Freshmen Election Results

President: Sarah Sutro 75 votes
Vice President: Neil Maniar 98 votes
J-Board Representatives:
  Pilar Somma 121 votes
  Simeon Tsalticoglu 119 votes
SAC Coordinators:
  Clayton Kunz and Beth Horner 167 votes

314 Freshmen voted in the election

See Election p. 10

Blats Distorts Truth About Computer Ban

by Sarah Huntley
News Editor

Information suggesting a deliberate misrepresentation of the facts by Blat editors concerning their use of the computer facilities on campus has resulted in anger on the part of some Finance Committee members and the promise of a public apology to the Assembly by Melkon Khostrovian, ‘91, co-editor of Blats.

During budget proceedings and Assembly meetings, Khostrovian told student leaders that Blat magazine had been banned from all computer facilities on campus. A letter from Matt Hagee, ‘91, co-editor of Blats, to Assembly members also reiterated this information, stating, “Blats has been banned from all computing facilities on campus.”

Khostrovian cited their last hours and large amount of time at the centers as the reasons for the banning.

He told the Assembly last week, “Without the Blat facility, we don’t have a computer lab.” Appealing to the members, Khostrovian said, “If Blats is not worth a Chocofest, not worth a couple of Billy Joel parties? What are we, chopped liver? Aren’t we workhorse-stuff of Senior Week? I urge you to strike [the proposal] down.”

When asked who informed Blats that they were no longer allowed to use the computer centers, Khostrovian answered Cindy Lyon-Blomstedt, microcomputer specialist.

Goodfellas

A&E

Winthrop Highrise

Sewage Slimes K.B. Basement

by Chris McDaniel
Associate News Editor

According to residents of K.B. basement, the recent leakage from a pipe above the bathroom has contributed to making basement life “sub-standard.” For over a week the leakage, which ran behind the bathroom wall creating bubbling paint and brown streaks, seeped onto the bathroom floor.

The problem was finally examined by a physical plant employee, who informed Jennifer Scott, ‘94, and Daniella De Filippo, ‘94, both residents of K.B. basement, that it was a sewage leak and needed immediate attention. This statement, however, is contrary to the statement given by Julie Quinn, director of college relations, who said it was a fresh water leak.

Upon being informed of Quinn’s statement, Scott said even if it were not sewage, “It was still a health hazard” because the pungent smell throughout the basement indicated that there was bacteria growing in the water behind the wall. This water subsequently dripped onto the floor and ran into a large puddle, which everyone using the bathroom was forced to walk through.

Also, De Filippo pointed out how the bathroom floor had become very slippery, making the bathroom a safety hazard. “If it was going to die.”

Sewage Slimes K.B. Basement
Blats' Blunder Highlights Inadequate Equipment

The "numerous complaints to Campus Safety about the noise level in Plant submitted by Blackstone's Housefellows on Thursday," in fact, non-existent. He states that the quiet dorm is frequently issuing complaints to Campus Safety about noise that neither his Housefellows nor his neighbors are bothered by. On the contrary, Campus Safety has been notified by people from Blackstone about noise on only two occasions, both of which entailed extended choruses of "Wake the sleeping "monsters" being heard at the dorms at around 2:00 a.m. Krumm's assertion that the disturbances come out at this hour and politely ask a bunch of drunks (with baseball caps, no less), to keep it down a little, seems a little far-fetched. If there are problems with a particular room or dorm, I agree, they should be addressed personally, first, but in this case, the complaints were directed at the hecklers outside their windows.

Some complaints were brought to Blackstone's Housefellows' attention about the noise level, however, but at no time did she threaten to take anyone in Plant in front of the J-Board, as Krumm claims. She discussed it with the Housefellows of Plant, and asked if the situation was as severe as alleged, so that if the students living in Plant are in danger of being penalized, it is not due to Blackstone's complaints, it is because someone feels that he and his roommates are the cause of it. Correct or incorrect, Blackstone had nothing to do with this accusation.

While his complaints about picky neighbors who are out to get the quiet dorm confused and angered Krumm, his assertion that Blackstone is some sort of madhouse is absolute nonsense. The "monsters" at Blackstone wereasked to leave by the residents of the Hall of Lights. George Bush's vulpine symbol, a Thousand Points of Light. How can one be "thrilled" at this recognition from a man whose discovery of NERF guns and loud music as a source of entertainment? No matter what the occasion, it is because someone feels that he and his roommates are the cause of it. Correct or incorrect, Blackstone had nothing to do with this accusation.

While his complaints about picky neighbors who are out to get the quiet dorm confused and angered Krumm, his assertion that Blackstone is some sort of madhouse is absolute nonsense. The "monsters" at Blackstone were asked to leave by the residents of the Hall of Lights. George Bush's vulpine symbol, a Thousand Points of Light. How can one be "thrilled" at this recognition from a man whose discovery of NERF guns and loud music as a source of entertainment? No matter what the occasion, it is because someone feels that he and his roommates are the cause of it. Correct or incorrect, Blackstone had nothing to do with this accusation.

While his complaints about picky neighbors who are out to get the quiet dorm confused and angered Krumm, his assertion that Blackstone is some sort of madhouse is absolute nonsense. The "monsters" at Blackstone were asked to leave by the residents of the Hall of Lights. George Bush's vulpine symbol, a Thousand Points of Light. How can one be "thrilled" at this recognition from a man whose discovery of NERF guns and loud music as a source of entertainment? No matter what the occasion, it is because someone feels that he and his roommates are the cause of it. Correct or incorrect, Blackstone had nothing to do with this accusation.
The Closed Minded Left

Last Tuesday, October 2, Judge David Souter's Supreme Court nomination was confirmed by the Senate in a vote of 90-9. Because of his academic background and record as a strict constructionist, Souter is one of the best nominees the Court has seen in years. However, nine Senators found it within themselves to vote against him. These nine Democrats are: Massachusetts Senators Kennedy and Kerry (surprise?); New Jersey Sens. Bradley and Lautenberg; Sen. Cranston (CA) whose credibility can be illustrated by his involvement in the "Keating Five" 80's scandal; Sens. Burdick (ND), Akaka (HI), Mikulski (MD), and Adams (WA). Those are the same Senators who voted in unanimous support for known conservative Justice Kennedy (97-0) and Scalia (98-0). Considering the fact that Judge Souter may preside over more than 3,000 cases in his lifetime, there may be more significant subjects to address than abortion. (Incidentally, Judge Souter voted to allow abortions to be performed in a New Hampshire hospital while serving as a trustee; but our ever-so-judgmental media seemed to have overlooked this.) It seems that the Left would have been satisfied only if Judge Souter stated that it is a fundamental and constitutional "right" to terminate a pregnancy, and that anyone who voiced an opinion based on color and creed was not institutionalized racism. At least Sen. Biden had the good sense to recognize a qualified candidate.

