- Charismatic and comfortable on film presence
- Comfortable with and willing to be on-camera talent
- Willingness to commit to being Shain Library's brand representative for TikTok
- Creativity necessary to pitch and execute on videos
- Ability to coordinate videos as needed, including script writing, interviewing and editing
Podcast Assignments and New Recording Studio
Monday, January 30, 2:30 p.m. - 3:30 p.m.
Advanced Technology Lab, Lower Level Shain Library

The library has a new recording studio located on the third floor! Come see the space and equipment and hear from Professor Sufia Uddin about scaffolding podcast assignments. The recording studio features two microphones and a three camera set-up, connected to a video switcher which is connected to an iMac. Post-production software includes Apple Final Cut, Audacity, DaVinci Resolve, OBS, Rogue Amoeba Fission, Loopback, and more.

Unable to attend but want to learn more about the studio? Email teachtech@conncoll.edu to arrange small group or individual appointments.

“Did You Do The Reading?”:
Tech Tools to Help Your Students Read Better
Tuesday, January 31, 1:30 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Advanced Technology Lab, Lower Level Shain Library, and Zoom

Start the new year with some new tech tools that will help your students be more effective readers! This workshop will discuss some of the education research from 2022 surrounding reading assignments and will then showcase some tools, both new and tried-and-true, that you can introduce in your course to help your students actually do the reading and get more from it. We’ll explore example assignments and brainstorm ideas for new approaches to encouraging close reading.

Inspired by the Book:
A Completely Fictional & Fantastic New World
An interview with Hana Tanabe ‘22, who worked as a Shain Library intern for the Fall 2022 semester.

Inspired by the Book is a series of interviews with Connecticut College folks about their literary lives. Inspiration comes from The New York Times Book Review series called By the Book.

Owl 360 Videoconferencing Camera, Microphone, and Speaker. Borrow an Owl for your next hybrid meeting to easily include remote attendees. Recommended for smaller spaces, such as conference rooms or seminar tables. Contact mediaservices@conncoll.edu to borrow an Owl.
This award is the College’s first prize open to all students (except those doing honors theses) specifically created to honor excellence in the library research process.

The deadline for submission is 5:00 p.m. on Friday, March 10, 2023.

Welcome back! It has been way too quiet around here these last few weeks. It's exciting to see the campus bustling once again. We have some new digital services to share as well as three innovative workshops coming up soon. Have a great semester!
After many years of processing, we are thrilled to announce that the historical campus life photographs have been digitized and are now available at the Connecticut Digital Archive for everyone to enjoy! This wonderful collection is categorized into folders by campus locations, buildings and student activities. Have fun walking through the decades at Connecticut College!

Using the Visualization Wall for Classes
Thursday, February 2, 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m.
Visualization Wall, Lower Level Shain

Drop by to learn how to use the Visualization Wall, located in the Technology Commons of the lower level of Shain Library. The visualization wall is a high-resolution display system offering touchscreen control, wireless display of laptops and mobile devices, and moveable seating in a large open space. Many faculty regularly use the wall for student presentations, while courses in Computer Science and the Ammerman Center for Arts and Technology have used the system to design and present interactive interfaces for games and other applications. Attendees will receive the passcode and be able to use the wall afterward on their own. No registration required.
We've recently added a new streaming documentary collection. Docuseek offers essential independent, social-issue and environmental films, providing exclusive access to content from renowned leaders in documentary film distribution.

To browse the collection go to OneSearch Advanced Search > click the three dot ellipsis in the top bar > select "Collections" > select "Streaming Movies from Docuseek".

This week we're highlighting two new databases that focus on the American labor movement and immigration records of the INS. In addition, there are four upcoming workshops. And be sure to visit the Love Data Week guide to explore the workshops and activities that will be offered February 13 - 17 as part of International Love Data Week.

New databases are available!

Labor Unions in the U.S., 1862-1974 - Offers documentation on the growth, transformation, successes and failures of one of the important American social movements of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the modern American labor movement.

