Trustee Returns From Recent United Nations Trip To South Vietnam

Miss Anne Lloyd Strauss, Connecticut College trustee and a member of the United States Delegation to the United Nations, recently returned from a week-long visit to South Vietnam made at the request of President Johnson.

Miss Strauss was accompanied by Mrs. Eugene M. Anderson, former ambassador to Norway and the United States representative on the United Nations Trusteeship Council, and Mrs. Norman Chandler, a Los Angeles Civic leader and an executive of the Los Angeles Times.

President Johnson asked the three women to visit Vietnam "to observe the situation, to learn from the Vietnamese point of view." They were selected because they were "well acquainted with the situation," she said.

Before the group left, Mrs. Anderson spoke for the women: "We're going to try to see as much as we can," she said. "There's no substitute for direct, first-hand experience and we believe that we should get out of our own little worlds." During the Christmas holiday, they will represent the U.S. during the choice session.

The series will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 7, in the Student Lounge in the Snack Shop. Students interested in either the Peace Corps or the Volunteer Youth Corps at 7:00 p.m. Thurs., Dec. 7, in the Student Lounge in Coxe.

Two Peace Corps representatives will speak on Dec. 7, and a Peace Corps film will be shown on Dec. 8. Peace Corps members interested in the Peace Corps will be present during the film, which will be shown on Dec. 9. Peace Corps members interested in the volunteer youth corps will be present at the film on Dec. 10.

Peace Corps Reps To Speak Dec. 7, 8

Petition Formulated Against C.I.A. Campus Recruitment

A recruiting agent will be on campus Tues., Dec. 12, from the Central Intelligence Agency to talk to seniors interested in jobs with the agency after graduation. The petition against recruitment by the CIA has been posted in the Career Counseling and Placement Office since Christmas.

Three women met in the Student Lounge to observe the situation, to learn from the Vietnamese point of view. They were selected because they were "well acquainted with the situation," she said.

Before the group left, Mrs. Anderson spoke for the women: "We're going to try to see as much as we can," she said. "There's no substitute for direct, first-hand experience and we believe that we should get out of our own little worlds." During the Christmas holiday, they will represent the U.S. during the choice session.

A series of lectures will be given on Dec. 7, and a Peace Corps film will be shown on Dec. 8. Peace Corps members interested in the Peace Corps will be present during the film, which will be shown on Dec. 9. Peace Corps members interested in the volunteer youth corps will be present at the film on Dec. 10.

The series will begin at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 7, in the Student Lounge in the Snack Shop. Students interested in either the Peace Corps or the Volunteer Youth Corps at 7:00 p.m. Thurs., Dec. 7, in the Student Lounge in Coxe.

Two Peace Corps representatives will speak on Dec. 7, and a Peace Corps film will be shown on Dec. 8. Peace Corps members interested in the Peace Corps will be present during the film, which will be shown on Dec. 9. Peace Corps members interested in the volunteer youth corps will be present at the film on Dec. 10.

The Connecticut College Art Series will present The Renaissance Quartet on Wed., Dec. 6, at 8:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium. The Renaissance Quartet, a chamber music quartet which specializes in the music of the Renaissance, consists of a lute, a viola da gamba, a tenor recorder, and a recorder. All four members of the quartet have been members of the now famous New York Pro Musica. The ensemble quality of the programs is brought about by integrating instrumental pieces with works for voice and instruments.

The program will include Music of Spain, Instrumental Dances, English Part Songs, Troubadour Songs of the 12 Century, German Part Music and Music of Shakespeare's England.

Campus Life Proposes Rathskeller And Beer

Plans are underway in the Campus Life Committee for the establishment of a rathskeller on campus.

The subcommittee appointed to research the matter is composed of Nancy Gilbert, president of the sophomore class, Amabel Morgan, chairman of the Career Guidance Office, Mrs. Sally Tripp, dean of Student Activities, and James Ackerman, assistant professor of religion.

Nancy said a "fact-finding" letter has been sent to C. H. Lyman, director of administrative services, Joseph McGuinness, director of the physical plant, and Miss Eleanor Voehrs, director of residence. They have been asked to supply information concerning construction, legal aspects and food necessities.

A detailed report which Nancy said, must be "as specific as possible," will be submitted to President Shain in the near future.

One of the main problems involves the question of whether or not beer may be served in the proposed rathskeller. Sale of beer would be limited to persons 21 or over, in compliance with state and federal laws. But as long as the age limit, it is believed that the rathskeller can be profitable and contribute to the life of the campus.

"Hopefully, it will make the campus attractive for dates and will keep more people here on campus," said Ackerman.

The committee hopes that the rathskeller, which is now be-abandoned power house behind the post office, will be the new site, at the South end of campus and the old site will be available in January.

However, Nancy explained, there are other requests for the use of the power house area, and "the rathskeller is not the only plan under consideration."

The Committee is also considering the possibility of setting up some kind of coffee shop, if the rathskeller-and-beer idea cannot be worked out. Nancy noted that the Committee thinks the possibility of the sort would be beneficial, whether or not beer can be served.

