News

Students Battle Inclement Weather Last Friday Night to Support the Fight against Homophobia.

Sports

Find out which Camels qualified for the Division III New England Championships, and check out the rest of the exciting Camel sports action.

A&E

Senior Dance majors enthralled Connie Stevens, herendowed and her final concert. Astounding staging both students and guest atmosphere.

Students Elect 2004-2005 SGA Exec. Board

By Benjamin Gans

With the arrival of beautiful springtime weather, comes various preparations for the 2004-2005 school year. In addition to registering for classes and looking forward to the incoming housing lottery, elections for positions on many student organizations have recently occurred. Most notable of these elections was that for the Executive Board of the Student Government Association.

Next year, Peter Lelek, '05, current Vice President, will be succeeding Bik Carter as the President of SGA. This year SGA has been extremely successful and I am very excited to continue this success as the SGA President," remarked Lelek. The President's two main roles are to participate in the PESC (the college’s student-wide finance committee that handles large budget decisions) and also to run SGA Assembly meetings.

Peter Lelek's current position of Vice President will be taken over by Eddie Slade, '06. Slade will be in charge of finding the finance committee, an organization that manages $300,000 and oversees 100 student accounts and operations every year. Additionally, the VP of the SGA handles student life, physical plant, and other community relations.

Another position familiar to many students is that of the Student Board Chair, currently held by Danam Slepin. As the new chair of the Board, Jay Karpen, '06, will oversee, coordinate, and schedule all of the board's meetings. Interestingly enough, the chair is not allowed to vote on any decisions made by the board unless there is a tie. The Board Chair also sits on the Conwell Center Board, which is the "behind the scenes" component of policy decisions. The CDC determines what step write-ups and reports: from Campus Safety will take. Making important decisions such as whether a specific case should appear before the Board or go directly to Student Life.

Pamela Evans, '06, will replace Olsen Kister as the Chair of Academic Affairs. In addition to managing every Student Advisory Board on campus, another crucial aspect of the Chair of Academic Affairs job is to look out for and voice student interests to the faculty and administration on issues such as Self-Schedule Exams. To do so, the Chair of AA sits on the SGA (Academic Planning Committee) and the EPC (Educational Planning Committee).

Next year Alexander Schoenfeld '05 will take over the charge of heading the finance committee, an organization that manages a significant budget across the College. Additionally, the chair is not allowed to vote in any decisions made by the board unless there is a tie. The Board Chair also sits on the Conwell Center Board, which is the "behind the scenes" component of policy decisions. The CDC determines what step write-ups and reports: from Campus Safety will take. Making important decisions such as whether a specific case should appear before the Board or go directly to Student Life.

Patrick Evans, '06, will replace Olsen Kister as the Chair of Academic Affairs. In addition to managing every Student Advisory Board on campus, another crucial aspect of the Chair of Academic Affairs job is to look out for and voice student interests to the faculty and administration on issues such as Self-Schedule Exams. To do so, the Chair of AA sits on the SGA (Academic Planning Committee) and the EPC (Educational Planning Committee).

Next year Alexander Schoenfeld '05 will take over the charge of heading the finance committee, an organization that manages a significant budget across the College. Additionally, the chair is not allowed to vote in any decisions made by the board unless there is a tie. The Board Chair also sits on the Conwell Center Board, which is the "behind the scenes" component of policy decisions. The CDC determines what step write-ups and reports: from Campus Safety will take. Making important decisions such as whether a specific case should appear before the Board or go directly to Student Life.

Students Keep Silence in Support of LGBT Rights

By Elizabeth Beaven

On Wednesday, April 21st, the Student-run group SGLQ, Social Organizations United for Liberation, sponsored a campus-wide Day of Silence. According to group members, the Day of Silence, which is part of the nationally organized project, "Day of Silence," the first Student Government Education Network (SGLEN), was conducted to raise awareness on issues of harassment and discrimination.

