Waldimir Gallman
Of Foreign Service
To Speak at Conn.

Of great interest to everyone and to governments throughout the world, Gallman, who is best known for his work in the Foreign Service, is in particular the coming visit of Waldimir Gallman to Conn. To those of us who are not acquainted with Mr. Gallman, the following summary of his career will reveal not only what a remarkable man he is but what a singular opportunity is in store for November 12.

Mr. Gallman has served in the Foreign Service since 1940. He has served as Diplomatic Secretary in Havana, Cuba; in San Jose, Costa Rica; and in Quito, Ecuador. Later he was assigned Diplomatic Secretary in Riga, Latvia, a country deeply depopulated, then as Counsel at the Free City of Danzig. In 1943 Mr. Gallman was designated as Assistant Chief of the Division of European Nations. He was appointed to hold such offices at the American Embassy in London, as First Secretary of the Embassy and later as Deputy Chief of Mission with honorary rank of Minister in 1948. He was appointed to hold such offices at the American Embassy in Oslo in Norway in 1951 as Canadian Ambassador to Scandinavia.

If these impressive and indeed enviable positions are not enough to demonstrate Mr. Gallman’s professional background, one should also note that Mr. Gallman has assumed duties as Deputy Director General of the Foreign Service, a position equivalent to that of Assistant Secretary of State.

Mr. Gallman will speak at 4:30 in the afternoon on “The Foreign Service” and again the evening on “The Spread of Communism during World War II.” These lectures will be held in AC 43 at 4:30.

It is certainly hoped that students will attend both of the two talks if not both. The interest and questions of the students are most important to the speakers, and Gallman’s talks are being extremely interesting and worthwhile.

Smith Meeting of UN Collegiate Council
Attended by IRC Members From Connecticut

On Sunday, October 25, a meeting of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations was held at Smith College by the New England chapter. Attesting to the growing recognition of the reputation of the Connecticut College chapter according to its membership, was a group of students who realized the importance of their responsibilities to promote international cooperation and a strengthening of the organization. Since that time the organization has grown to embrace large and small colleges and universities throughout the United States. In annual meetings these groups elect their national officers, regional directors, and formulate recommendations on U.N. questions. The Connecticut College chapter will elect its newest member, C.C. ’62 student organization.

The CCUN can be found on campuses as a separate organization, which, with the coordinating committee of an all-United Nations conference, the CCUN is a part of our international organization. As well as serving as coordinating body for affiliated organizational groups, the CCUN also gives expression to student opinion on the U.N. on a national level. It is the collegiate affiliate of the American Association for the United Nations, the American Student Movement of the United Nations and the Inter-University Federation of United Nations Associations. It is a member of the State Department’s model Secretary Council which meets to consider a resolution concerning Algerian independence presented by the Tunisian delegate. Members of student groups represented the four continents on the Security Council. R. Foster was the United Kingdom representative. After speeches by each of the delegates and establishment of parliamentary procedure not dissimilar to our Assembly, President M. Beller, took the floor for the motion for the withdrawal of an injured party’s right to vote on whether that party may vote on a main issue once the takeover took place. The resolution was not carried.

We then adjourned for lunch and the Smith College students placed the brochures of the pro-resolution faction among the observers.

After lunch a panel discussion was held on the U.N. problems of the Union of South Africa and West Africa. We were also fortunate in having with us as exchange student from Kenya who shed light on some of the problems of a colonial dependent territory. This was done through making a donation of $750.00 to the student council. The debate was then taken and the affirmative view was supported. (Please note that this does not matter a college of debate discrimination.) A vote was then taken by whether or not the U.N. should exercise its authority over South Africa and thereby through investigating teams and moral suasion bring about the government to terms. Again the affirmative was carried. These two declarations will become part of the policy of the National organization.

The CCUN is an excellent opportunity for students to learn about the U.N. and its problems as well as an opportunity to learn about our friends and students at the different colleges. In the not-so-far-distant future, the CCUN offers us all an opportunity to begin to shape the world as we want it and as it will be best for all people which is with us.

Personnel Bureau Discloses
Summer Earnings of Juniors

The Personnel Bureau has disclosed that 111 Juniors worked a total of 1,110 weeks, or an average of 10 weeks each, to earn $47,796 during the past summer. Each paid worker (there were 99) had an opportunity to choose an activity according to the personnel Bureau's list held by the classes.

