HEADS OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT ARE ELECTED

Southeast Asia To Be Topic at Johns Hopkins

Emphasis will be placed on the current political, economic, and cultural problems of Southeast Asia in a summer session at the School of Advanced International Studies of the Johns Hopkins University from June 27 through August 27, 1952.

In connection with the session, the School will sponsor a conference on Southeast Asia in the Coming World during the week of August 11. About 100 representatives of American and Southeast Asian universities, of government and of business, will be invited to discuss current questions pertaining to this important area. For the first time, administrators or professors from the universities of Rangoon, Indonesia, Manoi, Manila, Malaya, and from the University of Political and Moral Science and the Chulalongkorn University of Bangkok will visit the United States to participate in such a conference.

The summer session program will offer the following courses by area experts: Colonialism and Nationalism in Southeast Asia, the Economy of Post-War Southeast Asia, Cultural and Social Factors in Southeast Asia, Geographic Factors in Southeast Asia, and Buddhist Political Thought. These courses will complement the more general course offerings on Contemporary Problems in American Foreign Policy, Current Problems in International Law, Problems in International Trade, Contemporary Europe, and Com-

Grants Offered to American Students By British Donor

Through the generosity of an anonymous British donor who has given a sum of money for Anglo-American cultural relations, a small number of free trans-Atlantic passages will be provided for American students attending the Summer Schools in Britain during 1952. In addition, the participating universities are offering a limited number of grants to cover part of the accommodation and tuition fees.

The courses include: Shakespeare and Elizabethan Drama to be held at Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon, July 5 to August 16, 1952; Problems of Britain's Economic Recovery, to be held at the London School of Economics and Political Science, July 14 to August 22, 1952; Education in England, its growth, character and aims, July 12 to August 23, 1952; Britain and the Modern World (Foreign policy, economic policy and overseas trade) July 5 to August 16, 1952; Life, Literature, and Politics in Contemporary Britain, July 5 to August 16, 1952.

Applications should be made to The Institute of International Education, 2 West 45th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

News to Be Published On Wednesday, Apr. 9

Wednesday, April 9, will be the next publication date of NEWS. The staff wishes to extend to everyone its wishes for a pleasant spring vacation.

Radcliffe Will Offer Courses In Publishing

Radcliffe College will conduct a six weeks' intensive course for college graduates who wish to prepare themselves for employment in the publishing field. The course will survey the required training for such employment. Although primarily concerned with the "trade" book and the newsstand magazine, it will deal with the techniques common to the textbook, the scientific book, the house organ and special-circulation magazine.

The program of this course is built around two major projects. For one, the student will work with book-length manuscripts on which he will perform each of the publishing functions—except for actual printing. He will, in turn, do the work of a first reader, of an editor, including correction, cutting, criticism, and copy editing. He will plan typography and format of the book. This requires careful study of all divisions of book manufacture. He will finally lay out advertising copy and promotion plans for the book.

The students will also produce a dummy for a magazine. Because of time limitations, some material can be gathered from existing publications, but editorials, research, and interviews should be original. Special emphasis will be given to space writing, layout of pages, paste-up of art work and photography. Business and circulation requirements will be considered.

The course attempts to duplicate office conditions, not neglecting the fact that publishing is a business which requires individual initiative as well as cooperative effort. The course does not offer specialization in any one branch of publishing, since it plans to emphasize the techniques that are the common denominator of the entire profession.

The staff is composed of experts active in the publishing field, who will lecture to the students on special topics.

To be eligible for this course, an applicant must have graduated from a four-year college, and must have reasonable ability to express herself in writing and to show critical judgment. Typing ability is essential for both course work and placement. Shorthand is desirable. A personal interview is recommended.

Tuition for the course is $150, plus a registration fee of $25. Applicants should write to the Director Helen Everitt requesting an application blank. During the course, students will have information on jobs and contacts with the trade, but there can be no guarantee of placement. Students may at any time call on the office of Publishing Procedures Course for references to assist them in procuring a job. Academic credit is not granted for the course.

Painton, Stone and Cleveland Selected For Officers in '52

Officer Installations Take Place April 9

Student Government officers will be installed at the next Amalgamation Meeting, to be held on Tuesday, April 8, at 7 p.m., in Palmer Auditorium.

Official Installation to Take Place During The April 8th Amalga

As a result of the Student Government elections, held last Wednesday, April 9, in the faculty lounge in Fanning, Barbara Painton '53, former Speaker of the House of Representatives, was elected by the student body as president of the Student Government Association for the coming year.

