C. Dougherty and V. Ruzicka to Be Featured
As Duo Pianists in Second College Concert

On Wednesday, November 15, the second concert in the college series will be held in the Auditorium. The concert was presented by Piano students C. Dougherty and V. Ruzicka. At the beginning, the students played a song, and then Dougherty and Van Ruzicka played in every style of the piano. All the students were housed by the music school and were interested in hearing what the pianists had planned to play. After the concert, the pianists were invited to attend the musical event at the college. The pianists were said to be a great success, as their music was well received by all the students. The pianists also introduced new works of classical music, which were well received by all the students. The concert was held in the Auditorium.

Conference of SCM To Take Place at U. of Connecticut

Christian Citizenship will be the topic of a conference on the week of December 5 at the University of Connecticut, sponsored by the Student Christian Movement in New England for college students in the Connecticut Valley Area.

Throughout the conference, delegations will attempt to discover the roles that churches play in a community working on social and political issues broader than the church.

Professor William Sparrow of Wesleyan, author of Power for Action, and A. Guide to the Christian Path, will be one of two guest speakers at the conference. He will deal with the Christian basis for social action and Christian responsibility for domestic political issues.

Aas will be speaking Professor John Bennett, of Union Theological Seminary, author of Christian Ethics and Social Policy, and of Christianity and Communism. International experts of Christian political responsibility will be considered by Dr. Bennett, as well as personal and political goals for fulfilling such responsibility.

As to the lectures, the conference has also included worship services, discussion groups, and special interest workshops. A roam program will be provided in the form of a series of sessions Saturday and Sunday.

Although the cost of the conference will be about $10.00, Religious Fellowship has offered to provide transportation, and to make reservations those who wish to attend.

Further information is posted on the Religious Council bulletin board on first floor Fanning. If you plan to attend, please notify Sister Wing '53, via campus mail by Wednesday, November 19.

Convocation Talk on 19th Century Painting Enhanced by Exhibit

Mr. John Bar will give a lecture entitled The Artist's Discovery of America in the Nineteenth Century on Thursday, November 15 at 11:00 a.m. in the Palmer Auditorium.

Mr. Bar is a native of Connecticut and a graduate of Yale University. Formerly the curator of painting and sculpture at the Brooklyn Museum, Mr. Bar now holds the position of curator of the Whitney Museum in New York.

As an author as well as a lecturer, he has written the revolution and tradition in America, in the American scene, and the role of the United States in the twentieth century on.

The lecture is being presented in conjunction with the 19th Century Painting exhibit at the Karolik collection at the American Museum. After the lecture, which will be accompanied by slides, there will be an open house held at the museum.

Mr. Karolik, a resident of Boston, Mass., and the owner of the collection, on display at the American Museum, will be present at Mr. Bar's lecture, and will also speak. The subject of his talk will be the collection of paintings.

Mr. Karolik, a native of Russia, has been interested in collecting having to do with the native American scene, after his marriage to an American.

Historical Value

The collection is valuable not only from an artistic viewpoint, but also from a historical viewpoint, according to this American painter. They are valuable because of the period, and the period's influence on other artists of different epochs by untrained artists.

At the period during which the paintings were done, most renowned painters were going to Europe. Instead of remaining in America to paint, this collection therefore, includes most paintings done on national subjects at that time.

Club Will Present Two Russian Films

Two excellent Russian films will be presented by the students of the German Club in the Palmer Auditorium on Saturday, November 15 at 1:30 p.m.

The main feature will be in the Cinema Aurora which is a magnificently restored theater of the early period of Russian cinema. Apparently the Russians have done a great deal of work in the film industry and their skills are primitive at this time.

The Azerbaijan is a short which was done in Yalta and is an excellent film of Azerbaijan.

Both films are in color and are narrated in English. The admission will be fifty cents.

The opinions expressed in this issue are those of the writers and not of the Connecticut College News. They represent the free-speech policy of the college's student press.

Current Events

In the past year one faculty member has given a lecture Monday morning during the chapel hour, a feature subject to current affairs. A great deal of predicament is now being arranged by the students in the preparation of their well-organized and objective talks.

Theatre: The lack of attendance and a seeming lack of interest the series was unfortunately disbursed this year. It seems that faculty time is spent in preparation for so many other events.

Compet, Plays

If anyone is complaining about the lack of activity in these departments, it is definitely not the case. Betty has certainly enjoyed life both on and off campus. The only problem is that the last few events have been simple members of the community, or did she maintain contact with the larger world outside? Four years is too long a period of time merely to maintain existence, too much an indispensable portion of life outside? Four years is too long a period of time merely to evade chapel and vespers. Convocation came to involve them. Perhaps they did. But what happened to those four years in college? Did our heroine ever renew her acquaintance during that period? If so, she did and she has been trying hard to maintain isolation from events beyond the campus, or had she read a newspaper now and then, or listened to a chapel talk on current events?

We won't argue for the relative happiness of our heroine in what affect the campus has been toward Connecticut. Betty has presumably enjoyed life both preceding and following her college career. But in those four years she was simply a member of the college community, or did she maintain contact with the larger world outside? Four years is too long a period of time merely to maintain existence, too much an indispensable portion of life outside? Four years is too long a period of time merely to evade chapel and vespers. Mrs. Levens Compares Homes, Reveals Interest in Theater

by Joelyn Haven

Two years ago, when we got the opportunity to acquaint ourselves with the experiences and shows of a person from another country, therefore talking with Mrs. Leven, we were given a year from England with her husband, the new chairman, teacher, proved not only enlightening, but very enjoyable.

