Lecture by Sir Leslie Munro

by Ann Frankel '59

The faculty, students, and guests of the College were privy to a lecture by Sir Leslie Munro, President of the Commonwealth of Australia, at the United Nations General Assembly. The speaker was invited to speak here after he was quoted in the Sunday, March 5, at 8:30 p.m.

The international fame of this group is a contemporary phenomenon, in that it rests exclusively on the popularity of its music. In knowledge of the failure to transfer sovereignty to a central power, the U.N. has not been successful in its attempts to deter aggression, thus the creation of the Emergency Force to meet the threat with a show of force.

Another criticism has been the growing ineffectiveness of the Security Council. The presence of many nations will not increase its effectiveness.

The Cannes Film Festival has resulted in the introduction of many exciting, terror-filled movies. The United Nations has not been effective in forcing nations to preserve peace. There are many ways in which its effectiveness can be increased.

When Mario tries to pull Jo out, he has nearly drowned in the river. When MaryML tries to pull Jo out, he has nearly drowned in the river.

Mr. Birdsall, Mr. Brodigan, and Mr. Leary have been introduced by Miss Burdick, who is a member of the Senior Dramatic Society. The program was hampered by the absence of key performers, but despite this, it was a success. The mood was light, airy, and rather Parisian.

MARY ANN HANDY

One of the busiest girls in the Freshman class is the President of the Freshman Class, Mary Ann Handy. A graduate of Chaffee School, she was chosen to be the Freshman Class President this year. She worked in plays there, and has also worked in summer stock during vacations. Although a history major, she is active in the Student Council, and in the G.A.A., worked on the yearbook. She is an avid tennis fan and tennis fan. In her last year at camp she was a tennis instructor. Although undoubtedly right now, she is missing her own. As the new director of Breakfast of China, Mary Ann is also the director of the successful Senior Molandra{id=1225629}

We wish to congratulate all of the candidates for the student government offices—both the winners and the losers. Becoming a candidate for such an office is hardly less of an honor than winning itself. But our very special congratulations are reserved for one member of our student government who did not run for her office—at least not in the usual way. We send her our heartfelt congratulations for her newly acquired position for the past two and one half years. She filed no petition, she circulated no petition, she made no speeches. She has done no more than her very best since she has come to Connecticut.

We are speaking, of course, of our new editor. Our choice is not a bad one; we are sure that she will be able to handle the editorial board, will be able to surpass the goals we set for ourself this time last year. We have seen many changes in the world, in the country, and in our college since we assumed the responsibilities of our positions just one short year ago. These changes are inevitable; therefore, we shall probably be many duties different from last year. We have the utmost confidence in the ability of the girls who comprise the new staff to meet these duties, and we wish them the best wishes for the several tasks that lie before us.

The hill we stand upon is not as high as we had once thought it would be, but we had underestimated the difficulties inherent in the task. We are now looking forward to a new pleasure—that of reading Conncensus with an unbiased eye. But the left of the awesome responsibility will have an even greater effect upon us, for it will leave us with a sad and terrible void. We are sad because we are to relinquish our copy pencils and our spot in the sun before we have done all that we were capable of doing. We have come to the top of the hill that was once filled with fun and frolic. Behind us we see our rocky climb; the path behind us is filled with mistakes and failures. The hill we stand upon is as high as we had one thought it would be, but we had underestimated the difficulties inherent in the climb. We have but two consolations; we have won and moved on. I now hope we can now come in splendor before us. We are leaving our posts wishing the very best to those who follow us, but at the same time, we feel the wishes for the several tasks that lie before us.

Last Saturday, twenty-one young ladies piled into three ears and hit the dusty trail for Wellesley and its renowned playday. Other women went for basketball, swimming, badminton playday was Wellesley, Radcliffe, Stan- ford, Rose. Connecticut's team, despite the rather terrifying reputation held for the rugby, was our own, that's true. (Must admit that when we saw some of the plays, we had to take our own our own.) As usual we had underestimated the difficulties inherent in the plays. We have but two consolations; we have won and moved on. But now the new staff must meet the several duties and responsibilities of our positions just one short year ago. These changes are inevitable; therefore, we shall probably be many duties different from last year. MISS CAROL BOSCHE OF 370 TENCHEN STREET, NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT, has been named to the Connecticut College faculty for the academic year 1958-59 as a part-time instructor in philosophy.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Miss Bosche was graduated with a B.A. degree in philosophy from Washington University in 1952, and received a B.A. degree in English as she was doing graduate study at Yale University and was a candidate for the Ph.D. in philosophy. The title for her dissertation will be "Metaphysics in Plato's "Philebus".

She received a full scholarship to study in Germany during the past school year. She spent the winter vacation in Nuremberg and Heidelberg and her summer semester at the University of Freiburg. She also traveled in other European countries.

Critics Appraise Productions Of Sophomore, Junior Casts

The Sophomores and Juniors presented two sharply contrasted productions last Friday evening as part of their series of Center Play Opens at Palmer Auditorium, Connecticut College.

Scene 1, Act I, Scene 1, of Mary Chase's "Harvey," directed by Steve Rusk, produced an over- dowed and her over-stuffed imp.

Miss Bosche's handling of the scenes of "Harvey" were uniformly convincing, and Miss Bosche was featured as the house spirit in "Philebus," which was a clever and humorous study of Platonic philosophy.