Other officers elected for 1952-53 were as follows: Chief Justice of Honor Court, Dell Stone '53; Speaker of the House of Representatives, Esu Cleveland '54; vice president of Student Government, Hildie Drexel '53; president of Service League, Sue Manley '53; social chairman of Service League, Ann Stewart '54; president of Athletic Association, Joan Fluegelman, '53; president of Wig and Candle, Jeannie Eacker '53; chairman of Religious Fellowship, Mary Lee Prentiss '53; chairman of Chapel Activities, M'Lee Catledge '54.

Installation ceremonies for the new Student Government officers will take place at the Amalgamation meeting on April 8.

Election returns were tabulated throughout the day by Barbara Gueinzus, former vice president of Student Government, and numerous assistants. Elections were closed at 5 p.m.

The newly-elected officers were guests of honor at a banquet in Freeman given by the present officers. Dean Burdick, Dean Noyes, and Dean Finney were present at this dinner.

Each new member of Student Government was informed of her election by her predecessor in the office, and was presented with a corsage by her, as a mark of congratulation.

Election results were publicized throughout the campus by means

C.C. Sponsors the Fifth Session of The Dance School

The American modern dance center this summer will again be at Connecticut College. The college this year will sponsor the fifth season of the School of the Dance and American Dance Festival. The summer session, which opens on July 14 for six weeks, attracts students and teachers from colleges and universities throughout the country. Last summer over 50 colleges and universities were represented in the student roster, which also had representation from 23 states, Canada and Mexico.

The teaching faculty will list Doris Humphrey, Louis Horst, Martha Graham, Jose Limon, William Bales, Sophie Maslow, Jane Dudley, and Pauline Koner, all of whom are leaders in the professional and teaching strata of modern dance.

Courses in technique, composition, choreography, and music composition for dance will be included in the curriculum, as well as courses in elementary and secondary school teaching. The latter courses will be directed by Theodora Wiesner of the Brooklyn (N.Y.) College faculty, and Ruth Ferguson.

Academic credit is available for this session, which will close during the week of August 18 with performances of the fifth annual American Dance Festival, in which many of the artists on the teaching staff will participate with their dance companies.

Exhibit From Yale Shown at Museum

About fifty contemporary paintings and drawings from the Societe Anonyme, lent by the Yale University Art Gallery, are currently on exhibit in the Lyman Allyn Museum. The pictures, which are on display upstairs, are considered to be a fine cross-section of the art movements which have taken place in the twentieth century. The majority are abstract impressions and come from artists of Germany, Poland, Russia, France, Switzerland, Hungary, Holland, Canada and America.

The collection, which is part of the much larger Societe Anonyme collection, was donated to the Yale Art Gallery, by Katherine Dryer, who has taken a great interest in the work of contemporary artists and has bought many of their works. Many of the paintings are noted for bright, abstract spots of color.

Matthew's Passion Shown Here April 5

On April 5, the German Club will present the St. Matthew Passion, a new motion picture which has recently had its New Work premiere. It is produced by Robert J. Flaherty, who also produced the Titan.

The story is the Passion of Christ, as told by the music of Bach's The Passion According to Saint Matthew and illustrated, like the Titan, with religious masterpieces of historic art. The music is played by the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, and singing includes that of the Vienna Boys' Choir. The beauty of the world's greatest artists and the power of Bach's music are moulded into a motion picture of rare quality.

The German Club feels very fortunate to have been able to secure this movie, and hopes that everyone will take advantage of the opportunity to see it. It is especially fitting that it will be shown on the eve of Palm Sunday.

NEWS REVIEW

NEW HAMPSHIRE

First returns on the Presidential derby of 1952 came in last week. In a Republican primary Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won decisively over Senator Robert A. Taft. In a Democratic primary Senator Estes Kefauver won over President Truman.

KOREA

The Communist truce delegates began the week with some of the strongest language they have thus far employed. By the end of the week, they had modulated their tone somewhat, but had not modified their basic demands—that all prisoners of war be exchanged regardless of their wishes in the matter; that the Soviet Union serve as one of the "neutrals" to police the truce, and that the Communists be allowed unrestricted right to build airfields during the truce.

The Panmunjon deadlock and the new propaganda campaign against the UN suggest that the Communists have no intention of agreeing to an immediate truce in the near future.