Events on the event took a day long vow of silence to recognize and protect the discrimination, the harassment, and, essentially, the silencing experienced by LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender) students and supporters on a daily basis.

Appropriately, 35 students participated in the day-long event and vowed to make their silence visible to the community. Those who had taken the vow of silence wore red shirts and handed out flyers that listed their reasons for not talking. According to Carrie Hackett (05), "Day of Silence organizer and SGA member, several silences remained due to internal differences in support of the Day of Silence sponsored by SGLEN. (Pace)

Camels Lend a Hand Towards Beautifying the College Campus

By Thomas McClure

On Friday, April 23rd an estimated 250 volunteers participated in Camel Cleanup Day, a day-long event intended to beautify the College campus and bring the College community together by working towards a common goal. Faculty, staff, students, alumns, and volunteers were all involved in the event, and students were asked to sign up via CamelNet.

The idea was derived by the Student Government Association (SGA) and developed in one of their weekly assembly meetings.

The plans were then brought to Hammond, Vice President of Administration, who helped establish a volunteer committee co-founded by himself, General Green, Chair of the FSCC, and Rick Gropper, President of the SGA. Staff members from Student Life, Physical Plant, and other divisions of the College as well as Junior Class President, Jesse Folger were also members of the committee.

Rick Gropper commented on the success of the planning effort. "I have thoroughly enjoyed co-chairsing this committee and thank all members for their hard work and dedication." (continued on page 7)

New Housing Lottery Confuses, Frustrates Conn Students

By Sarah Condon

Last Friday night, the halls of Conwell West were flooded with Conn students when rising seniors, juniors, and some rising sophomores gathered to partake in this year’s housing lottery. In previous years, the lottery has been orchestrated by a company system that automatically placed students in dorms based on the amount of priority they had from freshman housing. Having undergone a significant setback from last year, the current housing lottery requires a certain amount of student participation in the dorm selection process.

"It seemed clear from the beginning that students wanted more involvement in the actual house and room selection process," remarked Shirley Melville, Director of Residential Life. Since her arrival at Connecticut College, Melville has invested a great deal of time into improving the quality of the housing lottery process. Drawing upon her previous experience with successful lottery systems at other institutions, Melville’s goal was to design a comparable program at Connecticut College. She still took into account various traditions unique to the college style of housing lottery needed to fit the culture of Conn and the needs of the students," commented Melville.

The new lottery system makes a student’s class year into consideration, and last year’s class, seniors, are ordered by seniority. The lottery is set up in addition to being assigned a random dorm number multiple times in order to allow for students to fill their dorms, but the lottery procedure determines the order in which students pick their dorms.

Modifications to the old lottery process was incentivized in response to feedback from the Student Government Association and from surveys issued by Student Life, Physical Plant, and other community relations. That while students wanted to have more control over the housing process, they also wanted to hold on to certain aspects of the old lottery. In general, students strongly argued keeping priority, and most students felt it was very important.

Students interested in applying for the new lottery system should contact the office of the Housing Lottery committee. (continued on page 7)

NewHousing Lottery

New London, CT

Conn Students

(continued on page 7)

Students Keep Silence in Support of LGBT Rights

By Elizabeth Beaven

On Wednesday, April 21st, the Student-run group SGLQ, Social Organizations United for Liberation, sponsored a campus-wide Day of Silence. According to group members, the Day of Silence, which is part of the nationally organized project, "Day of Silence," the first Student Government Education Network (SGLEN), was conducted to raise awareness on issues of harassment and discrimination.

Events on the event took a day long vow of silence to recognize and protect the discrimination, the harassment, and, essentially, the silencing experienced by LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender) students and supporters on a daily basis.

