Rabbi S. Ruderman Will Speak Sunday At Vesper Service

Rabbi Samuel S. Ruderman, of Temple Beth El inFall River, Massachusetts, will be the last speaker of the United Nations Weekend, now in progress. He will speak at 7 p.m. on Sunday, March 7, at 7:00 p.m. in Harkness Chapel.

There is a double interest attached to Rabbi Ruderman’s visit to New London. Rabbi Ruderman served as spiritual leader of Temple Beth El in New London, and he is still pleasantly remembered by many local residents.

Among other things, he served as the representative of American Jewry in the first international meeting to be celebrated at the college nine years ago. In that capacity, he is the father of Orca Beth Ruderman, a member of the freshman class.

A native of Boston, Rabbi Ruderman graduated from Harvard University and the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York. He is a graduate of the Fall River synagogue since he lived in New London in 1945.

His period of service there was interrupted by a term of three years in the United States Navy. During part of this time he held the rank of first lieutenant in the E. S. Marines in the Mariana area.

Rabbi Ruderman has been active in Jewish affairs, and is a member of various organizations devoted to the promotion of religious, social, and interfaith, improvement. He is also vice president of the rabbinical assembly of New England.

After the service, there will be a question period in the religious library of the Chapel.

Alumnae Clubs Will Convene Next Saturday

Connecticut College Alumnae clubs have been active in the United States and abroad, and the Alumnae Association business will be discussed by the alumnae and the student. The council ordinarily meets for a weekend, but this year it will meet for one day to include the Alumnae Fund workers, Class Directors, Directors of Relations in clubs and non-club areas, and so on.

Career

Editor Equates Marriage, Escapism; Stresses Woman's Role in Politics, Meeting Personal Responsibilities

(By Fran Young, editor of the Tower Times, College for Women, U. of Rochester)

It seems to me that relatively few of the college girls I have met are burning with eagerness to go out in the world and begin a fascinating career. Those who expect to get a job after graduation are not usually building for a big position; if anything, they are general through a few of the headlines in careers, I don't know.

The truth of the matter is, good thing. Certainly society needs a flock of dedicated young wives who are satisfied with making marriage their career, after a generation when most housewives were only too anxious to get on with an apolitical career. We are beginning to see through the glamour of the high salary and a bachelor girl apartment with modern paintings on the wall.

... However, there may be something more here than meets the eye, and I wonder if there is not a more dangerous aspect to our increasing eagerness for the security of a home and husband.

We may be indulging in a very safe and casual escape. We look not at the big bad world with the atom bombs and a moustached dictator and contrast the perils of an adventure on such unknown seas with the safe and steady domestic world of our marriage.

... We should not deceive ourselves. Each of us is a voting, professional woman. We are all citizens and intimately affected by and affecting the world situation. No one denies that the first role of the young housekeeper is housekeeping, but don't we also feel our destiny?

... We must not forget that political awareness is just as much our job as watching the family budget. It is not enough to know that a woman must keep an eye on the national and international economy. And we must make our opinions and ideals felt in the community.

A woman also has an opportunity that most educators believe is as much her right as the man's. It is not only a duty but a right for her to keep an eye on the political scene in her community.

Many parents insist that their children have good table manners, but don't give a hoot as to whether they grow up to read the paper. This job is left to the schools, which can do little about it.

... Perhaps as we realize that there is no escape from the realities of the world around us, we will make a greater effort to meet our personal responsibilities as housewives and mothers, as well as career girls.

Free Speech

A FORUM OF OPINION FROM ON AND OFF THE CAMPUS

The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect those of the Tower Times.

Accuracy

Being a member of the freshman basketball team I was very surprised, to say the least, to read an article five of the last issue of Connecticut College News that in part stated: "February 24, the freshmen basketball team was defeated by the sophomores by a score of 44-18, making the freshmen the new "dowdy domesticity" of the campus and the sophomores, and did not even have a game on Tuesday/. I was even more astounded. However, I have learned that it was a volleyball game and not a basketball game. The fact that the paper was speaking in terms of a "dowdy domesticity" was suggested in the future that your news coverage be more careful.

Ed. Note: See Gynmastics.

No-Doz

"Are tired to think? Hands shaking? Dinner won't stay where it should?" At least one in your college career the paper that's due tomorrow and hasn't been started yet, or the notes from two weeks of history which you have to memorize for the quiz at eight o'clock create mental chaos. The above symptoms, do not, however, have to wait your attention as an impetus for the next step in an attempt to solve your problem. You run to a friend and handle simple sales which would be your first essay. It's not necessarily that you can't have dinner, but there's not time to make dents. That we have you have ever had the experience of trying to solve your speed sales; they could at least place for you at NEWS. Either of these may have opened your eyes.

Coffee doesn't substitute for a cup of coffee ... and everyone knows that coffee won't hurt you. Why worry? These won't bother you, but ... is where the rubber met the road, but there's no time to make it, and besides, it tastes foul without cream or at least sugar. That little box of pills is so much easier.

Books

What can be done to improve the Connecticut College Bookstore? The Bookstore is a monogamous, and probably must be so on a campus as small as ours. But if it is impossible to compete with small, quick service, and interest in the customers' needs, then we must see if there is some way to improve the existing intolerable situation.

Certainly we have little desire to sell books with anything that over what they consider priceless service, and greater flexibility in their ways, or in their absence, or without needed service. When there is a choice of a job, one can refuse to buy at a dis tally place: when there is no choice, the customer should have some protection.

Admittedly, the Bookstore staff must have problems, too. There may not be enough clerks to handle business, nor enough profits to hire more. Also it is doubtful if students are always models of courtesy. But this realization does not alter the basic problem. What are the solutions? This writer frankly does not know, but hopes that some reader may. It has been suggested to the bookstore clerks that they try in busy times to speed sales, and to lead a less hurried life. "What can you suggest that would be helpful, says. "Here, try this."

