Vesper Speaker: Is Robert Wicks, Princeton Dean

Name of Author and Leader of Students Well-known on Connecticut Campus

The speaker at the vespers service on Sunday, November 15 will be Robert Russell Wicks, dean of Princeton university chapel. A native of Utah, N. Y., Dr. Wicks received his A. B. and his M. A. from Harvard college, as well as the D. D., degree, also conferred upon him by Williams and Yale.

Before finishing his theological training in Union Theological Seminary, he was ordained pastor in East Orange, and in Holyoke, Mass., where he was also chaplain of Mt. Holyoke college. During this period he served for six months in the army, as assistant to the present position since 1929, and is a member of the Board of Directors of Mt. Holyoke college, and a trustee of Tuagall college. Miss. His latest work is "The Benson Jawson" as an outgrowth of his many years of experience with college students and their religious problems. It is an attempt to give straightforward answers to specific questions raised by students with whom Dean Wicks has come into contact.

Executive of N. Y.

Sun at Convocation

A moving picture of the history and development of The New York Sun, sponsored by the Art Club, was presented by Colonel Gilbert T. Hodges, chairman of the executive board of The Sun, and Mr. Thomas W. Dewart, son of the publisher, and also on the executive board, at Convocation, Tuesday afternoon, November 10, in the College Gymnasium.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

MARGARET MCGEILL

Self Government Presidents Meet At U. of Maryland

Margaret McConnell Represents C. C. at Women's Inter-collegiate Conference

Margaret McConnell returned Sunday from a four-day convention of the Women's Intercollegiate Association for Student Government held at the University of Maryland. Presidents of student government organizations from twenty-five colleges throughout the East met there to consider some of the problems facing their particular groups. One of the more important contributions brought back from the conference was the idea of having freshmen assemblies. Margaret attended the discussion group which considered freshmen and student activities, and it was during the exchange of ideas at this particular time that the thought of introducing such a program to our own campus was seen. Many colleges have already a plan for these weekly gatherings. The freshmen are acquainted with the traditions of the college; upperclassmen give him his general picture of the majors offered at the college; a spirit of unity is built up (Continued to Page 3, Col. 4)

Dr. B. J. Whiting To Speak Tuesday At Convocation

Author's Authority on Proverbs To Speak On "Many Women And Many Words"

Dr. Bartlett J. Whiting, assistant professor of French at Yale, will speak on "Many Women and Many Words" Tuesday, November 17. He will speak on the subject of "Many Women and Many Words," and "The Role of Women in English Proverbial Literature." This topic suggests that he is a very witty and analytical speaker and it has aroused much interest.

Dr. Whiting was graduated from Harvard university in 1926 Summa Cum Laude. He won the Sheldon fellowship and studied abroad for a year. He has been in his present appointment last year. Dr. Whiting has published a book on Chaucer's Proverbs, and is a recognized authority on proverbs.

Red Cross Drive Recalls Good Work Of Former Years

Again faculty and students at Connecticut College have an opportunity to be a part of one of the world's greatest movements. Contribution to the American Red Cross enables you as a co-worker in an organization interested in the welfare of all human beings.

In times of disaster, a victim of last year's flood disaster and had the aid of people and Rockport and Red Cross. If you will appreciate especially the efficient and capable way in which this movement was handled. More than eight million dollars were given by the American people to help those in need; people of all classes and circumstances contributed.

Last year Connecticut College gave $841.96 as its share in the great movement. Eighty-eight faculty and fifty-seven students paid a dollar each and became active members. Ninety-two percent of the student body made contributions of a dollar or less. In eleven houses 100 percent of the girls gave; these houses were Brown, Bragg, Copeland, Dehon, Knowlton, North, Plant, Thames, Vinal, Windham, and Whipple.

This year one member in each house will be responsible for publicity and collections. It is expected that, as in past years, the student body as a whole will back this movement to the full.

The Junior Class will sponsor aforgettable Frosh and After the Fall Play, Friday night, November 20. Dancing will be until 1:00 A.M.

The admission charges are as follows: $1.00 for both for both plays and dance, $0.90 for dollar for dollar only. 50c stag.

Service League Now Sponsors Activities For More Than One Hundred College Girls

With Thanksgiving vacation looming up in the near future, our thoughts turn towards the basket which are given away annually or so tag day will be held, sponsored by Service League to help those in need; people of the American Red Cross.

We all much happier that we did, if the occasion should ever our part for this worthy cause, I'm sure we will feel donation.

You'll find frowns and lead the way to "sunny paths". Occupation? No, the Red Cross is not the Deed for funds. The Red Cross of being happy.

The Armistice—Toward Real Peace?

Eighteen years ago today the nations of the world celebrated one of the most welcomed events since the beginning of time—the signing of the Armistice. Hilarious crowds mobbed street corners; hysterical women sank to their knees in griefful prayer; children, unaware of the real significance of the occasion, none the less gave vent to their enthusiasm. In all corners of the globe, women and men rejoiced that the "war to end all wars" was over.

Even today in a less evident manner, there is continued celebration of the close of the war. Services are still held in honor of those who fought for an ideal they believed in so whole-heartedly; women still speak of their gratitude with subdued voices; we who were children then recognize more fully each year the reason for their joy.

