Glass Menagerie, Prom to Highlight Weekend Events

WILL Feature Cinderella Theme, Late Permission!

Music by Halprin, D.O.

Tigestones, Shiffs:

Programs to Be Printed

Cinderella is the theme of the Junior Prom to be held this Saturday, April 21, at 8:00 p.m. in Knowlton Saloon. Bob Halprin's orchestra will play for the third time this season for music of the class of 1955, and two o'clock permission has been granted for this affair. Entertainment will be provided for the dancers, and the dance committee and the combined members of the Social and Dance committee have been chosen from the Junior class during the intermission at 10:30, while Pearly Finn and New London's, the Koine photographer for '52, is going to take pictures during the intermission and the dance.

Germans, Frenchmen, chairmen of the ticket committee has announced that a limited number of tickets are offered to freshmen, sophomores, and seniors. These tickets are in demand and will be sold among the regular students without regard to rank. Terms will be one dollar and ninety cents in the price.

H. Liz Hamilton and Ann Ball are writing and printing a program for the weekend consisting of junior's dances' names and places for dinner parties and picnics.

Jo Machanous is the chairman of the interval committee, the committee being followed by the following committee chairman: Linda Lemmon, decoration; Jane Law, refreshments; Molly Hansen, music; Dorothy Shaw, coord. Commissary. Two dollars and ninety cents in the price.

Representative To Interview Seniors

One of the important government agencies is sending a representative to Connecticut College to interview qualified seniors for Washington and overseas jobs on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 17 and 18. Mr. Harold Russell will speak briefly to the seniors at their regular schedule, 8:30 to 10:00, preparing them for the interview at 8:00 o'clock on Tuesday, April 17, outlining the opportunities available. These are uncertain in Civil Service jobs. For the better jobs secretarial skills are necessary but in general, all the help can be interviewed, so check with the Personnel Bureau to see if you qualify.

Eliajah Performance Received As Fine Musical Achievement by Robert Strider

In observance of the thirtieth anniversary of Connecticut College, among the gala events was the Finales of the Elijah, Sunday evening in Palmer Auditorium. The performers included the Connecticut College Glee Club, the New London Men's Chorus, the W.V.C.A., Chorus, of the Coast Guard Academy Glee Club, and the New London Civic Orchestra. A list of Soloists and subscribers was printed with the program.

The Elijah is a dramatic work of great power, and it has often been said that if the soldiers were properly attired in a suitable setting, the performance could be presented as an opera. Mendelssohn was a great admirer of Bach, particularly of the St. Matthew Passion, and he was influential in reviving Bach in the 19th century. In several of the parts of the Elijah one sees the strong imprint of Bach's influence—for example, to name one of many instances, the chorale Cant't Thy Burden Upon The Lord is reminiscent of the chorale: the first chorus of the St. Matthew Passion. Yet one must face the fact that Mendelssohn was not the equivalent of Bach, and the Elijah, impressive as it is, is not the Passion.

Among the highlights of the role of Elijah is much of the most de-
Opportunity Knocks Twice

What can YOU gain from NEWS? Aside from obtaining information, you may learn that there’s nothing esoteric about the NEWS office. It’s nothing but hard work—rooms of details like fitting copy into the allotted space and distributing the papers. What’s your part in the process? Well, if you can offer anything even as concrete as a grade, we can offer opportunity—a chance to learn about reporting. We’d like to spread the word to the newspaper business.

A good deal of enjoyment may also be derived from working on NEWS—the fun of cooperating to get something done and that wonderful feeling of accomplishment when the paper is ready to go to bed on Tuesday night. It consumes comparatively little time, and you can’t help but develop a good perspective. And don’t you lack talent, copyreading, for example, is relatively simple to learn, but it offers a challenge in making reports where others expect exactness from the author intended.

Here, in a sense, suffer from the common difficulty of not being able to express your thoughts in words, remember that writing isn’t essential to be YOU, not just for the help you can give us, but for what you are.

If you’re waiting for a sign that it is not required to commit the bills before he can send your allowance.

Or:

Did you ever stop to think that someone has to contact business and hold discussions with the so-called committee? It is a conscientious effort—more essential than you may estimate their importance.

Express your thoughts in words, remember that writing isn’t essential to be YOU, not just for the help you can give us, but for what you are.

Working on NEWS is also an excellent method of getting acquainted. You often wonder who a certain professor is, what they’re like. Why not find out, by interviewing them? Learn about a coming lecture, or write a profile about the professor, to acquaint everyone with the new personality.