David Souter has been described unilaterally as a strict constructionist. This is how President Bush described the man on July 23 upon announcing his nomination. Strict construction refers to the method of judicial review which utilizes only past precedents and existing legislation. This construction is diametrically opposed to the mechanism implemented by the Brennan Court in which "judicial activism" was the rage. "Conservative" Court has already upheld the "right" to bum pregnancy. It is ironic how similar Brian Lee's ardent conservatives and liberal radicals believe that they were helping the blacks in that country, and according to Mandela and Tutu, they were doing just that. When one scratches the surface of his or her views, he or she will find that we were doing just the opposite.

By clamoring for the withdrawal of foreign capital from South Africa, conservative proponents have taken away jobs and the blacks from the blacks and forced the transferal of谢脚间 corporations into the hands of white South Africans. Thus, they have ironically helped to solidify the power of the white. Mandela and his African Nationalists have wholly supported these sanctions, and have also convinced the rest of the world that what is right for them is also right for the rest of South Africa. Though we scream mindlessly "one man, one vote," we have failed to pay heed to the only democratically elected President who hereditarily to Mandela's proposals for violence and South Africa; the Zulu chieftain Budelezi. While we shrieked at Mandela or Connecticut College, for by blindly throwing his thugs will be able to establish a communist tyranny by divesting from his country, and maybe if things work out exceptionally well (to Coin's standards at least), Mandela and his thugs will be able to establish a communist tyranny there, just like in Nicaragua, Mozambique, and Zimbabwe.

David Souter is not a man guided by ideology or any particular special interest group. He is guided by the Constitution of the United States of America. Based on the principle of strict construction, Molly Yard, Kate Michelman, and other feminist militants can shatter their armor since Roe vs. Wade and the Civil Rights Act are done deals. They are on the books and must be taken into consideration for future cases.

As a point of reference, under Rehnquist, our "conservative" Court has already upheld the "right" to burn the flag and terminate a pregnancy. The phrase, "You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink" comes to mind at this point. What secret agendas are those Senators harboring? It has become "de rigueur" for the dynamic duo from the People's Republic of Tashkent, to oppose anything supported by a Republican so it is understandable why Ted "safe rides" Kennedy and Supreme Court nominations are not popularly contested and should not become so. The Court's job is to interpret the Constitution not cut and paste with it.

Perhaps in November, when Sens. Kerry, Lautenberg, Burdick, and Akaka are running for re-election, the own ideologies and are not particularly interested in representing their constituents' best interests. Then again, based on the fact that 535 of the world's best educated men and women, popularly elected to the Senate, have not been able to balance our checkbook in ten years, maybe not.

It is Your Right

As Editorial Page/CONNTHought Edi- tor, it is my responsibility to reach out to the students and faculty of Connecticut College to present a representative portrayal of the numerous beliefs and opinions that exist. Every voice, no matter how insane or ridiculous, must be allowed to speak. For if the editors of the Voice brand certain letters or opinion pieces by students as unpublishable or undesirable, and refuse to print them, cause of their displeasing nature, the newspaper would be insipidly mainstream. The CONNTHought section would be a boring and useless.

Students should not be intimidated by predominant beliefs held by the writers or editors of the Voice, or even by popular opinions held by the majority of students or professors on campus. If one blankets his beliefs simply to placate others, that person is a coward and will inevitably lose his life guided by the notions of those around him. It is essential that one finds the courage to comment on an issue or to critique a person with whom he disagrees.

After the Voice printed "Reckless and Superficial," an article by Brian Lee, 94, I was ecstatic by those who chose to respond to his opinions. My advice to both parties is to present a representative portrayal of the student body. I am pleased that women and professors on campus. If one blankets his beliefs simply to placate others, that person is a coward and will inevitably lose his life guided by the notions of those around him. It is essential that one finds the courage to comment on an issue or to critique a person with whom he disagrees.

It is ironic how similar Brian Lee's ardent conservatives and liberal radicals believe that they were helping the blacks in that country, and according to Mandela and Tutu, they were doing just that. When one scratches the surface of his or her views, he or she will find that we were doing just the opposite.

By clamoring for the withdrawal of foreign capital from South Africa, conservative proponents have taken away jobs and the blacks from the blacks and forced the transferal of outside corpora-
FEATURES

Conn Fellows Program Brings Students and Faculty Closer Together

by Jennifer Scott
The College Voice

At five p.m. on Sunday there was a knock on the door. The House Senator stood with a desperate look on his face. "Why aren't you in the living room having grinders with our dorm Conn Fellows?" he asked. I began mumbling something about a major Biology exam and having to study. He cut me off by adding, "Free food!" The idea of something other than Harris appealed to me. I considered going for a few minutes but then decided just to stay in my room and finish my studying.

At the time, I had no idea what Conn Fellows were. The Connecticut College Fellows program officially began in April of 1990. However, the program did not go into full operation until this fall. The program was patterned after a similar one at Yale University. The Fellows program is designed and implemented by the Board of House Governors. Consequently, the Board is presently organizing a committee to promote interaction between the Fellows and their dorms.

One of the dorm Conn Fellows, Chaplain Steve Schmidt, told me about the program. In the course of our discussion I realized that I had made a mistake by not taking a few minutes on that Sunday evening to go to the living room and have a grinder with my dorm Conn Fellows.

Although two or three faculty members are assigned to each dorm, Conn Fellows are not "in-cognito parents," Schmidt explained. He expressed his fear that many students may have the impression that Conn Fellows are assigned to dorms to look over the student's shoulders. They exist for the students, for lectures and discussions, or simply for casual conversation over pizza. The Fellows' role is to heighten the intellectual activity of the dorm outside of the classroom, as well as interact with the students socially. "Many times faculty and students are like oil and water," Schmidt said. "The purpose of the Conn Fellows program is to bring the college community together, and it is up to the students to decide what direction the program will take," said Chaplain Schmidt.

This is especially true because of the fact that this is the first year for the program. The Fellows will respond to your invitations as a dorm.

To become more involved in the program and to find out who your dorm Conn Fellows are, talk to your house governor. Invite your Fellows to your dorm movie night. Chances are that you will find a new friend.

-Chaplain Steve Schmidt

The purpose of the Conn Fellows program is to bring the college community together.

Last year we made over 14,000 students Wall Street Tycoons in the...
COOL Gives New London Kids Apples and Friendship

by Lauren Kistelin
Connecticut View Editor

"Like Cool College and I enjoy the people that come to help us at the mission," exclaimed Jackie Jackson, age 11. Jackson is one of 17 children from New London's B.P. Learned House who went apple picking in an Old Lyme orchard Saturday afternoon. The outing was sponsored and organized by Connecticut College's Campus Outreach Opportunity League (COOL).