But in spite of our realisation, we are rapidly coming face to face with another crisis. Nations like our own set aside a day for peaceful contemplation of the end of the war, yet the next day hurry about their business of building larger numbers of warships; more effective weapons for slaughter, more deadly poisonous gases.

Is there something radically wrong with us? Can we with our logical minds, find any reconciliation between two such opposing practices? Does it mean we have not learned the full significance of the signing of the Armistice? Are we going blindly into another similar calamity? Will when the day come "when nation shall not lift sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore"?

A Essential Asset

A sense of humor is today one of the most needed assets for each one of us to acquire if we haven't it already. By a sense of humor I don't mean mere wit or the ability to laugh things off, but an appreciation and an insight into the affairs of the world which enables one to be cheerful and hopeful in the face of rough or smooth going. It's easy enough to be happy when life runs according to our liking, but how many of us can smile when everything goes "dead wrong"?

How many of us have that spirit of good cheer which comes from within and shows itself in real active service as well as in smiles?

Having a sense of humor is a small virtue but if it is true, it can shed such happiness and brightness that everybody troubles fade under its happy influence. A sense of humor claims no creed but the power to ease frowns and lead the way to "sunny paths". Occasionally it would be good if we all took a walk into some lively fights and to get excellent experience and training. Labor leaders, press for the cause of unionism and liberalism may be adequately represented when important issues are at stake.

Dr. Alice Hamilton spoke at Connecticut College on November 12, 1937, under the title "Dangerous Trades and What the Government Can Do About Them." Her address, published in "Connecticut College News," Page 2, begins with the following remarks:

"We've all seen her around campus, sometimes talking with one of her friends, sometimes alone, but always easily approached. She is our friend, our college guardian, President Katharine Blunt."

"Each freshman meets Miss Blunt, with the other student representatives. The Blunt the same fine level of the seventh grade, is in in every way easily approached. She is our vice president, with us and will not forsake us."

Dr. Hamilton's talk on labor problems was attended by Hazel Sundt '38, a close friend of the late Jane Addams, and was arranged by a joint mid-summer conference for Catholic leaders in industry we can bring the last values set by the Supreme Being. Our guidance comes from within us, for 'the Lord our God will be with us and will not forsake us.'

"We are living in a time when history is being made. We are living in a time when history is being made. We are living in a time when history is being made."

FRENCH CLUB
The next meeting of the French Club is to be held in Mary Harkness room on Thursday, November 11th. The meeting is to be preceded by a dinner in the dining room of Bartlett and may be attended only by those whose names are registered with Mrs. Miss Ernst and Miss Keene are to be the guests of honor. Following dinner Miss Erna will read by Betty Butler '38, Marion Zabrowski '37, and Doris Bacon '37, a presentation of modern French songs by Dorothy Haney '37. By the time of the meeting, it is hoped that all the girls in the club will have read the play and a discussion of it, led by Miss Eurie, will follow treated.

The members of the club hope to have the December meeting open low, but, as yet, the plans are not definite.

MATHEMATICS CLUB
On November 5th, the Mathematics Club met in the auditorium. Discussion was begun as to whether the club should have open or closed membership and suggestions were made for improving the club opening the meeting. Following that, Frances Halsey gave a talk on the use of the calculus in physical science, and Halsey was introduced to the committee of arrangements for the Math Club's representation at the Science Conference which will be held at Storrs in the Spring. Names of representatives to speak on scientific subjects at the conference will be selected by the committee.

The club met again on November 18th at 4:00 p.m. in the Science Conference which will be held at Storrs in the Spring. Names of representatives to speak on scientific subjects at the conference will be selected by the committee.

SCIENCE CLUB
An unusually interesting program to consist of current events in each of the various fields of science will be presented by the Science Club at a meeting on Wednesday evening, November 18th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Commuters' Room. The meeting will be held on Armistice Day, November 11th.

Riding Club
The members of the Connecticut College Riding Club went on a breakfast ride on Saturday, October 31. Leaving at 6:00 a.m., they rode for an hour and fifteen minutes, and packed an enjoyable luncheon. Next Saturday, November 14, there will be a lunch ride. The group will return at about 3:30 p.m. Anyone interested in joining them is cordially invited to do so.

Executives of N. Y. Sun At Convocation

Mr. Dewart then spoke briefly of the mechanics of printing a paper and of the incredible amounts of materials used. He said that in the printing of The Sun approximately 120 tons of paper and a ton and a half of ink are used daily. There is a standing supply of about sixty-five tons of metal for the typesetting machines. This is reinked every day.

Accompanied by explanations, the film showed not only the entire process of putting out a daily paper, but such memorable events as the Civil War, Colonel Lindbergh's flight, the last Olympic games, and the recent flight of the great Hindenburg dirigible.

Preceding Convocation, there was tea in Windham Parlors given by President Blunt and the officers of Connecticut College Press Board. The guests included Colonel Hodges, Mr. Dewart, Mr. Theodore Bodenwein, publisher of The New London Day, Mr. Alfred Ltgourie, city editor of the same paper, and Mr. Ov...
