Coloratura Soprano, Emma Otero, Sings Tomorrow Night

Recital to be in Gym at 8:00;
Program Includes Spanish
Songs in Costume

FLASH

New York, N. Y.—Emma Otero, noted coloratura soprano, was injured in an automobile accident near here Monday night. Although her injuries are not considered serious, all engagements have been cancelled for the present. Miss Otero will appear at Connecticut College sometime in March.

The next concert in the Connecticut College concert series will be presented by Miss Emma Otero, coloratura soprano, in the college gymnasium tomorrow night at eight o'clock.

Coming to this country from Cuba, Miss Otero prepared for her vocal career with Frank LaForge and made her debut at Carnegie Hall in New York. She has won much approval not only for her lovely voice, but also for her striking Latin beauty and her personality. She will give one group of Spanish songs in costume. It has recently been said that she "solves the problem of where the next coloratura prima donna is to come from."

Miss Otero will be accompanied by Beryl Blanch. The program is as follows:

Una Voce poco fa (Barber of Seville) ..... Rossini
Manella mia ..... Giannini
Ohie meneche
Come unto these Yellow Sands
..... La Forge

To a Messenger
Pastorale
Song of the Open

Songs in Costume
Seguidilla ..... Folk Song
Altiva (The Proud One) ..... Grever
Te quiero dijiste (You Told me you Loved me) ..... Grever

Miss Fishtine Will Speak Friday Night About Spanish War

The next meeting of the International Relations Club will be held in Windham living room Friday night, January 22, at 7:30. Miss Edith Fishtine, professor of Spanish at Simmons College will speak on the Civil War in Spain. Members of the club and faculty are invited.

Following the lecture several matters of business will be brought up for discussion, including Model League, the inter-collegiate panel discussion, and the program for the remainder of the year.

With a view to fostering more student initiative in international affairs, the group devoted to this particular section of the club has formed a panel discussion group with Yale and Wesleyan on the subject of the American foreign policy.

The steering committee of the club has already discussed plans for Peace Week to take place sometime in April.

Henry S. Leiper Is Sunday Speaker

An active figure in world Christianity for a number of years, Henry Smith Leiper comes on Sunday to address a vespers audience at Connecticut College at 7 p. m. His topic will be "Life's Inevitable Options in Religion".

As American executive secretary of the Universal Christian Council for Life and Work he has been helping to plan the conference on church, community, and state to be held at Oxford university next July under the auspices of this organization, an event which will be attended by representatives from all parts of the Christian world. For this conference, Dr. Leiper has recently prepared an outline of the themes to be discussed, bringing to it a rich experience and intimate acquaintance with the problems of Christianity in a changing, unstable civilization. The book is entitled Christ's Way and the World's.

He is also secretary of the International Christian Committee for German Refugees, of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, of the World Conference of Faith and Order, and of the International Peace Campaign Congress.

Annual Conference At Northfield Soon

The annual Northfield Mid-winter Conference is to be held on the week end of February 12-14. Last year eight girls went as representatives of Connecticut College. This year it is hoped there will be a larger group to compete with those sent from other New England colleges.

There will be an opportunity for those interested to sign up on the bulletin board this week, and a meeting will be held to organize the delegation and to learn of the set-up for the entire conference.

Important

All students must register for the second semester before Saturday noon, January 23. Failure to comply with this regulation will entail a late registration fee of $5.00.

Next Convocation Will Be Talk By Thomas V. Smith

"The Promise of American Politics" is the subject to be presented by Professor Thomas V. Smith of the University of Chicago at convocation February 16. In addition to his position as Professor of Philosophy, Professor Smith is very well known because of his recent radio addresses on practical politics and the publication of numerous books on philosophy.

Previous to his position at the University of Chicago in 1924, he was an instructor in philosophy and English at the University of Texas. At present he is a State Senator from the fifth district of Illinois.

"The Democratic Way of Life", "The Philosophic Way of Life", and "The Promise of American Politics" are among the books he has published. Occasionally Professor Smith contributes to The New Republic and The Journal of Philosophy. At one time he was editor of The American Journal of Ethics.

"Dover Road" Will Be Next Production

"Dover Road" by A. A. Milne is to be given jointly by Wesleyan and Connecticut on Saturday, February 20, at 8:30. Besides this modern comedy, Milne has also written "Ivory Door", "Michael and Mary", and "Mr. Pim Passes By".

The scenery has been designed by Robert Hart and executed by the Paint and Powder Club's Play Production class at Wesleyan. It is done in modern design.

The six main characters are portrayed by Barbara Lawrence, Shirley Bryan, George Reynolds, David Trot, Walter Bennett, and Thomas Dale.

