Barthianism To Be Expounded Sunday by W. G. Richards

Third Speaker In Inter-Faith Student Series Will Tell Of Important Movement

The third speaker in Inter-faith Student Series, held Sunday night, will be George W. Richards, president of the theological seminary of the Reformed church in the United States, at Lancaster, Pa. President Richards has studied at the universities of Berlin, Erlangen, Edinburgh, and received the degree of Th.D. from the University of Heidelberg. After serving a pastorate in Allentown, Pa., he was appointed professor of church history in the Reformed Theological Seminary, and soon after became its head. He has also been lecturer in the Biblical Seminary in New York.

Mr. Richards for many years has been prominent in the religious life of America, and particularly in the work of the American Reformed Church. He has served as the president of the American society of church history, of the Reformed church in the United States, formerly Church in the United States, and of the American Theological Society.

He is the author of Historical and Doctrinal Texts and Authoritarian and Modernist dogmas, which reveals him as one of the outstanding interpresers of American thought and its reformation. In the thought of Karl Barth, the famous Swiss theologian, whose preaching and writing has had such a tremendous influence in Europe today, an influence the making of a great friend of the English speaking world. President Richards can say more of this with contemporary trend within Christendoom.

The service will be at 7:30 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

Miss Brett gives directions

Miss Brett stated that students should be asked to have only metal waste baskets after this. Baskets should be secured before the week begins. All combustible waste baskets will be confiscated at that time. Students were asked to keep baskets away from curtains and also be careful of dropping hot matches into them.

She concluded by saying that there was sense of reassurance through the behavior of students when there was a fire and, with that wish that, in the future, we shall make more progress.

Choosing: An Important Phase of Living

Do you have a happy faculty of choosing the right thing to do at the right time? Or perhaps you don’t blithely on your way, acting entirely on impulse without much thought of possible complications, letting your hump of judgment and choice go underdeveloped.

Choice is a tremendous factor in our development during the college years. Obviously, our choice of courses and of our major is extremely important. Besides, there are other far-reaching decisions which we must make.

Many of us go extremes in our Freshman year. Between classes or in the gym we fall into the trap of doing all possible activities or skipping them entirely. It’s probably better to get a little taste of everything than of nothing at all; but eventually we must choose what activities we will devote our time and in choosing with good judgment we determine to a large extent what our own personal gains will be as well as what we will contribute to campus life.

We have all heard the advice to go to Connecticut College to continue our education. Wouldn’t it be a good idea to keep on making equally good choices in connection with our college life? —87—

Inter-Faith Vespers

A new movement has been started! This new movement is far better the better understanding and better realization of the different religions. It makes for a united front of religion. It brings together the different religions in a harmonious relationship with one another.

Not only Connecticut College has started these inter-religious vespers, but other colleges in the United States have begun, too. Connecticut has had two Vespers speakers this month, one representing the Jewish faith, and one, the Catholic. These inter-Faith Vespers will last for the rest of the month.

And what can we, as students, do to help this movement? Naturally, the first thing we can do is attend Vespers. But will attendance alone assist in the movement? Naturally, the first thing we can do is attend Vespers. But attendance alone will not help in the movement.

The sad tale is just this. Ferdinand had an extra-special love for the odors of flowers. Also he had a favorite spot under a cork tree where he just loved to spend time, all his time. Unfortunately a bee liked the same spot and that caused all the trouble, because Ferdinand sat on the bee and things began to happen.

Now, as I have said, this book was written for children, but it had a quite unimportant effect on the adult world as well. I first met the book last spring, and now, so soon, we have our new national hero. But not only have we this addition to the annals of our country, but also we have a new book that threatens to become a children’s classic and a serious threat to the gravity and dignity of the adult population.

Speaking with more gravity for just a moment, aside from the very clever humor of the drawings, the drawings are superb and very appealing to those who would not enjoy the book late last spring, and now, so soon, we have our new national hero. But not only have we this addition to the annals of our country, but also we have a new book that threatens to become a children’s classic and a serious threat to the gravity and dignity of the adult population.

