First Basket Ball Game Of Season Played Tuesday

Freshman Mascot—A Goose—Is Revealed Amid Cheers

The first basketball game of the season was played this last Tuesday night. At the game that mysterious secret of the season was revealed. Amid great hilarity a goose with a ribbon of the class color, red, waddled along in the Dalhouse gym, mounted the terrace, and walked the floor of the court.

The results of the games were Sophomores—41-15; Juniors—36-27.

The line-ups were as follows:

The Seniors and Juniors won.

Dartmouth Winter Carnival Reported By Participant
Doris Gilbert Chosen As One Of Queen’s Court

“Pardon our northern accent, pardon our frosty fall, pardon our funny customs—we’re planning to amuse y’all,” Doris Gilbert said, and we were very much amused.

A good number of Connecticut “gals”—along with a goodly number of Smith and Wellesleyites, we are forced to admit—adjourned to Dartmouth last week end for the annual, and this time special Silver Anniversary Carnival. This year the frosty fall didn’t bother us much for very obvious reasons, and although C. C. didn’t come off with any prizes in winter sports, everyone had a good time. The Seniors and Juniors won.

Mid-Winter Formal And Tea Dance To Take Place Thursday
All Plans To Be Kept Secret Until The Event

Today is the day when everybody’s curiosity concerning the prom will be satisfied. What are the decorations to be like? How will the waitresses be dressed? Both of these questions have been asked many times. Today they will be answered. But here is a little hint: the names of the eight girls who are acting as waitresses. Kay Woodward, Madelyn Hughes, Betty Osterman, Eleanor Krekler, Charlotte Pierson, Miriam Everett, Isabel Arnold, Pettie Mendliss. It is a big day for the entire college—so have fun!

In First Service Of Inter-Faith Month

The first four weeks of this month have been observed as the “Inter-Faith Month.” Many religious organizations of the college have cooperated in providing an opportunity to experience different forms of religious worship. This week the college community will have the opportunity to experience worship at the St. Mary’s Church, New London. The St. Mary’s Church Choir will be the musical featured group in the service.

The highlight of the festivities this week will be the annual Wesleyan Winter House Parties.

C. C. Leads Guest List At Annual Wesleyan Winter House Parties

At the annual Wesleyan Winter House Parties, which were held February 8 and 9, the college was host to a large number of guests. The guests included a number of prominent members of the Wesleyan faculty, and a number of students from other colleges.

The first of these, talking papers, follow:
Miss Matthews and Mrs. Morison speak from experience

Miss Anne Mathews, the only woman in the Taunton Hall, spoke to a group of students gathered in Knowlton Saloon, Monday afternoon. The talk, which was given by Miss Harrison, is a big day for the entire college—so have fun!

Miss Matthews pointed out the two major problems that are facing the student today: First, the political bosses pick out candidates for office; second, their party is in control of the government and bears such international implications.

In order to get the party to support their candidate, they are employing their skills for their own advantage. They are employing their skills for their own advantage. They are employing their skills for their own advantage.

Today men in all forms of society are employing their skills for their own advantage. They are employing their skills for their own advantage. They are employing their skills for their own advantage.

Any party man has to vote as his conscience tells him to vote, not as the party wants him to vote.

The question of Propaganda has greater implications than are at first apparent. Propaganda has already played a conspicuous role in the history of the world. It most naturally occurred to the political machine in the United States. More recently, the dispute over the radio station, which was erected on the border-line of Germany and Austria, on German soil, and which continued to disperse propaganda, attracted international attention.

Each nation naturally congratulated itself on having an opportunity to participate so actively. We are sending thirteen delegates who leave on Friday for the Congress. The de-
The current conflict of opinions regarding war and peace are apt to leave the average individual in a quandary as to which attitude is preferable. We go to the movies where almost every news reel is an advocate of large defensive programs. The New Republic points out in a recent issue, the political attitude and the learning in the picture, is "Devils of the Air". Of Hearst is at the back of most of the advertising in the picture of the purposes of the country. On the other hand, impromptu pools of college students are brought to our attention by that, not only is peace preferable, but also that the best way of achieving it is by avoiding the League of Nations with its international entanglements and by limiting armaments.

These students are looking at the question from an unselfish point of view, whereas saving millions of lives and rescuing future generations from the burdens of debts incurred by war, in trying to pull the country out of its present condition, they are making an effort to avoid all unnecessary expenses. Certainly these expenses incurred by war are superfluous. The student body usually recog- nizes these truths, but it is at a loss as to how to remedy them. By merely taking a greater interest in current affairs, seeing the fallacies in war programs, and by influencing our friends to think as we do, we are building up what will eventually be the only point of view. We are continually told that soon our generation must take over the helm of political affairs, and, therefore, who counts in the near future on May 10. Mrs. Day, principal of Mrs. Day's School in the market to buy original plays, from it. I feel Myra Hess or Harold Baur in itself means more than it does for several half-way individuals. In my estimation our concerts this year have not selected their salesmanship ability for one outstanding person than it does for several nondescript performers. The financial situation would become one of the better kinds of diversion. Therefore it should be a music which is not mediocre. In college it becomes one of the pleasanter relaxations, for one outstanding person rather than a smattering of the proper time.

First teams, Senior-Junior Second teams; Friday, March 1, Senior-Junior First teams, Sophomore-Junior Freshman First teams, Sophomore-Freshman Second teams. All those interested are invited to attend. The speaker who addressed the French Club on Friday, February 9, was Miss Margaret Jones, a graduate of an American university who has spent five years in Paris and the provinces. Her talk was a travesty of the other parts of France. Miss Jones gave these plans an appreciation of music as can the greater artists who made their debut at the proper time. The performers who are not so well appreciated of music. The performers who are not so well the province of this column as an organ of the program which our first concert artist played. It should be the music! Music does have its part in all every-day living. In college it becomes one of the pleasant relaxa- tions, the right kind of diversions. Therefore it should be good music.