Nancy stressed all these plans are tentative, and all depend on approval of the initial proposal.

Profs Plot...

Barbara Keshen

Hurrah! At last our faculty spin has conflagrated information on the event that all Conn students have been eagerly anticipating. The event of the year! Nay, the event of our college quadrangle. Its the faculty show.

The show, which is tentatively scheduled for Feb. 9 and Feb. 10, promises to be the most lively, comic show ever produced on the Conn campus. With the possible exception of the annual Christmas card scramble by the Coast Guard Academy Chorus.

The show is in the hands of the Able and Experienced direction of Mr. Robert Hale (he directed the last faculty fiasco). Directing the show under the able and experienced direction of Mr. Robert Hale (he directed the last faculty fiasco). Directing the show for the first time is Mr. James (Oh, what Soull) Crozier-Williams.

A committee, working under the direction of Mrs Frances Brett, is writing an original script for the occasion.

Conn-Quest '88, entitled "America the Beautiful: The End of a Myth," will host the following speakers: Jonathan Kozol, author of "Death at an Early Age," Maurits Steen, chairman of the Sociology department at Brandeis University and Benjamin Richardson, a Chicago social worker. Dick Gregory will provide the entertainment.

Sunday afternoon entertainment for the Conn-Quest weekend Feb. 23-25.

RECOGNIZE THIS?

Almost everything in this picture of the Windthrop Renewal Area has been gone in three years. For the complete story about the New London of tomorrow, see pages 4 and 5.
Letters to the Editor

Chaplain Clarifies Position

To The Editor:

All I did was to try to avoid simply saying "naughty, naughty, don't touch!" Surely these warnings have been heard often enough already by every Conn student to have heard them. My aim was rather to prove the motivations behind the current popularity of drugs. I have mentioned some of this in a previous column, but unhappily other false implications also seem to have resulted.

No, I did not mean to say that there was no difference between taking LSD and taking three aspirins. All I meant to show was that there is a much more serious one in the first case, if it is, of the same order, and exists on the same plane as those mentioned above. It is, after all, (at least) an escape decision; the decision whether to exist in the world as it is or to attempt to change it by synthetic means. Obviously the drug effect produced by LSD is far more compelling than that brought about by aspirin, or at least by three aspirin.

Again, when I said that "from a medical standpoint, there seemed to be no immediate physical damage done to the user" and that "the main problem was that of the law," I was speaking not of LSD as you put it but of LSD and its effects on a student have to go to all that inconvenience and risk because she冒着的 possibility of leaving, would indicate, of the possibility it specifically professes to support two paragraphs above. The main purpose of a petition and producing "necessary evidence." The possibility for determining the validity of the reason for absence. Yet, if the Administration has done nothing because of its own sense that complaints were limited to private experience, then I would hereby like to submit a formal complaint, representing all the dissatisfied students and faculty towards Calendar Days in the hope that someone with authority will respond with action.

In addition to the undeniable general dislike of Calendar Days, there are several emotional reasons why this role should be abolished. The whole Calendar Day system is inconsistent with the College's policies. In the C-book under "Attendance at Classes" (p. 28) it is stated that "A student, not the instructor, must assume responsibility for determining the validity of the reason for absence." Yet two paragraphs later the rule states that "on two days preceding and the two days following any holiday or vacation," there shall be no absence "under the most exceptional circumstances." And if an absence should take a student much study, and responsibility it specifically professes to support two paragraphs above.

If you sincerely believe a Course Critique would be beneficial by providing a critical view of the Connecticut College curriculum, then please indicate your interest by returning the commitment questionnaire.

R.F.

At Your Doorstep

Connecticut College students often confess that all the advantages they miss by not being close to a big city—they say that the mainstream of American life is passing them by while they are stuck in "good old New London, Conn."

Furthermore, our relatively isolated campus makes us very interested in learning about the surrounding community if we so choose. An occasional visit to the train station is all that is absolutely necessary.

In an attempt to determine the demand for a course critique at Connecticut College, Professor Brooke Johnson Suiter, chairman of the critique committee, has circulated a questionnaire. On this questionnaire are the four questions which are to be asked to the Critique itself, plus an additional question: "Will you commit yourself to answer the following questions concerning the courses in which you are now enrolled?"

If Brooke receives a substantial positive response to this preliminary questionnaire, she will proceed with the critique project. The students need only deposit the circular in a box in the mission. It is also significant to Connecticut College that Miss Strauss is a member of the Board of Trustees.

Response to the recent Vietnam Referendum survey conducted by ConnCensus, proves that members of the College are interested in what is happening in Vietnam and what is happening in Vietnam. We therefore hope that Miss Strauss will speak to the College Community about her experiences in South Vietnam in the near future.

B.A.B.

Do Not Reply

Post Office. When you receive this question, do not return it!

We urge you not to indicate interest in a course Critique—unless you believe not only in the idea of the critique but also in the specific type of information to be gained from these questions; unless you think this information can be more valuable than, for instance, statistical data.

