The Elizabeth Gilbert Fortune ’91 Recital Hall in the Cummings Arts Center is to be dedicated officially on Friday, February 25 with an invitation-only concert. Adams, former trustee, and concert pianist Sylvia Pasternack Marx will be the evening’s performer. The hall is funded by a private donation of $300,000 from the estate of alumna Elizabeth Fortune ’91.

Construction on Fortune Recital Hall began over the summer and fall months were added to the hall throughout last semester. An architect was hired to ensure that the hall has proper sound dynamics for concerts with special wall coverings. In addition, a recording studio adjacent to the hall was instated to include sound booth that allows for state-of-art recording and monitoring of events occurring at the same time as in the John C. Evans Hall and the Olivia Leirman Hall.

Finals. This construction of Fortune Recital Hall was complemented with the reconstruction of the nearby office and living quarters.
Professor Zimmer's New Book: Emblematic of Conn's Top notch Faculty

It is not uncommon for the College to boast about the prestige of its faculty. Not too long ago, Professor of Chemistry Marc Zimmer published an insightful book in the field of Nucleosynthesis. Numerous reviewers acclaimed the book for its relevance to a wide array of societal issues. The Connecticut African-American Affairs Commission recently named Assistant Professor of Human Development Michelle Daniels its "Woman of the Year" in light of her achievements in the field, which included a slew of published works. These accomplishments are but a couple of examples of the high caliber of the College's professors. While a Conn student may frequently overhear or generate complaints regarding budgetary constraints or limited course availability, we at The Voice rarely hear negative remarks that target classes or faculty. Quality of the faculty is a matter that cannot be waived a dollar bill in the face of any recession applicant, and nobody can deny that the fact that salary is at least a partial consideration for a professor who is debating between an opening at Conn and Williams College. But in order to ensure its reputation as an institution for the amount it pays its full-time faculty members, the College should approach this issue with great attention and care. Clearly, the College cannot take its own self-characterization and that of the "Fiske Guide to Colleges" at face value. Thus, the College cannot take its own self-characterization and that of the "Fiske Guide to Colleges" for granted. Indeed, the College is lucky to have the dedicated and accomplished faculty members that it
The political debate over the role of women and feminism is a hot topic.

The debate about women's rights and feminist ideologies has been ongoing for decades. Feminism, in its various forms, seeks to promote the political, economic, and social rights of women and to challenge gender inequalities. The debate is complex, and it involves different perspectives, such as liberal feminism, socialist feminism, and radical feminism.

Liberal feminism advocates for equality between men and women through the legislative and legal systems. It seeks to ensure women's rights and opportunities, often through policies that promote gender equality, such as equal pay for equal work and reproductive rights.

Socialist feminism adds an economic dimension to the feminist movement, focusing on the role of the state and the economy in shaping women's lives. It argues that addressing economic inequalities is crucial for achieving gender equality and that women's liberation is closely linked to social and economic change.

Radical feminism, on the other hand, challenges the very idea of a binary gender system and promotes non-binary and genderqueer identities. It rejects the idea of women's rights and focuses on dismantling the patriarchy and creating a society where gender does not define a person's identity or worth.

The debate about feminism is not new, and it has been a topic of discussion in various cultural and political contexts. The recent resurgence of interest in feminism has led to increased visibility for feminist movements and organizations, as well as a renewed conversation about gender equality and women's rights.

The debate continues to evolve, and it is important to recognize the diversity of voices and perspectives within the feminist movement. Engaging in open and respectful dialogue is crucial for understanding and addressing the complexities of gender equality.

In conclusion, the debate about feminism is a complex and multifaceted issue that involves different perspectives and histories. It is essential to continue discussing and exploring the various dimensions of feminism to promote a just and equitable society for all.

Rouse's Nashville: A Little Hi.Country, A Little Pop-Soul

BY PAUL...

Josh Rouse is one of those artists who can produce true excellence with such simplicity. His last album, 1997's, was a concept album, Recalling Memphis soul. "The soul rock, and straight-ahead danceable '60s pop, it was a departure from Rouse's typical rocky singer-songwriter style.

"As All Music Guide says, "the record has a jazzy tone and a fish dreaminess." With Nashville, released this past winter, Rouse is back to his usual style; however, this time he may be his best work yet. The groove is just present enough as he returns to his version pop sensibility and space arrangements.

Rouse was born in Nebraska, but grew up all over the country (from Georgia to South Dakota). Obsessed with guns and written his first hit song at 18. The rock record has a jaunty bounce however, this time it may be his best work yet. The groove is just present enough as he returns to his version pop sensibility and space arrangements.

Rouse's Nashville, named for where it was recorded, features music from both England and the Irish charts at Number 48. It is best described as "alt-country pop-soul" or music that sets the mood for soft and somber late nights.

The previews for Will Smith's newest flick, Hitch, suggest a slapstick comedy. These previews, however, are hilarious. Hitch turned out to be a hero film. The story lines and acting were so bad that it was a tremendous disappointment. Hitch's Eva Mendes contrast to Kate Hudson's charm and Smith has not yet preserved the romantic comedy quite like Matthew McConaughey.

Josh Rouse's "Hitch" drives to be a romantic comedy cut from the same mold as How to Lose a Guy in 10 Days, but even that had redeeming qualities. Hitch's Eva Mendes compare to Kate Hudson's charm and Smith has not yet preserved the romantic comedy quite like Matthew McConaughey.

Top Ten People Who Should Never Host The Oscars

10. Courtney Love (C'mon, it's a family show)
9. Michael Jackson (Like it said: it's a family show)
8. Martha Stewart (She's gonna “steal” the show...or the Oscars?)
7. Chris Rock (Remember the MTV Movie Awards?)
6. Paris Hilton (There's a lot of reading involved...all those cue cards.)
5. Andrew Dice Clay (Do you even need a reason?)
4. Pauly Shore (His new movie is called “Pauly Shore is Dead.” The man knows what he's talking about).
3. Al Gore (The show feels long enough)
2. A-rod (Might knock the trophy out of the winners' hands)
1. David Letterman (We don't want to see a repeat of the “Uma-Oprah” incident)

Some people think this week's Close-Up is Ugly, but this know high trend has been going strong for two whole years now. And since it's starting to get cold again, you might want to find some for yourself! E-mail ccvoice@conncoll.edu is you know what we're talking about.

Camel Curiosity

The dromedary camel is no longer considered a wild animal. In Africa and Arabia it is a semi-domesticated animal that free ranges but is under the control of herders.

So the Oscars are this coming weekend, and let me tell you, the roving reporter is more than a little disappointed that Harold and Kumar Go to White Castle was overlooked by the Academy for best picture and The Rock's performance in Walking Tall didn't earn him a best actor nod. But it did get us thinking here at The Fun Page, there must be movies out there that you love that maybe the critics don't enjoy quite so much.

So the roving reporter hits the streets in search of your favorite "bad" movies...

Senior Ross Morin:
“Hmmm...'Sleep Away Camp III.'”

Sophomore Erin Sullivan:
“Is 'Tremors' good?”

Junior Lauren:
“My Little Pony The Movie'...but I don't feel guilty for liking it!”

Freshman Renata Shwallo:
“How about ‘Crossroads?’”

Not fun enough? Send YOUR ideas for the Camel Fun Page to ccvoice@conncoll.edu. Because seriously, this page needs more alliterations.
Field Track Flies At Championship Meet

Camel Of The Week: Casey Thran
