Seniors Defeat Faculty In Soccer, 2-1.

All the student-body, especially the Freshmen, were delighted with the faculty's gallant but unsuccessful attempt to out-kick the Seniors in the annual soccer game.

It was a great game. The zealous faculty—not satisfied with the job of upholding their individual positions—played anywhere on the field, helping out their fellow-players. Dr. Leib's red cap was seen on the wing as often as inside, and Dr. Lawrence's yellow scarf flapped gaily in the breeze in exactly the opposite place on the field from where that gentleman had been stationed.

The Senior team was composed of well known athletes of '26. The spectators knew their playing so well that the '26 team was merely a convenient wall for the faculty to kick against. They took their actions as a matter of course except—naturally—when the unexpected happened and Lorraine Ferris matched her speed against Miss Williams, or when Emma Sternberg somersaulted over Dr. Leib.

It was interesting to the spectators to find some of their professors turn athletes—to find that Miss Williams was quite an expert wing and that the Physical Education faculty knew their rules. It was even more satisfactory, however, to the collegiate minds to watch some intelligent soul give a hefty swing and kick . . . the air.

Thinking the faculty at play was not amusing enough, the entertainers planned an obstacle race between the halves. The onlookers shrieked as the contestants wriggled under netting, jumped over benches, and sat in tippy fruit crates, but they sat weakly down when they pushed grapefruit with their noses.

The line-up:

SENIOR-FACULTY BANQUET ENDS FALL ATHLETICS.

On Monday evening at six-thirty, the annual Senior-Faculty Banquet took place. Thames Hall was brilliantly decorated with red candles and gay banners of the four classes, and the cheery fire in the fireplace made the whole atmosphere warm and inviting.

The song table sang many songs and cheers for the occasion. On account of the weather, the awards of the Bates

Council Action Concerned With Interpretations.

Few New Rules Made.

There seems to have arisen some confusion as to the distinction between new rules and the interpretation of rules already established. The new rules are as follows:

New Rulings.

The Graduate Secretary, or any other Connecticut College graduate who is also a member of the Faculty, may act as chaperone for any occasion.

The following changes have been made in the "C": Page 29, section 4, part 1, the last phrase, "and promptly notify the House Fellow, giving the names and addresses of the girls who have left campus overnight, is to be omitted. Page 44, part 5, change "men guests" to "guests". Page 48, section 4, part 4, "when returning on trains arriving later than 7.30" change to "when arriving on trains or busses arriving later than 7.30".

Modifications.

The following modifications in regard to the "Week-end" regulations have been made:

A regular week-end may start on Friday at 12.00 o'clock instead of at 3.00.

A girl may take a "Prom Leave" beginning Friday morning and ending Sunday night at 9.00 o'clock, having it count as two week-ends. It is necessary to have special permission from Dean Benedict to take a "Prom Leave." No girl may take more than two "Prom Leaves" a semester.

No extension of time by leaving before the stated time or returning later than 9.00 p. m. on Sunday, is to be considered. Any infringement of this rule will be treated as a serious offense; and any week-end so extended shall count as two or more week-ends.

Missing a train is not to be considered an adequate excuse for arriving later than 9.00 o'clock Sunday night.

Any one returning to college late should notify her House President rather than the Student Government President.

Those girls living on campus with homes in New London, may take their allotted number of week-ends, according to academic standing, not being under college jurisdiction, but if they take additional week-ends at home, they will be under college jurisdiction. A girl visiting in New London will be under college jurisdiction, and it would not be considered taking a week-end. A night spent in New London is not considered a week-end. Any night spent away from New London, during the week, requires special permission, but will not be considered a week-end.

Interpretations.

Interpretations of old rules are as follows:

If a girl returns to her house between 10.00 and 10.30, she reports to the House Committee.

Girls "campused" may go to church on Sunday, coming and going directly. All requests for special permission

Excavations In Egypt Reveal Past.

Artist Tells of Discoveries.

Joseph Lindon Smith, who has been the artist for several excavating expeditions to Egypt, spoke at Convocation on Tuesday, November twenty-fourth. He chose as his subject, "Excavations in Egypt at the Present Time."