This propaganda consists of an accusation which was made at the first meeting of the UN Disarmament Commission in New York that the US was using germ warfare in Korea and China, and volatile indignation over a UN announcement that twelve Communist P. W.'s had been killed by South Korean guards during a riot at the same Koje Island camp where 78 civilian Korean internees were killed in a Communist-led riot last month.

FRANCE

Antoine Pinay was voted as Premier by the National Assembly on March 5 with 324 affirmative votes—eleven more than the required absolute majority. His main support came from right-center parties, but the crucial margin was supplied by twenty-seven members of the right wing of the Gaullists, who broke party discipline to vote for M. Pinay, a 60-year-old leather manufacturer with a talent for political survival and personal obscurity.

WASHINGTON

Last week was one of the stormiest yet in the continuing contest between President Truman and his Congressional opposition on the corruption issue. There were sharp clashes affecting the President's two chief moves against scandal so far—reorganization of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and appointment of Newbold Morris as corruption investigator.

Who's Ignorant?

Having made a few discreet inquiries in the Snack Bar, in the dormitory, and in various other places where student opinion is usually sampled, we have come to the considered opinion that Connecticut College students as a whole know very little about what is going on outside the ivied walls. Perhaps this is a failing unique to our campus, but we are inclined to believe that it is quite possibly the state of affairs on campuses the nation over. At any rate, we are concerned only with Connecticut College, since it is patently impossible to excite ourselves about the ignorance of Upper Peabody Technological College students.

Having come to this considered opinion, the problem now poses the question of what to do about our general lack of concern, which most probably stems from a lack of knowledge. And this, in turn, most probably stems from one of two causes: either we are too lazy to go to the trouble of glancing at the headlines of the daily paper, or we fail to find the time to do this. Giving ourselves the benefit of the doubt, we prefer the latter explanation.

On the first page of today's issue of the News, the reader will find a brief and totally inadequate summary of last week's news, taken from the Sunday New York Times, which contains only a very few highlights of the important happenings. The News staff hopes, however, that this will be the beginning of a series of such resumes which will become more valuable reading matter as we grow more accustomed to such a task, and as we are assured of student interest.

Perhaps some of our readers have very definite opinions as to the value of such a series. If this is so, we would appreciate your informing us on the subject by means of a Letter to the Editor. Perhaps we are mistaken in our basic assumption of ignorance. Are we?—EMB

Exchanges Reveal Events Occurring At Other Schools

Arthur G. Phillips, associate professor of English at the University of Miami, Fla., recently wrote a guest editorial for the college newspaper, in which he made the following observations about the species freshman and sophomore:

1. Freshman believe that all of their professors are smart; Sophomores believe that one or two of their professors are smart—the ones that give them A's.

2. Freshmen are in college to get an education; sophomores are in college because their fathers refuse to pay their fare to Las Vegas.

3. Freshmen write home once a week; sophomores write whenever they're broke.

4. A freshman's ambition is to get into "Who's Who," a sophomore just wants to get called before the Kefauver committee.

5. Freshmen suspect that professors aren't human; sophomores know it.

6. Freshmen kiss their dates goodbye; sophomores kiss them hello.

Concludes the professor: "Everyone loves a freshman. What makes life so disillusioning to a professor is the thought that this year's freshmen will be next year's sophomores. Sic transit gloris mundi."

Goucher Experiment

Last fall in an Exchange Column an experiment at Goucher College was noted, concerning high school girls entering college. Here is a report on the experiment: The nineteen girls who entered Goucher College this fall without their high school diplomas have completed their first term's work. Fifteen of the girls are exceptional students who have received two-year scholarships under a special grant from the Ford Foundation for the Advancement of Education. The remaining four are alternates who were granted scholarships by Goucher.

The object of the experiment is to determine whether outstanding young students are capable of making the academic and psychological jump from the sophomore or junior year of high school to college. Dr. William C. Budd, Assistant Professor Education and Child Development, reports that their progress has been more than satisfactory in every respect. Academically the Ford Scholars rank almost a full letter grade above a specially selected comparison group chosen from the most talented members of the freshman class. The school-wide average is approximately a grade and a half below the Ford group.

The young women, ranging in age from fifteen to sixteen and a half, were selected for the $1500 grants on the basis of academic records, tests, and social and emotional maturity. The Ford grant covers tuition and board for two full years. Entrance requirements, of course, were waived for the special students. They were, however, subjected to all normal qualifying tests for purposes of placement and course election.