Nat Damon, '93, program director for COOL, explained that the organization is "for people who want to be involved in community service but who don't want to be tied down by a structure." John Roesser, '92, president of COOL, continued, "I don't think enough people really know what COOL is." Damon and Roesser explained that COOL sponsors several community service projects throughout the year. Members can become involved with as many or as few events as they like. Membership in COOL is not an overwhelming time commitment. Weekly meetings are held only for the executive board.

Damon added that "another thing unique about it is... it serves as a catalyst. If you do a program you can follow through on your own." As an example, he cited COOL's trip to the Nutmeg Pavilion nursing home last Christmas season. Each student volunteer was matched with an "adopted" grandparent for the day from among the home's residents. Many of the students chose to make repeated visits to their "adopted" grandparents over the next semester.

This year, in addition to a return trip to the Nutmeg Pavilion, COOL has planned several events for adults. As part of the "highrise design," COOL provides group outings for adults and the children of the B.P. Learned House.

Akin Russell, Jr., a counselor at the B.P. Learned House, accompanied the children to Saturday's event. He explained that the House, which children refer to as "the mission," is a non-profit organization founded in 1848. B.P. Learned House, located at 40 Shore Street, sponsors various programs for children between the ages of four and fifteen, including an after-school program, teen pregnancy workshops for both males and females, summer school instruction in "the basics," including cooking classes, and monthly parent-child workshops. "That's basically what we're all about," said Russell.

Russell explained that the participants in B.P. Learned House's various programs "come down voluntarily," and that the organization solicits through newspapers and flyers. Financing comes from the United Way and private grants. "We have no help from the state or city," said Russell.

Rosmerta Cole, age 11, said, "I'm going to the mission... it's fun. You learn a lot.

Seventeen children from the mission and about 20 Cool students attended the apple-picking outing organized by COOL. The event was planned by Christy Burke, '93, assistant to the president of COOL, and Jen Yean, '93, COOL's treasurer. In addition to picking and eating apples, the children played several games and went on a hayride around the orchard.

The children's shrieks of glee echoed in the trees for the entire two hours of the outing. Damon laughed, "I think the one mistake that we made was that we didn't set the number-one rule, the number-two rule, the number-three rule for this trip... when you pick the apples, you don't throw them - especially at people!"

Burke agreed that the afternoon was a success. She said, "COOL observes the way it went... we'll definitely consider doing it next year, too."

COOL's next major event will be a campus-wide Halloween party in which children from B.P. Learned House and mentally handicapped adults travel from door to door, with a different event or game in each.

Highrise Housing is Home For Many New London Families

by Randall Lucas
Connecticut View Writer

It is easy to look at Winthrop Highrise low income housing in New London and not see the people who live there. Easy to not see the garbage in the hallway, easy to notice the acrid smell of urine in the stairs. It is easy to dismiss and abuse. Every day. Outside the Canales' ninth floor apartment, the wind whistles steadily through the windowless doors of the building.

The seven hundred residents of Winthrop have happy memories of the kind of kids they played outside, Canales, for their family can see through the window. The apartment was clean and well kept, filled with photographs of children and grandchildren. They had televisions, couches, family momentos, fish tanks, and framed prints. One woman had an arrangement of Chinese fans on the walls. These apartments were obviously occupied.

Because she was befriended by many residents, Troadec knows specific details about the lives of many. She is the friend of a fellow student of Puerto Rican descent who studies at Mitchell College and the housekeeper of Artshall dormitory at Cool.

Canales has lived in Winthrop with her husband, Reverend Santos Canales, for almost four years and has worked at the college for three. They have four children, the oldest of whom just graduated from Mitchell College and is attending Eastern Connecticut State University on a scholarship.

Canales said that she is "forced" to live in Winthrop since her family cannot afford to live anywhere else. She is worried about her eleven-year-old son. She said that it is impossible to keep him in the house. She is concerned about what he is learning in the hallways and parking lots of the project.

"The environment has affected my family," Canales concluded. From their window, the Canales family can see the nightly drug deals. In Puerto Rico, Reverend Canales said, "My daughter didn't know what a prostitute was, they didn't know what drugs were." Now Reverend and Mrs. Canales see that kind of knowledge growing in their children's eyes. Every day outside the Canales' ninth floor apartment, the wind whistles steadily through the stairways, the windowless doors of the building offering no protection against it. It has the sound of a steady low moan.
Environmentalists Sound Concern

Last Wednesday night, Students Against Violence to the Environment (SAVE) and the Connecticut Sea Grant Program held an open forum discussion on the Long Island Sound in Dana Hall. It was part of a three day conference, from October 1 through 3, which previewed the future of the Sound.

Randall Lucas, 91, a member of SAVE, introduced the five member panel, calling it "an embarrassment of wealth." The panel members included Terry Baker, an activist and third generation fisherman; William Wise, the director of the marine research center at the State University of New York; Dan Danilla, a scientist with Northeast Utilities; Barbara Welsh, of the University of Connecticut; Marine Science Department and Ron Whaley, president of the Thames River Watershed Association.

Lucas, who moderated the discussion, began asking the panel members what each felt to be the Sound’s most pressing problem.

The members agree that there are many problems, exist and it is hard to promote one as most important. Baker felt that one of the biggest problems is "the shortage of concern from the public." Danilla added, "It is a question of how much people are willing to sacrifice and give up, and if they are willing to make their concerns known to their political leaders.

Welsh raised the question more specifically. She feels, "We need to move to a new understanding of hypoxia [low oxygen]. We need to study the effects of hypoxia on specific species.

During any discussion about the Long Island Sound, the topic of pollution inevitably arises. The panel quickly addressed this issue. Whaley feels, "We’re putting too much stuff into the Sound that shouldn’t be there.

He added, "Pollution is socially acceptable, and we do not make basic changes in what’s socially acceptable before we will stop being acceptable." The members explain that citizens are putting more pollutants into the Sound, instead of eliminating them.

Address the eliminated pollution of the cleaning of the Sound. He feels citizens must ask themselves, "What kind of Long Island Sound do we want?" in order to figure out what has to be done to help the Sound. He added, "We might as well shoot for the top when we answer this question."

The issue of money came under discussion, but Baker felt "by giving a price of how much it will cost to clean up the Sound, we’re putting a price tag on something that is priceless." Whaley added, "We should not ask what the cost is to clean up the Sound, but what the cost is to not clean up the Sound."

