SENIORS PRESENT TORRID JUNGLE PLAY

Senior Prom Heads Plans for Weekend To End with Picnic

Knowlton Salon will be the scene of another class dance, the Senior Prom, on Saturday, April 26, from 8:30-12:00 p.m. The dance, under the chairmanship of Mary K. Lackey, will be the highlight of a busy week end of parties and excursions planned by various groups of seniors.

Paul Landerman and his band from Hartford will provide the music for the Prom. The Princeton Nassoons, along with the Connecticut College Celestial Trio and the senior members of the Shwiffs and Connchords, will entertain the dancers during the intermission. This entertainment has been planned by Julie Hovey, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Other committee chairmen include: decorations, Jo MacManus; publicity, Monica Lennox; refreshments, Fairfield Frank and Jan Lindstrom; and programs, Ginger Dreyfus.

Chaperones for the dance will be President Park, Mr. and Mrs. Crazz, Miss Oakes, Mr. Mayhew, and Dean Burdick.

Activities for the week end other than the dance have been planned separately by each of the senior dorms. On Saturday, K.B. plans to go to Lighthouse Inn for cocktails and dinner. The Day Students have planned a small dinner, as has the group from Grace Smith. Freeman week enders will go to various individual parties for cocktails and dinner.

After Sunday morning brunches in K.B. and Freeman for the seniors and their dates, most of the class will go to Rocky Neck for an all-day picnic. Here a jazz band from Tiny's Heat Wave will entertain the group. The outing will be held in the lodge at Rocky Neck in

Faculty Serve On Committees To Aid College

Members of some of the faculty committees for next year have been announced by Miss Barnard, Secretary to the Faculty. The standing committees are composed of members who were previously elected to serve until 1953 and 1954, in addition to those who recently were elected for the three year period until 1955.

The Administration Committee is Miss Brett, Mr. Strider, 1955; Miss Baker, Miss Wood, 1954; Miss Botsford, Mr. Quimby, 1953. The ex-officio members are Dean Burdick, Dean Noyes, Dean Finney, Dr. Warnshuis, and Mrs. Peugh. This committee acts in an advisory capacity to the President, considers matters involving college policy, considers student and faculty petitions, and administers academic discipline.

Other Committees

The members of the Instruction Committee are: Mr. Baird, Miss Dilley, Mrs. Kennedy, 1955; Mr. Jones, Miss Mulvey, Miss Tuve, 1954; Miss Bower, Mr. Goodwin, Miss Kelly, 1953; Dean Burdick, ex-officio. It is the function of this committee to fix the points for courses, and to deal with honors, comprehensives, and requirements for degrees, in addition to building up and maintaining the curriculum.

The Library Committee studies the Library needs of the College, assists in the allocation of book funds, and administers the Library Prizes. The members are: Miss Hafkesbrink, Mr. Morris, Miss Oakes, 1955; Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. Mack, 1954; Dean Finney, Miss McKee, Miss Richardson, 1953; Miss Johnson, ex-officio.

Other committees were elected See "Faculty Committee"—P. 4

Major Conferences Begin on April 28

Major conferences giving information about majors and about advanced courses will be held next week, beginning April 28.

All freshmen and sophomores are invited to attend as many of these conferences as they wish. For further information, see the academic bulletin board in Fanning or last week's NEWS.

Science Delegates Headed by Leister Attend Conference

Science students from every science department will represent Connecticut College this year at the Connecticut Valley Student Science Conference at Mount Holyoke College on Saturday, April 26. Jean Leister '53, a child development student, is the student chairman of the Connecticut delegation, while Joan Aldrich '54, a chemistry student, has assisted her as vice-chairman.

In addition each department has a chairman of its own to coordinate and collect the demonstrations to be presented. These chairmen include: Ann Roche '53, from the math department; Lynn Ward '53, chemistry; Sara Shaefter '54, physics; Phyllis Keller '54, home economics; Joan Abbott '54, zoology; and Sara Maschal '52, botany.