According to Dr. Budd, the Ford group had no apparent weaknesses except for some deficiency in mathematics, which can be attributed to lack of courses in that field. In other areas, however, the girls were very well informed. In this connection, the Ford group showed a remarkable consistency in their academic accomplishments. In general, the variance between their grades in the sciences and in the humanities is very slight. In contrast, the comparison group shows a rather wide fluctuation—with generally better performance in the humanities. This is perhaps evidence of

by Jocelyn Haven

The train ride back from New York is nothing to anticipate, but for once I wasn't minding it—that is, until Irma descended upon me like a cat after a rat. Irma had obviously been thinking—she had that look in her eyes—and she was looking for someone to whom she could impart her words of wisdom. I was to be the scapegoat.

Irma does not believe in preliminary remarks. She jumped in feet first, "You know I've been thinking—people aren't taking advantage of the moment—now look at me for instance—almost three months of Leap Year have gone by—and what have I done—sat back like I wasn't twenty-one, and like I'm not ready to take the big step."

"Yes, Irma, but what can you do?" I ventured to ask, hoping she hadn't any ideas, and that I could return to my thoughts without being subjected to the rest of this inane conversation. Little did I realize Irma had pondered this matter carefully.

"Now the way I look at it, there are three types of men—those who want to be caught, those who want to do the catching, and those who completely divorce themselves from all such games of cat and mouse. So all you have to do is know your man, play the rules, and you've got him. Take that sailor across the aisle, for instance; look at the determined chin, the scrutinizing eyes—he's not one to get mixed up with the women."

I took a quick glance at the sailor, and noticed a thin, gold band on the third finger of his left hand. I refrained from mentioning this fact to Irma, as I didn't want to shatter her illusions.

"Now you take the 'You Can't Catch Me' type," Irma continued. "You just have to pretend like you wouldn't want to catch him. It's imperative that you appear in a situation where he will notice you,—but the days of dropping handkerchiefs are over—nobody the well-rounded personality of group.

Dr. Budd, in reporting the results to date, cautioned that under the three-term system at Goucher, the girls have completed only three courses. It is, therefore, much too soon to draw any really valid conclusions.

Importance of the Bible

At the University of North Carolina, Dr. A. C. Howell, professor of English, recently declared that college students are hopelessly ill-wants a bungling idiot, so you have to be more subtle about it. Now take me, for instance—the other night I was at a party with this Joe creature—now Joe's a schmoo, even a fool would know that—so I light upon this Dick person. I've known him for years, but he's never looked at me twice. I mosey over and tell Dick that I saw one of his buddies last week, and he had a message for him—then I block his passage, so he can't escape, and we start talking. Now maybe if he sees me a few more times, he'll begin to realize what he's been missing all these years—and then maybe something will come of it."

I mumbled an assent, thinking that maybe Dick wasn't so dumb, having ignored her all these years.

"The 'You Can Catch Me' type is very easy to notice," Irma remarked. "He is usually quite friendly, as opposed to the other, who is aloof. But 'You Can Catch Me' needs to have his self-confidence restored—when you go to a party with him you have to devote all your attention to him—he'll meet you halfway, but you can't constantly be looking for greener grass on the other side of the room. You see—that's what I mean—you have to decide what you want, and then go after it—so many girls forget that, and think all good things are going to come to them, while they sit back looking demure."

I couldn't restrain myself any longer; for once I was going to talk back to Irma. "You seem to have forgotten the rule of Natural Selection," I ventured. "There are certain things that just happen—Leap Year or no Leap Year. Just forget about your plan, and leave to men what is due them, and give women the rest."

Alumnae to Record Children's Stories

Children's stories written by CC students are now in demand for a recording. One of the CC Alumnae Clubs has asked Mrs. Ray, Miss Trippe, and the members of the Radio Club, who produce Miss Trippe's program, Trippe Through Storyland, to explore the possibilities of making a recording of two stories for children. On one side of this record there will be a well-known story, on the other an original one. The recording will be sold as a part of the fund-raising campaign of the Alumnae Club.

Any students who are interested in trying their hands at writing a children's story are asked to see Mrs. Ray or Miss Trippe before the end of April.

Regionalism Is Main Theme of UN Conference

Regionalism and the United Nations, the theme of the United Nations Conference, was divided into three sub-topics for the purpose of Round Table Discussions; Middle East, North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Southern Asia. Summarizing the Round Table Discussions were panel representatives Robert Handy, Wesleyan; Harriet Burnett, Smith; and Col-in Silva, Yale; respectively.