But if you sincerely believe a Course Critique would be beneficial by providing a critical view of the Connecticut College curriculum, then please indicate your interest by returning the commitment questionnaire.

R.F.

Topic of Candor

by Nora Laffey

The CIA will recruit on cam- pus on December 10. A group of concerned faculty and students is circulating a letter to President Shin which questions the deci- sion allowing the CIA to recruit.

The CIA has made a practice of exploiting the academic community in order to aid in its program of intervention and oppres- sion in underdeveloped coun- tries. The CIA has subsidized university publications, and institutions of foreign studies. It trained the terroristic tribe on the Michigan State campus. And it has infiltrated the National Student Association. The Connecticut College students should not allow the C.I.A. to recruit in this way by any agency.

The college, as a private in- stitution, is not obliged to open its doors to everyone. This is not a question of free speech. The C.I.A. is not coming here to discuss or debate; they are holding private conferences for the purpose of recruiting. By al- lowing them to use college facilities and personnel, we are brisk and coddling and collabor- ating with their activities. The activities of the C.I.A. are a contradiction to the ideals of our tradition of liberal education. The C.I.A. uses the in- dividual as a means to its own ends. Connecticut College be- lieves that the individual is an end in himself.

NEWS NOTES

Wendy Warner ’60 will discus- s career opportunities in ad- vertising and communications in Hamilton living room, Wed., Dec. 6, at 4:30 p.m.

Rev. Edward M. Kennedy will speak to the College Community about his experiences in South Vietnam in the Dec. 8, The Feast of the Immaculate Conception, 4:30 p.m. Fr. Kennedy will hear confessions in the Chapel Meditation room Thurs., Dec. 7, from 4 to 5 p.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 2, theatre will present "The Tempest," by William Shakespeare, Dec. 7, 8, 9. Tickets are $1.00, students.

Selected oils and water colors from the private collection of Roderic H. D. Henderson will be on exhibit at the Lyman Allyn Museum through Dec. 30.

Byron Mawr College will conduct two programs of study abroad, one in Spain and the other in southern France, in the summer of 1969.

For catalogues and applications admission forms, write to the Depart- ment of French or Spanish, Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pen- sylvania, 19010. Applications for admission to the Institute and the Centre must be received before March 1, 1968.
Morrison Internship Applications Available

Applications for the Mary Faillale Morrison Internship can now be obtained from chairman of each academic department in the college.

Sponsored by the Connecticut League of Women Voters, the Internship is granted annually to a junior in good standing, and extends over a period of approximately eight weeks during the summer.

Applicants will be interviewed on January 10, 1968, at the College and told whether they will be accepted. Those chosen for the summer will work without pay, and expenses will be provided. Training and other benefits both from the fresh approach to student life and from the experience of working as a member of a very large organization.

According to the League of Women Voters, the organization benefits from the fresh approach a student can offer, and from the help given to a project. Similarly, the Intern derives a wide range of firsthand experience with the purposes and workings of a member-oriented, member-directed organization.

Applications should be submitted to the College prior to February 1.

The Intern will be responsible for attending League meetings and for preparing informational materials for state and local branches.

Prof. Unbegaun To Give Russian Semantics Lecture

Professor Boris O. Unbegaun will lecture on "Russian Semantics In European Context" on Wed., Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge of Crosier-Williams.

Professor Unbegaun has taught Slavic philology at the Université Libre de Bruxelles, the University of Strasbourg, and Oxford. He has also served as a visiting professor in this country at Yale, Columbia, and N.Y.U., where he is presently teaching. He has guest lectured at colleges and universities in the U.S., Canada, Europe, and Asia.

Professor Unbegaun has received various prizes and decorations as the Prix Volny of the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres, Paris, and the Chevalier de la Legion d’Honneur (France) and has published widely.

The Modern Dance group will give an informal demonstration of works ranging from finished routines to those still in the process of being created Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Dance Studio.

Prof. Unbegaun has taught Slavic philology at the Université Libre de Bruxelles, the University of Strasbourg and Oxford. He has also served as a visiting professor in this country at Yale, Columbia and N.Y.U., where he is presently teaching. He has guest lectured at colleges and universities in the U.S., Canada, Europe and Asia.

Professor Unbegaun has received various prizes and decorations as the Prix Volny of the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres, Paris, and the Chevalier de la Legion d’Honneur (France) and has published widely.

Mr. Martha Myers, adviser to the dance group, will explain the various aspects of the dance to provide a background for those people not familiar with dance concepts. During their demonstration the group will show many new improvisations of movements they have been working on, dancing in many different forms from jazz to ballet.

Eight students from Wesleyan who have been working with the group will all dance with them.

The evening will offer a chance to not only enjoy the dancing but also to learn from it.

Chaplain Announces Peace Meditations

The initiation of a mid-week "prayer for peace" service was announced last week by J. Bruce Shepherd, chaplain of the College.

The 15-minute service, to be held at 12:30 p.m. each Thursday, will include music, prayer and meditation.

Mr. Shepherd explained that the service is not to be considered a demonstration, but it is an active faith in which all who are concerned for peace can join.