The panel then addressed the situation of the Thames River. Whaley commented, "At the very least, the Thames is a troubled river. The Thames is an estuary of the Sound, and is a microcosm of the Sound. It has the same problems as the Sound, and it contributes problems of its own to the Sound."

The panel members stressed the importance of the public in cleaning up the Sound. Welsh said, "It is the will of the people. The public must pressure politicians to act." Danilla added, "The vast majority of people want to clean up the Sound, but won’t do anything about it."
Members of the Minority Student Steering Committee (MSSC) outlined its concerns about curriculum diversity and called for the college’s attention to these issues in their meeting with the Student-Trustee Liaison Committee Meeting.

Presenting charts and basic explanations of plans for future study, Cristiano Garcia, ’92, MSSC member and chair of the Future and Existing Curriculum subcommittee, told the trustees that a more diverse curriculum would attract more students and facilitate the college’s ability to compete with its peers and raise campus awareness. He said, “The school must commit itself to the expansion of the curriculum.”

Graphs illustrated that 142 out of the 915 courses offered at the college address issues of people of color. Charts also showed that there is one diversity class out of 59 English courses offered, seven out of 57 government offerings and one out of 39 dance classes.

It did become clear, however, that literature courses catalogued under other departments, such as Asian Studies, were not included in this study. Some of the trustees suggested that MSSC not include science and mathematics courses in their aims, and that literature courses vying for diversifying these seemed less defined.

Garcia disagreed, stressing the importance of having faculty of color in all departments. Warren Wells, ’92, member of MSSC, gave statistical evidence concerning the number of faculty members of color on campus and urged the trustees to consider the need for more specialized professors.

Ratija Ruangswana, ’93, assistant to the chair of MSSC, discussed the impact a diverse curriculum could have on admission and retention.

Jackie Sotropuolis, ’92, MSSC member, told the trustees that the Development Office needs their approval before grant opportunities for a more diverse curriculum could be investigated. Also discussed was the students’ commitment to anti-apartheid education. Sabrina Durand, ’92, chair of MSSC, explained that a committee has been established with student representatives working in conjunction with the Affirmative Action Office to plan future educational events.

MSSC plans to address one trustee’s question concerning specific goals and present more detailed research results in future meetings.

SGA Outlines Issues

The Student Government Association Executive Board met with members of the Student-Trustee Liaison Committee on Friday to inform them of issues of concern for the upcoming year.

John Maggiero, ’91, president of SGA, was the first to speak, explaining the purpose of the SGA Executive Board’s College Issues Project, which was designed to outline the concerns of the college community, leadership and attention for the current academic year.

Reviewing the issue of cost containment, Maggiero pointed out that there was a 3.9 percent increase in the student services budget, which was below inflation, and essentially a cut. This cut in student services did not help the problem of money allocation to campus clubs and organizations which feel pressured by budget constraints.

Maggiero then went on to address the diversity issue, stating, “One of our main goals is to make sure that student leaders know what already exists,” referring to the Connecticut College Diversity Statement, which was passed in 1988. As contained in the issues document presented to the trustees, SGA also stated that, “It is important... that all members of the community read, understand, and support the diversity statement.”

After speaking about the college’s Five Year Strategic Plan, Maggiero addressed the college’s need-blind admissions policy, quoting the issues document which states, “The need-blind admissions policy is essential to the college’s commitment to diverse student body and to its commitment to accessibility to all qualified potential students.”

In response to Maggiero, Richard Schenkel, vice chairman of the Board of Trustees, said, “We need to look at the cost, of need-blind admission and while this, ‘doesn’t mean that the [policy] will be changed,’ it is something that warrants further discussion.”

Schenkel also said that he estimates that need-blind admission is costing the college one and one-half the current admission price per year per student, and he questions whether the college can continue to afford such a price.

Next to speak was Amy Mass, ’92, chair of SAC, who stated the Student Activities Council’s commitment to quality student events as well as support for the renovation of the College Center, urging it to “remain a top SOAR Conference Inspires Participants

Fifty-one students, faculty and staff from Connecticut College participated in the SOAR Conference held at Brown University over the weekend. The delegation was the largest student group representing any of the twenty-nine member colleges including Brown University.

SOAR, the Society of Anti-Apartheid, Against Racism, was founded in 1982 with an initial membership of ten colleges. In that time its membership has tripled and continues to grow. The society is dedicated to social, economic and educational equality for all races and ethnic groups and works to raise the consciousness of individuals within higher education institutions.

The purpose of the conference was to share experiences and problems with the other SOAR chapters in New England and to help each chapter realize that they are not alone in the fight against racism.

Colleen Shanley, vice president of the Connecticut College SOAR chapter, said, “What conferences do is... to make us realize that there are other people out there struggling with the same issues we are.”

This exchange of ideas and solutions was facilitated by several lectures and discussion groups during the two-day event. The conference participants listened to a debate on “Civilian vs. Free Speech.”

Delegations check into the SOAR conference at Brown University.

The college’s Five Year Strategic Plan, Maggiero addressed the college’s need-blind admissions policy, quoting the issues document which states, “The need-blind admissions policy is essential to the college’s commitment to diverse student body and to its commitment to accessibility to all qualified potential students.”

Delegations check into the SOAR conference at Brown University.

In that time its membership has tripled and continues to grow. The society is dedicated to social, economic and educational equality for all races and ethnic groups and works to raise the consciousness of individuals within higher education institutions.

The purpose of the conference was to share experiences and problems with the other SOAR chapters in New England and to help each chapter realize that they are not alone in the fight against racism.

Colleen Shanley, vice president of the Connecticut College SOAR chapter, said, “What conferences do is... to make us realize that there are other people out there struggling with the same issues we are.”

This exchange of ideas and solutions was facilitated by several lectures and discussion groups during the two-day event. The conference participants listened to a debate on “Civilian vs. Free Speech.”

Delegations check into the SOAR conference at Brown University.

In that time its membership has tripled and continues to grow. The society is dedicated to social, economic and educational equality for all races and ethnic groups and works to raise the consciousness of individuals within higher education institutions.

The purpose of the conference was to share experiences and problems with the other SOAR chapters in New England and to help each chapter realize that they are not alone in the fight against racism.

Colleen Shanley, vice president of the Connecticut College SOAR chapter, said, “What conferences do is... to make us realize that there are other people out there struggling with the same issues we are.”

This exchange of ideas and solutions was facilitated by several lectures and discussion groups during the two-day event. The conference participants listened to a debate on “Civilian vs. Free Speech.”

Delegations check into the SOAR conference at Brown University.

In that time its membership has tripled and continues to grow. The society is dedicated to social, economic and educational equality for all races and ethnic groups and works to raise the consciousness of individuals within higher education institutions.