Mr. Handy presented the problem of the Middle East as a long range objective of the United Nations including the questions of rehabilitation, nationalism, and security. The panel decided that when Great Britain, France, and the United States withdraw from the Middle East and thus leave a power vacuum open to Soviet aggression, the United Nations must maintain a balance of power. The United Nations policy toward the Middle East must be based on a co-operative effort in which the United States, as well as other nations, must learn how to deal with the emotions of nationalism.

The panel on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization can be summarized under three points: 1) The relation of the United Nation Charter to regionalism; 2) Re-armament vs. economic recovery; 3) The relationship between the United States and Europe. A consensus of opinion, said Miss Burnett, was that NATO represented a realization of an idealistic principal in face of the veto power. The panel also decided that it was more important to meet first the short term goal of collective security and defense before the long term goal of economic recovery. In reference to the third point, the panel realized that the United States was not selling its ideas as well as it could because of its youth in the process of evolution. Miss Burnett concluded her summary with the remark of a French student in reference to the U.S.; Leave us alone, but please don't go away.

Mr. Silva reported that the panel on Southern Asia discussed the role of India, Pakistan, and Ceylon in the International Community against their political and economic backgrounds. The question of India's partition, a necessary evil, is a hindrance to unity in the United Nations and Commonwealth, and must be overcome before Southern Asia can serve as a balance between the forces in the Cold War. Southern Asia plays an important part in the Commonwealth on an equal basis with the other members.

Metropolitan Star Welitch Ends This Season's Concerts

Ljuba Welitch, prima donna dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association, appeared as the star of the final concert of the Connecticut College Concert Series of 1951-52, on Wednesday evening, March 12, in Palmer Auditorium.

Mlle. Welitch sang selections by Wagner, Mozart, Schubert, Moussorgsky, Brahms, Dvorak, Gretchaninoff, Rachmaninoff, and Richard Strauss with consummate artistry.

Aria Opens Program

The program got off to an auspicious start with an exuberant performance of the Aria, Dich teure Halle from Wagner's opera Tannhauser. The singer's charming personality established an immediate rapport with her audience. Her voice had an exquisite clarity, and she exhibited superb control which she exercised in the lower register as well as in her higher tones. There were, however, some moments of breathiness in the middle register as the program progressed.

Mlle. Welitch was at home in each of the varied styles represented on her program. Her interpretations were sure and effective and she sustained the mood of each selection. That she is capable of great delicacy was made immediately apparent in the two songs by Mozart, and particularly in the Einsam ging ich Jungt im Haine.

Delicacy, but this time coupled with a good-humored coquettish quality, was demonstrated in the closing selection by Brahms, the Vergebliches Standchen, which brought the first half of the program to a light-hearted close.

Outstanding Accompanist

In the Brahms and Schubert pieces, the piano part shares almost an equal status with the singer. An especially fine example of this was Schubert's Gretchen am Spinnrade in which the whirr of the spinning wheel could be heard in the piano adding a feeling of restlessness and thereby intensifying the mood. Mlle. Welitch's accompanist, Paul Ulanowsky, assisted the singer more than ably in the works of these two composers, and throughout the program.

Particularly outstanding after the intermission was Moussorgsky's Star, You, Will You Tell Me. Mlle. Welitch achieved a beautiful oriental quality with her pure high tones. The little Berceuse by Gretchaninoff was a perfectly cut gem.

Three songs by Richard Strauss completed the program. Mlle. Welitch, well known for her interpretation of the title role in Strauss' Salome, did equal justice to the composers lieder.

The artist offered two encores at the close of the concert to the appreciative audience.

Profiles Show Interests and Activities of Barbara Painton, Dell Stone, Esu Cleveland

One of the more delightful experiences of this past week was a chat with Barbara Painton, newly elected president of Student Government. Barbara's first office at Connecticut was won in her freshman year when she became secretary-treasurer of East House. In her sophomore year she was elected Honor Court Judge and was a member of her class's mascot hunt decoy committee. This year Barb has kept busy serving

