Various Subjects Discussed at Stu. Gov't. Meeting

Amendment Concerning Elections: Proposed and Carried

Project For Training Officers Presented

An amalgamation meeting was held Monday night at 7:00 in the Gym. There were several topics brought up in the course of the meeting. The officers were again elected. After the meeting, a small group of officers and guests participated in a discussion concerning the amendment. The amendment was proposed and carried by the group. It was decided to hold another meeting in the near future to discuss further issues.

Dean Nye Speaks Of Exchange Fellowships From Other Countries

Students Are Urged To Help Continue The Existing Fund

Chapel Tuesday was conducted by Dean Nye who spoke on the exchange fellowship at Connecticut College. In 1915 when this college was established, two other women's colleges were opened in Canada. For a time we exchanged our News with their literary productions. Connecticut interest in women students in other lands and other foreign countries has increased. From this attitude came the origin of "assistantships" enabling her to send students to Canada, Peru, England, and other foreign countries. Since Miss Berg, one of the first foreign graduates, is now on the High Commission in London for Germany, it is possible that a student Friendship War Fund was raised as a part of a national drive to relieve the sufferings of teachers and students abroad.

After 1918, the local drive became an annual campaign for five (Continued to Page 4—Col. 3)

Alexander Purdy Urges Loyalty To Creative Principle

Vesper Speaker Is Professor At Hartford Seminary

Stresses Love As Basic Principle

The Vesper audience of Sunday, November 18, was addressed by Dr. Alexander Purdy of Hartford Theological Seminary. The speaker used as his text the fourth chapter of St. Mark, verses 28-31. In these verses we find the commandments of Jesus to be, first, "Love thy neighbor as thyself" and second, "Love thy neighbor as yourself." Mr. Purdy stated that the confluence of loyalty to a creative principle, the faith in a cohesive principle in life is God. Without such a principle to which we dedicate ourselves, life is amenable. This creative principle, to which we dedicate ourselves, works in a resisting medium. The secret of the whole creative process is the loyalty of the enemy, in order to convert the resisting medium. It is a mistake however to begin loving by attempting to adopt a sentimental attitude. The love of God does not simply mean acceptance of the universe, but faith in the belief that there is a principle of cohesive order, and the giving of one's self to loyalty in this belief.

The one way to deal with our own intolerance and jealousies is by wholehearted devotion to the love of God, or to the values of communion, Jesus, when he told us to love God with our whole personality and to love our neighbor as ourselves, meant complete devotion in every relationship.

Art Club Invites Students To Tea At Museum

To Be Given Dec. 7

The Art Club invites the student body to a tea at the Lyman Allyn Museum given Friday, December 7, from 3:00-5:00. The Art Club members will act as guides to the students in answering questions concerning the exhibits. This exhibit is composed of Contemporary American Paintings and Sculpture lent by the Grand Central Art Galleries. Of particular interest are paintings of Robert Bechman and the sculpture of Mrs. Bates of Mystic.

Vinal had a scavenger hunt and someone got Mr. Laubenstein's "the signature of a monster's daughter." Some mistake, no doubt.

1. A senior confessed that some of these talkative politicians who distrust the people" so much should open up a few grocery stores.

2. One math student to another: "Could you tell me about 'locus'?

3. The other: "Well, I just know that the singing noise is made by rubbing their wings together.

OFF CAMPUS NOTES

Just how many girls in Deshon write to the same party in Sharon, Penn.?"

1. It seems that certain Mosierites officially christened a yacht with a bottle of catnip and then hoisted the colors.

2. How did the Coast Guard, who were always known as titled Outing Club function as a matter-of-course? Can certain of us possess some singing ability and yet not help in any of the musical production which we all so willingly enjoy? And can we as a whole read the various literary publications year after year and not try our hand at writing once during this period? If, in thinking these over, we answer in the affirmative, then there should be a decided change in our offering as well as our actions. The argument that outside activities "take time" is a very weak excuse for not giving a little of our personality to the college that exists exclusive of academic pursuits. Are we always so busy or completely disinterested? In either case, shouldn't we "take" the time to develop ability in various fields and simultaneously create a spirit of competition in these organizations—a spirit which will inevitably raise the level of their achievements? No limited group can produce the most desirable results if it hasn't a wide range of contributors from which to choose. For our own enlightenment and broadening as well as for that of the activities, let us discard the spectator habit.

ALUMNAE NOTES

Our alumnae have become women of the world, it seems. Blanche Finesilver, '22, is now living and working in the most famous of French outskirts.

Camilla Anastasia Grophequr, '23, however, sends greetings from an almost unheard-of and unexpected corner of the world—Abé, Finland, where she is living with her husband and her son, Peter. She travels frequently from Abo, formerly the capital and the oldest city in Finland, to Helsinki, Copenhagen, and Stockholm, and has no idea when she will return to the U. S.