The Connecticut Valley Student Science Conference is an intercollegiate conference, held at a different college each year. This year's is the sixteenth annual conference. About forty delegates from Connecticut will leave by bus early Saturday.

At the conference, meetings of the various science groups will be conducted at the same time in different laboratories and lecture rooms. Demonstrations of individual study and classwork will be on display, and research papers will be read.

Where Are the Stolen Library Books?

Socialized Care is F. Goldman's Topic

Franz Goldman, M. D., assistant professor at the School of Public Health, Harvard University, will lecture on Trends in Social Organization of Medical Care, on Monday, April 28, 7:15, Faculty Lounge.

The author of five books, nine monographs, and numerous articles, Dr. Goldman has taught at Yale Medical School, New York School of Social Work, and other institutions. Dr. Goldman's lecture is sponsored by the Social Anthropology Department.

Melodrama Script Called Jungle Rot; Juniors Get Iphie

Tradition of Sing Sees Many Changes Since Early Years

Compet Sing, one of CC's oldest traditions, has, like many another tradition, changed a great deal with the years. First held in October, 1925, and thereafter, until this year, in May, Competitive Sing originally took place at the Wall, and later on the library steps.

Formerly Outdoor Event

Lately the threat of rain has kept Compet Sing indoors in the Auditorium, but the Library steps was the scene of this event as recently as the spring of 1949. The former custom of having Compet Sing outdoors dates from the time when all events had to be held either in the gym or outdoors. The '39 festivities were the first held in the Auditorium, because of rain.

Compet Sing was established in an effort to overcome a dearth of college songs. It was hoped that these songs would be among those used at Moonlight Sings, or on any occasion when students just felt like singing. Most of the songs in the current "C" book were the result of class competition.

Class of '35 Excels

The original cup, which is awarded to the winning class on the basis of all-around performance, was won by the class of '35, which not only won the requisite three times to earn permanent possession of the cup, but won the fourth year as well. Representatives of this fabulous class now on campus are Miss Sawyer, of the chemistry department, and Miss Pond, of the physical education department. The latter had a share in the glory by serving as assistant song leader her freshman year.

The class of '35 presented a second cup, which was in use until 1947, at which time, very much battered, it was replaced by Ada Maislen, song leader of the class of '47. The class of '52, which won last year, and the class of '53, which won two years ago, each have one leg of this cup.

Relig. Fellowship Selects Officials

Announcement has been made of the newly elected officers of Religious Fellowship. They are as follows: Vice President, Frances Toro '53; Secretary-Treasurer, Sue Lane '54; Publicity chairman, Beth Smith '54; Conference chairman, Pat Mottram '53; Chairman of community relations, Connie Schieve '55; Chairman of Seaside Work, Pat Dailey '54.

Following Competitive Sing on the evening of April 23, the senior class will present the sixteenth annual Senior Melodrama, Jungle Rot, or Safari Ain't Touched a Drop, on the stage of Palmer Auditorium.

The production will be under the direction of Gloria Jones, with Kay Nelles McClure as stage manager. The climax of the program will be the awarding of Iphigenia, the traditional wooden symbol of Senior Melodrama, to the new director and stage manager. As the only two juniors in an all-senior cast, these two will be disguised participants in the production. Their names will remain secret until the end of the performance.

Jungle Rot, which takes place in deepest, darkest Africa, describes Temperance T. Totaller's, the hero's attempts to rid the world of the Pink Elephant which is guarded by the Pink Lady, heroine cannibal princess. Robert Gut, the villain of the play, does his best to hinder Temperance in the search.

The plot ideas, and programs of the production are by Mary Lay Hadden, Cathy Kirch, Francine La Pointe, and Kay and Doug McClure. Jerrie Squier wrote the dialogue and songs, and also assisted with the programs.

The cast, in order of appearance, is as follows: Jungle Jim Fizz-Hugh, Ann Ball; Temperance T. Totaller, Mickey Allen; Colonel Lee, Beverly Bower; Padre Sec, Sue Crowe; Robert Gut (Rot), Kitty Fischer Frank; Witch Doctor, Rusty Katz; Pink Lady, Francine La Pointe; Haig and Haig, Robbie Waller and Mary Lay Hadden; Bomba, Bobbie Katz; Look-out, Joan Donnelly.