A figure familiar to us all is that of Esu Cleveland, striding across campus with hands jauntily stuck in the pockets of her famous, well-worn khakis. Her cheery hello reaches the ears of many, since her host of friends at Connecticut is numerous. This versatile gal from Pelham Manor, who is our new Speaker of the House, has been an integral part of her class and of the college since she arrived here. Last year she received recognition from her classmates when she was elected president of the freshman class. Her enthusiasm and ability won the approval of everyone, and in the spring of last year, she was elected one of the two Honorable Court Judges of her class. Both last year and this year she has been an ardent participant in all sports, and she claims a place on the soccer, basketball, volley ball, and baseball teams. The Rec Hall Fund has been a big project of hers, and she helps promote its growth by serving as treasurer of the organization. One college function that Esu participated in and that showed her true self was Mascot Hunt. She was on the Decoy Committee. Madly rushing around trying to find clues, evading people and placing wrong suspicions in their minds, tearing all

If home is where the hat hangs, then Dell Stone, new Chief Justice of Honor Court, can be said to live in Mary Harkness; but that doesn't signify that she can be found there at all times.

Dell, who insists vehemently that her name is nothing but Dell, instead of Bedelia, which is what she almost turned out to be, is a Child Development major from Westport, Connecticut. During the past year she has served as presi-as Speaker of the House. Assigned as a House Junior to Winthrop, she found it to be one of the most rewarding experiences of her college career. To the Winthrop freshmen this worked both ways.

For relaxation, Barbara enjoys sailing, tennis, swimming and most every other summer sport. She likes music; hearing her play the piano is proof enough of that. But Barbie's main interest is people. She is one of those rare individuals who not only can talk easily to everyone, but who can also listen when they have something on their minds. Her warm and understanding personality as well as her ability to get along with people will mean a great deal to the student body when Barb presides over Amalco.

For personality and charm, Barb believes that Nicky, her silver French poodle, leads all the rest. She's terribly proud that his picture will soon appear on the front page of the Boston Herald. Another unusual feature of the Painton personality is a knack for being bright and cheerful at breakfast. Jane Addamites are amazed by her enthusiastic discussion of politics at 7:30 in the morning.

This next summer, Barb plans to do clinical research in one of the Harvard Medical School labs. A zoo major, she plans someday to become a doctor.

Barb's great hope for the coming year is that the entire Student Organization will show the interest and cooperation that this year's House Presidents have shown in the House of Rep. From the initiation of legislation in the House of Rep to discussion in Amalco, Barbie feels that the interest of every student is terribly important. It's a good bet that this new president of Student Government will win that interest and cooperation.

ESU CLEVELAND

over campus—Esu could be seen everywhere. Her fun-loving spirit did much to further the spirit behind the entire function.

The things in which Esu's interested cannot be listed specifically, because she has an interest in everything that's going on around her. She enjoys being with people, and with the aid of her frank and lively personality she has the knack of getting along with everyone.

Esu's infectious laugh and interest in people will carry her far in whatever she hopes to do after school. She hopes that graduate school will be among her plans. Her captivating personality will prove, nevertheless, to be invaluable when she takes over her duties as the new Speaker of the House.

dent of the junior class, which involved such duties as supervising Mascot Hunt, and acting as temporary president of the freshman class. The former job, as all sophomores and juniors will doubtless remember, entails a strong constitution which needs little or no sleep.

During her freshman and sophomore years, Dell served as class secretary. She is now a member of the Connchords. After college, Dell intends to become a nursery school teacher, and marriage to Tom Martin, a student at Fairfield University, is also a part of the not-too-distant future. Marital bliss seems assured, since Tom has been helping Dell with Harkness supper dishes.

An honor student, Dell can quote, on demand, pages from Winnie-the-Pooh, and a most cherished possession is a stuffed Piglet. She has a fondness for going barefoot, and a subtle hint in the form of a pair of bedroom slippers given to her for Christmas seems to have made no impression.

Survey Shows That Electricity Is Being Wasted on Campus

Recently a visit was made to several dormitories during dinner time. On the assumption that this was a typical weekday night, a survey of the rooms was made to see exactly how many lights were left burning while the students were at dinner.

President Park stated that $1,000 could be saved if we turned off our lights when we are not in our rooms. It would seem that a logical time to turn off the lights would be during dinner, when we are absent from our rooms anywhere from a half hour to an hour. Naturally it was impossible for us to canvass all the dorms, but we managed to cover one representative of every class. The results were rather startling: in Jane Addams 33 rooms of our 67 had lights on, or 50 per cent; Knowlton had the highest percentage—66 per cent—or 16 out of 24 rooms; Branford and Winthrop had the lowest percentages—40 per cent; 19 out of 47 rooms in the former had lights blazing and 13 out of 33 in the latter; Katharine Blunt's percentage was 62 per cent, with 42 out of 67 rooms. There was an average of two lights on in each room, which disproves the much-quoted statement, "I like to leave a light on, so I won't have to come back to such a gloomy room." All in all it was quite an expensive dinner. With everyone complaining about the rising prices, turning off the lights seems like an easy way to economize. So before rushing down to dinner tomorrow night, why don't you turn to the girl next to you and ask, "Did you turn off your lights?"

