Catholic Mass Will Be At Vespers

Father Vincent C. Donovan, O.P., professor, author, and lecturer, will speak at Vespers this Sunday at the church of St. Mary, 35 Church Street. He is the second speaker of Inter-faith discussion series observed at Connecticut college.

Father Donovan, the National Director of the Catholic Thought Association, is an English speaking member of the Dominican Liturgical Institute of Rome and an authority on the Gregorian Chant and Catholic Liturgy. He is the brother of Col. W. Van, former assistant United States Attorney General.

For the convenience of the English Department of Providence college, Father Donovan has taken an extensive literary career. He has had experience in Catholic educational institutions throughout the country and has conducted courses in the Commenwealth, Blackfriars, America, Liturgical Institute, and Groton Screen Guild Magazine. He is the author of “Primer of Church Music,” “Roots and Branches,” “Living Liturgy and Life.”

Recently he has been active in literary work with Ralph Mar Lazran of Baltimore and Dr. Evan Jones of the National Conference of Jesuits and University of Chicago. He is a good- will team which last October went to the Far East.

The public is invited to attend the Vespers service at seven o'clock in Harkness Chapel.

President To Unretire At Trusteess' Request

News has been released that President Katherine Blunt will remain a director of the Board of Trustees of the college during the year 1942-43. At its meeting Thursday (February 12) the committee asked her at their February 12 meeting to remain next year. The action was requested by the United Service Organizations.

During that time each student will be asked by a special "V. C. student committee member, a contribution to the book drive. Books of any description will be accepted by the committee. Text books are of special value. Those who have been following the reading tastes of their patrons have reported an interest in psychology, economics, political science, and government. In fact, they insist that anything from Dale Carnegie to the "Electric Influence People" to Emily Post will be included in a round table discussion.

The club is planning two colloquial meetings in March on the subject of post-war reconstruction. This will take some form of the League of Nations in which students will participate.

These discussions will be presented to the faculty and faculty members and the club hopes to stimulate a real interest on campus and a participation in discussions of world affairs.

IRG Will Consider Russia's War Role

The International Relations club will meet Wednesday, February 18, at 7:30 in the Commencement room, Father Donovan will talk on "Russia and Her Role in the War." Sally Clark '44, associate professor in the Foreign Service, will present the opening paper.

President Blunt is an extensive literary career. He "Russia and Her Role in the War." and "The Sierra Mountain Nation to the Far East?" are being included in a round table discussion.

The material was prepared for the use of graduate students in the study of Western medieval literature and in modern philosophy. It contains a certain uniqueness as well as historical and literary importance because the material of the book is translated into English. The translations, together with the material of the book, have been of great benefit to many students of the college.

In College Defense Plans

The lights used to blink at 11:00 p.m., but this year they don't. The dormitories have a system of lights which have different colors. According to the Illments of St. John's, a key has been made to keep off campus. The yellow lights have been turned on, and the red lights have been turned off. This will help to take off excess weight as well as cut on electric bills. It is estimated that this system will save about $200 per year.

There is no particular exercise that is recommended, but it seems that this system will help to take off excess weight as well as cut on electric bills. It is estimated that this system will save about $200 per year.

V. B. C. To Collect Books For Camps Feb. 18 To Mar. 1

The Salvation Corps of the Defense committee is sponsoring a campaign to collect books for the discharged men and women. Anyone who wishes to contribute may go to the office of the Defense committee at 41-21 Central Avenue, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., or in the morning before 9 a.m. or in the afternoon after 5 p.m.

The collection will be held at the university during the entire month of February. The books will be sent "EI Astro del Tango," a performance of the New York City Dance Company, which will be held at the university during the entire month of February. The books will be sent to the college as a contribution to the book drive. Books of any description will be accepted by the committee. Text books are of special value. Those who have been following the reading tastes of their patrons have reported an interest in psychology, economics, political science, and government. Monograph Series Begins With Book By Dr. Smyser

The Connecticut College Monograph Series, first in the history of the college, has been started with the publication of a volume entitled "The Early Days of the University" by Dr. Hamlin Smyser.

Smyser is an associate professor of English, and head of the English department at the University of Chicago. He is a member of the Connecticut College faculty.

The work consists of translations from the Old Norse, medieval English, French, and German literature. The material is translated into English. The translations are the Latin translations of the Latin versions, together with the benefit of benefit of studies of the Old Norse language. The material is translated into English.

The material was prepared for the use of graduate students in the study of Western medieval literature and in modern philosophy. It contains a certain uniqueness as well as historical and literary importance because the material of the book is translated into English.  sion of the opinions of students, the editor must know the names of

Dear Editor:
The recent article in the News concerning the students’ choice of "valuables" during fire drills was interesting—interesting mainly because it highlighted the persistently juvenile nature of Connecticut College students. Apparently it is necessary to point out that the object of fire and air raid drills is not to develop self-expression, personality, or will; on the contrary, it is to train us so that if necessary, we will be able to be an efficient, adult team.