This is the second time Mrs. Levens has been to the United States. In 1946, she came to New Haven for the invitation of Yale University. In 1952, she came to New Haven on the invitation of the Educational College. This is the first of a series of two week in London to hear fourleesinging famous American students, as part of her trip around the world. The tour was made possible through the assistance of the British Council and the American Council for Overseas Study.

In any case their work has achieved widespread recognition, and the immediate aim of this drama program is to offer the people something much, much better than a chance to be entertained.

The matter of sweeping the dirt is gratifying to think, however, that she will not be able to withdraw the influence of her parent's impeccable English. Mrs. Levens has been to the United States with her new husband, the new chairman, teacher, and served for those people who have

Among Ellen's attendants will be three other seniors, Mary Ann McClements, Connie Harkness, and Brenda Duane, and Sidney Allen. Follow-

years at Amherst, is doing the art work for the wedding. Ellen and Ralph, who are members of the Phi U fraternity, are planning to make their home in New London for anyone who is interested in attending the wedding.

The Lone Ranger is her personal hobby. When she was a student at Oxford, undergraduate women students could not act in the productions. Whether the result is good or bad is immaterial. The long ushers, and the sound of the applause were all they could do. The immediate aim of this drama program is to offer the people something much, much better than a chance to be entertained.

RESEARCH POSES PROBLEM FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Higher education in the United States has "largely lost its meaning," and as a result, "some of the basic values of liberal education have thereby been sacrificed," according to Oliver C. Carmichael, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Declaring that "quantity has been substituted for quality" and the "quantitative conception of a liberal education... has vitiated the entire process by a wrong emphasis in the teaching of cultural subjects," Mr. Carmichael pointed out that the main problem in higher education has been the gradual acceptance of certain basic fallacies.

The first of these fallacies, he said, is the idea that a student acquires a certain number of credit hours, it all adds up to a liberal education. "This philosophy is a legacy of the free elective system and implies that the educational value of Freemasonry, for example, is equivalent to that of calculus, literature or logic. As a result the goal of instruction in history tends to be the acquiring of facts and dates with little or no emphasis on the significance of the facts or of the dates."

The second fallacy cited by Mr. Carmichael is the view that education is "primarily concerned with communication of knowledge whereas it is actually the communication of intellectual power." He used as an example the bequest of a mathematical formula to a student. Without the knowledge of how to use it, the formula is worthless, he said.

"Short courses that give only a smattering of information in a given field, and no conception of the mode of thinking by which the knowledge was derived, contribute little if anything to the education of the student," Mr. Carmichael said. He criticized academic courses which teach men to perform mathematical computations but not to think mathematically, to manipulate laboratory apparatus but not to think scientifically, and to summarize philosophical arguments but not to think critically.

The fourth and final fallacy mentioned by Mr. Carmichael is the confusion of facts with truth, research with learning, and the search for knowledge with the spirit of inquiry. "Pursuit of the truth is undoubtedly the highest function of the university," he declared, "but that is not synonymous with scientific research. The truly educational courses are those which emphasize not merely knowledge, but interpretation, not facts but their implications, not breadth of information but depth of understanding."

"Research and higher learning are not twins in the educational process," he said, adding that research is concerned with adding to the storehouse of knowledge whereas higher learning is concerned with the development of intellectual power. Mr. Carmichael warned, however, that higher education today places too much faith in research alone. "Research may sometimes serve to stifle the true spirit of inquiry, and this is one of the real problems in the American university."

Poor Connie College Suffers While Money, Time Disappear

Dear Mama,

I am all worn out. Life is so cruel to me. I'm sure you wouldn't know your poor little girl. I have suddenly acquired that drawn-mouth-raised-eyebrow look. Can you suggest anything that would perk me up? I saw the cutest little dress advertised in the Sunday papers. I'm so woeful, perhaps that would cheer me up. $6.00 at Peck and Peck. Here is the advertisement in case you lose the letter.

Mama did you know you sent me two pairs of socks with holes in them? How do you expect me to be well-dressed? Can't you take your sewing to the bridge club? Your loving daughter,

Dear Steve,

I'm in class trying to think up ways and means of how to thank you for a very wonderful weekend. It was grand to see you again and to meet all your friends. Your new fraternity house is smooth, quite the best I've ever seen. Only why did you combine wine chairs with apple green walls? It seemed rather odd, but I guess you know more about modern interior decoration than I do.

Professor Fogie is just glaring at me. I wonder if he has the nerve to think I'm writing a letter. Perhaps I had better answer a few questions. I did, but he just didn't understand. I went to a French movie one night. It was so exciting, I could almost guess what they were talking about. The bell is about to ring so I shall struggle into my coat five minutes early. Off to the mail. Bye now.

Connie

Dear Chet,

What do you think I am, a counselor at law? Why do you have to invite two girls to the same house-party? I think you had better dash down here for a quick appendectomy. Wonderful picture by Clifton Fadiman Friday afternoon something uneducational and amusing for a change. Have an appointment with my adviser now. Chet dear, please hold Father's head if I get a D. Remember I'll do the same for you in June.

Must spend the rest of the day in the library doing my homework. It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

NOSE, THROAT, and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continuously from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."