Eisenhower Chosen
Favored Candidate
In College Survey

In a recent student-faculty poll conducted by Ann Ball '52 it was found that student-faculty opinion favored Eisenhower for President in 1952. Of the 638 students polled 55 per cent said that they favored Eisenhower for President, 21 per cent favored Taft, 5 per cent favored Stassen, and 1 per cent favored MacArthur. Two other candidates, Warren and Kefauver were mentioned in the student poll. Six per cent were not sure whom they would favor. Among the 63 faculty members questioned, 42 per cent favored Eisenhower, 13 per cent Douglas, (although it is not clear whether Paul or William Douglas was meant) and 18 per cent were equally divided among Truman, Taft and Kefauver. Thirteen per cent didn't know whom they would favor. Among the various candidates mentioned by the faculty were Stevenson and Stassen with 5 per cent each, and Mrs. Roosevelt with 1 per cent.

When asked who would receive the Democratic and Republican nominations, 80 per cent of the students thought that Truman would receive the Democratic nomination while 13 per cent felt that Kefauver would be nominated, 57 per cent thought that Eisenhower would receive the Republican nomination and 39 per cent thought that Taft would receive the nomination. In the faculty poll 65 per cent thought that the Democratic nomination would go to Truman, and 23 per cent did not know. For the Republican nomination, and 38 per cent said that Eisenhower would be nominated. 21 per cent did not say.

A third part of the poll consisted of 8 slates of 2 possible candidates each, one Republican and the other a Democrat. With an additional section of each slate labeled "don't know." It was found that 1 per cent of the students polled and 21 per cent of the faculty, when asked to choose one candidate from each slate, voted a straight Democratic ticket, while 44 per cent of the students and 22 per cent of the faculty voted straight Republican tickets.

literate in their knowledge of the Bible. He pointed out that 90 per cent of the colleges in the United States teach the Bible while only three per cent of the students take the courses. "Almost every English department requires a course in Shakespeare of all its English majors; yet almost none requires a course in the English Bible. I submit that not even Shakespeare is of greater value and importance to a student of English literature than is the Bible." Dr. Howell declared that teachers of English, as advisers and administrators, are offered a challenge and a responsibility to reduce the Bible illiteracy of this generation.

parative Government and Politics of the Middle East. Facilities and supervision for individual study and research will be available on special topics within the Southeast Asia field.

Among the well-known experts who will participate are: E. H. G. Dobby, Professor of Geography, University of Malaya; Richard Gard, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania; Charles J. Showan of the Export-Import Bank of Washington, D. C.; Graham H. Stuart, Professor of Political Science, Stanford University; and Army Vandebosch, head of the Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky.

The educational policy of the School of Advanced International Studies is to combine high academic standards with a practical approach to current world problems through the seminar and informal specialized type of instruction. All courses are conducted on the graduate level, and student applicants must be college graduates with a background including training in economics, history, political science, and a working knowledge of at least one modern foreign language. Applicants will be accepted on the basis of marked intellectual ability, character, and initiative. The aim of the School is to train men and women for international careers in government, business, and academic fields.

Five full-expense fellowships of $400 each will be awarded to applicants of outstanding promise on a competitive basis, and grants in smaller amounts will be available on a combined basis of merit and need.

All inquiries should be addressed to the Office of the Registrar, School of Advanced International Studies, 1906 Florida Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. The deadline for the receipt of scholarship applications is May 1, 1952.

GYMANGLES

by Mollie Munro and Kay McClure

How to Swim the English Channel

First you must get a man in a rowboat. Hat's off to anyone who can get a man! Put on your hat, you fool, it's snowing. The first purpose of the man in the rowboat is to row; the second is to shout encouragement through a megaphone; the third and most important is to look for enemy submarines.