He opened his talk by telling the preliminary procedure in excavating. First the excavator comes to Egypt and asks for a site. If he is very well-known he will be allotted a good site, but if he is comparatively unknown he will have to be contented with what is given to him. Work on the excavating site is carried on only in the winter, because the summers are extremely hot. The Arab workers refuse to use machinery, so work progresses very slowly. As soon as anything has been found, the very best diggers are put on.

The main center of the excavations is the historic Valley of the Kings. Here over two hundred tombs have been found. Many of them have been robbed and thus have lost their most valuable possessions. Most of the finds in these graves are now possessed by the Cairo Museum.

Of course work extending over such a great period of time is expensive, and there are often delays because of lack of funds. The photography alone costs an immense sum and experienced photographers can command a large salary.

Dr. Reisner, who works for Harvard and the Boston Art Museum, has directed some of the most remarkable excavations in Egypt. He has been fortunate in securing reliable Arabs for his work. He found that his men could be depended upon not to steal, which is indeed an unusual characteristic of Arab workers. For this reason he has made a life contract with them. Dr. Reisner was also fortunate in getting his photographer and recorder. Both are Arabs. His photographer became a member of the expedition when a mere child. He became interested in photography, and now ranks among the most scientific of the profession. The recorder can speak and write only in Arabic, but his eye is very keen and accurate in noting tomb-contents.

In speaking of King Tut's tomb, Joseph Smith said that it had had too much publicity. This excessive notoriety draws an enormous number of tourists who hinder the work, endanger valuable articles, and annoy the workers. Tourists are allowed to enter tombs according to the Egyptian laws, and there is no way for the excavators to prevent it. The tomb is noted for quantity if not for quality. It contained such valuable exhibits because it had never been robbed. Thieves had never gotten beyond the first door.

A more unique discovery was made about a year ago in the Sahara. This is a temple that looks like a pure Greek work. It has Doric columns, and has been carefully constructed. It is a work which no one ever dreamed of in Egypt. Although it is pure Greek in style, the Greeks probably

World Court Advocate Answers Senator Borah.

Court Membership Not League Membership.

On November 19th the House of Commons by an overwhelming majority, approved the Rhineland Pact—treaty of mutual guarantees. This was the most important of all the Locarno Treaties. This action is in marked contrast with the rejection of the Geneva Protocol a year ago. This indicates conclusively that Great Britain is not yet ready for the outlawry of war by statute, but evolutionary processes.

Peace Paramount Issue.

The most urgent question before the nations of the world to-day is the establishment of universal peace. This is certainly the paramount issue in America. For the first time in the world's history it seems possible that Victor Hugo's saying: "There is one thing stronger than armies, and that is an idea whose time has come," may become a reality. As the war was hastened to a victorious end because of our participation, so I believe that America can do more than any other nation at the present hour to establish world peace.

Borah Opposes Court.

The most ardent opponent of America's entrance into the World Court is Senator William E. Borah, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. His place as Chairman attracts attention to his opinions and requires that his arguments should be fairly met.

Senator Borah declared that the Permanent Court of International Justice is not a World Court, but is a League of Nations Court. I agree with the Senator that it is a League of Nations Court. It is a department of the League and an instrument created by it. However, the members of the League declare that they are willing to have us join this Court with reservations of our own making and without our becoming a member of the League, thus indicating that to be a member of the World Court is not synonymous with League membership.

Senator Borah would have us believe that the people have already passed upon the question of our entrance into the World Court. This is not the case, however, because the World Court reservations were suggested after the Senate had refused to ratify the Versailles Treaty and President Harding had been elected on a platform which promised to keep us out of the League. It is certainly not correct in any sense, to say that the people have ever voted on the World Court issue.

History of World Court.

A brief history of the World Court will show the weakness of Senator Borah's objection that the World Court is a League Court. In 1907 Elihu Root, who had long advocated a World Court, drafted a plan for such a Court and it was presented for adoption by The Hague Court of Arbitration. This failed because there was no satisfactory way provided for the election of judges. In 1920 Mr. Root, then a member of the Advisory Committee of

THE PACE THAT KILLS.