College Purchases New Strip of Land

A recent purchase made by the college is a strip of land amounting to about fifteen and two-thirds acres adjacent to the Hemlocks and including the ravine, brook, and opposite hillside to the Southwest. Formerly the college property extended only to the ledge. The addition makes a total of about 85 acres in the Arboretum.

The land was purchased from Lucio and Sebastiano Ribaudo for a sum of about $3,000. It averages about 400 feet in width and extends South along the ledge. The first donor to the fund was Mrs. Helen Binney Kitchell of Griswold, Connecticut, a member of the Connecticut General Assembly and active in conservation legislation. It is interesting to note that the signatures of all the donors are on the deed as a permanent record.

Bulletin Furnishes Varied Information

The Connecticut College Bulletin for 1936, "The College Advancing", which contains reports from the president and other officials of the school, was issued on December 30. The first part of the report concerns plans for the further development of the campus by the addition of many new buildings; some of these will be realized in the near future because of recent gifts to the College; others are merely suggested as later additions to our rapidly growing institution. The importance of these structures as "tools for better education" of students is stressed by the president.

Committees Work Out Details; Valentine Motif Followed As Theme

Although most of us are so occupied with exams right now that little else seems of any importance, we can get some comfort from the fact that when exams come, Mid-Winter Formal can't be far behind. An able committee under the leadership of Marjorie Beaudette '38, has been working long and hard to get many of the details of the event settled early.

Already they have engaged Ken Reeves and his orchestra to supply the swing rhythms. The decorating committee, directed by Florence McConnell '38, is following a red and white color scheme, with Valentine cupids pretty evident in the general surroundings.

Nancy Weston '39, will see to it that the refreshments are the best available, and Catherine Warner '39, promises novel programs and tickets for the occasion.

One of the most important sides of the planning is that of choosing the waitresses. Palamona Williams '38, is the head of that responsible committee. And finally, Elizabeth Gilbert '37, will direct the publicity end of things.

With such a crew at work, it is inevitable that the dance be successful. The tea dance will take place from 3-5 in the afternoon, while the Prom starts at 8:30 and concludes at the magic hour of midnight.

C. C. To Take Part In Model League

Connecticut College delegates to the New England Model League of Nations sessions to be held at Harvard University March 12 and 13 will represent the countries of Yugoslavia and Chile. The delegates will probably be chosen at the International Relations Club meeting to be held this Friday night.

Chairman Elected For Commencement

Miss Margaret Coulter was recently elected chairman of the 1937 Commencement Committee. The other members of the committee will be chosen by Miss Coulter and Emroy Carrough, class president.

Louise Carroll '39 Makes Radio Debut

Have you made your debut as a radio script writer or actress? We know that at least one student among us has and that others have hopes of doing so in the near future.

Louise Carroll '39 took the role of "Lou" in the play entitled Gold Fever which was broadcast over station WNLC in New London as a feature of the Doco-Cities Service program last Sunday afternoon on (Continued to Page 3, Column 5)

Mental Perspective

During the next two weeks, with exams on our schedule, we will be needing what one author calls "mental shock-absorbers." We will be called upon to demonstrate our acquired academic resources, and in preparation for these tests most of us will be straining at the proverbial "tether." If this strain is overdone, there is danger of "mental monotony", which if serious, makes the outside world very wearisome.

It is at times like these that "mental indigestion" becomes prevalent and even catching. We find it difficult to recognize the vast difference between our results when we have been doing routine duty, and when we have if only for a moment been carried forward by an absorbing interest—monotony results and phrases like, "I'm going crazy" or "I'll be glad when this is all over", are heard.

However, one of the best "mental uplifters" comes from that sense of having done faithfully and a little better than usual some kind of work that was not too interesting or which had a preliminary value. If that does not carry with it words of comfort perhaps the tried and proven theory that no small joy comes from the conquest of a disagreeable task might prove so. Ruskin says, "God intends no man to live in this world without working; but he intends every man to be happy in his work." Maybe the best "mental shock absorber" is the one instilled in the "previous gift" which some people have and others acquire, of seeing the interest and value which lies concealed in the supposedly "uninteresting."

Renaissance

The Student Forum discussion group has recently completed an analysis of the lack of interest in extra-curricular activities at Connecticut. As a result of a thorough survey of the matter with the help of answers to the questionnaires circulated on the subject last spring, this group has drawn up a list of suggestions, which have been handed to all heads of organizations for consideration. (The list appears on page four of this issue.)

Among the more valuable suggestions we find the ideas of active and associate membership, more student programs at the meetings, and more publicity, especially to the freshmen. These seemed to be the greatest defects in the weak set-up of most of our clubs.