Records of the INS, 1880-1930 - Presents the investigations made during the massive immigration wave at the turn of the 20th century. The files cover Asian immigration, especially Japanese and Chinese migration, to California, Hawaii, and other states; Mexican immigration to the U.S. from 1906-1930; and European immigration. There are also extensive files on the INS's regulation of prostitution and white slavery and on suppression of radical aliens.

Hoot! Hoot! Have you been in a hybrid meeting with one of our owls yet? Utilizing an owl makes for a more engaging hybrid experience. They even hoot when you connect them! Don't worry though, they're respectfully quiet during meetings. Details are below.

And speaking of hooting... International Love Data Week has arrived! Participate a little or a lot!

This guide provides all the information you'll need about events and activities. Options include:
• Attend an online workshop on a data topic
• Learn about Data Services at Connecticut College
• Take a guess at the Data Challenge (located at the Reference Desk)
• Make a data pin to proudly display your love of data (at the Reference Desk on Tuesday and Wednesday from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.)
• Adopt a Dataset

Adopt a Dataset (we're pretty lovable)

Having a hybrid meeting? Check out an Owl!
Contact mediaservices@conncoll.edu

Available in Media Services! Owl 360 Videoconferencing Camera, Microphone, and Speaker. Borrow an Owl for your next hybrid meeting to easily include remote attendees. Recommended for smaller spaces, such as conference rooms or seminar tables.
LIBRARY SCHOLARSHIP AWARD

The Friends of the Connecticut College Library sponsors a Library Scholarship Award of $500 to a senior or graduate who will be in a graduate program leading to a degree in librarianship or archival or museum studies in academic year 2023-24. To apply, please submit a statement of no more than 250 words describing your library experience and career goals to Benjamin Panciera (bpancier@conncoll.edu) by March 8.

Boundless presents experimental structures in artists’ books selected from the Linda Lear Center for Special Collections. Artists’ Books are works of art that challenge our understanding of the book form and its relation to content. Students in ART 235 Artists’ Books organized and curated the selected works based on folded forms, unbound folios, and experimental bindings and materials.

Exhibition is located in the display cases on the main floor of Shain Library and continues upstairs in the Linda Lear Center with works that can be handled and explored.

This Week at Shain

February 20, 2023

We are thrilled to announce the opening of our new Recording Studio located on the third floor of Shain! The space contains all the equipment necessary for recording podcasts or videos and is available to the entire College community. And... Shain Library is now on TikTok!
Shain Library is now on TikTok! Join Shain Library TikTok Creator, Cooper, as he demonstrates the equipment available in the new Recording Studio located on the third floor of Shain. Reserve the studio in two-hour increments and contact Mike Dreimiller at teachtech@conncoll.edu to learn how to use the podcasting and recording equipment.

And be sure to follow @shainlibrary on TikTok!
Black History Month is an annual celebration of achievements by African Americans and a time for recognizing their central role in U.S. history. Below are a list of resources to help explore and discern the experience, culture and contributions of African Americans.

- African American Newspapers - online access to approximately 270 U.S. newspapers chronicling a century and a half of the African American experience.
- Black Life in America - the experience and impact of African Americans as recorded by the news media
- Black Thought and Culture - a collection of non-fiction writings by major American black leaders covering 250 years of history
- NAACP Papers - features records of NAACP, SCLC, SNCC, CORE, and federal records on the Black Freedom Struggle

There is also a physical display of print books located next to the Circulation Desk in Shain Library.
Congratulations to Sabrina Malec, winner of the 2023 Love Data Week Data Challenge!

Sabrina guessed there were 1,247 pompoms in the jar, the closest guess. There were 1,267.

Thank you to all who participated!

This week we're spotlighting Digital Theatre+, a database that offers productions in comedy, drama, history, satire and more. Perfect for those cold nights when you'd like to hunker down to watch a good film! There are also two new workshops on the horizon. The first focuses on utilizing Wikipedia editing assignments in courses and the second explores 3D modeling and printing.
Feel like watching an award winning production? Digital Theatre+ provides content from exclusive video resources and interviews to detailed study guides, essays and lesson plans.

will be open by appointment only during Spring Break
Boundless presents experimental structures in artists’ books selected from the Linda Lear Center for Special Collections. Artists’ Books are works of art that challenge our understanding of the book form and its relation to content. Students in ART 235 Artists’ Books organized and curated the selected works based on folded forms, unbound folios, and experimental bindings and materials.