The activity hound is a familiar figure on every campus. He is a joiner. He mixes with the right bunch and on account of the theoretical influence he is supposed to have with various organizations gets himself elected, to certain high offices. Quite often he is labelled the campus clown by those who stand off and smile. Sometimes he is a regular fellow with all the hearty blarney of a Babbitt and the executive ability of a real estate merchant.

Here is the plaint of a misfit who finds himself swept up in the swirl of campus currents. He says in "The University Daily Kansan":

"Yes, I am swamped. But there seems no way out. The pace is set for me and I must follow it. If I don't the rest of the 'gang' will call me a 'stick' or a 'grind,' according to the part of this college life that I neglect. I am always in a hurry. Outside readings, problems and experiments must be in on time. Dates and appointments must be kept.

"I must not disappoint my parents or my organization. They, too seem to believe that I must keep up the pace or else be an utter failure. I want a certain per cent. of everything, but I am not satisfied with the taste of such a mixture. If I give too much attention to activities I 'get kicked' by instructors and by those who believe that the ultimate aim is high grades. If I pay too much attention to high grades I 'get razzed' by those interested in school politics, parties, publications, and so on and on.

"I haven't time! The Utopia of my soul, I believe, is a place where I can do as I please, when I please, and take all the time that I please in doing that thing without being rushed by this demon popularly called, 'college education.'" —The American Campus.

should be submitted in writing to Council.

Girls may taxi from the station after trains and busses arriving before 8.30 when returning from a week-end.

A student may use a Faculty car only when the Faculty is with her.

Driving one's family's car or a guest's car when they are visiting, is not considered borrowing.

It will be seen that the above are mainly interpretations or modifications very few incorporating any change in the rules.

THE LOITERER.

In the Nature of a Few Miscellaneous Words.

Because the Loiterer feels that when the present vague and unhelped for remoteness of Saturday wears away leaving the day exposed, and real, there will be no genuine urge for uplift such as she usually radiates from this column; she has decided to fill her inches with masterly miscellany—which may deal with any and every subject. The Loiterer hopes that she understands the use of the word.

Anyway, in the November number of Scribner's, there is an article by the great Jesse Lynch Williams, entitled "I Went to College." His introductory sentence possesses a peculiar charm—and even a mild form of eye opening fascination. It reads, "If a young man really wants an education he can usually get one anywhere, even at college." Such delightful cynicism! It is a worthy gesture—and we hope not an unappreciated one. Mr. Williams, who seems to be an alumnus of Princeton, has retained his undergraduate pessimism with unusual ardor. He admits candidly that he only worked for two professors, one of whom happened to be Woodrow Wilson. Holding his diploma in his hand he openly scoffs at the college country clubs, and says that their impending downfall will bring with it the downfall of our only aristocracy. And he thinks that the process of change has already begun to be effective. Any number of young people are lured to college by the social reputation of the institution, only to find that they have to work to stay there. Mr. Williams enjoys their dismay, however, to be fair to himself, he does admit that the ability he acquired as a member of the rifery team shooting at clay pigeons, has stood him in good stead while duck hunting.

What do you think of him anyway? A continuous collegiate pessimist, he has been unable to keep his attitude from assuming the inevitable paternal, patronizing manner, which the youth of the country is so often allowed, or forced to observe. The Loiterer hopes for his sake that she and her compatriots will be saved from complete degradation. And yet he amuses her; why did he get paternal; why couldn't he keep on being a grown up cynic? It would have been much more interesting.

And now to be miscellaneous: If all the turkeys which were consumed in this country on November twenty-sixth, were placed claw to claw they might reach around the globe nine and three-eighths times, and they might not. Or to employ another method of computation. If each student and alumnae of this college were lined in a line parallel with the Thames—it would take those people three hundred and one years, at the average of one turkey every minute and-a-half, to throw all those turkeys into the Thames. Believe it or no.

And now the Loiterer must apologize, for she has not only been miscellaneous—but very, very foolish.