The purpose of the conference was to share experiences and problems with the other SOAR chapters in New England and to help each chapter realize that they are not alone in the fight against racism.

Colleen Shanley, vice president of the Connecticut College SOAR chapter, said, “What conferences do is... to make us realize that there are other people out there struggling with the same issues we are.”

This exchange of ideas and solutions was facilitated by several lectures and discussion groups during the two-day event. The conference participants listened to a debate on “Civilian vs. Free Speech.”

Delegations check into the SOAR conference at Brown University.
Resignation Draws Strong Reaction and Criticism

"Julie [Taraska's] actions are not to be congratulated... She violated a basic trust that existed among all Finance Committee members."

-Jackie Soteropoulos, '92, Finance Committee member

\[\text{[in a] what can you do about this [manner], in my mind, was forgivable, though admittedly, a breach of the trust that the part in...}

A large proportion of photos showing partying or drinking raised concerns that the wide variety of faculty departments were also covered. Rumors, stories and allegations of a photo of six white students in blackface distribution last year. Both students and faculty were upset that the partying or drinking raised concerns that the wide variety of photos showing partying or drinking raised concerns that the wide variety of faculty departments were also covered. Rumors, stories and allegations of a photo of six white students in blackface distribution last year. Both students and faculty were upset.

The 1990 yearbook became the subject of much controversy and dissatisfaction among students. The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné. The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné. The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné.

The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné. The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné. The board members wasted no time this past year in preparing themselves for this underwriting. Andy Bonanno, '91, Alice Coleman, '91, Nancy Mitnor, '91, and advisor Mark Hoffman, coordinator of student activities, attended a design fair in Natick, Massachusetts. Students were "learned skills in layout, art, computer aids, and selling ads, among other things," said the staff members. The fair was sponsored by Jostens, the company which prints the Koiné.
Finance Committee’s Proposed Change:
World View: $2,500. This figure would have been a $2,140 increase from the previous allocation.

Student Organization office: $530, a cut of $2140.

No other revisions were made.

SGA Sends Budget Back for a Second Time

by Jon Finishes
Associate News Editor

Dissatisfied with the Finance Committee’s single change, the Student Government Association once again voted down the budget proposal by a vote of 11-4-2.

After being delayed last week, the proposed budget was sent back to the Finance Committee at a special meeting of the Assembly. This week, many members expressed what they felt was a lack of attention to their requests by the committee.

Seoni Spero, ’93, house-senior of Wright, said, “We made specific recommendations, and I don’t see any actual changes made. The budget should be set back to the Finance Committee to address our recommendations.”

Julie Taraska, ’92, house senator of Park, mentioned the winding up of club revenues on the Assembly agenda.

Dissatisfied with the $2,500 to World View, money taken from allocations to WOVO and Politics, cutting money from SAC and dividing it among the diversity clubs, and an increase in WCNY’s funding.

The Finance Committee also released revised explanations for some of the allocations. They mentioned La Unidad’s payment of $500 to The Bloom Fund, a fund administered through Robert Hampton, dean of the college, to address minority issues on campus.

“This was an inappropriate use of student organization funds,” according to Michael Sandner, ’91, vice president of SGA and chair of the Finance Committee, because the club did not list the payment on last year’s budget request. For this reason, the club did not receive the additional funding requested by the Assembly last week.

The money flows through the club improvement fund was announced and set at $5,993.22. Although Assembly members felt that this should be decreased or kept the same, a majority believed it was a good amount to deal with emergencies throughout the year.

This represents the first time in Sandner’s memory that the budget has been defeated by the Assembly twice.

After the vote, Joseph Tolliver, dean of Student Life, reminded the Assembly that they are elected officials and their duty is to allocate the student’s money as soon as possible.

Describing himself as a “ping-pong player,” he urged the SGA members to serve the student body.

The Assembly will meet next Thursday in Emsel at 6:45 p.m.

Committee Denounces Unclaimed Fund Payments

by Jon Finishes
Associate News Editor

The deposit of $500 last year by La Unidad into The Bloom Fund caused a stir at this week’s SGA Assembly meeting.

In the Finance Committee’s revised rationale, Michael Sandner, ’91, vice president of SGA and Finance Committee chair, described the incentive as “an inappropriate use of student organization funds.”

Apparently, La Unidad had not requested money be used in this manner to assist their budget request form last year, which visited Finance Committee policy.

Sandner said, “What they did was wrong, but I don’t know if they meant it to be.”

Mary Pacheco, ’93, president of La Unidad, said she did not know that the investment was improper.

“in the past, La Unidad had lots of deficits, and borrowed money to invest in this fund,” said Pacheco. Because she was the president at the time, “I knew nothing of the past or the budget,” she said.

The executive board was all freshmen, she said, and “I was just a nobody.”

In the past, La Unidad had lots of deficits, and borrowed money to invest in this fund,” she said. Because she was the president at the time, “I knew nothing of the past or the budget,” she said.

The executive board was all freshmen, she said, and “I was just a nobody.”

In the past, La Unidad had lots of deficits, and borrowed money to invest in this fund,” she said. Because she was the president at the time, “I knew nothing of the past or the budget,” she said.

The executive board was all freshmen, she said, and “I was just a nobody.”

In the past, La Unidad had lots of deficits, and borrowed money to invest in this fund,” she said. Because she was the president at the time, “I knew nothing of the past or the budget,” she said.

The executive board was all freshmen, she said, and “I was just a nobody.”

In the past, La Unidad had lots of deficits, and borrowed money to invest in this fund,” she said. Because she was the president at the time, “I knew nothing of the past or the budget,” she said.
Freshmen Elect Class Leaders

The freshmen Students Activities Council will be Clayton Kunz and Beth Homer. They are "ready to get this year rolling" with their own ideas for social events as well as the ideas of their classmates.

When asked to comment on the Freshman Class election, Benn Freeman, '93, public relations director, said, "I was really, really happy with the number of people who came to speech night and voted." She also said that this response as well as the number and quality of the candidates reflects well upon the Class of 1994.

With the heat of freshman class elections to executive positions over, the newly elected leaders are prepared to make their mark on the Connecticut College community.

The election process held last week involved public speeches on Tuesday night in Olivia Hall. Voting was held in the post office on Thursday and Friday, and results were announced Friday evening.

This year's class president, Sarah Sutro, beat five other candidates for president with 75 votes. She is looking forward to accepting her new role on the Class Executive Board. "Hard work and discipline pay off," said Sutro, who hopes to use this attitude to create unity among freshmen and to make the class active in college events.

Working hand in hand with Sutro will be Neil Maniar, vice president, who believes that it is important to "take an active part in social and academic affairs." Maniar's commitment to school events can already be apparent in his attendance at this weekend's SOAR conference at Brown University which forced him to miss the announcement of his victory Friday night.