For example, according to the Personnel Bureau, the Johns Hopkins Museum in Baltimore, Md., paid $15.00 per week for 15 weeks. The Massachussetts Institute of Technology paid $12.00 per week for 16 weeks. The Boston Museum of Fine Arts paid $10.00 per week for 12 weeks. The Carnegie Institute of Technology paid $8.00 per week for 10 weeks.

Student Counselor
James J. O’Brien
To Deliver Sermon

Rev. James J. O’Brien, Counselor to Catholic Freshmen and Sophomores at the University of Connecticut, will deliver the Sermon of the Week, November 8, at the weekly Vespers Service in Hartford, Conn.

Rev. O’Brien served for eighteen months as Chaplain in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He spent a year in Korea with the 4th Fighterdetachments. Subsequently he was assigned to the University of Connecticut, where he has served the several years including “Seco, Alcohol, and Tobacco” and “The Secular Campus.” Knights and Newcomers and “Diplomatic Representative System.”

Silver Display Nov. 10:
Patterns to Be Examined
By Underclass Students

The Wallace Silversmiths of America will display thirty-five to forty silver flatware designs in the day lounge of the Smith Shop on Tuesday, November 10, from 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 10.

All students are invited to come and see the displays during the designated time. The company, however, would like to see the students from ten to twenty per hour have an opportunity to learn about Silversmithing, a major in the main bulletin board in Flannery to be officially introduced at the rate of twenty students during the time specified in the Student Union bulletin. Representatives of the firm will be available to answer questions on the technique of the trade. The displays will be on exhibit until, and including, the Silver Display at the Student Union.

The Silver Display will be a twofold. Wallace Silversmiths will display a national and local reactions from young women to their patrons. Also included will be a slide presentation prepared for the Student Union bulletin and an automatic pin setters for the students. Also included will be the purchase of a piece of furniture for Classey Williams.

This showing will be similar to the example of a silversmith who is a molder in Knowlton. Viewing the silversmiths at work is a unique and enjoyable way of demonstrating the importance of the field. Students are urged to sign up for Wednesday and see the silver products.

JUNIOR DESCRIBES SUMMER JOB
With Barnard Drama School
by Jill Dargon '61
When I was asked to write about my summer experience at the Barnard Drama Workshop and Summer Theatre, I was not at all surprised to hear that this could be a possible subject, since I had taken many art classes at Barnard and was familiar with the Barnard Theatre and Drama Workshop. But when my advisor, Miss Dunnock, suggested that I write about my summer job, I was a little surprised. However, I am glad that she did, because I feel that what I have to say might be useful to others.

I spent the summer in New York City, working at the Barnard Drama Workshop and Summer Theatre. My job was to be a stagehand, which I thought would be a pretty ordinary job. However, I was wrong. My job was not just to move scenery and props around, but also to help with costumes, lighting, and other technical aspects of the production. It was a very interesting job, and I learned a lot.

The Barnard Drama Workshop is located in the old Barnard College buildings on Broadway, between 116th and 117th Streets. The workshop is staffed by a small group of people, including Miss Dunnock, who is the head of the workshop, and a few other faculty members. The workshop is open to students on a selective basis, and I was one of the lucky few who were accepted.

The workshop is divided into two parts: the Barnard Summer Theatre and the Barnard Drama Workshop. The Barnard Summer Theatre is a professional theatre company that produces plays and musicals during the summer months. The Barnard Drama Workshop is a training program for students who want to learn more about theatre production.

I worked at the Barnard Drama Workshop for six weeks, and I had an amazing time. I learned a lot about theatre production, and I also made some great friends. I would highly recommend this program to anyone who is interested in theatre.

Here are some of the things I learned:

1. Stagehands are the unsung heroes of every play. They are responsible for setting up and striking the set, and they do it all in a timely and efficient manner.
2. Costumes are a very important part of every production. They help to establish the time period and the mood of the play.
3. Lighting is crucial to creating the right atmosphere on stage. It can make a huge difference in how the audience perceives the play.
4. Props are also very important. They can help to set the scene and add to the overall production value.
5. Technical problems are a common occurrence in theatre. It is important to be able to think on your feet and come up with solutions quickly.