Student Forum cannot legislate; it can only consider matters and make suggestions. It is up to the clubs to adapt these ideas to their own individual problems.

The success of this undertaking depends on the

Read and Relax

by ANNE DARLING '38

"A penny for your thoughts" is just the wrong phrase with which to greet your roommate in these days of strife and stress. Either she is in "Stygian" gloom contemplating scanty notes, half finished laboratory experiments, and reading back assignments, or she is leisurely reviewing the well known facts in happy confidence and assurance. The thoughts of both of these types of roommate would shatter any remnants of poise you still possess before the onslaught of the annual mid-year struggle with the known and terrifying unknown.

If you are in a conversational mood and must relax from your studies or go raving berserk, pick up any book of poetry handy and start reading.

"And now, if e'er by chance I put
My fingers into glue,
Or madly squeeze a right-hand foot
Into a left-hand shoe,
Or if I drop upon my toe
A very heavy weight,
I weep, for it reminds me so . . ."

Dear Editor:

May I say a few humble words in tribute to an unsung heroine of the campus, whose omnipresent and dependable handiness we have grown to accept as more or less of an institution about these parts? (I make no pretense at being a Dale Carnegie, but I must say that anyone who can involuntarily stir me out of this comfortably unhealthy lethargy of inactivity is worthy of some acclaim on those grounds at least.)

If for no other reason, however, I believe this girl should be awarded The-Distinguished-Attendance-Medal or something for her inspiring faithfulness to the Vespers Service, almost always in cap and gown, (the seniors should be ashamed to know that on one occasion at least she and the two other seniors present did not wear them because of the disgracefully small representation in the Senior section). Also in parentheses, this was not meant to be a Vespers pep talk!

But seriously and sincerely, I truly believe she should be eulogized, along with Doctors Lawrence, Laubenstein, and Erb, and some dozen very loyal members of our College choir, as The-Spirit-of-What-We-All-Should-Be as far as Vespers is concerned.

This one girl in particular, moreover, must be respected for her amazing degree of "errandability", i.e. her willingness to run the extra but important errands that must attend successful functions. Her position as Circulation Manager of News testifies to that.

So there you have it. Borrowing from a bit over-worked but still handy little ditty, "our hearts to you" Soapy (Lucinda) Kirkman '37.

(Signed) "Inspired" '38

P. S.—Sloshing thru the rain and cold to deliver the News isn't so pleasant sometimes for any of them, so while I still am the above "Inspired", may I say "our hands to you", Bea Enequist, Edith Frey, Mary Giese, Elsie Schwenk, and Marjorie Webb. We appreciate your prompt service.

P.P.S.—As a matter of fact, why mayn't I include the whole News staff? They certainly are valiant people if ever there were any at C. C.. Our salute to all of you—Worthy Newsers.

cooperation of all organizations. We need no longer stumble about in the dark, grumbling and knowing the necessity for reform but not seeing how to accomplish it. With this list of suggestions, each club should be able to make at least a good stab at increasing initiative and participation in its programs. We hope the stab is a successful one.

Perhaps this attempt on the part of the clubs will help shake some out of the general lethargy that seems to have gripped the campus in the last year or two.

Members of Press Board Were Guests of New York Sun

Five senior members of Press Board were guests last Saturday of the New York Sun. They were escorted through the plant by Col. Gilbert T. Hodges and Mr. Thomas Dewart, of the executive board of the Sun. Col. Hodges and Mr. Dewart visited Connecticut last fall, when they presented a short film, "A Day With the Sun", and talked informally on newspaper work.

The tour of the Sun included a visit to the office of Mr. William T. Dewart, the publisher, an opportunity of meeting the editor-in-chief and the managing editor, of investigating the "morgue", of watching the process of setting up the Wall Street edition, and seeing some sixty thousand papers being rushed off the presses with unbelievable speed, and sent by trucks to various parts of New York.

Directly afterward, the students were luncheon guests of Col. Hodges and Mr. Dewart at the Lawyers' Club. The college girls attending included Doris Wheeler, Priscilla Cole, Eliza Bissell, Bernice Parker, and Nancy Burke.

Movies Shown of Children's Center

Mr. Byron T. Hacker, superintendent of the Children's Community Center in New Haven, showed movies of that institution for the Child Welfare Class Monday morning, January 18. Mr. Hacker explained the set-up of the center and the work it is accomplishing.

Sociology Students Visit Hall of Man

A group of sociology students, headed by Mr. Cobbledick, made a trip to the Hall of Man in the Metropolitan Museum of Natural History in New York City last Sunday afternoon. They inspected exhibits parallel to the work now being studied in class. The group included Dorothy Lyon, Doris Wheeler, Fay Irving, Alice Lippincott, and Katherine Fulton.