Welcome back and happy spring!

Friday, March 31st is World Backup Day. A great way to start the new season is to make sure your important files, data, emails and photos are secure. Take the World Backup Day Pledge and learn how to protect your data.
WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU LOST EVERYTHING?

If anything happened to your phone, computer or tablet, your important documents and memories could be lost forever.

Backup your files on March 31st to make sure you never lose anything that’s important to you.

TAKE THE PLEDGE AND TELL YOUR FRIENDS TO BACK UP THEIR DATA.

Creating Maps with ArcGIS Online
Thursday, March 30, 3:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. | Online
Open to faculty, staff and students

ArcGIS Online is a powerful cloud-based mapping and analysis platform that can be used to create informative and compelling web and story maps. This workshop will demonstrate the features and functionality available in the latest version of the platform, including a look at the volume of free geospatial data available through Esri’s Living Atlas data repository.

Register
Take the challenge to get outside for some fresh air and fun physical exercise! Participants who hike or walk 10 of the 15 designated trails will receive a “Sky’s the Limit” hiking staff medallion and a certificate for their efforts.

Details available here.

As we head toward the final weeks of the semester please take advantage of the variety of services, tools and tutorials that are available to help with research, organization, and technology. And don't forget about the Library FAQs!

Need help with a research project? You can schedule a research consultation with a librarian for in-depth questions, topic focus, or citation assistance.
You can find video tutorials for using library services, curricular technology, and workshop recordings at media.conncoll.edu > Resources > Research Support & Curricular Technology.

Google Scholar provides a simple way to broadly search for scholarly literature. You can set up Google Scholar so it links directly to the full-text of articles available through the library’s subscriptions. Click here for directions and screenshots explaining how to configure the settings.

LibKey Nomad connects the library's resources with scholarly articles you find in Pubmed, Wikipedia, and hundreds of other scholarly publisher websites. Add the LibKey Nomad extension to your web browser for instant access to links to full-text documents as you research online. Instructions to add the extension can be found here.
RefWorks is a Web-based bibliography and database manager that allows users to create their own personal database by importing references from text files or online databases. A detailed guide on how to use RefWorks can be accessed at https://conncoll.libguides.com/refworks.

Do you think you can spot an AI-generated image about an actual news event? These fake images are often created as jokes for social media but can be mistakenly interpreted as real photographs. This article from AFP Fact Check provides tips for identifying AI-generated images, including using reverse image search and looking for clues.

Information Services is excited to announce the winner of the 8th annual $500 Connecticut College Prize for Undergraduate Library Research!
Winner - Caitlyn Boyd '24

For the project: "What’s in the Fridge?: Risk of Food Insecurity as an Intersectional Issue". Read an excerpt here.

Written in the Spring 2022 semester for Professor Ana Campos-Manzo's course, Sociology of Health (SOC 238).

There were many outstanding applications this year and the Library Prize Committee had a hard time separating out individual winners. As a result, a runner-up winner was selected in addition to four honorable mentions:

Runner-Up - Binh Vo '23

For the project "Evaluating the Effect of Extracellular Ca2+ on Cell Migration in U2os Cells".

Prepared in Spring 2022 for Professor Martha Grossel's course, Molecular Cell Biology (BIO 309).

Honorable Mentions

Austin Robertson '23, for the project "Permission to Hate: The Link Between Prejudice-Motivated Crimes and Conflict Escalation," prepared in Fall 2022 for Professor Andrew Levin's course, Senior Independent Study (Gov 409).

Isabella Amaro Varas '23, for the project "Connecting the Dots: Immigration Policy and Access to Higher Education for Refugees in France," prepared in Fall 2022 for Professor Andrew Levin’s course, Independent Study (GOV 491).
Alice Volfson '23, for the project "Civic Religion' and the End of the Cold War: A Quantitative Analysis," prepared in Fall 2022 for Professor Maryanne Borrelli's course, U.S. Political Speech (Gov 493C).