Appropriately, 35 students participated in the day-long event and vowed to make their silence visible to the community. Those who had taken the vow of silence wore red shirts and handed out flyers that listed their reasons for not talking. According to Carrie Hackett (05), "Day of Silence organizer and SGA member, several silences remained due to internal differences in support of the Day of Silence sponsored by SGLEN. (Pace)

Camels Lend a Hand Towards Beautifying the College Campus

By Thomas McClure

On Friday, April 23rd an estimated 250 volunteers participated in Camel Cleanup Day, a day-long event intended to beautify the College campus and bring the College community together by working towards a common goal. Faculty, staff, students, alumns, and volunteers were all involved in the event, and students were asked to sign up via CamelNet.

The idea was derived by the Student Government Association (SGA) and developed in one of their weekly assembly meetings.

The plans were then brought to Hammond, Vice President of Administration, who helped establish a volunteer committee co-founded by himself, General Green, Chair of the FSCC, and Rick Gropper, President of the SGA. Staff members from Student Life, Physical Plant, and other divisions of the College as well as Junior Class President, Jesse Folger were also members of the committee.

Rick Gropper commented on the success of the planning effort. "I have thoroughly enjoyed co-chairsing this committee and thank all members for their hard work and dedication." (continued on page 7)

New Housing Lottery Confuses, Frustrates Conn Students

By Sarah Condon

Last Friday night, the halls of Conwell West were flooded with Conn students when rising seniors, juniors, and some rising sophomores gathered to partake in this year’s housing lottery. In previous years, the lottery has been orchestrated by a company system that automatically placed students in dorms based on the amount of priority they had from freshman housing. Having undergone a significant setback from last year, the current housing lottery requires a certain amount of student participation in the dorm selection process.

"It seemed clear from the beginning that students wanted more involvement in the actual house and room selection process," remarked Shirley Melville, Director of Residential Life. Since her arrival at Connecticut College, Melville has invested a great deal of time into improving the quality of the housing lottery process. Drawing upon her previous experience with successful lottery systems at other institutions, Melville’s goal was to design a comparable program at Connecticut College. She still took into account various traditions unique to the college style of housing lottery needed to fit the culture of Conn and the needs of the students," commented Melville.

The new lottery system makes a student’s class year into consideration, and last year’s class, seniors, are ordered by seniority. The lottery is set up in addition to being assigned a random dorm number multiple times in order to allow for students to fill their dorms, but the lottery procedure determines the order in which students pick their dorms.

Modifications to the old lottery process was incentivized in response to feedback from the Student Government Association and from surveys issued by Student Life, Physical Plant, and other community relations. That while students wanted to have more control over the housing process, they also wanted to hold on to certain aspects of the old lottery. In general, students strongly argued keeping priority, and most students felt it was very important.
Housing Roulette at Connecticut College

Perhaps the most common question that was asked last week, especially by rising juniors on Friday’s housing lottery, was whether or not the rising seniors were choosing their dorms on their own. Class and upperclassmen stressed both the students waiting for their turn and the organizers of the school’s housing. Although it was a stressful evening, we should not lose our faith and confidence. We must remember that every new system that is launched always brings with it the spirit that students must realize.

Do you care about anything?

“Voice” your opinions write a letter to the Editor.

send to: ccvoice@conncoll.edu

Policies

ADVERTISEMENTS

The College Voice is an open forum. The opinions contained by that individual advertiser do not "belong" to the Voice. Letters to the Editor are due by 5:00 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication. The College Voice reserves the right to publish letters for clarity and length. No unsigned or anonymous letters will be published. However names may be withheld upon the author’s request. The College Voice will not publish letters deemed to be a personal attack on an individual. The College Voice reserves the right to edit letters in the interest of clarity and length. Letters should be single-spaced, no longer than 500 words, and include a phone number for verification. Please send all letters as a Microsoft Word attachment to ccvoice@conncoll.edu.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Editor-in-Chief shall have final content approval. The final deadline for advertising is 5:00 p.m. on the Wednesday preceding publication.

THINK YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO BE THE NEXT JORDAN GEARY?