Engaged

In the vein of Connecticut tradition, many more engagements have been announced since Christmas vacation. The announcements were not restricted to any one class or dormitory, as engagements are frequent throughout.

Larrabee House Construction

Blends Traditional, Modern

Ed. note: This is the first in a series of articles on Larrabee House. Following articles will include the existing accommodations.

Miss Steak, a junior at Trinity College and the two indefinite.

It would be easy to say that the Larrabee House is being built with the intention of adding another building on to its south side, but such an approach is built on the idea that we have nothing else to do with the rest of the house.

Therefore, Larrabee will become a dormitory and house dining rooms. The food preparation will be easier and some rooms will retain their privacy. The architects are Shreve & Larrabee.

Corinna Churchill, of the Sophomores, has turned in perhaps the most familiar. She was a Director of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation. Usual this position is held by a Sophomore, but Miss Churchill, majoring in the social sciences as well as in nursing, has been involved in the activities of the Sophomore and Junior Casts.

Larrabee House has a library which consists of over 1000 books, many of which are related to the study of the arts and humanities.

Larrabee House is a dormitory and house, and one of the social centers of the College.

Larrabee House is a dormitory and house which was built in 1952. It was designed by the firm of Shreve & Lamb.

The house consists of two main buildings. The first building, which was completed in 1952, is a three-story structure with a central entrance. The second building, which was completed in 1953, is a two-story structure.

The house has a library, a common room, and several study rooms. The library is equipped with a card catalog and a reference collection.

The common room is furnished with couches and chairs, and has a large fireplace.

The study rooms are equipped with desks, chairs, and bookshelves.

The house is situated on the north side of the campus, and is directly across the street from one of the main entrances to the College.

Wed., March 5, 1958

On Wednesday, March 5, twelve students from Connecticut College attended a meeting of the Department of Government to the United Nations at the New York City meeting place.

The trip was arranged by the International Relations Club of Connecticut College, with the charge of the actual details and arrangements being handled by Mrs. Elizabeth D. Miller '21.

The gifts left New London early in the morning and arrived about 10:30. Miss Helen Ballou was able to obtain reservations for the meeting of the Petitions Committee of the Trusteeship Council. The Trusteeship Council of the United Nations is the organ which is concerned with the territories, such as the Cameroons, which are trusteeship territories.

On the contrary, the Petitions Council was dealing with petitions from citizens of the British and French Indemnities, and the United States. A negative vote comes from a majority power, and the one cast when a matter of aggression is involved, the General Assembly can be made immediately.

"Neither vastness of territory... or separating shield of oceans offers security in case of a world war." It is necessary now, more than ever before in our history, to recognize the fact that all powers have an equal desire for survival.

The only answer would appear to lie either in the cessation of tests or in something similar to the plan proposed by Baruch: international control of weapons. An answer may or may not come out of the proposed Summit talks: Sir Leslie expressed his doubts that a failure of Summit powers to reach a decision could have serious consequences as far as the peoples' faith in government leaders is concerned. Perhaps it would be more prudent to "work in theory."
They're Available ... Are You?

Now here is the hot smoking hope on a once-in-a-lifetime opportun-ity being afforded only to friends of your background and character. At long last, you too can enjoy one whole, glorious weekend on the shores of the beautiful Schuylkill River (very near the University of Pennsylvania campus) during THE greatest collegiate social activity in the east! The five lucky girls who take advantage of this unprecedented offer will be housed at our fraternity. This grand part of this unprecedented event will run from April 25-27 Inclusive. Introductory amenities and lay out the procedure to be followed, the essence, although it is not as good as first appear-ance, is obviously a carbon copy, hence morally obli-gated to do justice to the honorable academic, the in-stitution of being "sans escorts" for the un-prejudiced, suave, charming and irresistible. Our philosophy is simple—we want to live fast, love hard, and never marry, but we can't get our kicks alone. As a means, we are forced to turn to young womanhood (not that this is a turn for the worse, some ad-vice of it even look good). Hence, to serve as a solution to the de-licious, this newy and opportun-ity presenting epistle has been conceived with just YOU in mind.

Dear Cornellian,

We can easily say that this is no ordinary venture into the field of creative literature—as a mat-ter of fact, we're not sure either what it is, but here it is for bet-ter, or for much better.

To introduce ourselves (listed alphabetically to eliminate any preferential order) we are: Pho-elps—22 yrs., 6'11", 180 lbs., Woodbridge, New Jersey, blue eyes, black hair, deadly con-tagious smile that guarantees to broach you out; Pete Gerrits—23 yrs., 6'3", 205 lbs., brown eyes, black hair, Hartford, Conn., ex-ceptionally athletic, Mr. Joe Colombo himself; Robert (Bob) T. Lewis—21 yrs., 6'2", 180 lbs., brown eyes, black hair, Pontiac, Michi-gan, secretary ATO, devastating y handsome. John T. Eubanick—23 yrs., 6'170 lbs., blue eyes, blond hair, Rochester, N. Y., pres-ident ATO, suave, charming and irresistible. Our philosophy is simple—we want to live fast, love hard, and never marry, but we can't get our kicks alone. Hence, to serve as a solution to the de-licious, this newy and opportun-ity presenting epistle has been conceived with just YOU in mind.

Now that you have noted the offer, the matter is out of our hands and into yours.