And what’s happening at other colleges? Did you ever wonder how they do it? By working on the circulation staff, you will meet these people—granted that the method is somewhat indirect—through their newspaper. The chief circulation staff member is the most connected groups on campus. Haven’t you experienced the strain of waiting for the latest issue of NEWS that day? Whether you like it or not, it’s essential to be an extrovert at some point. A desire for more effective pictures, ideas for more effective shots, acamera—and there you are.

Even if you don’t keep a scrapbook, you know what a thrill it is to see your own picture, or your best friend’s picture, in the newspaper. You know how a picture can portray something more eloquently than words. It isn’t essential to be an extrovert at some point. A desire for more effective pictures, ideas for more effective shots, a camera—and there you are.

By now you may have gathered that this is an appeal for new people on the NEWS. It is, but with a difference. You want your newspaper, but we can give you far more than you can gain from this experience. We can even answer your argument that you can’t possibly take on any more extra-curricular activities. Wouldn’t there be a story you read in NEWS, oh, a week or so ago, with which you violently disagreed? Why not tell the newspaper that? What can YOU gain from NEWS? This is your answer. From here on, it’s up to—you.

Cady Prize Contest

To Occur on May 15

The contest for the Cady Prize in Reading will be held in Room 306, Palmer Auditorium, on May 15, 7:00 p.m. Contestants are asked to assemble in Room 302. Each contestant for the prize will be expected to read three pieces, chosen by herself, and one chosen by the judges.

The pieces chosen by the contestant shall be one consisting of verse, and one consisting of prose. Neither of these pieces shall occupy by more than two and one-half minutes in the reading. As this prize, which amounts to twenty-five dollars, is in the ability to render English aloud, the contestant is not required to commit the pieces to memory.

Students intending to compete must sign their names on the sheet that will be posted in the English Bulletin Board before the event.

More Major Conferences To Be Held This Week

The departments of history, art, and psychology held conferences on the aims and contents of their majors on Tuesday afternoon at 5:15 in Fanning 315, Bill 506, and Hill 106 respectively. On Thursday of this week the sociology department held its annual conference in Hill 106, and the music department in the English Room.

The conference are planned for freshmen and for any sophomores who may be interested in their major or who wish information on possible future careers. Any student may attend any of the conferences.

Other departments will hold group or individual conferences in the next three weeks according to a schedule posted on the academic bulletin board. Please remember attendance.

Day Publishing Co. Will Award Annual Prize For Newswriting Ability

To reward skill in writing newspaper articles, a Bodenbender prize is offered annually by the Day Publishing Co., publishers of the New London Day, which was founded by Horace Bodenbender. A committee—composed of members of the English department will judge the entries and award the twenty-five dollar prize. Any article of any subject may be submitted in this competition—news story, feature, or editorial—and it is not necessary for the article to have been published. Either the clipping, or the story, if it has been published, or a typescript copy of the article, may be submitted, and there is no limit to the number of copies an author may submit.

All those who wish to enter the competition are asked to submit their entries to Mr. Seipger by April 30. Results will be announced in the Prize Chapel to be held near the end of the school year.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS

Meet the Class Prefaces for Next Year
Molly Hunt, Dell Stone, Cyinnie Linton

Molly Hunt

Freckles and a contagious laugh is how the pref is described by the words of the new class president for the class of ’52. Molly Hunt is a zoology major who will do her dietetic work in the National Bank of Commerce.

The new president was born in New York City and has lived there her whole life. In her first semester at Conn., she attended the Brearley School where she was active in the student government. She also participated in the weightlifting and the academic honors team of team and basketball as the team captain.

At Connecticut Molly has held many positions. She was vice-president of Vinal her freshman year, president of Brunford of the class of ’52, as of the class of ’52, and a member of the student government. She also participated in the weightlifting and the academic honors team of the academic team.

When asked if she liked Connecticut Molly replied with her enthusiasm.

"I love Connecticut! I love the people here. Yes, we’re all very friendly and it’s just a great place to be."}

Dell Stone

Among her hair, a mountain size for sophomore class president is Dell Stone. Dell Stone is enrolled in the School of Business Administration. She is from Auburn and has been a student at Connecticut since last year.

Dell Stone has held many positions in her time here, including as a member of the Student Council and the American Association of University Women. She is currently serving as the vice-president of the Student Council and a member of the American Association of University Women.

