Technical Problems Main Hindrance
To Installation of Telephones in Rooms

by Jacqueline Earle

Investigating into the administra-

ion's reasons for not allowing private phones in students' rooms revealed last week that the main hindrance is the problem of installation.

According to College Business Manager, Mrs. A. C. Lyman, the Southern New England Telephone Company made a survey of their lines to Beloit and is using in order to see if television service to student rooms can be practical.

Three Problems

Mr. Lyman explained that there were three major problems were found. First, the telephone company would have to install additional cables from their building on Washington Street to campus, to install additional cables. From the telephone company would have required a year in order to see

The Presidents' Role

The Student Government House of Representatives is the key legislative body of the college.

House presidents and the student body have a joint responsibility to each other and to the student government to see that this function of House of Rep is taken seriously.

In some instances, house elections and duties are treated with a flippancy that indicates failure to realize the presidents' potentialities within the student government framework.

The house unit is the basis of our student government. Within the house, the president should serve not only as a switchboard for complaints concerning the coke and washing machines, but also as an important legislative within the community. She is her district's congressional representative, and help decide important college issues. She is the link between students and their elected executive officials.

House presidents must have enough respect for their position to realize its potential and to generate a sense of their significance to the student body. They are the best channel of communication within student government.

UNION COLLEGE: From a previous student, fifteen-week semester, Union has joined the list of the great in the three, ten's. Speakeasy, as the student union is named, is a real deal, but it is generally felt that the Home program involves a heavier work load.

E. MASS: This year curfew are two to three, there are the majority of students. Only freshmen women are at the sophomore level, have set hours, midnight Sunday.

NOWS: Due to the poor reception of the Asso. of Women, freshmen are at the graduation ceremonies last spring, 150 to 200 of a group of 300 persons at the end. At one point in the room, students are at the choice of the university degree and in the planning of graduation.

President Charles E. Shain recently traveled to Moscow to speak to the Connecticut College Club of Delaware and Maryland and at the American Association of Friends' School in Willimantic. He also spoke to the Connecticut College Club of Philadelphia.

Miss Marcella Hatter of the Hunic Warehouse Foundation Office announced that students and those who work on campus should apply to the placement office, 211 to the Cochrans-Williams. Some jobs are open, others are filled.

Miss Alice Johnson, dean of freshmen and associate professor of English, presented the annual fall meeting of the Connecticut Association of Women Alumni and Colleagues, October 27.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to comment upon the statement that Prof. Reiss of the Department of Philosophy made in the Oct. 25 issue of ConnCen.

My name is Michael F. Lee, and I wrote the above article.

In conclusion, I would like to stress that the word 'intellectual' is generally used to describe a person who has arrived at a given level of thought. While some may argue that this term should be reserved for those who have achieved a high level of intellectuality on campus, I feel that all students should be encouraged to pursue their intellectual curiosity and to develop their full potential. This is especially true of those who may feel that they are not as intellectually gifted as others.

OLD TV ROOMS CALLED UNDERDEVELOPED AREA

by Naomi Fatt

In an age of urban renewal and aid to distressed areas, we tend to ignore some of our own underdeveloped areas. A case in point is the condition of the majority of television rooms in the older dormitories.

This year there is a new television set in every dorm TV room on campus. In the complex the television rooms are actually corner or partitioned area of the living room. These areas are furnished with virtually the same type of furniture as the rest of the living room.

In the older dorms the television rooms are separate from the living room.

TV in Basement

In Blackstone, Plant, and Brandy they are in the basement. In all three of these dorms the furniture is predominately vinyl-covered aluminum-frame chairs in a shade of red. Most often seen in hospital clinics or in shades of dirty yellow.

In Plant the newest furniture, other than the television, seems to be the dining room. In Blackstone it is probably the refrigerator.

Little or nothing has been done to cover the walls or the floors in a systematic, sensible or pleasing manner. In Plant, for example, Humphrey Bogart looks mournfully across at a Mexican travel poster.

Halloween Decorations

In Saturday's fast-moving Halloween decorations are finally back in stock.

There is a large room in the Burdick-Smith basement which contains a piano and two ping-pong tables as well as the normal television room facilities. The room looks reminiscent of a third-rate athletic club.

