Trustees Announce Three Members Are Added to CC Staff

Three appointments to the Connecticut college staff were announced following a meeting of the Board.

Miss Katherine Finney was appointed assistant professor of economics; she has been on the faculty of the Department of Economics at the University of Washington, where she has had several years of teaching experience. Miss Finney will begin her work at the college next fall.

Dr. H. C. Borey, a graduate of Yale University, has been appointed professor of English. He will become a member of the department of English at the college next fall.

Dr. E. L. S. Tanczyk, a graduate of the University of Chicago, has been appointed professor of mathematics. He has been associated with the University of Chicago in the department of mathematics for the past three years.

Interfaith Month To End With Talk By Dr. J. Bennett

Dr. John C. Bennett, Professor of Christian Ethics and Ethics, will be the speaker at the final interfaith service at the Harwood Church on Sunday, February 17. A native of West Virginia, New London, Ohio, Mr. Bennett was educated at Phillips Exeter academy, Williams college, and Harvard university, where he received his B.D. and S.T.M. degrees. He has also served as a student pastor and as a missionary in the Church of the Brethren.

After teaching for a year at Harvard, he was appointed associate professor of Christian Literature and a member of the department of philosophy and religion, Brooklyn College. He was associate professor of philosophy and Christian Literature for the past three years. He is now serving as the director of the department of religion at Brooklyn College.

Dr. Bennett is interested in Social Service

Dr. Bennett is an ordained Congregational minister and believes in the importance of social justice. He is a strong believer in the value of education and has been a leader in the fight for equal rights for all people.

Sykes Fund Drive Goes Over the Top

The thousand dollar war bond goal of this year's Sykes Fund drive will be achieved immediately. When the drive reached its conclusion, February 17, the goal of $1,000 had been raised. Junior and senior houses contributed almost one hundred per cent.

Barbara Gahn '44 was chairwoman of the junior houses who helped her were Barbara Wieser, Margaret Bunnell, Barbara Jones, Barbara Gahm '44, Barbara Wieser, Margaret Bunnell, Barbara Jones, Barbara Gahm '44, and Barbara Wieser, Margaret Bunnell.

Dear Editor,

Interest in the arts is a growing trend, and New London has its Intercollegiate Press and the Victory Theater which takes no exception. Their small but varied collection ranges from Greek vase painting to primitive and savage furniture to noteworthy sculpture by such important artists as La Chaise and Léfebvre.

In addition to its permanent collection, every month the museum features a special exhibition, usually of contemporary art. No one interested in understanding the world of our time can afford to miss these exhibits.

Charter Discussed From Legal Aspect In Chapel Address

In her chapel talk Tuesday morning, Dr. Chester Destler, chairman of the department of history, continued his discussion of last week concerning the Charter of Connecticut College.

President Schaffer called the question of whether or not the charter, which concerns "the care, control, and disposition of the property and affairs of the Corporation," the general management of the college, etc., is vested in a board of trustees. "This is the problem of deciding what are the important legal aspects of the charter and in adding the method of adopting and amending the by-laws," Miss Schaffer brought out. She pointed out that there is no mention of a provost or of an administrator or student government, but she stated that "it is very clear that the power over or to the trustees is so inclusive that they can properly set up any sort of machinery for using that power."

Trustees Act Through Officers

It is common knowledge that most of the 24 trustees do not live in New London and they are all very busy people; therefore, they must delegate fairly well through permanent, full-time officers. The trustees adopted the by-laws last June, which granted the charter, which concerns what are called "Duties of Officers." Section 1 is devoted to the general power of the President, while section 2 is concerned with the office of the Treasurer." It states that the President has occasionally the authority to transact all the business of the Corporation, and it gives the usual duties of a secretary-treasurer. The Treasurer is the subject of the charter, which vests all the properties in a board of trustees. "The President is the president of the corporation," the general management of the college, etc., is vested in a board of trustees. "This is the problem of deciding what are the important legal aspects of the charter and in adding the method of adopting and amending the by-laws," Miss Schaffer brought out. She pointed out that there is no mention of a provost or of an administrator or student government, but she stated that "it is very clear that the power over or to the trustees is so inclusive that they can properly set up any sort of machinery for using that power."

Dr. Chester Destler Comments on Deadlock Between the Chief Executive and Congress

by Ruth Howes '44

Dr. Chester M. Destler, chairman of the department of history, commented on the current deadlock between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Congress as to how this should be provided and who should be thedesignated commander-in-chief and the President's agent. Perhaps it is petty jealousy, he said, that prevents the President from being given the role of commander-in-chief. He feels that Congress should rather than Congress have no role in the control of the armed forces and perhaps that Congress might better serve the country if it took charge of the armed forces. The President must be given the authority to carry out the peace policy that is established by the Congress. The President has the authority to carry out the peace policy that is established by the Congress. The President has the authority to carry out the peace policy that is established by the Congress. Badminton: The Fight Is On

The student-faculty badminton tournament will begin on Saturday, February 26. This is the first of three matches that will be played, and both faculty and students are out to win. First, however, they're out for the fun. Students have signed up to play in these games. Ten girls will be chosen for the team by having their names drawn from a hat. How about the rest of us getting a large cheering section out?

Mystic Art Exhibit Now At Museum Includes Oil Paintings by Mr. Logan

The Lyman Allyn Museum of New London is now exhibiting the work of the members of the Mystic Art association, an exhibition sponsored by the museum and the Department of Fine Arts of the college.

Included are oil paintings, watercolors, and a few pastels. Mr. Robert F. Logan, Associate Professor of the Fine Arts department, has contributed two works to the exhibition, both of them oils. This paintings, "View From Connecticut College" and " Tenant's Cove," the latter of which was painted in Maine, have been done recently.

Also on display this month at the museum are photographs belonging to the American Soviet magazine, reproducing Russian paintings.

Peace and Quiet Are Foreign To the Halls of C. C. Dorms

by Betty Reiffel '46

With no exams, papers, or other worries to keep Connecticut college students busy during the wee hours, they gracefully turn out their lights for a good night's sleep these days and welcome back the atmosphere of pre-exam days, brightened by the sound of laughter and clapping fingers. This moment supreme has arrived! The room is dark, the wind whistles soothingly, the radiator rattles happily, and it all seems too good to be true! It is Bridge Game On!

Peace and Quiet Are Foreign To the Halls of C. C. Dorms

rhythm. When Sally is on the 10th floor, looking out of a window at the operation of "GET IT?", the upstairs dance group decides that Sally is having too much fun and history appears with a game of "Ring around the Rosy", and Sally pocket full of posies, all taffy down.

Silence. Poor Sally lies with bated breath, trying not to hear any of the noise down below and to consider buying a second door from the hardware store and a window. She is resigned to have a war. She wins--by doing the door such a slam that the windows tremble in terror.

Dancing, Running Water Broken, and Peace and Quiet Again

Sally dreams away the afternoon in a haze of rumbling, "Sleepy Sally," into a bridge game. However, the intruder flings open the door and rushes into the room. "Hey!" yells someone.

The moment supreme has arrived! The room is dark, the wind whistles soothingly, the radiator rattles happily, and it all seems too good to be true! It is Bridge Game On!

The faculty's appreciation of humor was evident during Dean Burbick's address Monday of especially on the faces of two of the faculty's delegates. Dr. Lachman stein and Dr. Morris certainly had broad grins but they probably felt they couldn't laugh as hard as they wished because they were facing the audience. The humor to representatives certainly did themselves proud.