Routine? Dull? Definitely! But some day perhaps "drill" happens to be real? Could it then seem so very clever and original to find oneself carefully clutching bobby pins—or a stuffed bear?

Wake up, Connecticut, and stop being so pathetically adolescent!

BOOK REVIEW

by Beiley Pease ’43

"I want him to be mine—all my own!" said Ken, the young hero of Mary O’Hara’s novel, My Friend Flicka. Ken lived on a ranch in the summertime, and he was interested in a pony which he could call his own, which he would grow up with, train, and love. The colt would give him self-confidence after he had discovered himself before his Army father by failing his exams. By the time he was sixteen Ken had found just the right kind of horse and loved it. "I’ll take her!" he cried.

I sold the pony to the store owner, and Ken proudly mounted the colt, his heart set on the right kind of horse for the job. The boy and his horse came home together, and Ken was ready to take on the world! But how much easier it was to be eight years old!

Dr. Henry W. Lawrence Was Distinguished Scholar, Writer

Professor Taught For Years

At the University of Vermont

Dr. Lawrence also noted as a versatile musician, his genius for history in terms of men and women, both of whom are demonstrated by his widely acknowledged book, "The Gentleman and the Archbishop." He contributed articles on historical events and the application of current day problems, and his numerous newspaper articles on current subjects. His keen bent to realize the impossibility of doing peacefully with that particular regime, and in his recent writings he advocated the principle of self-determination for the people of the United States.

Dr. Lawrence was also noted as a composer, whose music was admired by many. A Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Chi Rho, and a member of the American Political Science Association and the American Academy of Political and Social Science, he was known to the friends and associates of the students who had been influenced by his music.

Dr. Lawrence was known to the entire student body which attended his many concerts and musical assemblies where he composed and interpreted current affairs in music. He took a keen personal interest in his students and all of them will long recall with pleasure in the informal conversations with him, particularly at his Sunday afternoon "open house" in his office.

Dr. Lawrence, born at Nauck, N.Y. in 1873, was graduated from Yale University in 1900. He received his Ph.D. degree in 1907 and his doctorate in 1919, both from the University of Vermont. He began his career as a professor of history at Dartmouth College. He became a professor of history at Middlebury College in 1911 and professor of government and economics the following year. He continued at Middlebury until 1932. During this time he wrote a series of books that have been used in the Y. M. C. A. at Camps and Missions. He became professor of history and government at the University of Connecticut in 1920.

Dr. Lawrence was also noted as a lecturer and orator. His lectures were entertaining and his oratorical skills were admired by many. He was known to the students and faculty of the university for his eloquent speeches and orations on a wide range of topics, from history to current events.

Dr. Chakerian and Dr. Lawrence were lifelong friends and were often seen together at events and gatherings. They were both known for their dedication to their professions and their commitment to serving their communities.

Dr. Lawrence was known to the students and faculty of the university for his eloquent speeches and orations on a wide range of topics, from history to current events.

Traveling Actor Describes His Life: Interprets Shakespeare Most Vividly

by Mary Lou Elliott '42

If we have a traveling actor, Mr. Lytton, traveling actor; ahead of time, we would not have rung the bell with such hesitation and with such uncertainty. As a result, he is appearing for the first time in Connecticut College's collection of rare and valuable pieces of literature.

With a warm laugh, he says, "I have two friends who are the owners of this building and they have been kind enough to allow us to use their facilities. I am particularly grateful to them because they have provided us with a large frame, a reading room and a desk where I can work."

He also mentions that he has been in the theater for over 30 years and has directed and acted with several major companies, including Stratford-on-Avon Company. His character roles include Hamlet, Othello, Falstaff, and many others.

As we ask about the beauty of the building and the people, he speaks of his long-time friend, Mr. Moore, the owner of the building, and the many different kinds of people who have made it possible to continue traveling about.

French University Opens in N. Y.

Dr. Esther Cary and Dr. Antonio C. Lanza attended last weekend the ceremonies for the founding of the new Ecole Libre des Hautes Etudes which took place at Hunter or New College in New York. The school has been founded by 122nd Street as a school where French university courses may become available to Americans and French students in this country. It will include courses in the sciences, letters, a faculty of science, headed by Jean Perrin, member of the Nobel prize and a faculty of law and political science, headed by Paul van Zeeland, former prime minister of Belgium and professor at the U. of Louvain.

Official assurance was received from General DeGaulle that the degrees conferred by the new school will be recognized in France after the war. The Ecole Libre des Hautes Etudes is not recognized by the Vichy regime.
