute to Brian McMahon, he proceeded to enumerate some of the aims of his campaign. His two major points were a clean government in Washington and a strong peace program in the world, with prosperity at home to follow naturally.

On the Korean issue, Stevenson stressed the danger of showing any weakness now. He emphasized that the Republican leaning towards delay is extremely dangerous. He went on to state that cooperation among all nations will bring about a peace that must be won just as a war must be won. Our strength must be used wisely to effect a cure for poverty which leads to Communism, he said.

In conclusion, Mr. Stevenson expressed his appreciation for the very warm, enthusiastic reception. He asked, finally, that everyone vote according to his convictions and that the voters know what they are voting for. He asked the voters to question themselves "which party has a heart? Which is warm and friendly?" He also stated "Past performance is the best guide to future expectations."

The applause was thunderous, as people pressed through the station to reach the train and catch a last glimpse of the candidate. Stevenson remained on the rear platform of the train, shaking hands with those nearest him and giving his autograph willingly to those who asked for it.

Various Connecticut College professors took part in the welcoming. Mr. Strider, Chairman of

Prospective Profs To Show Aptitudes In Teacher's Exam

Princeton, N. J., October 15—The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 200 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 14, 1953.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non-verbal Reasoning; and one or two of eight Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the National Teacher Examinations and which of the optional Examinations to select.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information describing registration procedure and containing sample test questions may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey. Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the TCS office during November, December, and in January so long as they are received before January 16, 1953.

Volunteers for Stevenson in New London, rode on the Stevenson train from Norwich; and Destler appeared on the platform.

Danforth Fellowship Will Subsidize Preparations for College Teaching

Applications are invited by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, for the second series (1953) of Graduate Fellowships for college seniors and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1953, for their first year of graduate study.

The Foundation welcomes applicants from the fields of Natural Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and other fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Park has named Miss Marjorie MacBain as the Liaison Officer to work with the Danforth Foundation on the selection of candidates. These appointments are primarily "a relationship of encouragement," carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Miniwanka in Michigan next September. The qualifications of the candidate as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are:

Evidence of superior intellectual ability in college record

Good record of health and emotional stability.

Outgoing personality and the concern for people, essential for successful teaching.

Choice of vocation of teaching as form of Christian Service.

Deep religious convictions and growing religious perspectives. (The Foundation is looking for candidates who are seeking a maturing faith and a social outreach.)

Each institution is asked to limit its nominations to two, or at the most three.

Do Students Think in Classroom?

A survey of what students actually think about in class, conducted by Benjamin S. Bloom, associate professor of education and examiner in the College of the University of Chicago, reveals wide variations in thinking that takes place.

The survey taken of students in five lecture classes and in thirty discussion groups showed that students spent almost two-thirds of their time thinking about the topic discussed or being lectured on. In the remaining third of the time their thoughts were irrelevant to the classwork.

In discussion classes, one-third of the thinking is made up of trying to solve problems that come out in the discussion. About a quarter of the time is spent in thinking about people, including oneself and the danger of being called upon. In lectures, students spend forty per cent of the time merely following the lecture, a different kind of thinking from the problem solving involved in discussion classes.

Various psychological tests were applied to students reporting on what they thought in class. Those whose personalities were considered negative had two different kinds of thoughts. The bright students with negative thinking criticized what was being said in class. Less bright students mentally criticized other people in class, including their clothes, appearance, and conduct.

Persons suffering from anxiety, according to the tests, tended to think more about themselves than about what was going on in class.

The studies were made possible because of a new technique, called stimulated recall, developed at the university within the last two years. By playing tape recordings of classroom events within two days after class, students were able to recall 95 per cent of what went on. The recordings served as a stimulant to recalling their thoughts as well.

Tips for instructors also come from the study. One suggests that the wisecrack attracts too much attention itself, distracts the student from the remainder of the lecture. The instructor regarded as antagonistic by the students, the one who disciplines the class into line, gets more attention from the students than do the ideas he presents.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