The Freshman Class will be represented on the Judiciary Board by Pilar Somma and Simeon Tsalloglou. Both are committed to upholding the Honor Code and maintaining an open mind while listening to students.

Irate K.B. Residents Cite Substandard Living

Continued from p. 1

Enraged by the lack of attention that was being given to the problem after having gone through proper channels, many of the students living in K.B. basement either called the office of student life or had their parents call. Also, Holman contacted the office of Claire Gaudiani, '66, president of the college, with complaints.

Physical plant employees are in the process of fixing the leak; however, students are concerned about prioritization.

According to Holman, there is something wrong with the system. She said, "Priorities aren't 'being set correctly.'

I'd never have believed that one little computer could make such an incredible difference in my academic and working life.

Miriam Stoll
B.A. History, Dartmouth College
M.B.A. Stanford Graduate School of Business

"I became a Macintosh convert in business school. At our computer lab I'd always find lines of people waiting to use the Macintosh computers, while other computers just sat there. So I had a choice: wait for a Macintosh, or come back at 6 a.m. to grab one before they'd all be taken.

After business school, I took a job at a large bank and used my Macintosh for producing everything from spreadsheets to a company newsletter.

"Today I use Macintosh to help me run my own management consulting firm. When I give a presentation, I can see in people's faces that they're really impressed. And that makes me feel great.

"Sometimes I take Friday off, put my Macintosh and skis in the car, and head for the mountains. I ski days and work nights. It's perfect.

"You know, I can't say where I'll be in five, ten, or fifteen years, but I can say that my Macintosh will be there with me:

Stop by the Connecticut College Computer Store

Lower level of Hamilton Hall
203/447-7803, Hours: Mon., Wed., & Fri. from 12pm-4pm

Why do people love Macintosh? Ask them.
GOODFELLA'S AFFECTS THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE BRAIN

Christian Schaia
The College Voice

As if there befor this computer, ready to type this review, the cancer seems to be taking the shape of a question mark instead of its usual monotonous straight line. Oh, what to say? How did we get here? thumbs down? Come on, boy, feed me.

Goodfella's is a movie for both hemispheres of the brain: the sensible, orderly, anal-retentive left, and the whimsical, daydreaming, emotional right. And while the movie does touch both halves of the brain, it does so in such completely opposite ways that the question mark is faced with an internal struggle to decide whether it should like the movie or not. I guess it all depends on your brain, which half of the brain is dominant.

For the left half of the brain, this movie is nothing short of a mess. The quality of the acting is minimal, but I think I have seen the same one in about ten other gangster movies. The theme of the movie is Crime is a way cool and everybody should just do whatever they want and if someone gets in your way, shoot 'em. I don't know about you, but this thing has to go.

The plot of the movie is so transatlantic you could use it as a contact lens. The worst part, however, is the costumes and sets. It was as though someone took the Brady Bunch, the Partridge Family and the Jetsons and helped them all together into one tremendous, classless ensemble.

After this movie I had seen enough rhinestone studded purple pants suits, pink Cadillac, moccasin boots, leopard skin bedspreads, pleather jackets and brille cream to last me a lifetime.

The exhibition will continue through November 10. Cummings Exhibit Features Artists

Lyman Allyn Holds Hidden Treasures

by James Banta
The College Voice

You may not have realized it, but just beyond the asphalt and concrete that step outside the Lyman Allyn and explore the museum grounds, you will discover the De- stiney Allyn House, built in 1829 as the residence of local whaling captain Lyman Allyn, for whom the museum was named. A visit here sends you back in time, to the days when New London was a prosperous bustling whaling port. Ask for an escort at the museum, if you decide to visit this National Historic Landmark.

Before you leave be sure to inquire about upcoming and ongoing educational programs. The Lyman Allyn offers a variety of art classes for all ages, one-day family workshops, tours of the collections, and a subscription lecture series, as well as a non-subscription series. The upcoming subscription lecture, Passionate Collectors: Walters, Cone and Du Pont, by Director Emeritus Dr. Edgar Mayhew, takes place on October 9 and 10. Tickets for this series are $10. Also on October 10, Barbara Belgrade Spargo, a private collector, will present a non-subscription lecture on The Rights and Distresses of Collectors on a Shoestring.

Students of art will be happy to know that the Lyman Allyn also houses an art library, which is open during museum hours, Thursday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

So take a walk down to South Lot. For just beyond lies an artful world of giant blackjacks. .
The African American Dance Ensemble will send messages of cultural respect and humanistic values when they visit Connecticut College on October 10 in Palmer Auditorium. Their performances blend West African traditional dance and contemporary African-American works through colorful costumes, masterful choreography, and pulsating rhythms. Ticket prices for the event are $12 for general admission, $5 for students, and $3 for children under twelve. For ticket information, call 439-ARTS or visit the box office between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

THE RIGHT HAND VIDEO CORNER

by Dan Seligson and Sean Bien
The College Voice

In the Corner this week: Reviews for the new "me" generation.

NORTH BY NORTHWEST (NR)
Imagine yourself as a timid, twice-divorced, wimp advertising executive who is kidnapped by two thugs, forced to drink a bottle of bourbon (with no chaser), and put behind the wheel of a moving car while you are half unconscious. What could possibly be the reason for this? Naturally, you are mistaken. Ever had one of those days?

A Clockwork Orange (R) (1971), Starring Malcolm McDowell and Stolichnaya vodka. The second half of the movie turns into an absolute nightmare as you fall out of trees, get knifed, get chased through Washington, D.C., get framed for your girlfriend's murder, and even drink cold coffee. This is a very taut, sexy spy thrillers. It is worth a viewing. "Yuri" is fun for at least one more time.

NO WAY OUT (R)
Continuing with the "ever having one of those days?" theme, imagine yourself as a naval officer trapped in a naval ranking. Gene Hackman plays the fused politician to the hilt and ends up playing "Sex Farm" at an army base bathroom dance. The casting crew is the guy who played Benny on "Laverne & Shirley" as the lead singer. Cinematic farce at its best.

KATHY MATTEA

At The Groton SUBASE

Saturday, October 27, 8:00 pm

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

END
Women’s Soccer Kicks Trinity and Salve Regina

by Dan Levine
Associate Sports Editor

Over the past week the women’s soccer team picked up two victories by beating the arch rival Trinity Banmans 1-0 and humiliating Salve Regina 4-0. These two wins extend their record to an outstanding 6-0-1. The victory over Salve Regina sets up a tough match against Bowdoin College next weekend.

