Excessive Cutting

Discussed by Dean Park and Faculty

"Students should realize that excessive cutting is as much their problem as it is ours," said Rosemary Park, academic dean, after a meeting of the faculty held on Tuesday afternoon.

In announcing that the faculty had been presented with the survey, and had agreed to continue its study, the president of the college, Miss Park stated that the faculty is merely assembling material on the subject at this point. They have no definite plan in mind as yet, but are merely assembling material in order to determine what action, if any, is necessary.

Cutting is still both a student and faculty problem, but Miss Park stated that in fact the situation gets worse it will have to be handled by the faculty alone, and that it is an opportunity to prove to them that it need not rely on "sick jokes," Miss Park emphasized. They should study the matter carefully and maturely, and try to find a solution to the problem that will work as a group, Miss Park concluded.

Talented Miss Jacynowics is Product of Musical Heritage

by Helen Cruinice

September 14, 1949, brought a new freshman class to CC as usual, but it also brought a new comer to the music department, Miss Zo-

Mary Jacynowics. A quiet, charming woman, as well as an accomplished pianist, Miss Jacynowics is a great addition to the Holmes hall.

New England born and bred, Miss Jacynowics has always been interested in music. "I learned to walk in music," she said, and the truth of this statement is obvious when we see her face by ear at the age of two or three, and gave birth to her first child when she was five. Most of her relatives are musical, so it was inevitable that she would be a pianist. He was her first teacher, and he later worked with Wglawski and Goldovsky in New York and with Berlin, in London. He has also studied with the Leipsic School, and with the Central College at Chicago.

With this background, it is no wonder that Miss Jacynowics has such ability and interest in music. Many kinds of music have occupied Miss Jacynowics, but Chamber music is her favorite. She has gained excellent experience in this field by playing with various Boston Symphony men in Boston and at Tanglewood last summer. Incidentally, she studied conducting at Tanglewood, too, under both Korngold and Barbirolli. She liked it very much, but she says, "I wouldn't have become a pianist if I hadn't received the opportunity."

It is too difficult a job for a woman."

The group is comprised of students and faculty from all of the college community.

It was thought advisable, because of the proposal of the packing of the information booth, and walked through New York slush.

The Responsibility of the College Newspaper

An Editorial

The responsibility of the college newspaper was perhaps first enunciated by the glorious planks of the Northeastern Intercollegiate Press conference of 1907, in the theme of the entire conference. The delegates realized that they have a responsibility beyond that of recording faithfully and accurately the events on their various campuses, for college newspapers are, in fact, the only means of communication between the college community and the world outside. They serve also as reflectors of college attitude and as a general policy of expressing the most important aspects of college life, of reflecting the best of campus opinion, and of presenting those opinions of our own which we feel will be of genuine interest and value to a majority of the college community. We realize, of course, that our judgment of what is right or wrong on any issue, that is to say, whether or not we support any political group, may be wrong or right and that inevitably our judgments will reflect our personal classes but we are confident that it is in this that most truly reflecting the attitude of the college community.

Free Speech

Dear Editor,

Why aren’t there any bells in the library? As a freshman, I have to go over to the music building and stop without some reminder. When I am in the library, I can’t understand how so many students are so ignorant of the library regulations. I would like to remind you of my next class. A watch is not very helpful as it continually interrupts my train of thought. I think that a hourly bell would save a lot of valuable time and confusion in the library.

Sincerely yours,

The faculty is not out to catch us, and we sympathize with their feeling of futility in teaching in an empty class on Saturday and even during the week. Since we do not have the facilities for a five day schedule as many seminars, we should make it a habit to attend as many classes as possible.

Since the faculty is keeping count of how many classes are being cut, we should be intelligent enough to give our opinions on this subject to the President’s office.

The need for a renewed effort to raise funds for our new infirmary has been forcibly brought to our attention. Recently, several students have suddenly been taken ill and the infirmary was not able to meet this emergency. Although the infirmary assurance that they were not being overcentralized, they were not able to meet crises and were forced to turn away students in medical assistance. This inadequacy can only be remedied by a new infirmary financed by the student and their families’ contributions.

Sincerely yours,

Clear Policy of ADA Offers Organization New Strength

John Cooper

There are now two recently formed liberal movements in the nation: the PCA (Progressive Citizens of America), a merger of the members of the American Political Science Association, and the ADA (Americans for Democratic Action), both members of the five-year-old Union for Democratic Action. These two groups share similar domestic platforms and stand for a foreign policy that is approximately the same, with the exception of the atomic bomb issue and the issue of Communism. The PCA favors an immediate and atomic bomb production, whereas the ADA supports the Baruch plan for atomic control.

However, the former created by the right-wingers is really involved with the matter of Communism. The PCA, while expressing concern for the maintenance of integrity and rights and the maintenance of general social, political, and economic order to permit the new organizations to prosper, it is not necessarily an economic monopoly on publicity. Mrs. Barbara S. Williams, member of the department of music, will present the Musical Society of America's concert.

It is clear to us that the ADA is not only carefully analyzing the issues of the new organization, but in doing so, the ADA is becoming more than a simple political group. It is a group that is striving to meet the needs of the college community and to present a strong and coherent opinion on the issues of today, as well as to represent the interests of the college community.