Gardening, Interests in Home Relieve Mathematical Mind

by CLARISSA WEEKS '40

Dr. Leib, professor of mathematics and director of admissions, is a familiar person to all of us, and probably our first correspondent at C. C. before we came. He was born in Carlyle, Penn., where he attended school in preparation for his college career at Dickinson. Throughout prep school and college he studied Greek, one of the subjects of a classical course, and one time won a Greek prize of $25.00. He started to teach mathematics in prep school but, through the absence of another teacher, was called on to teach French and Latin. At Johns Hopkins University, Dr. Leib obtained a Ph. D. in mathematics. After teaching at Yale for some years, he came to Connecticut College in the middle of its first academic year, and has watched it grow ever since.

Dr. Leib's quiet sense of humor accompanied by the merry twinkle in his eyes is a familiar sight on campus. Although his favorite occupation and relaxation is work (Mrs. Leib will vouch for that), he seems to enjoy himself immensely in the process. He admits that he was trying to live down the false conception that he was a great fisherman, camper or sportsman. He enjoys outdoor sports (he challenged me to a tennis match), and has run a summer camp in Vermont.

When a visitor is greeted by a chow and hare in the living-room, it seems proof of the fact that animals are one of his pet hobbies, but he says they are for the children, which is also true of the stamp collecting. Dr. Leib does have one great outside interest—gardening, and if I had been anything of a gardener we probably would have discussed it for hours. Remaining true blue to the college—he beamingly stated that next to gardening he likes the college girls, and prefers teaching girls to boys. In closing I remarked that I thought I had everything, and emphatically, with a tiny twinkle he retorted, "I hope not."

News Will Print Result of Press Board Questions

Press Board wishes to thank all those who cooperated in answering the questionnaire which was issued shortly before Christmas. Because of the enthusiasm shown by a large number of the students, Press Board plans to have further questionnaires with the hope of getting an accurate measurement of student opinion on questions of most interest. Suggestions for questions will be welcomed. Put them in the Press Board box in Fanning.

Watch the next issue of NEWS for results of the December questionnaire. Find out what your classmates discuss most frequently at bull sessions, whether they prefer the glamour of being a prom queen to the privilege of wearing a Phi Beta pin. Find out what they think of classes and courses, what they hoped to gain from college, and whether their ambitions have been realized.

Read and Relax

(Continued from Page 2, Column 3) face or a desperate outlook on the future after hearing "Father William", "Jabberwocky", or "The Walrus and the Carpenter"? Perhaps your preference would be "The Hunting of the Snark" or again utterly outside this jolly little volume.

Wherever your fancy leads pursue it. A bit of rest and poetry will drive out all the hobgoblins of fear playing hide-and-seek in your head. If Lewis Carroll is not the man to do this, there are many more of his ilk just awaiting such a service residing in our library. May this thought be worth more than a mere penny to you.

Fencing, Winter Sports are New Courses in Gym

With the lake in the Arboretum to skate on, and the new ski-slide for skiing, there has been established a new course in physical education, winter sports, under the direction of Miss Priest.

The ski-slide which was started in October and finished late in November has had no trials because of the unusual winter warmth. Starting from the top of Overlook Hill (the highest point in the Arboretum) above Gallows Lane, it goes gradually from a steep to a gentle slope for about 800 feet and is graded onto the lake. Beginners may take advantage of the lower end. This recent addition is looked upon as a valuable recreational facility.

Another recent addition to the curriculum of the physical education department which is being seized to advantage is a course in fencing given by Mr. A. A. Washton of New London three times a week. Mr. Washton is a New London attorney at law; fencing is a hobby for him though he teaches private classes in town as well as the college girls. A brother and husband of alumnae, Mr. Washton received his fencing training at Dartmouth where he excelled in the sport all four years.

Sociology Students To Make Field Trip

The classes in Child Welfare will visit the Connecticut School for Boys in Meriden tomorrow afternoon, January 21st, in connection with their study of Juvenile Delinquency.

Mr. Roy L. McLaughlin, superintendent of the school, will be host to the group. He will conduct a tour of inspection through the school and will describe its work in rehabilitating delinquent boys.

Dr. Glenn Completes Religion in Science

Dr. C. Leslie Glenn, of Cambridge, Massachusetts, spoke last Sunday night on the problem of trying to reconcile religion with modern scientific knowledge. He feels an immediate and urgent need for this reconciliation, or else there will be no real religion and no real knowledge.