In Hartford the Camels played a tough match against the Trinity squad, who is the defending ECAC champion. Trinity played the Camel goal only six minutes into the game. Also scoring for Conn were Jamie O’Connor, ’91, Davis and Tyra Norbeck, ’92. The goal-tending duties for the Camels were shared by Cahalan and Anne Palmgren, ’93.

The Sailing Team placed third at the Hamptons regatta, hosted by the Coast Guard. They placed fourth at the Smith Trophy at M.I.T.

The Women’s Tennis Team crunched Wheaton but fell to Amherst and Williams. The Camels are now 7-3.

The Rugby Team lost to Salve Regina 18-10.

The Volleyball Team defeated UMass but fell to Trinity and RIC at the RIC tournament.

Camel Fall Sports Action

Women’s and Men’s Cross Country:
10/13 at NEWCACs (Bowdoin)
10/20 at Rhode Island College
10/27 at Trinity with Clark & Coast Guard

Field Hockey:
10/11 at Western Conn.
10/13 at Trinity
10/18 Tufts
10/20 Bowdoin

Men’s Soccer:
10/10: Clark
10/13 Colby
10/17 at Rhode Island College
10/20 Trinity

Women’s Tennis:
10/10 at Wesleyan
10/11 Mt. Holyoke
10/19-21 at New England Champs.

Women’s Soccer:
10/11 at Clark
10/13 at Univ. Maine
10/14 at Bowdoin
10/20 at Williams
10/22 at Wesleyan

Volleyball:
10/13 Tufts w/ Salem State
10/18 Clark
10/20 at Wheaton
10/25 Coast Guard w/ Western Ct.

Intramural Update

It was yet another exciting week on the gridiron. In Tuesday’s first game, David easily rolled over the 4 Horseman 42-0. QBs Cristo Garcia, ’92, and Jon Love, ’93, combined for 1 TD to lead a balanced David attack. Chris McLaughlin, ’92, received two TDs, while Huo Hwang, ’91, Bryce Brown, ’92, and Jon Fahey, ’92, each carried one. The 4 Horseman, on the other hand had no attack. These guys are second only to the Moondogs. QB sensation Steve Pettit, ’91, and Davis, was postponed and will be made up at a later date. The second game of that day between Jehovah’s and the KBees was played, but because the commissioner (aka Mark Fallon, ’92) did not give the 1M department the score sheet from that game we have no score to report.

In six aside soccer action this week ACP slid by Windham by a score of 1. Richard Zelin, ’91, tallied for the games sole goal on a pass from David Yampanis, ’93. Also that day, Physical Plant tied the heavily favoredGet Smart 0-0. This game caused this reporter to retract remarks made last week in this column. Physical Plant has proven that when the pressure is on, they meet the challenge and get the job done.

Monday’s first game was no contest as Aspen crushed Jon’s Boys 4-0. This game was a one man show as a slightly Ill Garth Ross, ’93, displayed incredible ball control by scoring three goals in the first three minutes of the game. The second game of that day matched the E.M. Airplanes against the Stoners, with the Stoners coming out on top 1-0. Newly acquired Brandon Gilmartin, ’94, tallied for the game’s sole goal assisted late in the second half to give the unbeaten Stoners the win.

In the second week of softball there was no action because every team forfeited. Next week: Team Tennis results.

Please recycle The College Voice.
Men’s Soccer Beats Amherst on the Road

Dan Levine
Associate Sports Editor

In a relatively easy game, the Camels beat the Lord Jeffs of Amherst on Wednesday 2-1. The win marked their first victory against Amherst in three years, and their third win this season. On Saturday the Camels lost their fourth game in a tough game against Middlebury 2-0.

The Camels dominated the Amherst Lord Jeffs, although Amherst has not won a single game yet this season. The teams first half went scoreless with tough defense and skillful goalkeeping on both sides of the field. With some aggressive play, the second half saw the Camels pull away with well-scored goals from Captain Allen Wiggins, ’91, and Xolani Zungu, ’93. Great defense and goalkeeping from Lou Cutillo, ’92, held Amherst off for almost the entire game. Amherst scored late in the second half but their single goal was not enough to beat a tough and unified Camel squad.

Saturday’s game was graced by great weather and a large, extremely enthusiastic Conn crowd. Coming off Wednesday’s win, the Camels were confident and ready to play, but the Panthers of Middlebury College quickly dispelled any idea of another easy game. The Panthers played very aggressively and they even tailed a few yellow cards by game end. Excellent goalkeeping and defense held Conn to only a few chances to score. For Conn just could not put the ball in the net. Middlebury scored early in the first half, giving them a one to nothing lead that they took confidently into halftime. The entire first half was marked by intense defense and constant battle on both sides of the field.

Conn’s Peter Spear, ’94, played excellent defense the entire game and Cutillo played another great game in net. In the second half Conn had a few chances to score, but nothing resulted from their efforts. Any hopes the Camels had of winning were thwarted late in the second half when Middlebury scored another goal which put the game out of reach.

Each game the Camels have played this season has been extremely close. They have lost two games in overtime, and Saturday’s loss marked their first loss by more than one goal this season. Despite all the heartbreakers this year, Conn still posts a respectable 3-4 record thus far.

The Camels remain home for their next two encounters, the first on Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. against Clark University, and the other on Saturday at 11:00 a.m. against Colby College.

1) Which NFL team has won the most playoff games? Who has lost the most?
2) What team is currently ranked number one in the NCAA Division Three football poll?
3) When was the last time the St. Louis Cardinals finished last? (Hint: It was the same year the Red Sox lost the World Series.)
4) When the Reds beat the Red Sox in the 1975, who were the other two teams in the playoffs?
5) What Conn athlete holds every record possible for the positions she or he holds in two different sports?

Schmoozing with Dob and Pops

by Dobby Gibson and George Brett
The College Voice

Dob and Pops would like to begin this week’s column with our opinion on issue of national attention. As usual, everyone seems to know what is best for everybody else around here — and Dob and Pops would like to get in on our two cents’ worth. We are speaking in regards to the popular and heated issue as to whether women reporters should be allowed in locker rooms. The admittance of female reporters creates uncomfortable and embarrassing situations for both parties. Imagine the outrage on the part of women if male reporters were allowed into female athlete’s locker rooms. We agree that it is unfair if male reporters were allowed into female locker rooms while male reporters were admitted. It is unreasonable, however, to expect an athlete, after a tough loss, to enter a locker room, get undressed, and conduct a civilized and intelligent interview with reporters of either sex jamming microphones in his face. Dob and Pops propose that separate rooms be utilized for all media interviews adjacent to locker rooms. This system will come with the sacrifice of many reporters’ deadlines, but privacy is far more important. If this system is not implemented, Dob and Pops are forced to look at the sacrifice of many reporters’ deadlines. Dob and Pops are going to request an interview with a buck naked Gabriella Podemski — a full report will follow.