Beatrice Voorhees '23, for the project "A Soviet Scholar's 1952 Vision of Qaraqalpaqstan's Future," prepared in Fall 2022 for Professor Dean Accardi's course, Islam in Asia (HIS 263).
OverDrive app users, changes are coming!

The legacy OverDrive app will be discontinued on May 1st, and you’ll need to switch to Libby, OverDrive’s newer reading app. You can still use the legacy OverDrive app for now, but we recommend upgrading to Libby today. It’s easy to use and full of fun features. Contact the Reference Desk for help.

This week features a new database that focuses on liberation struggles in Southern Africa. And the Departments of History and Arts Programming will be welcoming Maasai Chief Joseph Ole Tipanko with his delegation from Kenya in the Charles Chu Room on Thursday at 7:00 p.m.

Struggles for Freedom: Southern Africa - The liberation of Southern Africa and the dismantling of the Apartheid regime was one of the major political developments of the 20th century, with far-reaching consequences for people throughout Africa and around the globe. This collection focuses on the complex and varied liberation struggles in the region, with an emphasis on Botswana, Mozambique, Namibia, South Africa, and Zimbabwe.

Citations... why cite your sources?

We rely on other people’s ideas and the research of others for practically everything we think or say. Citing one’s sources is simply a way of documenting the path of one’s inquiry so others can follow along.
Cite everything you quote, paraphrase, or summarize, as well as someone else’s ideas or words that are not your own, such as may be copied from the Web or anywhere. (The Craft of Research, 195-196)

Information Services Student Assistants Class of 2023

We truly appreciate your help and dedication!

On April 6th the senior students that have worked for Information Services (IS) gathered together with IS staff in recognition of their service. A recently purchased library book was dedicated to each senior in the area of their major, a gesture to acknowledge the value that each student has contributed to IS. The books will be on display on the main floor of Shain through the end of the semester.

LA110 - Fundamentals Research/Inquiry
CRN 90222

An introduction to library research and issues in information literacy. This 1 credit course exposes students to skills for finding and evaluating information, creating a bibliography, and writing citations. Students will review proprietary databases, prepare research in their major, and synthesize resources for graduate school and fellowship applications. The course addresses media literacy topics including open educational resources, copyright, and the role of the media in today’s information age.
Trends & Policy: U.S. Environment covers how human interaction with the environment is changed by government policies. Curated Topic Pages covers such areas as the Clean Air Act, the Endangered Species Act of 1973, fracking and the production of oil and gas, Native Americans, natural resources, pollution, health, and more.

Are you thinking about using ChatGPT as a research tool to find resources? Are you aware that some AI tools actually hallucinate fictitious citations? This post from Scholarly Kitchen examines the current trustworthiness of ChatGPT for academic research.
The decision to make Connecticut College a coeducational institution, beginning with the class of 1973, permanently changed the College. From altering college gender dynamics, to prompting spatial and academic growth, to the development of a more extensive athletics program, the decades following the shift to coeducation opened the doors to a new era for the college. Fifty years after that first class graduated, this exhibit explores the impact of coeducation and its legacy at Connecticut College.

Have you tried the Recording Studio yet? Here is what (Eric) Meicheng Lu '24 had to say about it.

"As a musician and a documentary photographer/videographer, I am refining my software and hardware expertise here at DSCC. I hope to create an engaging environment on campus surrounding the Shain recording studio and have it be a creative space for all: musicians, photographers, film makers, podcasters, alike."

What hardware and software is available in the recording studio?

How do I reserve the recording studio?

This will be the final newsletter of the academic year. Rest assured that research support, digitization requests and interlibrary loan services are available throughout the summer. Congratulations to the class of 2023 and have a wonderful summer everyone!

Lee Hisle, Vice President of Information Services and College Librarian, will be retiring at the end of June after 23 years of service at Connecticut College. The Information Services staff would like to thank Lee for his dedicated leadership, his outstanding commitment to supporting students, faculty and staff, and of course, his sense of humor that kept us laughing through it all.
Whether you're taking a summer course or working on a research project, we're available to assist with all your research needs. Librarians can be reached several ways:
