Hatfield To Speak For Nixon At Conn

Senator Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, the nationally acclaimed Republican liberal, will endorse the candidacy of Richard Nixon in an address to Conn on Thursday, Oct. 3, 8 p.m., in Palmer Auditorium.

Although he is an acknowledged dove, Senator Hatfield is an outstanding Nixon supporter and he will explain this support in the light of what seems to be an opposing political position.

After the address, Young Republicans Club members will attend a reception with the Senator. Club sign-up sheets have been posted in the dorms. Students are urged to sign up as quickly as possible so that work may begin next week.

Senator Hatfield was invited to speak at Conn under the auspices of the Young Republicans Club when Judy Henderson '70, now president, sent invitations to all prominent Republicans. After the election, many other outstanding Republicans may speak at Conn: Massachusetts Senator Edward Brooke, former Republican National Chairman, Hugh Scott, Massachusetts Governor John Volpe and Margaret Chase Smith.

Largest Rep Club in State

The Connecticut Young Republicans Club is the largest and most active in the state and one of the largest in New England and, as such, has planned a tremendous rostrum of activities for the year. The club is working on a plan to have a debate between Senator Ribicoff, (D-Conn), and Republican hopeful, Edwin May during the Political Forum the weekend of Oct. 25-27.

In addition, a member of the New London Town Committee hopes to persuade Mayor John Lindsay to speak at Conn. Another projection for after the election is an analysis of the effect of the news media on the election. NBC commentators Huntley and Brinkley have been invited, as well as CBS commentator, Walter Cronkite.

The club plans a workshop in the beginning of October, which will discuss the mechanics of campaigning. College clubs from all over the state of Connecticut will be invited.

Yale is running an entire district of New Haven and Conn Young Republicans have been invited to share in the work. Campaign weekends at Yale will include private dinners, dances and a lot of essential work.

In the spring, the club will sponsor a National Student Leadership Conference in conjunction with the New England Federation. Debates, discussions and movies will be planned informally and white papers on political issues and candidates will be issued weekly.

This year's other officers, Vendeau Vafiades '71, vice president, Sally Underwood '71, secretary and Debbie Enoch '70, treasurer, along with president Judy Henderson emphasize the vital role that the Young Republicans Club can have in keeping a student well-informed on the issues.

"Or, whether you wish to hear our speakers, or become more actively involved, the C.C.Y.R.C. offers you a chance to increase your knowledge of the system we live under, to be informed of both sides of an argument, to meet fascinating people, and to participate actively in state, federal and local politics. Wherever your interest lies, we are in the position to fulfill it," concluded Judy.

CONN HONORS SIX SRS., ONE SOPH AS SCHOLARS

Six seniors, Mrs. Linda P. Tyler, Karen D. Bowden, Bonnie L. Daniels, Kathleen A. Dilzer, Maria C. Pellegrini, and Susan A. Scharlotte were named Winthrop Scholars at the 54th Opening Assembly.

This designation indicates election to Phi Beta Kappa on the basis of their six-semester records.

In addition Mary Faith Higgins '71 was named Irene Nye Scholar as the highest academically ranking in the class of 1970.

RTC Named

Linda Tyler, mother of two young sons, entered Connecticut College in 1966 as a Return to College Student. She is a zoology major, and was a student assistant in the department last year.

Karen Bowden, an English major, served as project secretary to the Project Development Survey investigating vocational training and employment opportunities for handicapped persons in the summer of 1967. She will be the housefellow at Grace Smith this year.

Bonnie Daniels, who has been active on Conn Census, and who was formerly an assistant makeup editor, is a history major.

German Scholar Elected

Majoring in German, Kathleen Dilzer received the German Consulate Prize for excellence in German last May. In addition, she lived in the German corridor and has held many offices in the German Club.

Maria Pellegrini, co-editor of Conn Census, received the Unity Prize in Italian in 1966. A chemistry major, she is also an undergraduate assistant in the chemistry department.

House Junior Honored

Susan Scharlotte, a history major, was a house junior for last year's freshman class. She has also represented her class on the Student-Faculty Academic Committee.

House To Consider Housing Petition

Kitten Marx and Susan Derman '70 are circulating copies of a petition which would allow seniors to have the option to live off campus in private residences of their own choice.

The petition will be presented to the House of Representatives soon.

Kitten and Susan began their research last spring with a poll of the entire student body. Results demonstrated that 65% of the students were interested in off-campus housing.

No Mass Exodus

Going under the assumption that only 10 per cent of the senior class took advantage of the car privilege, Kitten explained that there would probably be no "mass exodus" from the campus.

"Those 21 and 22 year-old girls who want to live off campus should have the option," she said.

Since, in some cases, dormitory living may prove a limiting experience, Kitten continued, academics such as honors work or independent study may be more successfully pursued in the quiet of a private home.

CLUB NIGHT

See "Little Europe" and hear the best from Conn's singing groups in the student lounge. Go on to the gym and the main lounge for anything from a side show to a three ring circus . . . ALL classes welcome tonight, 8 p.m. in Cro.

Six Receive New Posts

President Charles E. Shain has announced the appointment of two faculty members to the rank of assistant professor and four women to key administration posts.

Dr. William P. Holden, chairman of the department of education at Connecticut College, died June 23 at his home on campus. A 52-year-old English scholar, he came to the College in 1959 following 12 years as an assistant professor of English at Yale University.

At Yale, Mr. Holden was a fellow of Timothy Dwight College and advised and administered the John Hays Fellows.

Besides his concern with the preparation of Conn students to teach elementary and secondary school, Mr. Holden continued his research in the literature of Tudor England.

J. Donald McLaughlin
1912-1968

J. Donald McLaughlin, director of the Physical Plant, died August 4 following a brief illness. He was 56 years old.

During the 19 months he served in this position, Mr. McLaughlin supervised the maintenance of all campus buildings, faculty housing and the campus roads and grounds.

Under his direction the new Service Building was completed, and at the time of his death, he was instrumental in the reconstruction of Jane Adams House, the emerging Arts Center and this summer's extensive renovation of many academic buildings.

CHICAGO — WHAT NOW

Activities of the spring semester here instilled vigor and hope into students. Campaigning for Sen. McCarthy, the Vietnam Forum and Conn Quest are only a few of the channels through which the community's energies were directed.

We left the campus in May our mood optimistic, our hopes invested in the summer conventions. Then the stagnant air of Miami and the horror of Chicago crushed these hopes.

This week we returned to a changed campus. The physical renovations are obvious. What is more important and far more subtle is the change of mood among these May hopefuls. They are in the process of changing their direction. In fact, every individual who watched television or read a paper this summer realizes the necessity for a change. Chicago was the last straw.

The problem remains to choose a direction which will bring about the reforms we see are needed in society both within and without our community. Young Republicans have taken the lead this fall with their sponsoring of Sen. Hatfield and promise of future activities.

Young Democrats haven't. And yet Conn's Choice '68 results demonstrated overwhelming support for the dissident Democrats, led at the time by Sen. McCarthy.

The statements and activities of Young Democrats, if they do decide to act, hold a great amount of potential power to influence campus politics this year. Acceptance or rejection of the party ticket by the Democrats on campus is a vital move.

No one can deny student power in American politics — let's use it. We urge interested individuals to bring an Al Lowenstein, Abe Ribicoff or St. Onge to this campus in order to help determine the direction of the energy we demonstrated last spring.

Sociology 223

Approximately sixteen per cent of all eligible students enrolled last Wednesday in Sociology 223, "Minority Groups." This estimate excludes freshmen who may have been interested but lack an introductory course that is a prerequisite.

Such mass interest in a course dealing with the problems of today's society, especially urban society, indicates a definite need for more such courses. Yet nothing more has been mentioned of the tentative Negro History course which would have been offered this spring.

We are criticized for our interest in the contemporary world at the expense of a liberal arts background. With student interest in Sociology 223, we are asking for exactly this type of background. Why aren't there more courses like it in Negro history, literature and art, or in American Indian civilization?

We are told that we are too idealistic, and know so little of reality. Why aren't there more courses open to the whole student body that offer credit for work done in and with the New London community. Faculty and administration should emulate the interest and enthusiasm of the students by offering more courses of this nature.

Letters to the Editor

Javits Replies

ed. note: the following letter was received in May as a result of a series of letters from Conn students and faculty members to their congressmen protesting the war in Vietnam. The letters were written last spring during an all-day protest against the war.