Poll Says Outlines are Beneficial

College outlines are a definite aid to improved grades, in the opinion of students using them, a poll conducted under the auspices of the Bureau of Educational Surveys, New York City, shows. The poll, covering a period of several months, embraced 3,720 students in 223 institutions of higher learning. Eight students from Connecticut College were included in the poll.

By far the largest number of students reported grade increases from fair to good, following the use of these study helps. A second large group reported improvement in grades from failure to passing. In a few cases, students previously receiving failing grades reported final A’s.

Outlines are a tremendous factor among students that was that by stating the facts clearly, the college outlines simplified study material, enabled them to quickly grasp the essentials as well as get the most out of the recommended text and auxiliary reading. The professors included in the poll in the main approved the use of outlines by the students on the ground of their value as a supplement to their own lectures and as a means of getting the subject together in a coherent and concrete way. When a few expressed the belief that they helped the student who might otherwise get lost in an introductory course. “As great a help to the student as any one fact,” was the opinion of a Baylor University professor.

The poll was not without its dissenting votes. A student from a Middle-western school wrote: “I thought the outlines would have been a great help if I had read it.” And this came from an educator at a prominent Eastern University. “It is not a pleasant sensation to have a student come into your class with one of these outlines and use it apparently as a check upon what one is talking about.”

Spanish Guitarist Enthusiastically Received Here

There are two notices which should be brought to the attention of the college students. The first is that all dance sponsored by Service League for the following four weeks. The second is that all dance sponsored by the Spanish Student Association. The events are being held in the college gymnasium.

Talent for Writing Plays To Be Given Opportunity

A first prize of $200.00 is being offered by the Religious Drama Council for the best one-act play on the subject of peace and war. The reasons are to be found in the rules of the state, which requires that all competitions be held in the state.

Last week a large gathering in the gym attended the world premiere of the movie "A Day In The Life" on the Connecticut Campus. The film was taken last fall by Charles Carbone, a graduate of the college. The variety of activities covered by the movie include the mascot tradition, a means of reaching the students, and a way of entertaining them in an unusual way. The color effects alone would go far to make it worthwhile.

Mid-Winter Formal

Now A Pleasant Memory
February 19th—Mid-Winter Formal—"Thanks for the Memories"—is the date for this annual social event. This is the way all of the Connecticut party girls are thinking of the past week-end with its gala dances—for many the grandest occasion of the year. On this eventful evening about all of C.C. and the better part of Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst and Wesleyan swarmed through Knowlton's hospitable doors to "spread the jam" with Ken Reeves and his orchestra.

The gay picture of the brilliance and jollity of the Salon was caught by one of the students for the Pulp. The punch and cookies served in the dining-room revived the tired toilers, and they could again "truck on down." Thus "on with the dance" until that fatiguing stroke of twelve, when the light-hearted collegians trooped out of Knowlton more than ever in animal cracker boxes.

Here life is gayest, one works little and talks much, attends festivals, learns to wear the cloak, the art of color, which is "the struggle!" The land with its agrarian culture, its extroverted way of living, its lack of industry, is the poor brother of Spain but it has given much—unity, negotiates, mystic poets, dramatists; and Spain's strength and endurance.

"The Gold and Black

"Philosophy has advanced, in my opinion, not because of any improvement in mental quality in the masses but rather because the realization of the material advantages to be gained from the toleration of genius has slowly percolated into the minds of the majority of our species." Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, professor of anthropology and curator of Peabody Museum at Harvard, argues flat social, material and intellectual progress are always the result of the effort of the gifted individual.

"Indifference to human personality constitutes a much more serious aspect of undergraduate life than sex." An article in the Harvard Advocate, student monthly, maintains that sex is a "minor" problem and laid most cases of maladjustment at Harvard to this indifference.

Dr. Thomas Hunt of London believes such a headache could change the course of history.