When asked about her plans for the future, Dell Stone replied, "I have several. One is to get a degree in Business Administration, and the other is to travel through Europe."}

Cyinnie Linton

Cyinnie Linton is a senior psychology major who has been active in student affairs for the past three years. She is a member of the Senior Class Executive Committee and the Senior Class Council.

Cyinnie’s main interest is in nursing, and she is taking courses in nursing courses and hopes to go into nursing after graduation. She also has an interest in Spanish, and she has spent her junior year abroad.

Cyinnie’s friends describe her as "sweet," "considerate," and "enthusiastic." They attribute her election to her ability to contribute to the student body, generate ideas, and serve as a source of inspiration for others. She has always been dedicated to her work and her community, and her presence on the campus is greatly appreciated.

Cynthia Linton

Cynthia Linton is an art major who has been active in the student body for the past three years. She is a member of the Senior Class Executive Committee and the Senior Class Council.

Cynthia’s main interest is in art, and she has been involved in several art projects. She is currently working on a major project that will be presented at the end of the year.

When asked about her plans for the future, Cynthia replied, "I have several. One is to get a degree in Art History, and the other is to travel through Europe."
Publications Reveal Faculty
Doesn't Only Give Quizzes

If anyone wanted to prove that our professors live not for classes but for the good of the university, he need only look at the latest list of faculty publications. For it is the case that our faculty is more than capable of producing fine works in their field of expertise.

Our English department has been mentioned in the literary world by Miss Bethurum, Miss Fuve, Mrs. Smyser and Mr. Smyser. Miss Tuve's writings have been in the critical review vein, while Miss Bethurum wrote The Anomalous Old English Odes for the Journal of English and German Philology. Mrs. Smyser's article, Colorides' Use of Words worth's Juvenal, appears in the June, 1950, issue of Publications of the Modern Language Association.

In the language fields, CC professors have submitted papers to the annual meetings of the American Association of Teachers of German, Giovanni Bovis and Jamie Gregory have been selected for the slender volumes of The Dictionary of English and the Philological Quarterly. Several papers have appeared in New Rundschau, fischer Nachrichten, and Kammerspiele, while the poetry of the Montclair City poet, Robert Naylor Jr., has been published in The Montclair Review.

This, Too, Shall Pass, as Spreckels Attains Honor In Collegiate Contest

Strak's done it again! Specifically, Janet Strickland '51, last year's art editor of NEWS, and a senior art major, has received one of eleven awards in the division of Graphic Processes and Design for an etching which she submitted to the seventh annual Exhibition of Art by Students from Western New England Colleges at the Springfield, Mass., Museum of Fine Arts.

Connecticut was one of fifteen colleges represented in this division of Graphic Processes and Design for an etching which she submitted to the seventh annual Exhibition of Art by Students from Western New England Colleges at the Springfield, Mass., Museum of Fine Arts.

In Connecticut, one of fifteen colleges represented in the exhibition, two art major seniors, Robert Pratt and Jane Whiting, have won honorable mentions for their etchings. The etching which was selected for the exhibition is "The Duck and the Geese," by Robert Pratt, who was awarded a $250 fellowship, and "The Cranes," by Jane Whiting, who received a $100 fellowship. The etchings were exhibited at the Springfield Museum from June 15 to July 15, and are now on exhibit at the New Britain Museum of American Art.

Prep School Faculty to Hold Conference Sat.

The officers of student government, Barbara Paulson, honor court; Barbara Paulson, chief justice of the college's honor court; Barbara Paulson, speaker of the house; honor court; and Jean Chandler, judges of the class of 1952 who will be returned as soon as possible.

The Loyola News
Chicago, Illinois

In Chicago, Illinois, a favorite gathering spot of students at Loyola University is the Union Lounge because it is a cheerful place—full of university atmosphere and music. And when the gang gathers around, ice-cold Coca-Cola gets the call. For here, as in university haunts everywhere—Coke belongs.

Press Board Offers Students Training In Publicity Work

Press Board is one of those small, hard-working organizations on campus of which we hear so little, and which accomplish a tremendous task.

Working with Mrs. Katherine Floyd, director of the publicity bureau, Press Board has the most daily job of getting to it that CC students receive recognition for their campus activities in the newspapers which serve the home town and secondary school papers. Each member of the board devotes at least one hour a week to writing and mailing short items to the effect that “Louise Durfee ’52, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Westwood Durfee of Tiverton, R. I., was recently chosen by members of the student body at Connecticut College, New London, to serve as president of their student government for the year 1951-52, etc.” Or that “Susan Manley ’39, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Manley, of Long Meadow, Mass., has been elected president of the Home Economics Club at Connecticut College, etc.”