If we cannot believe in God unquestionably, God will accept us on our own terms as he did Thomas and Peter. However, controlling God by threats is not religion. We cannot say that unless things happen as we want, we will not believe in God. Unfortunately, few of us have time to accept the scholar's word that science and religion are compatible. If they were not compatible, all scientists would be agnostics.

Most of us are dissatisfied with the interpretation of old creeds. Interpretation is essential because words have come through appalling changes in meaning. Interpretation is not evasion. What we need is a conscious Christianity. Many of our worst difficulties are caused by our not doing what is right. When we are ready to do what is right, and stop divorcing our minds from our hearts, then we can say "My Lord and my God".

Art Students See Prominent Murals

Under the direction of Mr. Logan, a group of art students inspected prominent murals in New York City last Saturday. In the "New School of Social Research" they saw Thomas Benton's murals on contemporary American life; they saw the murals by Jose Sert in Radio City and in the Sert room of the Waldorf-Astoria.

The girls paid a formal class call on Ernest Peixotto, president of the American Mural Painters' Society, and saw the murals decorating his apartment as well as a fine collection of Italian drawings which he possesses. They were shown his own drawings done for large estates both here and abroad and the sketches of his murals in the Seaman's Bank of New York.

Mr. Peixotto criticized the preliminary drawings for the murals which the advanced painting class is doing for the children's ward of the Home Memorial Hospital in New London.

They also went to St. Bartholomew's Church to see the mosaics on the ceiling. Those included in the group were Margaret Coulter, Dorothy Waring, Louise Langdon, Mary E. Bishop, and Elizabeth Hamblin.

C. Leslie Glenn To Return Soon For C. C. Vespers

C. Leslie Glenn, who has been on the campus this week, reached a wide number through his consultations, discussion groups, and chapel services. There were many who were not able to get to see him while he was here since he was called away and could not remain until Tuesday evening as he had planned.

Due to this fact, Mr. Glenn has suggested that he come again this year for another Vesper service; the date set for his return is February 14. This will provide an opportunity for all those who could not see him during his recent visit.

Blanket Tax and Cheating Discussed by Student Body

The third Student Government meeting of the year was held last night in the gym, Margaret McConnell, president, presiding. She introduced Dean Burdick who talked on the Blanket Tax, explaining the evolution of the tax which was instituted in 1922 by the Student Council. At that time the Bursar was permitted to tax each student $10. This money does not buy blankets as some people are led to believe but is used to support the various organizations on campus.

Blanket Tax Excess

There is at present an excess of $1,100 owing to the fact that several clubs turned in considerable sums from the original amounts apportioned them last year. Cabinet and Student Organizations Committee suggested four items for which this money might be used to best advantage: choir robes for the speaking choir, trees, a library in Jane Addams House (because it is the only house on campus without one), and a room in the new dorm. After much discussion it was voted that $100 go for a library in Jane Addams and the remaining $1,000 be given for a room in the new dormitory.

Cheating

The eternal, but important question of cheating was renewed and discussed. The pledge which has been in practice for over a semester, and which, in general has proved rather unsuccessful, was abolished. The Tapping system approved by Cabinet and the House of Representatives was suggested and discussed as a preventative measure. A motion was passed to the effect that the Tapping system be put on trial from now until the next Almagamation meeting which will be in less than two months.

Student Friendship Fund

Elise Thompson '37 spoke on the value of the Student Friendship Fund, and the student body voted to have the donations for this fund collected between Christmas vacation and exams instead of before Christmas as has formerly been the custom.

A motion was passed that the Dramatic Club President be nominated by the club itself and elected by the entire student body.

The president closed the meeting by stressing the importance of QUIET HOURS, especially during exams.

Robert Howell handles the commercials and Lester McGregory announces the play on this program, which is the first on the local station to have a studio audience.

As was announced in the December 9th issue of the News, Doc-Cities Service is awarding a prize of $10 each week for the best script submitted in an amateur script writers contest which it is sponsoring in connection with its broadcast each Sunday. Rules for this competition were printed in the above-mentioned issue. The plays are enacted by amateurs chosen at auditions held each Tuesday night.

Last week's prize winning play, Gold Fever, was submitted by Edward Rich of Norwich.

Connecticut students should submit their scripts to the editor of News.

International Relations Club Draws Up Model Constitution

ARTICLES OF ORGANIZATION

The International Relations Club is an organization working through campus and community groups for the purpose of the study and discussion of international affairs and peace.

ARTICLE I

Section I. The International Relations Club shall be composed of two autonomous bodies, the International Affairs Section and the Peace Section.

Section II. The activities of the two Sections shall be coordinated through the Steering Committee which shall be composed of the President of the International Relations Club, Chairman of the Peace Section, Secretary of the International Affairs Section, Secretary of the Peace Section, Publicity Director, and Treasurer.