Mary Scott, '24, is in the Near East—teaching French to Moslem girls in Damascus.

Alice Reed Hooper, '33, our News editor, is sailing for Johannesburg, South Africa. Her husband has an appointment there as lecturer in English.

After so much globe-travelling, we feel a strange sadness upon returning to New York. But whether we've picked up an English, French, or Scandinavian accent in our auroral flight, the New York Alumnae Texas comes through big at Schaf- ter, but somehow the Schaffertes are in mourning for Navy and Princeton.

1. My, My! Gardenias on a blind lucky Schafferite.

2. What young Copeland miss sent a note of thanks on scratch paper?

3. Pity the poor freshman in Lacey who had to white-wash the ceiling after letting his tub run over!

4. Tut, tut, how those Lacyites behave in N. Y.—saying hi-ya to a staid Park Avenue footman.

5. It must have taken a lot of thought on the part of one Lacey freshman to write that hospital walls decrease the birth rate instead of the death rate.

6. Not only has that young Lacey miss got a button from Norwich but now she's the proud possessor of a pin from the same place.

7. Two freshmen at Bigfoot seem to be deluged with special and telegrams—two specials or four letters a day, they say.

8. Wonder why a certain resident of Bigfoot fainted when her mother called.

9. Bigfoot seems pretty well supplied with candy. Sources?

Chapter still welcomes us at its unannounced—perhaps one time—at the Biltmore Cocktail Shoppe. These C. C. meetings are open to students and alumnae of C. C., and to their friends. This same New York Club recently had a showing of movies of the college, which was lent by Col. A. B. Lambdin.

Esther Batchelder, '19, has a new position, teaching Home Economics at the University of Arizona.

So has Elenor Fahey '20. She is doing research work for the International Labor Office in Washington.

Mary C. Slattery, also '29, received a degree last June from the Smith School of Social Work, and is now working with the Children's Aid Society in Philadelphia.

Jane Baldauf Eager '34, is knitting instructor at Fox's in Hartford.

So keep it, undergrads, you may never find another chance to be a knitting instructor some day!

SHERMAN-BOOTH — Janet Booth '20 was married October 29 to Ernest Lincoln Sherman, a graduate of Boston University. They will live in Melrose, Mass., where Mr. Sherman is teaching.

Dear Editor:

Although what follows may be likened to fanning smoking ashes into a flame, nevertheless, I wish to bring to the fore the proposal to have the library open on Sunday mornings.

In view of all the many inconveniences that would result from the carrying out of such a proposal. In the first place, it has ever occurred to us that the librarian staff might enjoy and even look forward to those extra hours which would go in providing the lending late church services? Secondly, has it ever occurred to us that librarians as well as students take an occasional week-end? If a revised schedule of library hours is to be effected, it means that staff members must forego the above-mentioned pleasures.

We may say that these inconveniences can be avoided by assigning student assistants to the hours in question. This could be done, but it does not eliminate the necessity of having a regular staff member on duty.

Because problems of various magnitudes crop up from time to time, students who work in the library from six to twelve hours per week can be expected to solve them. Thus, the presence of a staff member is indispensable.

Up to now the criticism offered has been of a destructive rather than of a constructive nature. My suggestion would be along the following lines. Have the various departments include in their annual budgets appropriations to buy additional copies of books put on reserve after a year. These books could be kept in the classrooms used by the different departments. It might even be possible to secure a room in either Fanning or New London Halls for the sole purpose of setting up a small 'reserve' library. Furthermore, students could be appointed to take charge of the room, thus affording another means of self-help. Books could be signed and returned in accordance with the regulations now used in the library. Certain departments could be left to make the inclusions of these regulations, and the money collected would create a fund for the general upkeep of the books circulating.

Why not try an experiment of this nature? There is nothing to lose, but a great deal to gain.

Dear Editor:

A six-point course in play production—wouldn't that be a valuable addition to our curriculum? Does it seem quite logical to me that we should add a variety of courses in art and music and nothing in dramatics? Of course you may say that we have the Dramatic Club for furthering budding talent, but don't its chief plays (Fall, Spring and Competitive) offer only a tantalizing taste of the fun we might have with dramatic production? Moreover, the Dramatic Club must of necessity choose those students for leading roles who have had the most previous experience. The Club hasn't the time to train a greenhorn no matter how great his possibilities. That is where a course in play production could offer the experienced and un- experienced alike an opportunity for self-expression.

The course might be an outlet for a variety of interests. Stage and costume design, lighting, acting, direction and directing, and casting are all indispensable in the production of a play. And then consider how closely these subjects are related to other courses: stage and costume design with Art, lighting with Physics, direction and acting with Music, and casting with Psychology.