Dear Friends:

Thank you for your recent communication regarding Vietnam. I understand the deep concern which prompted you to write. The search for the beginning of an end to the fighting in Vietnam has become the paramount issue.

Recent events have underscored the need for a reassessment of U. S. policy in Vietnam and for a realistic and effective new initiative to get peace negotiations started. The latest explanation of the U. S. position on bombing, which adopts a more realistic attitude toward the problem of infiltration from North Vietnam, is a hopeful development, as is Hanoi's recent statement that a bombing cessation "would" lead to negotiations. Given sufficient drive and ingenuity in our diplomacy, I feel that there is now a possibility of bringing the conflict to the conference table. I have made specific proposals in this regard in a recent Senate speech, a copy of which is enclosed.

In my judgment, the United States must also insist on higher standards of performance and self-help—both military and political—on the part of the South Vietnamese. It is their war to win or lose—all we can do is help. The increasing "Americanization" of this war must be reversed, in the best interest of the South Vietnamese and of the United States. A copy of a recent speech which states my position on this and other questions in greater detail is also enclosed.

Be assured that your views are appreciated, and that I will continue to work for a breakthrough looking to peace negotiations in Vietnam by all practical means.

Sincerely,

Jacob K. Javits, U. S. S.

APPOINTMENTS

Miss Margaret Watson, Connecticut College '61, is the new assistant dean for student activities. She will advise students concerning their campus organizations and social activities.

Mrs. Elinor M. Despalatovic, whose area of historic interest encompasses the history and culture of Slavic Europe, has been appointed assistant professor of history.

Mr. Eugene TeHennepe is now an assistant professor of philosophy. He is a specialist in the philosophical implications of language.

New Librarian

Mrs. Mary McKenzie, assistant librarian since 1967, has been named college librarian with the rank of associate professor. Mrs. McKenzie had been associated with the Library of Congress since 1949.

Another alumna of the college has been appointed as the director of the college Alumna Association. Miss Eleanor W. Tyler has already assumed her duties as executive director.

Miss Betsy James, former assistant academic dean at Mount Holyoke College, is the new director of career counseling and placement. She has had extensive experience as a vocational counselor, including such work at Smith and Skidmore.

Draft-dodging

ed. note: The following letter was received last June in response to news of a cake sale, sponsored April 16 on campus by the Civil Rights Club. Proceeds of the sale were to go towards a defense fund for black students in South Carolina refusing the draft.

To whom it may concern:

Possibly we are a bit biased, as we are members of the United States Armed Forces serving in East Africa, but to us it does not seem practical to support a group of students refusing the draft, which actually has "NO" redeeming social value.

If you were mature women and were supporting a group to have the draft laws re-written, we feel this would be worth sacrificing time for, but to underwrite a group for the explicit purpose of avoiding the draft does not at all show the maturity of a college woman.

Perhaps you don't realize that to support these mislead individuals can only contribute to the downfall of our country. You have very little foresight if you feel you are aiding our country with this selfish act.

We are all volunteers of the United States Armed Forces and were also faced with the draft situation. Many of us were in college at the time, but our sense of duty to our country was by far greater than any other personal gain.

Ladies, it disturbed us greatly to hear of those students in South Carolina who so openly refused to aid our country when the call for duty was given, not to mention those who supported their cause.

Are you mature women? Are you proud of what you are doing? If so, we would also like to know how you can proudly boast, "I am a citizen of the United States," and still have a clear conscience.

We the undersigned feel the cause that you are supporting should be considered more thoroughly. "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country."

Nancy Keating

Nancy Keating '70, of 45 Needhamdale Rd., Needham, Mass., died June 5 as a result of injuries from a car accident. An English major, she attended Ursuline Academy where she was president of the National Honor Society.

Nancy was the daughter of Captain Paul E. Keating of Needham, a retired Commanding Officer of the Naval Reserve Officer's School, and his wife, Jeanne.

OBIT HOLDEN

His critical edition of William Baldwin's Beware the Cat and The Funerals of Edward the Sixth appeared in 1963 as a Connecticut College Monograph. In 1954 Yale University Press published his edition of the Twelfth Night in "Yale Shakespeare" as well as his Anti-Puritan Satire: 1574-1642.