ARTICLE II

Purpose: The International Affairs Section shall be devoted to an objective study of international problems.

The International Affairs Section shall be subject to the regulations of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Section I

Membership: There shall be two kinds of membership, Active and Associate. Active members must attend meetings regularly, not more than three absences being permitted, and they shall individually contribute to the program of the Section. Associate members may attend meetings, but shall not be obligated to take part in the preparation of them.

Active members will be automatically dropped from membership if they miss more than three meetings. Warnings shall be sent after the second meeting missed.

Reinstatement shall be granted at the discretion of the Steering Committee to those signifying a desire to again become members. The Steering Committee shall at its discretion admit to active or associate membership those signifying a desire to become members in the International Relations Club.

The Steering Committee shall determine those who have earned active membership at the end of the year.

Section II

Officers: The President of the International Relations Club shall be the Chairman of the International Affairs Section. She shall be nominated by the I. R. C. and elected by the student body.

There shall be a Secretary of the International Affairs Section, who will act as Secretary of the I. R. C.

Section III

Meetings: There shall be a minimum of seven meetings per year on the September to June basis.

ARTICLE III

Section I

Purpose: The Peace Section shall be dedicated to the study and dispersion of information concerning the problem of Peace.

Section II

Membership: The rules and regulations concerning the membership basis of the Peace Section shall be the same as those governing the International Affairs Section.

Section III

Officers: There shall be a Chairman of the Peace Section elected by the International Relations Club.

There shall be a Secretary of the Peace Section.

Section IV

Meetings: There shall be a minimum of seven meetings per year on the September to June basis.

Section V

Scope of Activities:

Research on the "cause and cure" of war.

Study of a legislative program pertinent to the problems of the day.

Promotion of campus work on peace.

Cooperation and work through organizations in the communities.

Section VI

Voting: For the purposes other than amendment, voting shall be by a majority of a quorum.

ARTICLE IV

Section I

There shall be a Publicity Director and Treasurer who shall serve for both Sections.

The Treasurer may make no expenditures except those authorized by the President of the International Relations Club.

Section II

All officers of the International Relations Club, except the President, shall be elected by a majority of a quorum of both sections meeting jointly.

Section III

Joint meetings may be held when the occasion requires, and these shall count toward fulfillment of the minimum requirement of meetings for each section.

Section IV

Amendment: The Articles of Organization shall be amended by a two-thirds vote of a quorum in a joint session of the two Sections acting in unison.

Section V

The Faculty will be welcome at all meetings.

The Faculty may be invited to lead discussions groups.

Club Notes

BIRD CLUB

A meeting of the Bird Club will be held Thursday evening, January 21 from 7:00 to 7:45 in Room 309 New London Hall. Movies will be shown. The first is from the Audubon Society and is entitled "Birds of Cob Island" showing water birds (terns, gulls, and oyster catchers). There will also be two short films on terns taken by Miss Botsford and Miss Burdett.

Miss Botsford will preside over the meeting, which is open not only to all members of the faculty and student body of the college, but also to the people of New London. A number of eggs and mounted birds will be on exhibit in the room.

PEACE GROUP

The first student program of the peace section of the International Relations Club for this year will be held Thursday night at 6:45 in Mary Harkness. There will be a discussion on "Neutrality", in which the following will be active participants: Ann Oppenheim '38, Helen Swan '38, and Marian Chandler '39.

FRENCH CLUB

Dr. Eugène A. Joliat, member of the French department of Wesleyan University, spoke to the French club here on Saturday night. His topic was "Relations Franco-Anglaises pendant le Dix-Huitième Siècle."

Professor Joliat explained that most Englishmen of that period considered it a part of their education to travel in France; but except for political relations the French knew little of England. Gradually people's tastes became more cosmopolitan. Though both English and French had many faults to find with each other, they were not averse to imitation. French aristocrats would amuse themselves by drinking tea à l'Anglais—sitting sipping their tea in silence. They were convinced that no Englishman knew anything of the art of conversation. Suicides à l'Anglais became very fashionable.

The course of French literature was considerably affected by translations from the English, particularly of the works of Pope, Dryden, Richardson, Milton, and Shakespeare. The combination of English sentimentality and realism was one of the factors contributing to the development of the Romantic period in France.

GERMAN CLUB

Professor Paul Tillich, eminent German philosopher, spoke at Connecticut College last evening. He is well known in the literary world as author of The Religious Situation.