Chaplain Shepherd emphasized that the service is non-sectarian. "We are not trying to turn anyone," he said.

On the same day, a pamphlet describing the CIA and its workings will be distributed by the group before the recital.

The format of the Internship involves three stages, the first two of which are preparation for the third. In the months before her arrival in Washington, the Intern will become acquainted with local League activities through attendance at League meetings and informal meetings with League staff and local branches.

Secondly, she will receive materials from the national office to acquaint her with the national League and the nature of League work in Women's Service and in organizational procedures.

Finally, the Intern will work in the Washington office, attending hearings before congressional committees in relation to her assignment. She will also work with the Overseas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters Education Fund, which is concerned with voter education projects in various areas such as water conservation and governmental studies.

Adrienne Bergman '68 of the League Intern from last summer, after one month doing the research and preliminary draft for a four-page publication about the problems of intersex workers. This project provided training in research, and the opportunity to attend hearings, analyze legislation and study relevant publications.

According to the League of Women Voters, the organization benefits both from the fresh approach a student can offer, and from the help given to a project. Similarly, the Intern derives a wide range of firsthand experience with the purposes and workings of a member-oriented, member-directed organization.

Modern Dancers To Give Program

The format of the Internship involves three stages, the first two of which are preparation for the third. In the months before her arrival in Washington, the Intern will become acquainted with local League activities through attendance at League meetings and informal meetings with League staff and local branches.

Secondly, she will receive materials from the national office to acquaint her with the national League and the nature of League work in Women's Service and in organizational procedures.

Finally, the Intern will work in the Washington office, attending hearings before congressional committees in relation to her assignment. She will also work with the Overseas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters Education Fund, which is concerned with voter education projects in various areas such as water conservation and governmental studies.

Adrienne Bergman '68 of the League Intern from last summer, after one month doing the research and preliminary draft for a four-page publication about the problems of intersex workers. This project provided training in research, and the opportunity to attend hearings, analyze legislation and study relevant publications.

According to the League of Women Voters, the organization benefits both from the fresh approach a student can offer, and from the help given to a project. Similarly, the Intern derives a wide range of firsthand experience with the purposes and workings of a member-oriented, member-directed organization.

The initiation of a mid-week "prayer for peace" service was announced last week by J. Bruce Shepherd, chaplain of the College.

The 15-minute service, to be held at 12:30 p.m. each Thursday, will include music, prayer and meditation.

Mr. Shepherd explained that the service is not to be considered a demonstration, but it is an active faith in which all who are concerned for peace can join.

Chaplain Shepherd emphasized that the service is non-sectarian. "We are not trying to turn anyone," he said.

On the same day, a pamphlet describing the CIA and its workings will be distributed by the group before the recital.

The format of the Internship involves three stages, the first two of which are preparation for the third. In the months before her arrival in Washington, the Intern will become acquainted with local League activities through attendance at League meetings and informal meetings with League staff and local branches.

Secondly, she will receive materials from the national office to acquaint her with the national League and the nature of League work in Women's Service and in organizational procedures.

Finally, the Intern will work in the Washington office, attending hearings before congressional committees in relation to her assignment. She will also work with the Overseas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters Education Fund, which is concerned with voter education projects in various areas such as water conservation and governmental studies.

Adrienne Bergman '68 of the League Intern from last summer, after one month doing the research and preliminary draft for a four-page publication about the problems of intersex workers. This project provided training in research, and the opportunity to attend hearings, analyze legislation and study relevant publications.

According to the League of Women Voters, the organization benefits both from the fresh approach a student can offer, and from the help given to a project. Similarly, the Intern derives a wide range of firsthand experience with the purposes and workings of a member-oriented, member-directed organization.

The initiation of a mid-week "prayer for peace" service was announced last week by J. Bruce Shepherd, chaplain of the College.

The 15-minute service, to be held at 12:30 p.m. each Thursday, will include music, prayer and meditation.

Mr. Shepherd explained that the service is not to be considered a demonstration, but it is an active faith in which all who are concerned for peace can join.

Chaplain Shepherd emphasized that the service is non-sectarian. "We are not trying to turn anyone," he said.

On the same day, a pamphlet describing the CIA and its workings will be distributed by the group before the recital.

The format of the Internship involves three stages, the first two of which are preparation for the third. In the months before her arrival in Washington, the Intern will become acquainted with local League activities through attendance at League meetings and informal meetings with League staff and local branches.

Secondly, she will receive materials from the national office to acquaint her with the national League and the nature of League work in Women's Service and in organizational procedures.

Finally, the Intern will work in the Washington office, attending hearings before congressional committees in relation to her assignment. She will also work with the Overseas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters Education Fund, which is concerned with voter education projects in various areas such as water conservation and governmental studies.

Adrienne Bergman '68 of the League Intern from last summer, after one month doing the research and preliminary draft for a four-page publication about the problems of intersex workers. This project provided training in research, and the opportunity to attend hearings, analyze legislation and study relevant publications.