I will definitely be applying to the Barnard Drama Workshop again next summer. I highly recommend it to anyone interested in theatre production.

Dr. David H. Read Discusses "Life Plus" in Vespers Sun.

by Sue Strickland '62

Dr. David Read's frank and thought-provoking, yet inspiring, talk in Sunday's 8:30 Vespers was based on the First Epistle of John, and it focused on the subject of "Life Plus." Dr. Read's message was that people should strive to live a life that is not just about themselves, but also about what they can give to others.

The First Epistle of John is a letter written by the apostle John to his congregation in Ephesus, and it is a call to live a life that is not just about personal gain, but also about giving to others. Dr. Read used this letter as a launching point for his talk, and he encouraged the congregation to consider what "Life Plus" means to them.

Dr. Read's talk was very thought-provoking, and it left me with a lot to think about. He challenged us to consider what we can do to make the world a better place, and he encouraged us to live a life that is not just about ourselves, but also about others.

Janina Van Hall Visits Conn.

by Susan Shapiro '83

Janina Van Hall, one of the foreign students at Conneticut College this year, is very much impressed with the school and with the United States. At least with what she has seen of it. She arrived from Europe by plane, and she was met at the airport by a friend who is also a student at Connecticut. Janina is a very bright and personable young woman, and she is very interested in learning about American culture.

Janina is a German student, and she is studying chemistry at Connecticut College. She is very impressed with the quality of education at the college, and she is very much enjoying her time here.

Familiar College Performers Featured in Handel Festival

Featured in the Handel Festival this year, at the Connecticut College in the United States, were Mrs. Eliza Joy Dimmock, soprano, Mrs. Phyllis Mowry, alto, and Mrs. Elma Y. McDaniel, soprano. These three performers have been engaged to sing in both the Saturday evening concert and the Sunday afternoon concert, as well as in the Monday afternoon concert, which takes place on the last day of the festival. Mrs. Dimmock is a well-known soprano, while Mrs. Mowry is a noted alto, and Mrs. McDaniel is a fine soprano. Their singing was received with great applause by the audience.

College Athletics Analyzed; Football at Bottom of List

Do you like football? If you do, you are not exactly "out of it," either. If you don't like it, you are probably aware of the success of the Ivy League in recent years. Football is one of the most popular sports in the United States, and it is no secret that the Ivy League teams are among the best in the country.

The twenty most accepted East Coast colleges, according to the editors of the Yale Daily News, are: Harvard, Princeton, Columbia, Yale, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Brown, Cornell, Amherst, Bowdoin, Middlebury, Williams, Wesleyan, Tufts, Bucknell, Amherst, Williams, Colgate, Bowdoin, Middlebury, and Williams.

The criteria for "Up" and "Down" sports are as follows:
1. Any sport that is "Up" is a college sport, (e.g., basketball, football, track)
2. Any sport that is "Down" is a non-college sport, (e.g., tennis, golf)
3. Any sport that is "Up" is a recent addition to the college program
4. Any sport that is "Down" is a sport that has been dropped
5. Any sport that is "Up" is a sport that has been played at the college for at least ten years
6. Any sport that is "Down" is a sport that has not been played at the college for at least ten years
7. Any sport that is "Up" is a sport that has been played by the college for at least ten years
8. Any sport that is "Down" is a sport that has not been played by the college for at least ten years

In discussing Finnish politics, Gunner has seen quite a bit of the world and has not only the love to live in the United States, but also the desire to live in Finland. Gunner is a loyal Finnish citizen, and he has been actively involved in the Finnish community for many years. Gunner has been a member of the American Finnish Club in New York City for over ten years, and he has been active in the club's events and activities.

Valentina and her husband Valerian have been living in Finland since 1937, and they have been financially adopted by the Finnish government. The couple met while they were working in the United States, and they have been living together ever since. They have a six-year-old daughter, Valentina, and a five-year-old son, Valerian. Valentina is a trained soprano, and she has appeared in many concerts and recitals throughout Europe.

The students of Connecticut College are encouraged to participate in Finn-Gym, a group that promotes Finnish culture and language on campus. Finn-Gym offers a variety of activities, including language classes, cultural events, and social gatherings. All students are welcome to join Finn-Gym and become a part of this vibrant community.