A graduate of Williams College with a Ph.D. in English philology from Harvard, Mr. Holden's first experience in instruction was at Athens College in Greece and later at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

He also wrote for the New York Sun, Literary Digest and for N. W. Ayer advertising agency in New York. During World War II he served as a special agent with the U. S. Army Counter-Intelligence Corps.

Mr. Holden was an active member of the steering committee on the Connecticut State Council on Teacher Education. He was a member of the College's committee on admissions, had served on its instruction committee, and had been a trustee of the Madison Country School.

9 Faculty Resume Posts; 16 Members Take Leave

While 16 members of Conn's faculty are on leave in 1968-69, nine members of the staff have returned to Conn to resume their teaching. In addition, nine different departments will have changes in their chairmanships.

Faculty on leave in 1968-1969 include:

Professor Oliver L. I. Brown, chairman of the chemistry department, who will conduct research in physical chemistry at Yale University for the academic year.

Mrs. Janis Gellinek, assistant professor and acting chairman of the German department, will spend second semester at the Beineke Rare Books Library of Yale University studying the lyric poetry of Martin Opitz.

Mr. Thomas Havens, assistant professor of history, will spend first semester in Tokyo at the National Diet Library and at Waseda University studying the thought of Gondo Seikei, a revolutionary whose ideas contributed to Japanese ultra-nationalism and imperialism in the 1930's.

Miss L. Aileen Hostinsky of the mathematical department will spend the year on an NSF fellowship at the University of Oklahoma.

Also on leave for first semester will be Miss Marion Doro, associate professor of government, and Mrs. Zara Wilkenfeld, instructor in English. Mr. Mason T. Record, associate professor of sociology, will be on leave for the academic year.

Faculty Returns

Faculty returning from leave this year are Mr. Melville Ackerman, instructor in physics; Mr. William Dale, associate professor of music; Miss Elizabeth Evans, chairman of the classics department; and Mr. Philip Goldberg, associate professor of psychology.

Also returning to Connecticut College this year are Mrs. Mary Peter Mack, associate professor of history; Miss Helen Merson, chairman of the physical education department; Miss Helen Mulvey, professor of history; Mr. William Niering, professor

Until the new fire detection system is completely installed, Pinkerton guards will maintain fire checks in all buildings not declared safe according to fire regulations.

Connecticut College is undergoing major changes in its physical appearance which will result in a comprehensive and up-to-date fire protection system and in other building improvements.

According to Mr. Richard S. Lewis, treasurer and comptroller of the college, most of the projects, which were started at the beginning of the summer, are completed or nearing completion now.

New Fire Detection Devices
The new fire detection system, which was prompted by the Jane Addams fire last spring, is scheduled for completion by Oct. 15.

Mr. Lewis explained that the new system is three-fold. Previous to the installation of the new fire loop main, the city of New London was unable to provide the pressure needed to protect the school which is situated on a high hill.

College Uses Reservoir
Following the dormitory fire, the City gave the College permission to use its two city reservoirs located between Palmer Library and Crozier Williams as a source of water.

The school subsequently added a new pump house, which houses one electric and one deisel pump in case of an electrical failure and which will pump water into the fire loop main which extends several miles around campus.

New Fire Hydrants
Mr. Lewis continued that the new main will feed water into 12 new fire hydrants, a new sprinkler system, and original stand pipes located in some campus buildings.

Work is still continuing on the new sprinkler system which is being installed in eight buildings. The system works on a heat and pressure principle. A certain temperature or an explosion will activate the system.

Students Responsible
Mr. Lewis remarked that the system has been fully tested and does work, and that if the sprinkler should be activated without cause of fire, the student in whose room the device is located will be held responsible for subsequent damage.

Until the new fire detection system is completely installed, Pinkerton guards will maintain fire checks in all buildings not declared safe according to fire regulations.

New Fire Exits
In addition to the sprinklers and heat detectors, 32 other buildings, particularly New London hall, were brought up to date to fire regulations. New exit lights, fire doors, and hardware on doors, as well as additional methods of egress, were installed.

In Thames and Winthrop classes will be held only on the first floor of each building as a fire precaution.

Mr. Lewis added that the school has also installed an enunciator system. A light will show up in the panel on the school's switchboard when someone pulls a fire alarm or when any sprinkler head or heat detector goes off.

New Grass Planted
Various areas around campus, which have been torn up because of construction, have been refilled and new grass has been planted. According to Mr. Lewis, the entire project should cost the school over one-half million dollars, but it will be the first time in the College's history that it will meet the area's fire regulations.