The argument has been brought up that one well-chosen program played as artistically as can be done is worth many times more than many less important programs. It is true that one feels more inspired after listening to an artist who is known universally, and one may get a lasting impression of that artist, but in listening to a program, who counts more, the artist or the program? Is it the person- ality of the artist whom we admire or the good music? It should be the music! It is true that we should have one or two great concert artists come to the college every year, but we need the monthly concerts for the proper appreci- ation of music. Those who are not so well-known can furnish just as good a background and appreciation of music as can the greatest artists who may be such just because they made their debut at the right time. The Hollywood Art Theatre is the market to buy original plays, dramatic sketches, and drawings, music and good music. It should be the music!

If the Editor do not hold themselves guilty for the opinions expressed in this column, in order to insure the validity of this column as an organ for the impression of honest opinion, the editor must know the names of contributors.

Dear Editor:

How many of the concerts that we have heard this year at college are going to leave any lasting impressions? Each year we find oneself on the program for any of the programs which our first concert artist played. Music does have its part in all every-day living. In college it becomes one of the pleasant relaxa- tions, the proper time.

Terrorists' activities will derive much of its material from the League Council. The decision of this body, however, was never to place the blame on certain in definitely named individuals, and to exonerate the government of any actual guilt in the matter. Following this, Captain Eden introduced a proposal which, in effect, would result in the establishment of some sort of World Court to pass judg-mint on all such problems. The question of extraditing a man for political offenses is naturally likely to prove of great interest.

Sanctions, and Regional Pacts, which will be the problems of Commmittee number 1, are receiving in creased attention today. The situation in the Chaco, and with China and Japan, have illustrated the felt need of developing some means of international pressure to operate for peaceful arbitration. On January 16, the League of Nations Assembly's Chaco committee, establishing a major precedent, unanimously recommended that all League members end their arms embargo in so far as it applies to Bolivia and strengthen it in so far as it applies to Paraguay. The resolution adopted

WHAT'S YOUR DEGREE?

To what degree are you correlating your studies to the reading of a good newspaper that is fitted to the needs of college students?
A good newspaper broadens your education; it places before you,
everyday, accurate reports of what is happening in the world.
The Sun is such a paper. It has long been the favorite New York evening newspaper of college undergraduates and college graduates.
It is noted for its interesting style and for its accuracy and completeness. It meets the requirements of the intelligent group which you represent.

Because it is an evening paper, The Sun brings you today's news, not tomorrow, but today, while it is still fresh and important. Enjoy it at your leisure after classes; use it for your next day's studies.

DARTMOUTH WINTER CARNIVAL REPORTED
It might well have been "Home Port" because "everybody" was there.
Saturday morning, when some of us were catching a few winks, there were hockey games and ski races. The Intercollegiate Ski Jumping Tournament held at three o'clock brought out Carnival guests en masse.
Saturday night found us back at the Fraternity Houses dancing.
There were a million and one things to do. Given two weeks we might have covered them all, tobogganing, skating, to say nothing of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pirates of Penzance" which was given by the Dartmouth Players.

The snow sculpturing was very lovely. Almost everything imaginable was represented—a sphinx, the north wind, several nude ladies who looked very cold, and one huge King Kong, so tall we couldn't figure out how it was built. The graceful figure of a girl on skates, won first prize.
So it was really a great success, this Dartmouth weekend. Let's have lots more funny customs, if that's what you call them, and as for the northern accent (we call it a line), the southern drawl doesn't have a chance from now on.

TWO SPEAKERS DISCUSS WOMEN IN POLITICS
machine dictates, otherwise he is liable not to run again for office.

As it is, about 90% of the people in our nation do not vote in the primaries, and as a consequence the machine is able time and again to carry the vote.
So far the number of women who have successfully entered politics is very small. If any woman wants to ever work her way into a desirable position, she will have to first establish her reputation in another field, as Miss Frances Perkins did in the field of social work. Miss Matthews emphasized the fact that women have not as yet shown sufficient interest or initiative to justify the tremendous fight that was waged to secure for them the privilege of voting.

Mrs. Morrison of Grotton, formerly of Chicago, spoke Thursday on "How We Got The Vote," in explaining the means by which women were able to obtain their vote, Mrs. Morrison continued the subject of women's place in politics discussed by Miss Matthews on Tuesday.

Morrison has taken an active part in the suffrage movement, having served as first Vice President of the National League of Women Voters, President of the Illinois League of Women Voters, and Secretary of the National Women Suffrage Association. At present she is a member of the Institute of Pacific Relations, Tokyo.

Just what is meant by cross-blending tobaccos... and how does it make a cigarette milder and taste better...

Well, in blending you take two or more tobaccos and mix them together—a rather simple process. But cross-blending goes a step further...

In making Chesterfields we take bright tobacco from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. We take Burley tobacco from Kentucky and Tennessee, and tobacco from Southern Maryland.

Then in addition to these home-grown tobaccos we take tobacco grown in Turkey and Greece.

We balance these mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos with the right amounts and the right kinds of aromatic Turkish.

Then, instead of just mixing the tobaccos together, we blend and cross-blend them so that all the different flavors go together into one full flavor—the Chesterfield taste that so many smokers like.

Cross-blending tobaccos as it is done in Chesterfields gives the cigarette a pleasing taste and aroma—they're mild and yet they Satisfy.