The play itself is, of course, more closely related to English than anything else.

We already have a department of Speech in the curriculum, which offers two courses in voice training, and one in public speaking. It seems to me that a course in play production would be the logical addition.

Moreover, Miss Cockrill, who teaches speech, is fully able to teach the course. If we students really want such a course, it is up to us to put it across. Surely, if other colleges offer the course, we who pride ourselves on our progressiveness, should not stay behind.

Kinsolving Is To Be Vespers Speaker

Holds Position of Rector of Trinity Church, Boston

The rector of Trinity Church, Boston, will be the speaker at the 7 o'clock vespers service on Sunday, December 12th. Dr. Kinsolving was graduated from the University of Virginia with Phi Beta Kappa honors, continued his studies at Christ Church College, Oxford, and finished his theological course at the Episcopal theological seminary in Alexandria, Virginia. Previous to his call to Trinity Church, he was rector of Grace Church, Amherst, for seven years and was director of religious education at Amherst college during that time. From this institution he received in June 1931 the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. The high quality of his work at Amherst was no small factor in leading to his call three years ago to the historic church made famous by Philip Brooks—and this, despite his relative youth. He succeeded Bishop Merrill in this position. Mr. Kinsolving's visits usually tax the seating capacity of the gymnasium to the utmost—very, very.

Spanish Club

Spanish Club is trying a new plan of having certain meetings just for the more advanced students of that group. On Thursday night, Nov. 25, a group of these girls held an informal discussion in Mary Harkness' living room. Coffee was served. Plans are being made for the Christmas meeting. There will be Spanish music. The regular meetings of the club are open to all students and others who are interested.

German Club

Plans are being made for the Christmas meeting of the German Club to be held on Friday, Dec. 14. There will be German music. Those in charge are trying to make this meeting really German in every way and hope to arouse more enthusiasm in the club.

Music Club

At the Music Club meeting on Monday, Nov. 5, in Windham Room, Professor Blunt announced the election of officers for this year also took place with the following being elected: Pres. Vera Warbasse '35; Sec. Marie Casse '36; Treasurer, Miss Branson; Chair-

Art Club

Art Club held a meeting in Windham game room on Monday night, Nov. 19. About 40 girls were present and plans for the coming semester were discussed. Coffee was served after the meeting.

Dramatic Club

On Thursday, Nov. 15 Dramatic Club sponsored a program of play readings given by a group of Presidents. Other groups gave impromptu readings of other one-act plays. The prospect of making Dramatic Club a closed, competitive organization was discussed. Plans were made for later meetings of which there will probably be one a month. The club hopes to present several important plays in the future and create interest in it. Coffee was served after the meeting.

Dr. Leib Urges Realization of Own Responsibility

Says To Face Problems

"Stand on your own feet. Don't whine about your difficulties or face the problem," exhorted Dr. Leib in chapel on Wednesday, November 21st.

Taking his topic from Ezekiel, he read several verses of the great prophet, later interpreting them in a modern manner, thus: Don't mind your experience. Live among people's, writings and from their own thoughts, talking, dancing, and playing bridge. Four hours finished so completely that no girl could account for them. These figures have been published, and like so many others "go unnoticed," the person with too much to do tightens up on his few necessary hours for relaxation, the person with too little to do "just hasn't the time" to be troubled with such reading material.

However, in becoming aware of the things which we unconsciously ignore, it might be helpful to mention the fact that Dariusch wrote a book in another language in 14 minutes at a time, and that Macaulay wrote "The Lay of Ancient Rome" out of his working hours. On the other hand, the modern college girl who has her knitting, crocheting, speech book, magazines or even the daily paper to occupy her odd moments. The rest of the time is "wasted."

Yes, but is it an art to waste time. Few people consider this. The ambitious intellectual person finds himself embarrassed with a guilty feeling that he should be aiming to work something more constructive rather than idly lounging in a smoking room or dormitory room which is filled with what he deems worthless chatter. Yet, herein lies his failure. He does not understand his contemporaries and can play in harmony with them. Can it be that, despite all the posts on the back which he receives, that he is wrong?" ---Skidmore News

Lyman Allyn Museum
Now Open To Public

At Present, Exhibiting Of Modern Painting Is Shown
Art For Sale

The Lyman Allyn Museum, given by Mrs. Harriet Allyn in memory of her husband, is open to students and others interested in art and desiring to broaden their knowledge and appreciation in that great field.

The museum was designed by Charles Platt of New York and is an adaptation of the Greek Styles of architecture. Large sculpture is not displayed as frequently as drawing, prints, and objects of industrial art such as wood-work, metal cloths, glass pottery and choice textiles. The textiles come from Europe, Asia and America, and have patterns both ancient and modern.