Professor Tillich addressed the German Club on the subject of "Das Tragische" (The concept of what is tragic). He divided his lecture into three parts—the Greek conception of the tragic; the bourgeois philosophy of life in which the concept of the tragic has no place; and the (Continued to Page 6, Col. 1)

Student Forum Discussions Result In List of Suggestions for Clubs

The Student Forum discussion group has made an analysis of the problem of lack of interest in curricular activities among the students here. They have drawn up a list of suggestions which have been given to all the club presidents. On April 1 each club is to hand in a report of what it has done.

The suggestions are as follows:

I. There should be two types of membership: active and associate.
a. Active members should not permit more than three absences and should involve active participation in organization of programs.
b. Associate membership gives the privilege of attendance at those meetings which are not limited to the active membership group.

II. There should be a minimum number of meetings per year.

a. It is suggested that the minimum be six meetings per year.
b. Meeting dates should be chosen considerably in advance to avoid over-crowding the social calendar.

III. At the end of the year the secretary of each organization should send to Miss Ramsay's office a list of the names of those who qualified as active members.

IV. For officers of the club we suggest the minimum of a president, secretary, and publicity director.

N. B. The purpose of providing for a secretary is to assure for the succeeding years of the organization a record of past activities, objectives, and policies as a guide to future undertakings.

V. The aim of organization programs should be to develop greater student initiative and participation in discussions, panels, etc.

a. The majority of meetings during the year should be devoted to student programs.

N. B. The end in view is to shift the emphasis from faculty to active student initiative. This does not mean the exclusion of faculty but simply the end of faculty domination. Faculty interest, participation in discussion, and contributions will be welcomed.

VI. Publicity should be improved through a responsible publicity director and improved advertising.

a. Particular attention should be paid to the freshmen.

1. At the beginning of the year the scope and purposes of the various clubs and organizations around the campus should be presented at a general meeting.

N. B. It is suggested that cabinet consider the question of a compulsory meeting being called at the beginning of the year for the purpose of acquainting the freshmen with the clubs in order that such a meeting may become a custom and be scheduled on the college calendar. This meeting might be held in conjunction with C quiz.

2. Each individual club should make a personal attempt to acquaint the freshmen with its appeal.

Sample Club—Clubs may find useful ideas in looking at the International Relations Club as a sample of a club set-up.

Dear John—

Some day I shall probably look back upon this moment as one of those "off" times in my life. I suppose it is utterly futile to hope that you have a memory colossal enough to give you the faintest clue as to who I am. I quite distinctly remember meeting you at the Connecticut dance during Christmas; we spent several minutes discussing the pros and cons of the dance. Does that help bring back even the faintest recollection? I guess I'm pretty conceited to think you might want to remember . . . . .

But now that that's over with, I'll tell you the real reason for all this bold preamble. It would take something momentous to make me write you—and so I hasten to say that my alibi is nothing short of perfect. You see, John, it isn't very long before the biggest event of the season takes place here at C. C.—our Mid-winter Formal. And you're not wrong when you surmise that this letter is by way of invitation to you to come for that gala occasion.

First of all, the date is February the thirteenth! (I only hope there's no truth in the statement about the unlucky day they chose!) There are two dances scheduled for that day—a tea dance from three until five, and the Prom at eight-thirty. Next item of importance: we're having Ken Reeves and his Orchestra who are known for their snappy swing rhythms on many a New England campus. And last but by no means least, "Flo" McConnell is heading up the decorations committee. This fact is almost as good as a guarantee that everything in that line will be done in A-1 style. Dame Rumor has it that by some manner the lights will be dimmer, and they are working to get an amplifier in the dining room across the hall so that the amount of elbow-rubbing while dancing will be practically nil.

Well, John, it sounds like a pretty fair set-up to me. It'll probably go down in history as one of Connecticut's biggest and best affairs. In case you get bored there are always several smooth-looking waitresses who will be dying to take you off my hands. No one could ever convince me that there is any such thing as unlucky thirteen if you'll only send your acceptance to an eagerly awaiting

Sociology Group Holds Discussion In New York City

A small group of students who are studying race and immigration met in New York Sunday to learn at first hand the problems which arise in connection with administration of immigration and emigration. The meeting took the form of a luncheon discussion at the Parkside Hotel. Miss Marian Schibsky who is associate director of the foreign language service of New York described the immigration legislature now before Congress as well as the work of her organization in sending articles on health, naturalization, citizenship, and similar subjects to several hundred newspapers in twenty languages throughout the country. The work of caring for non-Aryan refugees in this country was summarized by Miss Cecilia Rasovsky who is in charge of the placing of thousands of people who come to this country every year, particularly from Germany. Other guests included Miss Alice Tousley, associate director with Dr. Bessie Bloom Wessel in ethnic researches; Miss Haigouki Haigazn, formerly a member of the physics department here whose ultimately successful efforts to receive citizenship received considerable attention from immigration authorities, and Miss Sadow.