VARSITIES ANNOUNCED

WORLD COURT ADVOCATE ANSWERS SENATOR BORAH.

Jurists, to which the League of Nations had committed the work of drafting a plan for a World Court, again brought forward his plan and it was adopted with slight amendments. The seat of the World Court is The Hague. The Court consists of eleven judges and four deputies. The judges are nominated by the national groups composing the old Hague Permanent Court of Arbitration. Each national group may name four persons, only two of whom may be of their own nationality. Since 43 nations are members of the Permanent Court of Arbitration and each nation may make four nominations, it is possible for the list of nominations for judges of the World Court to consist of 172 names. The statute of the court provides that the Court must consist of men possessing certain outstanding qualifications and that the whole body shall represent "the main forms of civilization" and "the principal legal systems of the world." I call particular attention to the fact that The Hague Court of Arbitration makes these nominations and this court is wholly independent of the League of Nations. The Assembly and the Council of the League vote separately, but an absolute majority in each is necessary for election. Not more than one judge may come from any one nation. Every means has been taken to secure competent judges and to safeguard the interests of all the members of the Court. As an additional safeguard, reservation number two, as proposed by Presidents Harding and Coolidge and Secretary Hughes, reads as follows:

"The United States shall be permitted to participate through representatives designated for the purpose and upon an equality with other states, members, respectively, of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations, in any and all proceedings of either the Council or the Assembly for the election of judges or deputy judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice or for the filling of vacancies."

As a further safeguard, reservation number four, reads as follows:

"That the statute for the Permanent Court of International Justice adjoined to the protocol shall not be amended without the consent of the United States."

I submit that in view of the method of electing judges of the World Court and in the light of the reservations which America demands as a condition of our joining the Court, it is of very little consequence whether or not the Court is a part of the League of Nations. Can an American statesman be so obsessed with the isolation spirit that he would object to joining the World Court because it is a part of the League of Nations, which League we at one time refused to join?

PROTECTING YOUR HEALTH.

By Philip P. Jacobs, Ph.D.

Most people take health as a matter of course, like the weather. Seldom do they think of it and never do they give it very much concern until perchance they have lost some or all of it. Then they are mightily concerned. Far less do they realize what sacrifices have been made and are being made every hour of the day to preserve this priceless boon of health and life for them.

We have records of health activities dating as far back as the days of the Egyptians and Babylonians. The Greeks under the leadership of Aesculapius, and the Romans later under Galen anticipated many of the everyday methods of modern medicine and health preservation. To go farther back, the Hebrew code of religion was basically a health code. It is not too much to say of the preservation of Jehovah's chosen people in the face of difficulties and disasters that have wiped out many a stronger nation that they were able to stand their ground and preserve themselves through all generations because of the Mosaic health code.

The first health department in the United States was begun by the late Dr. Stephen Smith in the 60's, barely a half century ago. One might go farther and say that the modern health movement as you and I enjoy it, begins with Pasteur, the father of bacteriology and the discoverer of germs. Such names as those of Oster, Biggs and Koch are bywords among those who are protecting the health of the community.

Dr. William H. Welch, who last

The whole affair was most enjoyable enormous success. The banquet ended with the singing of the "Alma Mater".

PROTECTING YOUR HEALTH.
Concluded from page 2, column 4.
April celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, has in his lifetime surveyed the entire public health history of the present day. He has seen the microscope bring to light germs that for centuries had remained undiscovered.
He has seen the modern advance in the purification of water, milk and food. He has seen the development of sanitation for the protection of health against mosquitoes, flies and other insect pests, and the discovery of the germs of typhoid fever, pneumonia, yellow fever, tuberculosis, malaria, scarlet fever, and many others.
Following these discoveries began the great campaign all over the world for the protection of humanity against these germ pests. And nowadays public opinion has been organized to the point where communities have been willing to expend millions of dollars for the protection of their health as against paltry sums spent less than half a century ago.