Don't Hurt?

We are all familiar with the No-Doz. The label on the box says that this little pill contains a cup of coffee ... and everyone knows that coffee won't hurt you. Why worry? These won't bother you, but ... is where the rubber met the road, but there's no time to make it, and besides, it tastes foul without cream or at least sugar. That little box of pills is so much easier.

Coffee doesn't substitute for coffee—sleep—does. Have you heard this, too? Or, if you have, do you sometimes wonder whether you have been mistaken in seeing one of your friends have hysterics because she dropped coffee on her table? She induced insomnia can do odd things to a person. And I wonder if we sleep when we still full of No-Doz. Try for yourself, and let us know. That you steady is your hand, try to listen to ordinary conversation in your room next time you are sleepy. Is it or is it terribly bad? No-Doz. It may be that you simply need the sleep.

In reference to the article printed elsewhere in this week's NEWS, you can see that Harvard has taken steps about No-Doz. It is time that we at Connecticut College should realize the harmful effects of No-Doz and end its use.

Alumni Sends Gift To CC Fellowship, Describes Mission

Religious Fellowship has received recently a ten-year gift of five dollars to be spent in furtherance of its program.

This gift is unusual in that it comes from the wife of a missionary, now residing in the Middle East. The donor, is Mrs. Annie Thompson '53, who served in her senior year as president of CC's Religious Fellowship.

Positions on 'News' Open for Tryouts

Have you a flair for feature or news reporting? Can you twist words around and write clearly? Surely you can proofread copy.

Besides openings for both feature and news reporters, there are open on the circulation, business, and advertising staffs. Whatever your special talent, there is a place for you at NEWS.

For those tryouts or news reporters, a type article on the writing of news stories will be given on Tuesday, March 14, 6:00 p.m. In addition, a type reporter, a profile on one of the new reporters for a position in the student government, is due also on March 14, 6:00 p.m. Either of these may be put in the NEWS box in Farning.

is a house, junior this year, and has also served as publicity manager for Wig and Candle.

She claims an addition to crossword puzzles, although this does not interfere with her other hobby of theater going. She has used her talent for writing by submitting stories recently to Quarterly.

CONNIE DEMAREST

ANN DYGERT

Ann also appeared in play production plays both this year and last, and she plans to expand her experience by taking courses this summer in dramatics.

Students Urged to Write for Contest

Two student writing contests, one a poetry and the other a short story contest, are being sponsored by the 1953 New England All-College Conference.

All students interested should send their entries to Miss Jane Carran, Newton College, Newton, Massachusetts, by April 1, 1953.

Winners of the literary contests will receive monetary prizes. The judges include the noted critic, C. K. Brooks of Yale; editor of The Atlantic, Edward Weeks; novelist Gerald Warner Brace of Boston University; Seymour Lawrence, assistant editor of The Atlantic; and poet and editor of Twayne Press, John Ciardi.

Japanese Government Grants Charter for New University; Groups in U.S., Canada to Sponsor Christian Institution

International and interdenominational in scope, the International Christian University in Japan, near Tokyo, has recently been granted a charter by the Japan-ese Government. The securing of the charter now assures the definite operation of the International Christian University in April, 1953.

US Sponsors

ICU is sponsored and partially supported by funds from fourteen major Protestant denominations in the United States and Canada. The Japan International Christian University Foundation, Inc., which is entirely American, is responsible for the establishment of this institution.

Great interest in ICU has also been shown in Hawaii, Great Britain, and the Continent of Europe. The Division of Foreign Missions of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, with which the Foundation recently became affiliated, has also given the Japanese University its official endorsement.

Students of all lands, both men and women, irrespective of race, color or religious belief will be enrolled at the University. There will be no pressure on those students to convert them to Chris-tianity. There will be no regimentation. But with a non-sectarian Christian faculty and a Christian administration at the University, it may be well that many of those young people who, on their own initiative, find in Christianity the solution they seek.

International Christian University will offer graduate degrees to thirty-two chosen students on its staff. Eighteen are Japanese; two are Canadian; one is Swiss, and eleven are Americans. As the University is devoted to student affairs, its apartments will come from Europe and China. All of the faculty members are already experienced in their respective fields. Among them are: Dr. Emil Brunner, internationally known theologian from Switzerland, who will serve as Professor of Religion; and Dr. Delbert Hildaberg, formerly Vice Minister of Education of the Japanese Government, who will head the ICU Graduate School of Education.

Among Americans

Two Americans are vice presidents of the University. They are: Dr. Maurice K. Voyer, Vice President for Curriculum and Instruction, former Professor of Education and Director, Evaluation and Psychodiagnostic Service Center, Syracuse University; and Harold W. Wolcott, Vice President for Business and Finance, former President of California State and universities and colleges in universities in Japan.

Some of the other Americans on the ICU staff are: Dr. Carl Kodder, Dean, College of Arts, who was formerly Dean of Groton School, Indiana; Dr. Herbert Gerhard, Director and Professor, English Department, ICU.

Heifetz

Heifetz has made three films: Ragged Angels; They Shall Have Music; and Carnegie Hall. He has also made a series of short films of violin chuckles and has recorded every classic piece for this instrument.

Heifetz has added to the concert literature of his instrument almost one hundred and fifty transcriptions. In addition, under the nom de plume of Jim Hoyt, he has turned out a Tin Flan-kie hit tune.

When not on tour, Jascha Heifetz makes his home in Beverly Hills, California. A perfectionist, Heifetz is his only severe critic. As Docen Taylor put it, “He has only one rival, one violinist who is trying to best: Jascha Heifetz.”