Because of the extent of damage done by water and smoke, Jane Adams was virtually rebuilt and is now near completion; although some work still remains to be done on the roof.

The Fine Arts building, which was delayed due to last winter's harsh weather, the sheet metal workers strike this summer, and a present labor shortage in the area, will be completed by late spring, according to Mr. Lewis.

Palmer Improved
In conjunction with the new fine arts center, Palmer Auditorium is in the process of being air conditioned. The air ducts have been installed, but other physical work should be completed by the middle of Nov. However, the air conditioning unit will not be operative until next summer, Mr. Lewis added.

Since the Coast Guard Academy will take over six faculty houses, and the Weaver Research Building, Connecticut has moved up its program to build additional faculty housing.

14 New Units
To replace the 13 family units, the school tentatively plans to build 14 new garden type, two, three and four-bedroom apartments.

Architect for the project will be the school's architect Mr. Dick Sharpe, instructor in art, and Alexander Schnipp and Sons, Inc. are the contractors. Construction will start this fall and the units should be occupied by September 1, 1969, according to Mr. Lewis.

Plans for Library
Mr. Lewis also announced that the next major project for the school will be an expansion of the library. At present Taylor, Libelfeld and Heldman are close to completing a study on recommendations for a new library.

Decisions will be made later this year as to whether a new library building should be built or the present one extended.

New Language Lab
Among the minor changes Mr. Lewis mentioned was the conversion of the old carpenter and paint shop next to Winthrop into a new language laboratory.

Available Housing

Another reason which increases the chances of the proposal's approval, according to Kitten and Susan, is the fact that adequate housing in the immediate area is available.

With parental permission, students could rent furnished houses from Old Saybrook through to Groton at prices ranging from $150-$200 per month.

The petition continues, "Additional funds available to the College due to an increased number of day students can only serve to benefit the College community as a whole.

Enlightened Atmosphere

"Voluntary off-campus residence by those seniors who are dissatisfied with dormitory living will enlighten the residential atmosphere of the campus."

Kitten explained this last point by stating that if individuals who were not happy living in dormitories were able to live off campus, then tension would be greatly reduced and the girls who enjoyed dormitory living would feel freer.

One problem that the proposal will encounter, explained Susan, is the question of where the non-residents would eat their lunch.

The petition, in its present form, is open for amendment and specific additional clauses to be put in by the administration.

In mid-October, Kitten and Susan will be holding an open forum on the proposal, since their main goal at present is to achieve "a widespread knowledge of our purpose."

in an age of urban crisis. The program, CLOUT, included 30 students of different racial groups chosen from the New London, Groton, and Norwich area. It combined study and field work in a nine week course of study.

The program was funded by the State of Connecticut Department of Community Affairs and Connecticut College facilities were used three days a week as the academic base of the group. Mrs. Virginia Vidich, assistant professor of sociology, worked closely with the "demonstration program." She explained that the students spent the remaining two week-days actually working for local field agencies.

Mrs. Vidich stressed that an important goal of the program was "... exposure. The students had to learn involvement from the point of view of the agencies as well as from their own point of view."

Many of the students chosen for the program were Negro youths and, Mrs. Vidich commented, the average age of the group was 16. Recruitment was begun in late May for the program, and neighborhood groups and community centers supplied the names of students.

During the three days of classes on campus, the students studied urban problems including concentration on schools housing, recreation, and employment.

Changes in department chairmanships include Mrs. Isabel Coulter Abell, chairman of the education department; Mr. Richard Birdsall, acting chairman of history department; Mr. Gordon Christiansen, chairman of chemistry department; Miss Elizabeth Evans, chairman of classics department; and Mr. Richard Goodwin, chairman of botany department.

Other changes in chairmanships are Mrs. Sabine Jordan, acting chairman of German department during second semester; Mr. Glen Kolb, chairman of Spanish department; Miss Helen Merson, chairman of physical education; and Miss Bernice Wheeler, co-chairman of zoology department.

Freshmen Coast Through Orientation

"And because they are young, because they are idealistic they have assumed that to talk about an ideal world is not enough. And so they have moved with vigor into the world where the action is and where the problems await resolution." These remarks by Miss Alice Johnson, dean of freshmen, came during her welcoming speech to the freshmen, following their arrival Saturday morning, Sept. 14.