The organization of the gigantic tuberculosis campaign which now extends into every state and almost every hamlet of the union has within twenty-one years grown into a campaign that has brought into existence provision for the care and prevention of tuberculosis, valued at the present time at over $160,000,000. More still, in less than two decades, the death rate from preventable diseases has slowly declined and that from tuberculosis has been cut in half.

And yet few people out of 115,000,000 in the United States realize that within one lifetime a movement has been developed which means so much to all of us. You who read these words have had, if you are an average individual, at least ten years added to your life within the last two or three decades. Within the next two decades the public health workers of the country are seeking to add at least another five to ten years of life.
Where two persons died of tuberculosis twenty years ago, only one dies today, thanks to what has been done to protect public health.

All this has taken much painstaking sacrifice of life, strength, money and

SHAKESPEARE'S LONDON.

Tuesday evening, November 16th, the college was given the pleasure of hearing a very interesting stereopticon lecture on Shakespeare's London, by Mr. William Ellsworth. Mr. Ellsworth comes from East Hartford, and was for thirty-five years a member of the Century Publishing Company. Since he became president of the company several years ago, he has been devoting his time to lecturing in colleges all over the country.

did not build it, for they did not have architecture at this time.

Another recent discovery, that has not been made public yet, is that of a tomb in the Valley of Kings. The tomb room is covered with rock and debris because of an earthquake. The interesting object in this tomb is a mantle which was accidentally left on top of one of the boxes. On it is the word Snefru, the name of the builder of the first pyramid. This tomb has not been carefully examined yet.

In concluding, Mr. Smith told of how he was the first one to view a tomb that had not been opened for over thirty-five hundred years. The identity of the mummy in this tomb has never been established.

service. Men and women have been fighting the battle for our health in laboratories, in the lecture room, in the schools, on the street corners, in the homes, hospitals and clinics in ways that the average person little dreams of. Such ancient plagues as those of leprosy, smallpox and yellow fever, are gradually disappearing. Tuberculosis is going along with them and in another twenty-five years will be very much diminished.

Last year many thousands of people assisted at Christmas time in providing the sinews of war to protect their health and by the health of others by buying Christmas seals. This year for the eighteenth time the national, state and local tuberculosis associations are asking you to help again. The tuberculosis seals you purchase will help provide some of the funds that will enable the invisible and unknown protectors of your health to do better service for you and the country.

COLLEGIATE CONFERENCE AT PRINCETON DECEMBER 11th.

SUBJECT: WORLD COURT.

John W. Davis, Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, and Raymond B. Fosdick, former under-Secretary General of the League of Nations, will be the principal speakers at the National Collegiate World Court Conference to be held in Princeton, Friday and Saturday, December 11th and 12th. Mr. Davis will address the opening meeting of the Conference, while Dr. Vincent and Mr. Fosdick will speak at the second general gathering the following evening.

Among the prominent men who will lead discussion groups Saturday morning who have already accepted the invitation of the National Executive Committee are Dr. Henry van Dyke, former Ambassador to the Netherlands; Roland S. Morris, former Ambassador to Japan; Norman Thomas, Director of the League of Industrial Democracy; Herbert Houston, Member of the American Committee of the International Chamber of Commerce; Mary Wooley, President of Mt. Holyoke College; John P. Dulles, New York barrister; Herbert Adams Gibbons, noted war correspondent and author, and Ivy L. Lee, New York Publicity expert.

Among the topics to be discussed by these leaders are "The Press and War," "The Relation of the World Court to Economic Prosperity," "Imperialism and World Peace," "The World Court and the League of Nations."

To date, more than sixty-five colleges from all parts of the country have accepted the invitation to send a delegate to Princeton for the Conference. The national character of the Conference is evidenced by the acceptances of such universities as Mills College, California, University of Michigan, Bates College, Maine, and the University of Texas.

It is to be one of the purposes of the Conference to form a permanent organization of American students for the purpose of discussing topics of current national import. The delegates will convene annually at institutions in various parts of the country for this purpose. Senator William Borah, Vice-President Dawes and Chief Justice William Howard Taft have heartily endorsed the Conference.

Connecticut College delegate to the Conference is Rosamond Beebe 26, President of the Campus History Club.