The Voice has begun the search for a new editorial cartoonist. Submit your work to box 4970.
No one believes that a war is a good idea or that it is the best way to solve political disputes. The debate is not about whether to use military force; it is about when and how. The question is whether we should be doing this now.

This debate is not about whether to use military force; it is about when and how. The question is whether we should be doing this now.

In the early 1990s, the Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) was established. The group was founded in 1964 and was recognized by the United Nations as the representative of the Palestinian people. The PLO signed agreements with Israel, including the Oslo Accords in 1995, which called for the establishment of a Palestinian state. Israel, however, has refused to honor these agreements and continue to expand its settlements in the West Bank and Gaza. This has led to increased tensions and violence.

The debate continues as to whether the United States should continue to support Israel or if the situation should be addressed through diplomacy. The United States has maintained a strong relationship with Israel, but this has been strained by the ongoing conflict.

The Palestinian people are prepared to sacrifice the last boy and the last girl to obtain their freedom. They have been subjected to decades of negative effects by both Israel and the international community. The PLO has been fighting for their rights and has been demanding an end to the occupation.

However, the situation remains complex and the path to peace is not clear. The United States and other countries continue to work towards a resolution that will bring stability and security to the region.

In conclusion, the debate continues on how to address the situation in the Middle East. The United States and other countries continue to work towards a solution that will bring peace to the region. The situation is complex, and the path to peace is not clear. However, the United States and other countries continue to work towards a resolution that will bring stability and security to the region.

Campaign jobs to Beat Bush

On campus next week

The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think tank, has sent 19 student interns to every major college and university in the United States. The interns are being trained to recruit and train others to campaign against President Bush.

The campaign is part of a national effort to challenge Bush on his record and to elect a Democratic candidate in 2004. The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think tank, has been working to challenge Bush on his record and to elect a Democratic candidate in 2004.

The campaign is part of a national effort to challenge Bush on his record and to elect a Democratic candidate in 2004. The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think tank, has been working to challenge Bush on his record and to elect a Democratic candidate in 2004.
Spiderwick: The Next Harry Potter?

BY EMILY MARSH

Editor at Large

It's easy to dismiss any children's fantasy novel as the rehashed tales of Harry Potter. However, no such claim can be made regarding the latest memoir inter- mediate fiction series The Spiderwick Chronicles. The book, written by Tony DiTerlizzi and Holly Black, depicts the lives of the Grace Children (Cherub, Nanny and the younger twin boys, Jared and Assam) as they move into a new house following their father's untimely death. The house, called Laurel Creek, is a place where things go bump in the night.

An chimera-like creature known as the Ironwood Tree is the centerpiece of the series and is described as a mystical being that protects and guides those who live within its branches. It is led by a character named Arthur, who helps the children navigate the strange and magical world they inhabit.

The first book in the series, The Ironwood Tree, tells a tale of a young girl named Mallory and her younger twin brothers Simon and Jared. Mallory and her siblings are left behind in a new house following their father's death, and they soon discover that their new home is inhabited by magical creatures and supernatural beings.

The plot thickens as the children learn more about the Ironwood Tree and its role in protecting the Grace family. Throughout the story, the children are introduced to various magical creatures and are forced to confront the challenges of growing up in a world where the boundaries between fantasy and reality blur.

The Spiderwick Chronicles is a captivating and imaginative story that will appeal to readers of all ages. It is a blend of mystery, adventure, and fantasy, making it an enjoyable read for both children and adults.