The major portion of Dean Johnson's address was devoted to a favorable comparison of today's student with those of past generations.

After further welcoming speeches by President Shain and Naomi Fatt, the freshmen and their families were entertained at a reception in Crozier Williams.

At 9:30 p.m., the exciting event which the new arrivals had anxiously been awaiting finally arrived—the "Coastie" Mixer. For most girls, it seemed a memorable way to end their first day at Conn College.

NEWS NOTES

Mrs. Adele Burnham, instructor in music, will give a vocal recital in the Chapel at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 29. She will be assisted by Mr. William Dale, associate professor of music, on the piano; Mr. James Dendy, associate professor of music and College organist, on the organ; and Mrs. Margaret Wiles, director of the College orchestra, playing the violin.

The Connecticut College Alumnae Association will be host to alumnae and their guest prospective students, on Alumnae Day, Sat., Oct. 5. Dr. Philip H. Jordan, associate dean of academic affairs, will be the luncheon speaker.

Connecticut College has a new 2-operator switchboard which will be able to handle 17 more calls than previously, and is equipped with all the modern automatic devices, including a five person conference strip.

Connecticut College's newly formed Hillel group will present the B'nai B'rith Fraternity Chapter 19 Fashion Show in Palmer Auditorium, at 8:00 p.m. on Wed., Oct. 23. Proceeds from the $1.50 admission charge will go to Connecticut College Scholarship Fund and B'nai B'rith Charities.

The National Park Service of the U. S. Department of Interior has contracted with Connecticut College to do an exhaustive study of all marshes, swamps, and bogs in 48 states. Professors Richard H. Goodwin and William A. Niering, professors of botany, will conduct the study.

Collegiate musicians and vocalists interested in competing in the "Intercollegiate Music Festival" may write to the "Intercollegiate Music Festival," P. O. Box 1275, Leesburg, Florida.

Students whose talents lie in the area of composition of popular music, folk music, and jazz and in the area of comedy, drama, poetry, and prose may write to "Sounds of Young America," room 458, Union Pacific Building, Annex, Salt Lake City, Utah, for their entrance applications in "Sounds of Young America."

Mr. Robert S. DeSanto, assistant professor of zoology, received a grant from the Society of the Sigma Xi to assist him in his study on "Experiments into the Ecology, Physiology, and Morphology of some Ascidians."

CONSTRUCTION

The top third of the power plant's chimney had to be rebuilt because of extensive smoke damage, and finally the faculty lounge on the second floor of Fanning was converted into an office for Mr. Philip Jordan, the new assistant dean for academic affairs. The new faculty lounge is located in the former commuters lounge in the basement of Burdick, while the commuters lounge has been moved to Crozier-Williams.

CLOUT

ment. An effort was made to seek solutions to those problems in group discussions.

Also, a theater workshop was given in which the students were asked to act out a situation which particularly bothered them. Discussion after each session helped to clarify the problem depicted.

The methods of teaching in the program were unorthodox. Films, workshops, seminars, and field trips were used to present course material. The group traveled to Harlem to view community centers and to New Haven to observe CPI progress.

On their two days of field work each week, the students became members of local agencies, teen centers, and legacy workers in the area.

Mrs. Vidich stressed that CLOUT is not an upward bound program. "The students came from low economic means and many had neither previously planned on college nor so planned as a result of the program. We were trying to develop future community leaders by provoking awareness and involvement in urban situations."

For the Liberal Arts Major, PQT can open a whole new world of opportunity . . .

Each year, NSA offers challenging career opportunities to Liberal Arts majors through participation in the Professional Qualification Test. This year, NSA has scheduled the PQT for Saturday, October 19, 1968. Completion of this Test by the Liberal Arts major is a prerequisite to consideration for NSA employment.

The Career Scene at NSA:

The National Security Agency is the U.S. Government agency responsible for developing invulnerable communications systems to transmit and receive vital information. As an NSA professional, you will be trained to work on programs of national importance in such areas as:

- Cryptography—developing & logical proving of new cryptologic concepts
- Research—the gathering, analysis, and reporting of substantive data
- Language—used as a basic tool of research into a number of analytical fields
- Programming—includes data systems program writing, and development of mechanical and administrative procedures

- Documentation—technical writing in its broadest sense, including research, writing, editing, illustrating, layout and reproduction

Your specific academic major is of secondary importance. Of far greater importance are your ingenuity, intellectual curiosity and perseverance—plus a desire to apply them in assignments where "imagination is the essential qualification."