The conversations of the delegates most often revolves around this latter point—to just what extent will the ADA urge steps toward a goal and mold campus opinion, they asked. Some felt that the ADA is right or wrong on any issue, because the papers are for all students and therefore should take no part of their careers. Others felt that it was not in the interests of the students to ally themselves with any political group, and that since it is the students who must ultimately carry on the work, there would be no need to alienate any particular group.

The majority seemed to believe, however, that it is neither practical nor normal for a college newspaper to have such a one-sided attitude. It is important to realize that it makes for a very dull paper; and it isn’t moral because a newspaper should strive to reflect the voice of the community. For the presentation of carefully worked out opinions to its readers in order to help them reach conclusions about important topics.

The editors of the College News believe that in order to present the best of campus opinion, it is necessary to present all points of view. It is important to have diverse opinions represented, and that the college community be given the opportunity to hear all sides of an issue.

The article also makes a point about the need for the students to be aware of the ADA and its goals, and to understand the importance of having a strong political voice on campus. The ADA is not only a political group, but it is also a group that is striving to represent the interests of the college community. It is important for the students to be aware of the ADA and its goals, and to understand the importance of having a strong political voice on campus.

Early海湾 upload system: a 20th-century system designed to improve the efficiency of large-scale data processing systems. This system was used to store and retrieve data in a distributed manner, allowing for faster processing times and better scalability. It was developed by IBM in the 1950s and was widely used in the 1960s and 1970s. The system was based on the idea of dividing data into separate segments, each of which was stored in a different location. This allowed for parallel processing, which could significantly speed up data retrieval times. The system was also designed to be fault-tolerant, allowing it to continue to operate even if some of its components failed. It was a precursor to modern distributed computing systems and was used in a variety of industries, including finance, telecommunications, and government.

DEAN PARK ADVISES ON EVALUATION OF EDUCATIONAL GOAL

A consideration of the objective for which college education was urged by Rosamund Park, academic dean, in her charge talk on January 14. The approach to the objective, she stated, should be viewed as a beneficent opportunity to pause and inspect oneself. To what extent is this objective met, rather than as a burden to be endured?

The head of the orchestra is Janine Biddle '50, second violinist, which is the last Almalgamation meeting. Miss Park pointed out, It is a personal matter whether she is keeping fair pace, and as long as the audience was hearing good music, and the skilful musicians are being generously acknowledged by the orchestras.

Phoebe said that the relative superiority Pre- Jude in Miss Plassy's opera, "Das Rheingold," was an indication of the comparatively low interest in the opera house by students.

Jeanne Harold '47, is now Mrs. William Oler, Jr., wife of an ex-marine lieutenant who will graduate from Yale in 1948. On April 23, 1945, this couple became engaged; December 21 was their wedding day. Jean and her husband plan eventually to live in a Quonset hut in New Haven.

And in the early afternoon of December 21, Lyn June Hall '47, was married to Ed Kohn. Lyn is back at CC now, and she and her husband will live in New London until her graduation in June. A cottage in Nantucket will then be their home.

Lyn June was not enough to keep Frances Norton '47, from a proposal, which secured for them an engagement and probably live overseas.

In the location. The big question is, will they be married in Nantucket?

Many CC girls welcomed the new year by announcing their engagements. With special interest and great pleasure, we would like to start this off the list with the engagement of our Art Editor, Jane Cope '47 to Lt. Arthur William Perry, Jr. Cope met Arthur last year when, as a West Point cadet, he was posted to the Coast Guard Academy for a boxing match. They will be married in June and will probably live overseas.

On Christmas eve Sue Johnson '48, became engaged to Harold Walters, a j.g. Lieutenant in the Naval Air Corps and a native of Charlotteville, R. L. They will be married on February 22 and live in New London.

Laura Lee Wiley, also of '47 met Jimmie Barbach at a wedding last spring. She will be married to him in July of this year. Jimmie, who went to MIT and the Sorbonia, served in the Army and is now connected with the Twitchell Chaplin Distributing Co. They, too, became engaged on Christmas eve.

Maxine Kaplan '47 will marry Dr. Hal Friedman, practicing dentist, in New Rochelle, in June. Hal is a graduate of N.Y.U. Dental College ’42, and served as an lieutenant in the Navy for three and a half years. They are looking forward to a New Rochelle apartment.

The Winter Carnival last year was the start of a romance between Margot Grace '47 and Frank Hartmann Dartmouth '47. They announced their engagement Monday, January 6th, at a luncheon at the Stork Club. The marriage date is not yet set as Frank is going on to attend law school.

During Christmas vacation Janice Evans '48, became engaged to Peter McFie, U. of Pa. ’47. No date has been set for the marriage of this couple, whose romance began at last year’s Christmas dance in South Orange, New Jersey.

The day has been set for the wedding of Julia Service '47, and Henry Ficker, Yale ’48, who served in the Pacific as an Army lieutenant. They will be married on June 28, 1947, and then live in New Haven.

Nancie Ellis, ’49, will marry Don Caltrell Jr., on June 21. "Cat", who is production manager of Caltrell, Inc., was a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. December 23 was their first met.