The Farzin Aazam Goal Watch: The Finale

As many of you have probably heard by now, Farzin Aazam, ’92, notched his first goal as a Camel last week. Supprisingly, top Iranian official Mohammed Ali Khomeni, when interviewed by Dan Rather last week regarding the Iraqi conflict, could not stop talking about our favorite little redhead. When speaking of Aazam, the Ayatollah used such phrases as, “brilliant! Explosive! A must see. Better than E.T. and Star Wars!” When we tried to locate Aazam for an interview, we had to travel to Groton Long Point to his new sprawling, oceanside estate. During the interview, all Aazam kept repeating was, “That’s Grader’s Jewlers in the Crystal Mall, exit 82 off I-95.” Following the interview he told Dob and Pops, “I’ve gone big time, I don’t need you punks anymore.” Well Mr. Aazam, all we can say here at Schmoozing is keep your feet on the ground, and keep reaching for the stars.

Monday Night Pick

Last Week: Bengals minus two versus Seattle. Final Score: Seahawks 31, Bengals 16. Dob and Pops with a slight misread on this one. Record: 1-3. This week: Denver is favored by nine points versus Cleveland. Dob and Pops have not quite gotten out of the blocks yet this year, but we have a guaranteed winner for you this week due to our lackluster start we have called in the expense of Zippy the Monkey.

Baseball

Dob and Pops regretfully have to retract the note of congratulations that we extended to George Brett for his capture of yet another AL Batting Crown. Dob and Pops have learned that Mr. Brett sat himself out of the last two games of the season because Rickie Henderson was only two points behind him. Shame on you Mr. Brett, that is not baseball, nor is it the American way... Dob and Pops will, however, send out heartfelt congratulations to Cecil Fielder as he became the first player to hit over 50 home runs in a season since George Foster did it back in ’77. The Yankees made sure Fielder did it during the season finale. Those lovable losers served up plenty of meaty straightballs enabling Fielder to hit not one, but two dingers bringing his final total to 51 for the year.

Off the field, Fielder let yet another mark this year as he downs four New York airmen, 109 buffalo wings, and six cartons of Egg Nog making him the first Triple Crown winner at Chuck’s Steak House since Carlos Perez, ’92, did back in the summer of ’86... Dob and pops are forced to look down upon the Reds and Pirates meeting in the NLCS. Not only is this a ho-hum match up (with the only excitement coming from Sweet Lou), but it is also an all-Astro Turf series. This is yet another reason why the National League will always be inferior to the American League.
Cross Country Grabs Third at TriStates

The women's cross country team placed an impressive third at the Tri-State Championships on Saturday, which were hosted by Bryant College in Smithfield, Rhode Island. Running on a fairly difficult course, the Camels were just one point behind Worcester Polytechnic Institute, which had 75 points. The team's record now stands at 6-1-1.

Field Hockey Vanquishes Wellesley and Amherst

The Connecticut College women's field hockey team suffered their first loss of the year against Smith this week, but cushioned their defeat with victories at Wellesley and at home against Amherst. The team's record now stands at 6-1-1. The Camels started off the week by crushing Wellesley 6-0 on Sunday. Six different players scored for Conn. Suzanne Walker, '93, started things off by scoring at 28:39, aided by Jill DelloStritto's, '91, third assist of the year. Jenny Garburn, '91, scored the next goal for the Camels from an assist by Carter Wood, '93, at 34:59 to give Conn a 2-0 half-time lead. Conn pulled away in the second period as Abbey Tyson, '92, co-captain Diane Stratton, '91, Wood and DelloStritto all tallied for Conn. Erica Bos, '92, and Tyson each added an assist in the second period. Conn outdueled Wellesley by a 24-4 margin, clearly showing their dominance. Laurie Sachs, '92, and co-captain Jen Schumacher, '91, combined for four saves and the shutout in net.

Wednesday, however, was a different story as the visiting Smith team blunted the blue and white by a 3-0 count. The first goal came at 34:22 of the first period, as Lara DeSantis beat Sachs to give Smith the lead. Smith's Becky Wright, who assisted on the first goal, scored at 45:32 to give the Pioneers a 2-0 lead, and Elizabeth Welborn gave Smith its third goal at 58:28. Sachs and Schumacher combined for thirteen saves in a losing cause.

Conn rebounded for an important win on Saturday as they faced Amherst on Dawley Field. Tyson greeted the visitors with her fourth goal of the season at the 29:00 minute mark. The same goal was DelloStritto's fourth assist on the year. Amherst tied the contest early in the second half as Cori Rockey slipped one past goalie Sachs. But Conn came back to win the game with 15:48 remaining in the game. This time DelloStritto got the goal and Tyson chipped in with the assist. The Conn defense held Amherst for the rest of the game and the Camels came away with a 2-1 victory. DelloStritto leads the squad in scoring with four goals and four assists. Right behind her are Tyson with four goals and three assists and Wood with three goals and two assists. The Conn defense, led by Amy Norris, '92, Nicki Hennessy, '93, and Lauren Moran, '94, has made it rough on opposing offenses, who have only managed six goals all season. Sachs has been terrific in net with a save percentage of .922 and a goals against average of only 0.69. The Camels play back to back road games next week, facing Western Connecticut on October 11 and then matching up against highly-touted Trinity on October 13.

Women's Crew Team Strikes Gold

Nine members of the women's varsity crew team opened their fall season with flying colors last weekend at the Head of the Ohio in Pittsburgh. Rowers Jen Yeske, '93, Peggy Witherell, '94, Kathryn Gunstman, '94, Jonie Davidson, '93, Beth Filipponi, '91, Anne Althausen, '93, Chris Jiff, '94, Tara Rayfer, '93, and Meg Sheehan, '92, were flown to Pittsburgh. A newly-formed crew alumni group helped finance the trip. This marks the first time that Connecticut College has participated in this regatta.

Although originally scheduled to race only once, the women were able to show their might and muscle in two races. In the first race, the Club Eight not only won the gold medal, but set a course record with a time of 13:59 for the 2.5 mile course. Crowswim Shoeban said, "They attacked it from the first stroke, and kept getting stronger throughout the race."

The second race was the tougher Open Eights category, with Conn facing such schools as Brown and Cornell. Although the women were fatigued from their efforts earlier in the day, they rowed an extremely aggressive race, missing the bronze medal by a heartbreaking 1.4 seconds.

Having won their first race of the year, the women are off to a fast start. Coach Claus Wolter was pleased with their performances, and both he and the rowers hope that the team can return next year for an equally strong showing.