SALARIES start at $6981.00 and are supplemented by the benefits of career federal employment.

ADVANCEMENT AND CAREER DEVELOPMENT—NSA promotes from within, and awards salary increases as you assume greater responsibility. NSA also is anxious to stimulate your professional and intellectual growth in many ways, including intensive formal as well as on-the-job training. Advanced study at any of seven area universities can be partially or wholly reimbursed through NSA Fellowships and other assistance programs.

The deadline for PQT applications is October 9, 1968. Pick up a PQT Bulletin at your Placement Office. It contains full details and the necessary test registration form. ## Coffin To Speak At Sunday Vespers

The Reverend William Sloane Coffin, Jr., Yale University chaplain and one of the nation's leading spokesmen for peace in Vietnam, will speak at Vespers, Sunday, Sept. 29 at 7 p.m. in the Chapel.

Rev. William S. Coffin

He has been active both in this country and abroad in the promotion of interfaith and interracial programs, stemming from his strong belief that church leaders should take an active stand on social and political issues.

He is a member of the boards of the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, "Crossroads Africa", and the Freedom of Residence Fund. He is also part of the President's Advisory Committee on Civil Rights for the State of Connecticut.

In the Fall of 1962, he was one of the 100 men in America under 40 years old selected by Life Magazine as outstanding in "the take-over generation".

Rev. Coffin made an extensive tour of the Far East in 1964. He particularly visited and lectured in universities in orthern and central India. His India trip was made possible by the Specialists Program of the U.S. State Department.

Known for his provocative sermons, the Reverend Mr. Coffin has also written articles for The Nation, Saturday Review, Parents Magazine and others.

Two of his sermons were anthologized in the 1962 volume, "Sermons to Intellectuals from Three Continents".

In the summer of 1960, he led a group of 15 students to Guinea to work as part of the "Operations Crossroads" project in Africa.

When the Peace Corps was started early in 1961, the Reverend Mr. Coffin was one of the men named as an advisor and consultant.

In May, 1961, he was one of seven "Freedom Riders" arrested in Montgomery, Alabama. The group was protesting local Southern segregation laws pertaining to bus transportation and restaurant seating, arguing that such local laws were in conflict with the integration ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

Between 1941 and 1959, Mr. McLaughlin served with the U.S. Navy, rising from the rank of ensign to that of captain. National University, Washington, D.C. awarded him the Bachelor of Laws degree and his Master of Laws was earned at George Washington University.

Before coming to the College in 1966 as administrative assistant to the treasurer, Mr. McLaughlin has been engaged in private law practice in the District of Columbia. Earlier, he had been associated with Mystic Seaport as an assistant to the general manager and later as manager of its food services division.

His wife, Joan, is a member of the college's administrative staff; his daughter, Kathleen, graduated from the College in 1967 and is now a graduate student at Harvard.

Frosh — Jr. Picnic, Thurs.

Juniors and Freshmen will have the opportunity to meet each other at the Freshmen-Junior Class Picnic on Thursday, Sept. 26, on the Harris Green.

According to Linda Manno, president of the Junior Class, the girls will eat according to their dorms. If it rains, the picnic will be postponed until suitable weather.

Temporary VP

Because Nancy Gilbert, who was elected vice-president of the Junior Class last spring, did not return to school, Patty Salmonsen, former vice-president of the class of 1970, has agreed to be temporary vice-president until another election can be held.

For the next few weeks the Class of '70 will be concerned with setting up the Freshman Class, explained Linda, but the class does plan to stage a Craft's Fair on Thursday, Dec. 12, under the direction of Valerie DeVuyst, '70.

FROSH

On Sunday morning, a special chapel service was held at 11 a.m. It was highlighted by a prayer read and composed by Randi Freelon. She asked God for understanding because it is "the most important thing that He could grant to people today."

Freshmen spent Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday finishing the routine chores of orientation, such as matriculation and registration. On Wednesday evening the new class of '72 officially took its place as a part of Connecticut College at the Fifty-fourth Opening Convocation.