Connecticut faculty members who attended the luncheon included Mrs. Wessel who arranged the meeting, Dr. Charles C. Chakerian, and Miss Jane Garretson; the students were Jeannette Shingle, Adeline Gitlin, Mary Hellwig, and Eliza Bissell. The meeting was so successful and promoted such interesting discussion others are planned for later in the year including a tentative trip to Ellis Island where immigrants to this country must first go and from which all deportation takes place.

College Gladrags

By Dede

"Just looking, thanks"—

See the blue novelty tweed sport coat. Just the thing for between season wear. It has smartly fitted princess style lines, is single breasted, has high revers above four buttons, and is finished off by a bit of bright color, a red velvet ascot.

Look at that knit two piece dress. A navy blue skirt and a short sleeved blouse of shaded colors—first, at the waist, a dark red, then a deep rose, and the third, a band of very light tan. It also has a high round neckline and is buttoned from top to bottom!

Now view that clever afternoon frock—it's a green print, the pattern being a mass of small scattered British flags! Three overlapping, whitebound pockets with horizontal gathers between them, trim the blouse. Short stand up sleeves and a white bound collar fastened in front by a rhinestone clip in the shape of the British crown give the dress extra smartness.

Take a look at this grand "date" dress—shades of red in the latest fashion from Paris, Paisley print on a white crepe background. The skirt is formed by the slimming lines of stitched gores. A tiny turnover collar, a row of bright blue buttons, small "elbows-on-the-table-sleeves"; and a reversible belt of the same bright blue are the finishing touches.

Behold the "slinky" black and white formal! From the low décolletage back the neckline comes over to the front and is draped into a soft knot. The white ribbon bow design on the black silk background of the dress is contrasted by a wide green suede belt. A very smart looking dress!

And now eye the odds and ends—

Heavy white woolen gloves with a brightly colored plaid woven into the mitt.

Silk turbans of Paisley print design. They are already shaped to fit the head but still have the appearance when worn of being hand tied. Grand to wear with sport clothes!

Narrow leather belts with plain leather buckles in most any color to match your outfit.

more adequate faculty membership, for reorganization and development of various academic departments, for enlargement of the library facilities, are presented in the pamphlet.

The activities of the college alumnae, especially those of the graduating class of 1936, prove that the work and achievements of that group are increasingly important. The augmented number of scholarships available to present students, as well as a wider opportunity for earning money while in college, have made it possible for many students to continue their education. Throughout the year, gifts to the college have brought about the realization of several projects.

The report closes with a complete record of the financial status of Connecticut College.

FACULTY SCIENCE CLUB

On Monday night, January 18, a Faculty Science Club meeting was held in Windham. A speech on cellulose and its dyeing properties was given.

Correct Answers

(These are the answers given by the faculty, together with the correct answers, to the questions to be found on Page 2)

Miss Denny: "I know it's a measure of length—whether it's a nautical mile or not I don't know."

Correct: A knot is a measure of speed. It is one nautical mile per hour.

Dr. Laubenstein: "I imagine it was Aesop himself."

Miss Lobb: "There are many schools of thought on this question, but I believe it is probably a compilation of the works of several authors."

Correct: The authorship of the Fables is a matter of dispute. Some authorities deny his existence.

Miss Manning: "Twenty-eight days".

Correct: There are twenty-nine and one half days in a lunar month. However, a psychology authority has given evidence to the effect that twenty-eight days might be an acceptable response to such a question since a lunar month when referred to by child psychologists is twenty-eight days.

Miss Haussman: "They do".

Correct: The so-called "fixed stars" actually move.

Senorita Biaggi: "No, they could not."

Correct: You are right, Senorita, they could not.

Dr. Lawrence: "The first name that comes to my mind is Henry Ford. For just a guess I would say it was in the first decade of the twentieth century."

Correct: The first auto was invented by Henry Alonzo House in 1866 and was operated by steam.

Miss Priest: "New Orleans."

Miss Keene: "New Orleans, I guess, but I've never thought of it before."

Correct: Baton Rouge is the correct pronunciation of the capitol of Louisiana.

Miss Kelly: "No, it isn't."

Correct: Jacksonville, Florida is south of San Diego, California.

Miss Brett: "There is an Edmund in one of Shakespeare's plays. I think it's in one of the 'Henry's'."

Correct: Edmund is a character in King Lear.

10

We regret that this question was not received cordially by many members of the faculty. We would appreciate any answers that might be sent in. Therefore the answer will be withheld until next week's publication.