Next you must get a heavy coat of grease. According to last Sunday's Times they can be obtained for fifty per cent less at Macy's. We also deem it advisable to have a blimp overhead advertising your great feet. (see footnote). To control the crowds of people waiting on the beach you should have a squad of gendarmes. In case of a tidal wave you will undoubtedly need our special snorkle.

Now there's just one minor detail. In case you don't happen to know the rudiments of swimming you still have your chance every Monday night at the Coast Guard Pool.

Next week's feature story will be on Wee Willy Sutton. He was a good sport!

In the meantime ladies we have a few last minute sports highlights. Sandy Sanderson '52 leads the bowling world with a high score of 157. In team play the sophomores are first with the seniors running second.

Footnote: (10 1/2 E)

The juniors and seniors played off the final team competition in basketball last Thursday. By winning both the first and second team games, the seniors won the basketball cup for the season. Sue Rockwell and Pat Terrell were high scorers for the seniors and Joan Flugelman for the juniors.

Next year's juniors, take heed. Would you like to be on AA Council? Would you like to try your hand at writing for NEWS? Try out for Gymangles. Write up any sports event, fictitious or real, and send it to one of the present co-editors. Do it right now or the first week after spring vacation.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 36...THE OTTER

A usually mild-mannered and easy-going lad, he really made the fur fly when he realized the trickiness of most of the so-called cigarette mildness tests! He knew there was one honest test of cigarette mildness. Millions of smokers everywhere know, too — there's one true test!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

After all the Mildness Tests . . .

Camel leads all other brands by billions

THE LADY AND THE LAW

Change is the first law of life. That applies not only to evolution, but to the psychology of dress. A woman, for instance, desires to be different — not only from other women, but from herself. Even if a girl can't change her face, one good way of changing her pace is by varying her wardrobe.

A campus version of this quick-change act is the "7 Color" Sweater Wardrobe. By wearing a different sweater in a different color every day of the week, you give your appearance a refreshing lift constantly. You can knit these delightful sweaters by yourself by using "BOTANY"* BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARNS. Made of beautiful, soft-spun, easy-handling 100% virgin wool . . . so luxurious to feel and look at. Your knitting is safe and sure, too — because with "Botany" Brand No-Dye-Lot Yarns . . . YOU CAN MATCH ANY COLOR . . . ANY TIME . . . ANYWHERE. You can purchase "BOTANY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARNS at of an extra edition of the NEWS. New officers assume their positions after spring vacation instead of in the fall, in order that the seniors now holding those positions may be relieved of the responsibility involved. This provides them with more time to study for the coming Comprehensive Examinations.

NEW CLASS OFFICERS ELECTED BY JUNIORS

Results of the junior class elections have been announced. Officers serving for the 1952-53 are as follows: President Missie Walthour; vice president, Bev Sandbach; secretary, Terry Ruffolo; treasurer, Judy Morse; social chairman, Marion Streett; AA representative, Phyllis Coffin; honor court judges, Susie Bloomer and Jane Muddle; student faculty forum representatives, Betty Johnson and Jan Cleary.

Air Raid Drill At CC Held A Success

Major difficulties in a generally successful air raid drill held on campus Thursday night, March 13, were announced by Miss Lois Pond, head air raid warden.

These difficulties seem to lie in the inaccuracies in the roll call, and in the fact that the radio crews in several of the dorms neglected to turn on their radios. The rule is that a radio in each dormitory must be tuned in to the campus radio station, WCNI, as important messages are broadcast. Failure to adhere to this rule resulted in confusion among the night clerks for whom special instructions were broadcast.

A second reason for listening to the college radio station is that between announcements there is a program of popular music broadcast as entertainment. The recreation crews in some of the dorms were in full command of the situation with card games and other activities to keep everyone busy.

Tentative plans call for an air raid drill in the spring involving 17 towns in this area in which the College will participate.

Caught on Campus

Janice Smith, an East sophomore, recently announced her engagement to D. John Post, Jr., of Waterbury, Connecticut. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, and in the fourth year of a five-year Civil Engineering Course at Cornell. Jan and John met on a blind date, arranged by John's brother and sister-in-law, with whom Jan went to school. Wedding plans are set for August, after which Jan plans to finish her education at Cornell.

We have it on good authority that Anne Marcus '53, a resident of Mary Harknes, has currently developed the ability to play the piano with her toes. Favorite song? Makin' Whoopee.

Actually filmed on historic locations by M-G-M in Rome, with a cast of many thousands, this spectacular screen achievement has been described by Life and Look Magazines as "The most colossal movie ever made!"