According to the League of Women Voters, the organization benefits both from the fresh approach a student can offer, and from the help given to a project. Similarly, the Intern derives a wide range of firsthand experience with the purposes and workings of a member-oriented, member-directed organization.
Proposed Urban Renewal To Revitalize New London

Swapping Changes More Than Physical

"Urban renewal" is fast becoming everyday, household word. Yet this distinctly American phenomenon should not be taken for granted. The decision of an urban community to transform itself, to radically change patterns of life which have existed for decades, is not a trifling one. Such a decision denotes community recognition of the fact that something is drastically wrong with its city. It also denotes community determination to meet the challenge of necessary, sweeping changes.

The citizens of New London made the decision to change the face and the atmosphere of their city. Fifteen years from now a returning Conn student will not recognize New London. Where project renewal is being completed New London will be transformed into a vital, modern, urban area.
Community Organizes To Discuss Human Elements

Shaw Cove Neighborhood Meets To Discuss Problems of Renewal

Suppose you read in the newspaper that the area you live in, perhaps that you’ve lived in all your life, is scheduled for redevelopment. You know that this means the demolition of a great deal of your neighborhood, probably your own dwelling.

On Thursday, November 16, an open meeting was held for the residents of the Shaw Cove area to give them an opportunity for their first direct confrontations with Mr. William Klatsky, director of the Redevelopment Agency. These people had read that the Shaw Cove area had been designated as the next to undergo renewal, that plans were being made for changes in their physical environment.

In a short preliminary speech, Mr. Klatsky explained that the Agency is presently preparing a federal grant which will provide for a two-year study of the area. After this study definite plans will be made for the redevelopment of the Shaw Cove area, with these plans going into execution about three years from now.

To the residents of the Shaw Cove area present, three years does not seem like a very long time. The first question was direct and of obvious importance to the audience: “Are the residents of the Shaw area going to have anything to say about redevelopment plans?”

Mr. Klatsky replied: “It is an undertaking as large as redevelopment, often the specialists in charge proceed with the plan without consulting the people who will be most affected by the proposed changes. The residents of this area will elect three delegates to the newly-formed New London Resources Commission, a group of citizens who will deal with the human elements of redevelopment. This committee will function as a contact between people themselves and redevelopment officials; it will be an outlet through which the individual citizen can communicate his ideas, feelings and “gripes” about redevelopment. It will also handle the allocation of federal poverty funds.

A mother of eleven asked the next question: “What kind of housing accommodations will be available for a family like mine? Will I be able to own a single family dwelling as I do now?” Mr. Klatsky replied: “Tentative plans for the Shaw Cove area include the development of a pack and other recreational facilities and a compact commercial area. This of course will leave less space for housing. Plans include two and three story apartment dwellings, but no single family, privately-owned homes.

The audience was obviously not pleased with the answer. Another man raised his hand and asked, “Since it is obvious that my home will be demolished, how will I be relocated?”

Mr. Klatsky explained that relocation will be accomplished by a phasing process, that is, housing units will be built, one location presently commercial or vacant; residents of an area of housing will be moved in, and then their old housing will be demolished.

There were just a few of the questions, and the answers did not satisfy everybody. But the residents were no longer just reading about plans in the newspaper—they were finally confronting redevelopment themselves.
Two Services Scheduled For Christmas Vespers

Conn Orchestra To Play At Yule

The Connecticut College Orchestra for the first time will take over the afternoon Christmas Vespers, Dec. 10, at 4:00 p.m. in the Chapel.

Under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Wiles, the orchestra will perform "Allegro from Symphony No. 12, "Christmas Cantatas" by Beuck will be performed by Karen Nielsen '70 and Eileen Karlson '70.

Accompaniment will be provided by violist virtuosi Maria Lewis '69 and Kristina Nilsson '71, cellist Barbara Boyd '70, and organist Chandler Gregg, Mrs. Adelle F. Breslin, instructor in music, will direct this work.

Violin soloist Kristina Nilsson will perform "Romance in F Major" by Beethoven. Accompanying her will be the college organist Chandler Gregg.

The entire orchestra will play the Christmas Prelude, "Silent Night" by Beethoven. Accompanying her will be the college organist Chandler Gregg.

The Christmas Concerto, "Laud to the Lord" will be performed by violin virtuosi Maria Lewis '69 and Kristina Nilsson '71, violist soloist Patricia Camp '69 and violinist E.O'Kane 71, and Stevenbold will sing "The Lord is My Shepherd" by Brahms.

Miss Ramona Pugliese, secretary to the President, and Barbara Boyd '69 on the harp will play "Ent'acte" by Béchet and "Fantasia on Greensleeves" by Vaughan Williams and a Prelude and Fugue by J. S. Bach will be performed by the college's organist, will perform Christmas organ music.

The prelude for the service will be Handel's "Prelude and Fugue" which will be played by the Connecticut College Orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Wiles.

Chamber Chorus To Sing Carols

The Connecticut College Chamber Chorus will make its first appearance at the traditional evening Christmas Vespers to be conducted by the Reverend J. Bartle Pollock. The service will be held Dec. 19, at 7 p.m. in the Chapel.