Several members of the board act as paid correspondents, for professional newspapers and college and campus news of general interest, as well as those with a local slant, in their columns written once a week. Pay is usually on the “per inch” basis, according to the space, size and respectability of the paper for which they work. These jobs are awarded by Press Board to its more experienced members, subject to the approval of the newspaper, which after all, owns the story.

For one who has never had a chance for experience in journalism under pressure, and does not want or need more than congenital atmosphere! Members are appointed on the basis of ability and interest, and the basis of selection which will take place at the college July 9-August 18 under the directorship of T. Weiss, assistant professor of English at Bard, editor of The Quarterly Review of Literature, and contributor to several well-known literary periodicals.

U.S.C.S.C. Announces Civil Service Exams

Units of the United States Civil Service Commission has announced a junior and senior and executive examination, which will be held in all states and various parts of the Federal service.

The examinations cover business, farming, natural science, engineering, political science, education, art, music, literature and other subjects. Each applicant must take a written test. To qualify you must have had a high school education and knowledge of English grammar. Information and application forms may be obtained from the local Civil Service regional offices, or from the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C.

The salary of the highest paid job is $3,250. To qualify, applicants must pass a written test in the particular subject or subjects. Information and application forms may be obtained from the Civil Service regional offices, or the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C.

The examination covers all areas of government service. The questionnaires are blind, and candidates must answer them in their own handwriting. The questions are designed to measure the candidates' knowledge of the principles of government and their ability to apply them to practical problems.

Summer Workshop in Poetry

Bard College, Annadale-on-Hudson, N. Y., has announced its 1951 Summer Workshop in Poetry, which will take place at the college July 9-August 18 under the directorship of T. Weiss, assistant professor of English at Bard, editor of The Quarterly Review of Literature, and contributor to several well-known literary periodicals.

Visiting lecturers will participate, including Zane Grey, Robert Louis Stevenson, Robert Frost, William Carlos Williams, and various others. The director of the workshop will be Heinz Eberhardt, who lives at Mason's Island.

Applications for Phi Beta Kappa Graduate Scholarship Is Urged

The New London and Connecticut College Delta chapters of Phi Beta Kappa which annually sponsor a scholarship for graduate students, have been especially good sculptures for the national summer sport of Connecticut. Each applicant must have been a Phi Beta Kappa member, and must be a member of the university or college of which he is a graduate, and be a citizen of the United States. The scholarship is $1,000, and is open to any member of the society who is enrolled in a graduate course at any college or university in the United States. The scholarship is awarded to the student who is judged to have the greatest promise of success in his field of study, and who is judged to be the most likely to contribute to the advancement of knowledge. The scholarship is renewable for up to four years, and the winner is selected by a committee of Phi Beta Kappa members who are experts in the field of study of the applicant.
Caught on Campus

First of all we have another addition to the list of blushing brides at our fair institution which is rapidly turning into "School for Brides" it seems in Tulsa Stewart Menden, who an announce her new name on April 7. After her wedding in Cleveland, the newly-weds drove back east, where Tulsa proceeded to set the campus on its ear when she walked in with her brand-new husband, Bill McInerney, just a foot away from her old school, Pace College.

The engagement was also announced of Emmie Speare, another sophomore in Woodbury. Her fiancée is Roland Hamblin, a Harvard grad and a native of Milton, Mass. Bill is working for the investment firm of Scudder, Stevens, and Company in Boston. Bill and Emmie met on a boat trip to En- grington last summer. They plan to marry in September, and Emmie may continue her college education in Boston.

Freeman House is proud to announce the engagement of one of its inhabitants, Janet Schmidt. The girls in the dorm have been watching the progress of Bill Mc- Cuskey’s courtship of Janet for many a Wednesday afternoon. (Bill is a second classman at the Academy.) This column is always renewing faith in blind dates, and this is another couple who met on one, of a year ago last October. They plan to be married a year from June when both will be grad- uated from college.

Nancy Beth, an East sender, and her fiancée Bob Doyle, are planning a September wedding according to the official report made public by the agency. Nancy has known Bob who’s an undergraduate at the Wharton School of Finance in the University of Pennsylvania’s, ever since she was born. He’s from Shrewsbury, Mass.; (no is she is) but the Doyle’s will be making Philadelphia their home.