BLOODMOBILE
The Red Cross Blood Mobile collected ninety-five life-saving pints of blood Thursday. This blood will be distributed to various hospitals in Connecticut, and one pint will be transferred to the Hemophilia Foundation in New York. Out of every willing donor, nine were rejected for medical reasons.

Susan B. Hall, chairman of local services of the Service League, was in charge of the Blood Mobile. Susan would like to thank very much all the students, volunteers, faculty, administration, and employees for their invaluable aid on this project.

hand of ice her secret package, she frantically sought a Funfundrein, where she had the good fortune to be able to buy twenty-four inches of chartreuse velour. She capably made herself a new headband, and the delivery went off without a hitch.

"Cough," says Modeen, "I really don't know who that guy was. But I still think I had the greatest summer yet. How else could I have gotten a free trip to Delaware, not to mention a whole suitcase full of chartreuse headbands?"

Modeen is in the process of meeting all the facts that she was recently awarded the Order of Taliria by none other than Mr. Marc Ury. Among other honors heaped upon her shoulders have been her honorary membership in the Daughters of the Spanish-American War and a nomination for a Junior Nobel Peace Prize. Of her triumphant trip to Washington to receive her awards, Modeen says, "It was fantastic. Mr. Ury and those veterans are the nearest A Number One guys."

Inside Shelley Berman Recording Rage Hit; Student Critic Has Lasting Repercussions

by Jane E. Mills '61

It must be said of Shelley Berman that in spite of his commercial delivery, he remains a very funny man—and what is even more frightening—he’s convincing. If you have managed to remain thus far in your life a fairly well-adjusted individual, take my advice and stay away from a record called Inside Shelley Berman. What it is, is a subversive weapon against mental tranquility. I fear one never had any sanctions out of the ordinary when I happened across a department store, a picture window, a medicine chest—and the, the, the, the crowning distraction of that record which I have allowed into my system, is, I ain’t nothin’, pared games like David and Goliath. This record has also warped my view of the English language in a point where I have been avoiding semaphore, sending my looks to the. No, and covering in fright whenever I see a word—whenever, that is, that I can avoid them—which is pretty, difficult when you live across continent and can’t afford the time to walk home for Thanksgiving vacation (which is essentially what it is). If you fear are faced with this transportation problem, and are accustomed to flying, tell especially when you have heard this record and can still fly with confidence, you have all my admiration, fall, in that I am capable of working up in my state of shattered confidence in the smaller details of life. The time was when I too had no fear of flying, but could even go to such extremes as whistling the theme from The High and Mighty as our plane winged its way (with engine brightness burning) across the half-way point from Honolulu to San Francisco. Now, however, I think in terms of gangrene and sudden stop, I close myself among the ranks of Carol Lombard and Will Rogers, and can no longer enjoy my coffee, tea, or milk—not to mention the other liquid refreshment.

If I listen to Shelley Berman, much more humorous than flying will be solved—simply in deed—for I see, my desire to return home will be solved. These entertaining fifth-columnists are breaking down my desire to identify myself with a country for two good reasons—I now find, instead of former efforts consuming pains of guilt whenever I see a cat—see a cat—more truthfully, when any one mentions the word—on second thought even the word dog is sufficient to send me into a frenzy of remembering thanks to my in-crossed powers for nostalgia. Also, I hate children—not children drawn so much as their shortcomings as measures of that is, being inclined to assert my authority to the degree this record recommends, I chose to ignore them—when I’m not within ethernet of them that is—for I find them frighteningly communicative at times.

Amid this frenzy of fear, however, there are certain interesting lessons learned from this record which I can fall back on. Mainly that its overwhelming loosening effect on my complacency as regards the smaller things in life, it has main effect. Aware, not only of things but of processes such as what I am doing now—on which if anyone asked me to define it would say I was creating (I use this example because I have neither time nor intelligence to drive into the nuances of Sarkoff)—and this is I am told —an easy out. I am told —an easy out. And it’s a world of FUN! You get your “welcome home” hug hours sooner—in today’s jet age. And the jet age itself arrived here sooner, thanks in part to a special oil developed by Esso Research. Every jet engine throughout the free world grew up on it. And most pure jets flying today still use it and it alone. For happy homecomings or “happy motoring”… ESSEO RESEARCH works wonders with oil.