The Chamber Chorus, a newly formed organization with 45 members chosen from the Conn College Chorus, will concentrate primarily on contemporary choral music, according to Mr. James Armstrong, conductor.

For the service the Chamber Chorus will sing a set of four Old English Carols which are 15th Century English poems which were set to music by STRAUSS (Continued from Page 1, Col. 1). The capital.

The three women received the usual treatment accorded most high-ranking visiting-briefings by military commanders, a visit to a hospital and a series of lunches. They spent the night aboard an aircraft carrier, visited a training center for pacification workers and toured a refugee camp.

Gustav Holst in the 20th Century. Soloists will be Diette Bailey '71, Gal Shawian '69, Karen Nielsen '70, and Eileen Karlson '70.

The Chorus along with the congregation will sing familiar carols Then Chandler Gregg, the college's organist, will perform Christmas organ music.

The prelude for the service will be Handel's "Prelude and Fugue" which will be played by the Connecticut College Orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Wiles.

SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE
FOREIGN STUDIES

SUMMER SCHOOLS IN:

PARIS
Six weeks June 14 to July 25 at the Netherlands Pavilion, Cité Universitaire, the College's own residence hall, provides full board, tuition, and living facilities. A new course, "History and Politics of Western Europe," is offered in English. OPEN TO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS. $7000
FLORENCE Six weeks June 14 to July 22 at the Torre de Bellosguardo, 15th-Century Italian villa, will be offered for second year's work in Italian literature, science. Florence Free Daily in the Modern Humanities and Foreign Languages, an $1800 course, is bilingual, English. OPEN TO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS. $7000
LONDON Six weeks August 12 to Sept. 20, Royal Institute of British Architects, 15th Century English Mansion, and halls of residence, college will be conducted in English. OPEN TO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS. $7000

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, Jan. 17 to Feb. 15, 1970, Christ Church Hall, will provide full living at University of Canterbury. OPEN TO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS. $7000

OSTEND: Belgium, Jan. 17 to Feb. 15, 1970, College's lease, halls and two semesters

BOLGILLO, University of Chile, will present six weeks, Spanish language and culture, January 15 to Feb. 22, 1970. OPEN TO UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS. $7000

Foreign studies office
Sarah Lawrence College
Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania

For information and applications write:
FOREIGN STUDIES OFFICE
Sarah Lawrence College
Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania

MATHEMATICIANS: What Do You Know About nsa?

The National Security Agency is a scientific and technical community unique in the United States, perhaps in the world. It is the NSA Agency for responsible for developing "secure" communications systems and EDP systems to transmit and receive critical information.

YOU AND NSA

As a mathematician at NSA, you will define, formulate and solve communications-related problems, many of major national significance. Statistical mathematicians, algebraicists, number theorists, probabilists, combinatorialists, computer scientists, cryptographers, are but a few of the tools applied by Agency mathematicians. They enjoy the full support of NSA's completely equipped computer laboratory whatever of them become involved in both the hardware and software advanced computing systems. The mathematical problems you will concern you are of utmost concern at NSA, owing to the fact that the security of the nation rests in certain fields of mathematics is not sufficiently advanced to satisfy NSA requirements.

IMAGINATION... A REAL REQUIREMENT

Mathematical problems at NSA will sel-dom be formulated and handed to you, the mathematician, for solution. Instead, you will help define the problem by observing its origin and characteristics and the trends of data associated with it. You will then determine whether the problem and data are susceptible to mathematical treatment and, if so, how.

As you grow in your appreciation of this approach to mathematics you will realize the relationship of your discipline to non-mathematical subject matter, both your personal satisfaction and your contribution to NSA will increase, as will your responsibility.

CONTINUING YOUR EDUCATION

NSA's graduate study program may per-mit you to pursue two semesters of full- time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA without the necessity of Civil Service certification. Additional benefits are available to those who complete their education in the United States.

Another benefit is the NSA location, between Washington and Baltimore, which permits your choice of city, suburban or rural. Your choice is your own, for the NSA provides full living, full pay, and a complete package of fringe benefits. The NSA pays for your full-time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA. The NSA pays for your full-time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA. The NSA pays for your full-time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA. The NSA pays for your full-time graduate study at full salary. Nearly all academic costs are borne by NSA.

CAMPUS INTERVIEW DATES

Check with the Placement Office now to arrange an interview with NSA representatives on campus. The Placement Office also has further information about NSA, or you may write: Chief, Office of Placement, National Security Agency, Ft. George G. Meade, Md. 20752.

An equal opportunity employer, M/F.
French Professor To Give Lecture

Professor Daniel Poirion, visiting professor at Yale University, will speak on "The Sense of Existence in the Works of Charles d'Orleans and Villon," Thursday, Dec. 7, at 4:30 p.m., in the main lounge of Cracroft.

Professor Poirion served as Assistant de Littérature Française in a Sorbonne from 1953 to 1957. Presently Professor of French Literature of the Middle Ages at the University of Grenoble, France, Mr. Poirion has, in addition, published several works on Charles d'Orleans.