Versatile Cartoonist Finds Alternative Outlet in Unique Performance

The NY Post calls him a "Aldo-really-bad crest," While the Daily News calls him a "serial story writer," the Doonesbury comic strip has always been a source of inspiration for the funny thing about J.R. Lapham is that people may come across his work without even realizing it. Along with all his other comic strips, he has contributed to various magazines, including Mad, The New Yorker, Sports Illustrated, GQ, and Fortune among others. PJ: I've probably done 1000 illustrations in the past 20 years... it's like being inside a dream for me. Sometimes it seems like reality, other times it feels so surreal. PJ: I've never really had a problem with reality, because I have a sense of humor about things. PJ: I always thought I was a musician, but I never really took the time to explore it until now. PJ: I'm not really sure how I got into this, but I've always been interested in music. PJ: I've been writing and playing music for about 20 years... I always had a sense of humor, but I never really took it that seriously. I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now. PJ: I've always been a bit of a perfectionist, but I've always tried to stay true to myself. PJ: I've always been interested in music, but I've never really taken the time to explore it until now.
The Last Night of Ballyhoo follows a Jewish family through events of World War II. While battles between gentiles and Jews were not as prominent in America as in Europe, the film portrays, playwright Alfred Uhly (author of Driving Miss Daisy) examines the fissure between groups of Jews in the South while maintaining an uphill battle in America ratifying their personal belief and the conflict between themselves, other Jews, and local Christians.

"When I proposed the play last year, it was right after the first string of bias incidents had taken place," says Wexler. "One of my motivations for proposing this play is the first place was because I began to realize that there were some prejudices swirling around. Unfortunately, more than one year later, these prejudices are still not going away. What I think the play does is to remind us that the issue of prejudice is not a new one, and that we need to remember he is playing a character because he is not a character." Wexler is still in demand on stage but maintains an undeniable presence that is sure to draw some female audience members long after the curtain falls.

Both couples come together with the help of a dance called "Ballyhoo" at Adolph's Standards Club, a country club allocated for Jews only. This segregation leads to a number of intense moments where characters reexamine their personal beliefs and the conflict between themselves, other Jews, and local Christians.

"The play manages to be light and heavy simultaneously," says director Gary Winick. "It's clear to the audience how much fun she's having. The movie is only an hour and a half, long, perhaps a testament to the young Jenna of the '80s, an age of short films. The pre-teen girls in the theater could see the movie immediately. 13 Going on 30 will probably be the big movie of their generation."
Students Sleep Outside to Raise Money, Awareness for Habitat For Humanity

On April 27th 2004, Israel’s citizens celebrated the 56th anniversary of Israel. The theme this year was a salute to those who have served in the armed forces. Leaders of the world sent their regards to Moshe Katzav, the President of Israel. Among the leaders sending their greetings were US President George W. Bush, British Prime Minister Tony Blair, British Prime Minister Tony Blair, French President Jacques Chirac, and Japanese Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi.

The office of Volunteers for Habitat for Humanity implemented the Arbo Project, a hands-on environmental education program here at Connecticut College’s Arboretum. The Project is set up to educate New London youth about ecology and provide a fun way to get to know the campus. The Project’s objective was to get people to think about all aspects of the environment surrounding Connecticut and is led by Tim Ley ’06, and Elly Dominguez ’06. These students, as well as roughly seventy others, slept in cardboard boxes in the rain to point out the weather conditions and the housing lottery, the rain being the amount of the participating students’ time.

What and Dominguez both feel that the

Conn’s Arboretum Project Educates New London Youth

On April 27th 2004, Israel’s citizens celebrated the 56th anniversary of Israel. The theme this year was a salute to those who have served in the armed forces. Leaders of the world sent their regards to Moshe Katzav, the President of Israel. Among the leaders sending their greetings were US President George W. Bush, British Prime Minister Tony Blair, British Prime Minister Tony Blair, French President Jacques Chirac, and Japanese Prime Minister Junichiro Koizumi.

The office of Volunteers for Habitat for Humanity implemented the Arbo Project, a hands-on environmental education program here at Connecticut College’s Arboretum. The Project is set up to educate New London youth about ecology and provide a fun way to get to know the campus. The Project’s objective was to get people to think about all aspects of the environment surrounding Connecticut and is led by Tim Ley ’06, and Elly Dominguez ’06. These students, as well as roughly seventy others, slept in cardboard boxes in the rain to point out the weather conditions and the housing lottery, the rain being the amount of the participating students’ time.