The exhibition space, though not large, is changed once a month and the gallery floor is such, that any subject will have the greatest advantage in any room.

Yale University made a generous loan of eighteenth century furniture, and a collection of choice silver pieces, for which the staff officers are greatly indebted.

The townspeople and college students are urged to participate in the enjoyment of this building and its exhibitions and will be cordially welcomed. At the present time an exhibition of modern painting, including some works of the late Mr. Selden, is being shown.

Photographs Of Various Exhibits In Library

Have you seen the picture exhibition over in the library? If not, it would be well worth your time to glance at familiar scenes from many colleges and universities through out the East. This exhibition was lent by Mr. Karl Maynard, and it contains photographs of colleges, universities, and other schools from the Maynard Workshop in Waban, Massachusetts. There are interesting studies of chapel, dormitories, libraries and academic buildings from Brown, Wheaton, Bennington, New York University, Raddcliff, Harvard, Annette, Wellesley and many other colleges. Our own college is represented by photographs of the museum building, a view of Blackstone, New London Hall and the Palmer Library. These pictures are for sale, and they will be exhibited until the beginning of next month. Why not browse around!

The students of Wesleyan University are holding their Eleventh Annual Parley, December 5, 6, and 7, on the subject of Political Philosophies. Students and faculty of Connecticut College are invited to participate in the parley.

Acombodations for rooms may either be secured by communicating with the Wesleyan University Parley Committee before the 20th, or at the Information Bureau, upon arrival at Wesleyan University.

Among others who have agreed to participate in the parley are Norman Thomas and Harry W. Laidler, who will speak on Socialism; the Hon. John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, speaking on the New Deal; Mr. Eastman, author and editor, Scott Nearing, member of the Communist Party, who will speak on Communism; Seward Collins, Editor of the American Review, speaking on Fascism; and Hamilton Fish and Stanley Baldwin, who will speak on Rugged Individualism.

PHILIPPE SOUPAILT GIVES LECTURE TO FRENCH CLUB

He Talks on James Joyce and Connection with French Literature

The French Club listened to a lecture given by Philippe Soupault in Windham Hall on Tuesday, November 22rd. The subject of Mr. Soupault's talk was "James Joyce: What he owes to French Literature and what French Literature owes to him."

The speaker, a poet and novelist, is among the most popular writers of France today. For the past ten years he has been the guest of most of the countries of Europe and has several times visited America. Mr. Soupault returned to the Connecticut campus for his third visit. Mr. Soupault arrived Wednesday, and was entertained at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Missret, prior to a reception, later the evening. On Thursday at eleven, the lecturer talked informally with students of French Literature, whom he had already met two days ago.

Yale University To Send Students To Washington

New Haven, Conn. (NSFA) - Yale University will send a selected group of juniors and seniors to Washington during the spring reading period for the purpose of studying the Federal Government in action at short range under the auspices of the National Institution of Public Affairs. The bulk of the expenses of those selected students will be paid by the University from the funds of the Block Foundation and the work done in Washington will count as an important part of the students' honors or course work for the year.

It is planned to include in the study visits to Congress, the Supreme Court and the principal executive and administrative agencies, in addition to the press bureaus and the headquarters of important lobbying organizations. Preliminary reading will be assigned and done in advance so as to insure the maximum benefit for the short time available for the field work. After the Washington study each student will write a paper dealing with some phase of the week's activities.

N. S. F. CONGRESS TO BE BROADCAST

Boston, Mass. (NSFA) - Arrangements for broadcasting a session of the National Student Federation Congress over a nation-wide hook-up are being made by Wesley D. Osborne, of Boston University, Chairman of the Congress Committee. This meeting to be held in Boston from Dec. 28 through Jan. 1, is the tenth annual congress of the Federation and will be attended by over three hundred delegates from member colleges. Speakers of national importance are being invited to lead discussion groups on problems concerning student youth.

INTER-CAMPUS CUTS

Haverford, Pa. (NSFA) - At Haverford College a century back "when a student obtains liberty to extend his walk beyond the prescribed limits, it is to be distinctly understood that he is not to enter or even go to any house whatever, unless he shall have obtained permission for that purpose."

Undergraduates were forbidden to enter the kitchen because of ice-box trouble experienced by the administration. They were also asked not to engage in "unnecessary conversation with each other." Smoking and chewing were definitely banned.

Some of the buildings which house the North American College (Rome, Italy) date back to 1604.

A school of social service designed primarily to train government relief workers was established at the University of Georgia (Athens) during the summer session.

A course in transportation being given for the first time this fall at Columbia University (New York City) deals with the physical and economic aspects of the port of New York.