Pianist, Violinist To Present Recital

Ann Byland, violinist, and Barbara Suroff, pianist, both from Yale University, will present a Sonata Recital Thursday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Hobbs Hall.

Both performers are married to musicians. Ann Byland is the wife of Allen Borstein, Professor of Music at Yale. Barbara Suroff is the wife of Suroff, the composer.

The program will consist of four selections: sonatas by Jana-cek, the second "Sonata" by Charles Ives, "Sonata in D" by Beethoven and "Sonata in A" by Brahms.

FOUR SPEAKERS DISCUSS ASPECTS OF HALLUCINOGENS AND NARCOTICS

by Nora Lally

"Hallucinogenation," a symposium sponsored by the Sociology and Psychology club Nov.
29 presented opinions on the use of drugs including the points of view of a psychologist, lawyer and sociologist.

Speakers included Dr. Malcolm Bower, assistant professor of psychology at Yale; Richard Kossou, lawyer and director of Liberal Religious Youth in Boston; Dr.
Duane Denfield, professor of sociology at the University of Connecticut; and Bruce Elwell.

Dr. Bower discussed the medical aspects of drugs, particularly the hallucogens LSD and marijana. According to him, marijana can produce disruption in reasoning and feeling similar to LSD. With LSD, these sensations are intensified, and the "trip" is a more dangerous experience.

Dr. Bower outlined some of the possible casualties of taking acid. The "acute reaction difficulty" causes anxiety and acute disruption during the trip, and occurrences of these effects later.

He stated that other delayed resets of the hallucinogen psychological episodes and/or sociops-ychological withdrawals.

However, Dr. Bower emphasized that most LSD users do not expericence such psychological casualties, and that they rarely result from marijuana smoking.

Referring to possible chronic use hallucinogens as a result of LSD usage, Dr. Bower explained that there was no conclusive evidence supporting this view. "It is still an open question," he concluded.

Legal Aspects

Discussing the legal aspects of drugs, Mr. Kossou emphasized the severe penalties on the books for narcotic possession and selling. Included in the list of narcotics are opium, heroin, amphet-amines, cocaine, and marijuana.

Sentences for possession of narcotics can be as high as 20 years, and if LSD, however, is not under the narcotics law, possession of LSD is a misdemeanor, punishable by up to a year in jail.

Mr. Kossou added that, in practice, persons arrested for drug possession are usually not prosecuted, especially in the case of minor.

In conclusion, Mr. Kossou stated, "The use of marijuana is the increase among young people, especially high school students." He suggested that, since marijuana is different in drug from other narcotics, it should be treated separately by the law.

Dr. Denfield divided the "opportunities" into two camps:
middle-class adults and hippies.
The middle class uses sleeping pills, relaxants, alcohol, the hip-pies use hallucinogens. In both cases, drugs are a means of esc-cape, according to Dr. Denfield.

He pointed out the different problem of drug use by delinquent gangs. For these groups, he pointed out the use of drugs is not a challenge to but a means of achieving status and power within.

Drugs in the Guilt

Dr. Denfield noted that where gangs have been suppressed, as in Hollis, drugs become more prevalent. He accounts for this pheomenon by equating the function of drugs to the function of gangs in the ghetto.

"Gangs serve the same purpose as delinquent gangs," he explained. "They provide a means of identity, status, and power."

Discussing the role of organized crime in drug traffic, Den-field stated that the New York police control most of the drug trade through the ma-

The final speaker was Bruce Elwell, who appeared to be the proud member of the panel.

However, the audience seemed surprised to hear his firm condemnation of the use of amphet-amines. He described amphetamines as a "middle-class high," which ten to generate and produce the illusion of inebriation. Many of the younger hippies become "speed freaks" because amphet-amines are easily accessible and give a quick high. Elwell emphasized the danger in this situation.

He stated that amphetamines are high addictive and cause progressive brain deterioration.

He observed that while most drugs are "safety-valves" in society, amphetamines provide nothing but problems. According to Elwell, most drugs have a neutral effect. In contrast, he suggested that amphet-amines are the probable cause of most non-narcotic drug

In conclusion, Elwell apologi-ged for failing to play the role that his long hair and beard demended.
To The Editor:

The C.I.A. is coming to campus to recruit young women to work for its vast organization. Good jobs are available. Why should anyone care?

Two years ago the C.I.A. infiltrated the National Student Organization and created a situation where only those students screened and funded by the C.I.A. could represent student opinion at home and abroad. Many of the students so chosen and supported didn't even know they had been used in this manner.

Four years ago the C.I.A. infiltrated a project run by American anthropologists in Latin America, called Project Camelot. The anthropologists—without knowing it—acted as spies, being utilized to gather data on radical movements in Latin America.

And, last year, the C.I.A. used an entire staff of Social Science professors from Michigan State University as propagandists and organizationists for American activities in Vietnam. The professors did not know they were being funded, utilized, and observed by the C.I.A.

I, myself, was on a project whose funds were mysteriously cut and whose results were published. Two months later, one of the informants on the project—a Latin American Priest—was murdered—shot down in the streets—for alleged left-wing activities.