What and Dominguez both feel that the
THE SECRET ORIGIN OF THE NAKED TROJANS

THE COLLEGE VOICE • APRIL 2004

THE SECRET ORIGIN OF THE NAKED TROJANS

Continued from page 1

Continued from page 1

Students Keep Silence In Support of LGBT Rights

Students new Housing Lottery Confuses Students

B A A S E

Our Advantages:

• Convenient access to MBTA New Lover New Town home ranked by Lilt Press, \nWesleyan universities that integrate classroom learning with:
• Innovative and unprecedented scholarships and financial aid
• Industry focused faculty with strong professional connections
• Ground-breaking programs that access Boston's top businesses and

I have you thought about graduate school in Boston?

There is a question, perhaps a thousand questions, about the anti-social restructuring in our time. When we don't do it, we are out of the way. The African Union, the body that got us and helped liberation movements, is not powerful enough. The Muslim African people themselves had to do it. And they did it by forming a commission, an organization which is not a socialistic, but a political socialistic, and then had it direct donors and out and out forms. And when they would send the money to the people, they see the rise in the way and out. This is because initially the formation of the African political society was the most heated act of the day. And today there are many other cases where people were not aware of the collapse of the social and political society, because they happened to held differertiary political views. To us, it appears that there is an institutional advantage among the leaders in Africa that is very Afro-centric and, therefore, Anti-Pas. We are a real critic of the leaders of the New Lover. We are a real critic of the leaders of the Afro-centric and affiliating his role as a leader of the National African democracy and culture. It is dangerous to say the least but great our criticism of the organization, which changed in 2002, when we decided to model and out. We will be there that big or larger that the Rwandan could accept. It is just a matter of time.
CV: Any amazing new albums you've heard?
PJ: Yeah, Jamie Cullum...

CV: How would you score?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician...

CV: Any plans for a new album in the near future?
PJ: I don't think you can... Do you want to write more songs like that?

CV; When did the scatting begin?
PJ: Initially showed my...[jazz].

CV: Your singing style is very unique. How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.

CV: What's your most ideal audience? What do you plan to write more songs like that?

CV: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: Any amazing new albums you've heard?
PJ: Yeah, Jamie Cullum... x2812 to write for The Voice, Jabroni.

CV: How would you score?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.

CV: What's your most ideal audience? What do you plan to write more songs like that?

CV: Are there any plans for a new album in the near future?
PJ: Not at all. I would have a nice finished record in the bag. But I don't plan on selling it.

CV: Do you ever play the saxophone with your current band?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: Your singing style is very unique. How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.

CV: What's your most ideal audience? What do you plan to write more songs like that?

CV: Are there any plans for a new album in the near future?
PJ: Not at all. I would have a nice finished record in the bag. But I don't plan on selling it.

CV: Do you ever play the saxophone with your current band?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: Your singing style is very unique. How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.

CV: What's your most ideal audience? What do you plan to write more songs like that?

CV: Are there any plans for a new album in the near future?
PJ: Not at all. I would have a nice finished record in the bag. But I don't plan on selling it.

CV: Do you ever play the saxophone with your current band?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: Your singing style is very unique. How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.

CV: What's your most ideal audience? What do you plan to write more songs like that?

CV: Are there any plans for a new album in the near future?
PJ: Not at all. I would have a nice finished record in the bag. But I don't plan on selling it.

CV: Do you ever play the saxophone with your current band?
PJ: It's not easy. But I'm lucky enough to be a musician.

CV: Your singing style is very unique. How does completing a drawing feel in comparison to completing a song?
PJ: It's the greatest release. Actually, many people have told me I have an almost...physical...Caffeine. I'm very bored. But it all out on stage.
The women’s lacrosse season came to an end last weekend as the Camels won an overtime thriller against NESCAC rival Tufts. The victory was the fourth in a row for the women as they finished their season with a 5-0 record over NESCAC teams. The win over Tufts secured the team’s firstplace NESCAC title, and cemented the Camels as one of the top teams in the country.