In Harkness the TV room is clean, neat, and carpeted. Although slightly gray in tone, it with Knoll and Larabib, is the only dorm which has what might technically be termed a "furnished" room. In the co-ops the television room is technically be termed a "furnished" room.

A MAN'S OPINION

will usually ask who won at half-time.

Then there is the girl who is pretending, or so it seems, that she knows nothing about football. She is always asking questions like, "How can you tell which guy has the ball?", or "When is someone going to make a homesrun?"

One characteristic of almost every kid is that whenever the game gets the chance, usually when the team has scored, she jumps up to hug or kiss her date even though he had nothing to do with scoring the touchdown. Maybe she is trying to indirectly inspire the team on.

The spectator part of the weekend ends abruptly with the end of the game, as the post-game party gets underway and preparations are made for the party that night. Whether the home team wins or loses, everyone participating in the football weekend is making sure that they end up with the win.

Connecticut Girls Win Hockey Game

Connecticut defeated Pembroke College 4-0 in Conn's first intercollegiate hockey game Oct. 24. The winning goals were Sue Masters, 2, Jane Bagerstrom, 1, and Heather Wood.

The team, chosen from class teams and gym classes, worked "enthusiastically," according to Sue Masters, Athletic Association president. She called them "sore such games are in the offing."

Girl Scouts To Hold Workshops at Conn

The Connecticut Council of Girl Scouts will sponsor a "Catherine College Campus" conference at Connecticut College Saturday, November 5, 1966.

A morning session will feature a talk by Maria Varella, a foreign student, about her home, Uruguay. At the end of the conference, Dorcas Hardy, a junior, will give a summation of the achievements of the conference.

Dorcas has frequently worked with the Connecticut Girl Scouts in the past in organizing and carrying out local scout programs.

To give the girls a wider knowledge of the songs, dances, crafts and customs of other lands, the conference also will include various international workshops. An all-nation's quiz contest will deal with the general theme "the world is our neighbor." The conference will also include various international workshops.

Therefore, three out of every four years, Connecticut College will have a freshman on a four-year scholarship grant from the Proctor and Gamble Fund. The Connecticut College Scholarship Committee selects the students who are to be the recipients of these awards. Proctor and Gamble makes a special effort to keep in touch with these scholars. A representative from the company meets personally with the award winners each year, and the students are encouraged to keep the company aware of their activities.

Susie Endel, vice-president of Student Government, commented, "The good thing about the scholarship is that they support collegiate potential. They are not concerned with a major field or activities." Claudia Koblas added, "Now I'm all for Proctor and Gamble products." She finds that there is "no pressure to keep up with academic standards." The recipients of the scholarship emphasized that there is no ebb to work for Proctor and Gamble after graduation. As Lisa Rowe said, "It's great!"

PROCTOR & GAMBLE PROVIDES FULL SCHOLARSHIPS FOR FOUR STUDENTS

Four Connecticut students are enjoying the benefits of full four-year scholarships from the Proctor and Gamble Company. They are Elizabeth Loutrel '67, Suzen Endel '67, Lisa Blaze '70, and Claudia Koblas '69. These students received full tuition scholarships and an allowance for books and supplies. The Proctor and Gamble fund states its goals are "to provide able students . . . with the opportunity higher education makes possible and at the same time, help the country's colleges and universities meet their pressing financial needs."

Before initiating the fund, Proctor and Gamble began an investigation to determine the ten best women's colleges. However, the most accurate list they could devise included fifteen.

This is Ross Kennedy of Balboa Island, California, on an in-part field trip as a student aboard Chapman College’s floating campus. The note he plans to make to fellow students went ahead to impress Huntdey’s Tomb in the Valley of the Kings near Luxor, as he was able to complete an assignment for his Comparative World Cultures professor. Ross transferred the 12 units earned during the study-travel semester at sea to his record at the University of California at Irvine where he continues studies toward a teaching career in life sciences.

As you read this, 450 other students have begun the Fall semester voyage of discovery with Chapman aboard the s.s. RYNDAM, for which Holland-America Line acts as General Passenger Agency.

In February still another 450 will embark from Los Angeles for the spring 1967 semester, this time bound for the Panama Canal, Venezuela, Brazil, Argentina, Nigeria, Senegal, Morocco, Spain, Portugal, The Netherlands, Denmark, Great Britain and New York.