The C.I.A. has grown too powerful. It is not merely an external espionage agency. It is controlling and diverting professors and students. Thwarting academic freedom. Making "freaks" out of universities.

Surely we should not invite them to college saying, "Take our young women, they are good workers."

R. Glassman
Asst. Professor of Sociology

 Tradition of the Goat

To The Editor:

Yes, I will have to admit that on Senior Day several members of the Class of 1969 succeeded in getting my goat.

I am glad to hear that ConnCensus got the exclusive story on the tradition of the goat, because I did not—until the whole business was over—first hear about the goat when a senior who had seen it in Blackstone called it to my attention, and, thinking it would add luster to the show, I had it written into the plot.

If someone had let us in on this past tradition, we might have known to expect it to be gone—or even to hide it. However, we were caught unawares. The plot should have been rehearsed for the spring.

The band of conspirators obviously knows little about putting on a show or pulling off a practical joke. To be back the goat ten minutes after the performance had begun shows their lack of information in these two fields. It was rude, disruptive and unduly trying on the performers, who had enough trouble just dodging rice and popcorn.

Also, as far as jokes go, these kids were real puns. With a stunt of this magnitude and wide campus coverage, the plot should have been taken on by the whole junior class, the tradition revealed, rumors noted said, and a grand entrance down the center aisle of Palmer at 7:55 with a large parade of juniors.

As it was, for a handful to run in with one sign and run out again was very small time.

Next time you want to play games class to class, think big. Get everybody in on it and play it up. Small times manage to focus moodiness into being a big plank in the goat.

Helen Reynolds '66

---

LETTERS (Continued from Page 2, Col. 2)

or is this a rule that no one agrees with but everyone submits to? I, for one, strongly protest against Calendary Days, and urge the rest of the student body and faculty to do likewise.

Laura Nash '70

---

PIÑA'S

freak from Italy

A young stylist specializing in:
- Dressmaking
- Alterations
- of all types
- Remodeling
- Wedding Gowns
- Coats
- Suits
- Suits

84 STATE ST., NEW LONDON
Phone: 442-6543

Open Tues., Wed., Thurs., Fri. and Sat.
Closed Mondays

HOURS: 8:30 A.M. TO 5:30 P.M.

Tuesday, December 5, 1967

CONCENSUS

CRITIQUE COMMITTEE SEEKS RESPONSE

According to Brooks Johnson Solter, chairman of the Course Critique Committee, preliminary questionnaires were distributed Monday through campus mail. Brooke asked the questionnaire to find out if students are willing to commit themselves to answering her 4-part questionnaire concerning courses offered first semester. This questionnaire comprises the same questions that were asked for last Spring's Critique—a project which was suspended because of poor response.

Nevertheless, Brooks said that he believes these questions will provide the best critique of courses.

"If people want to know whether a course is hard or easy, how many papers there are, and how much Reserve Room reading is required, ... then they should plan questions directed toward that type of information," he said.

This week's preliminary questionnaire also asked for volunteers to help in the compilation of results. She hopes to find 25 to 30 girls who will be willing to put in "several hours of work for several weeks," in March.

Brooks pointed out that the editing of the Critique will involve some concentrated work. She added that there is no point in pursuing the project if there is little enthusiasm either for answering the questions or for preparing the final critique.

In order to go ahead with the project, Brooks said she would need a positive response from 800 to 1000 students, because she expects many more to reply to the preliminary questionnaire than to the final critique questionnaire.

If the response is adequate, then, the Critique questionnaire will be distributed during Reading Week. Results will be compiled and edited and released early in second semester.

The Crafts Fair scheduled for Dec. 6 and 7 has been cancelled. Cancellation was due to the fact that during the Christmas season many area craftsmen are committed to other annual fairs, and would not be free to attend ConnCensus. The Junior Class sponsored fair has tentatively been rescheduled for the spring.

---

ON CAMPUS EVERY TUESDAY AND FRIDAY

ROY

LAUNDRY - DRY CLEANING - COLD FUR STORAGE

HARRY'S MUSIC STORE
17 Bank Street 442-4815
RECORDS- PHONOS (Phonos Repaired)
GUITARS — MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS
"Everything in Music"

24 HOUR SERVICE (on request) BY

GRIMES CLEANERS
54-58 Ocean Ave.
443-4421

on campus daily

---

The hand of conspirators obviously knows little about putting on a show or pulling off a practical joke. To be back the goat ten minutes after the performance had begun shows their lack of information in these two fields. It was rude, disruptive and unduly trying on the performers, who had enough trouble just dodging rice and popcorn.

Also, as far as jokes go, these kids were real puns. With a stunt of this magnitude and wide campus coverage, the plot should have been taken on by the whole junior class, the tradition revealed, rumors noted said, and a grand entrance down the center aisle of Palmer at 7:55 with a large parade of juniors.

As it was, for a handful to run in with one sign and run out again was very small time.

Next time you want to play games class to class, think big. Get everybody in on it and play it up. Small times manage to focus moodiness into being a big plank in the goat.

Helen Reynolds '66