Both the men’s and women’s teams have had a successful season so far. The women’s team has been in action since scoring their first goal of the season against Franklin & Marshall on February 18. They have won their last four games, with their most recent victory coming over Tufts on Saturday. The men’s team has won three of their last four games, with their last win coming over Bowdoin College on February 24.

Next weekend the women’s team will travel to Tufts to finish off their season, while the men’s team will have a bye week. The Camels have been in action since February 18 and have a record of 14-2. They are currently ranked #1 in the nation and are the top seed in the NCAA Tournament.

The women’s team will face their next test on Saturday, March 3, when they take on the #2 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Vermont. The game will be held at Virtue Field in Burlington, VT, and will be televised on ESPN3. The men’s team will have a bye week next weekend as they prepare for their next game against the #3 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Notre Dame.

Women’s Lacrosse Win Four Crowns Battling New England Rivals

By Peter Stirling

Brown wins

Both the men’s and women’s teams at Conn have been on fire since the beginning of the season. The men’s team is currently ranked #6 in the nation and is the top seed in the NCAA Tournament. The women’s team is ranked #1 and has already secured the NESCAC title. Both teams have shown their mettle in recent games, with Conn scoring a 2-0 win over Holy Cross and Tufts in overtime.

Both teams are headed to the NCAA Tournament, with Conn as the top seed and Tufts as the #2 seed. The tournament will begin on April 29, with Conn hosting a first-round game against the winner of the Tufts-Bowdoin game. The winner of that game will then face the winner of the #3 seed Binghamton/Endicott-Wellesley game.

The women’s team will face their next test on Saturday, March 3, when they take on the #2 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Vermont. The game will be held at Virtue Field in Burlington, VT, and will be televised on ESPN3. The men’s team will have a bye week next weekend as they prepare for their next game against the #3 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Notre Dame.

Women’s Palin Ends Season With Valiant Effort

By Peter Stirling

The Camels will play in the NCAA Division III championship game on Saturday, March 3, after coming from behind for a 7-6 win over Tufts in the semi-finals on Friday. The women’s team will face their next test on Saturday, March 3, when they take on the #2 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Vermont. The game will be held at Virtue Field in Burlington, VT, and will be televised on ESPN3. The men’s team will have a bye week next weekend as they prepare for their next game against the #3 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the University of Notre Dame.
New England Track and Field Sends Competitors to New Englands First Championships in Any Sport

By Skip Stimson

On Saturday, April 10, the men's and women's track and field teams brought their A game to Trinity in hopes of placing well as this year's NESCAC championships. Unfortunately, the Camels could only finish seventh in both the men's and women's competition.

The men's team finished seventh in both the men's and women's competition, with the women's team finishing in 12th place out of the 14 teams competing. The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finishing ninth and Bennett finishing seventh.

The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finishing ninth and Bennett finishing seventh.

The men's team was led by four senior athletes, including David Hafner '07, who finished third in the 100 meter dash, and Tom Wilson '07, who finished sixth in the 200 meter dash. The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finishing ninth and Bennett finishing seventh.

The men's team was led by two senior athletes, including David Hafner '07, who finished third in the 100 meter dash, and Tom Wilson '07, who finished sixth in the 200 meter dash. The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finishing ninth and Bennett finishing seventh.

The men's team was led by two senior athletes, including David Hafner '07, who finished third in the 100 meter dash, and Tom Wilson '07, who finished sixth in the 200 meter dash. The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finishing ninth and Bennett finishing seventh.

The men's team was led by two senior athletes, including David Hafner '07, who finished third in the 100 meter dash, and Tom Wilson '07, who finished sixth in the 200 meter dash. The women's team was led by two freshman athletes, Lauren Russell '07 in the 3000 meter steeplechase, and Laura Bennett '07 in the 800 meter run. Both athletes finished in the top ten, with Russell finished