Others in the cast are: the Little Bearers, Pat Ahearn, Sally Deisroth, Fairfield Frank, Suzanne Mink, Nancy Morton, Mollie Munro, Gertrude Perkins, Mary Ann Rossi, and Alida Von Bronkhorst.

Prizes Offered for Poetry, Journalism

All students are eligible to compete for the following English prizes. The Benjamin T. Marshall Poetry Prize of twenty-five dollars is awarded annually to a student submitting the best original poem. A student may submit as many poems as she wishes. All poems must be placed in Mr. Smyser's box in the information office by noon on April 28, along with a sealed envelope containing the author's name and pseudonym. Two faculty members and an alumna will be chosen as judges.

The Theodore Bodenwein Prize of twenty-five dollars is offered for excellence in English composition in the field of the newspaper article. The entries may be manuscripts or clippings of any kind of journalistic writing—news stories, features, editorials, etc. They are due on May 1 and are to be left in Mr. Smyser's box. This prize is now continued in Mr. Bodenwein's name by the Day Publishing Company.

Reviewer Praises Production Of a Phoenix Too Frequent

by Ruth Stupell

Honor was paid Christopher Fry last Friday and Saturday evenings when the Wig and Candle sponsored production of A Phoenix Too Frequent was presented at Palmer Auditorium. The one act play is an amiable and elegant version of the story of an Ephesian matron who resolves to die of grief in her husband's tomb; a young matron who at midnight invites death, but at dawn joyfully offers her husband's body to take the place of a gibbeted felon whom her new-found love has "lost." Fry's undeniable talent lies, if not in content, certainly in his ability to verbalize; for the dialogue is full of sparkling charm and refined bawdy.

Gloria Jones' portrayal of Dynamene had just the right ingredients in quantity and quality to make her character strikingly real; that is, grace, sparkle and sincerity. The intensity and congruity with which Miss Jones' face expresses and points the meaning of her lines indeed contributed toward her delightful and honest portrayal.

As Doto, the servant and confidante who wishes to die with her mistress, Connie Demarest gave an effervescent characterization of a "way over 21" coquette. Her good sense of timing of comic lines made Doto consistently amusing—drunk or sober. In the part of Tegeus-Chromis, Bill Mulcahy did a more than adequate job. He played the part of the enamoured soldier with strong conviction. Perhaps a little too rapid in a few speeches, he nevertheless succeeded in audibly projecting the literally breath-taking long figures of speech.

The entire production was done with skill and craftsmanship. Costumes played their important and rightfully negative part by not detracting from the play; that is, the actors were unobtrusively draped in the proper garments of the period, while colors were attractively complimented. The suggestion of a tomb was effectively accomplished with the stylized set design. Stage lighting was satis-

A Forum of Opinion from On and Off the Campus

The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

Seven years ago, on April 25, six American soldiers crossed the Elbe river in a small boat, uniting on a common meeting ground the Allied armies of the East and the West. On the day the armies met as friends at the Elbe river, the Allied governments met at San Francisco to give birth to the United Nations as a world political organization.

April 25, 1945

The meeting of the armies at the Elbe river and the meeting of the governments at San Francisco were the two greatest events of human brotherhood in modern history. Their occurrence on the same day assured that April 25, 1945, would take its place as the most important day of modern world history, and because a beacon light to inspire coming generations of mankind to walk in the ways of peace.

The United Nations set aside April 25, 1949, as a day to honor those who gave their lives in the service of the United Nations in the preceding year. On April 25, 1949, all the delegates to the United Nations General Assembly remained standing for a minute in silent tribute to those honored United Nations dead. May those ceremonies become a precedent, and April 25 each year be celebrated as a day of peace to honor all those who have given their lives that the United Nations might come into being and live on.

Two days before the meeting of the American and Russian Armies at the Elbe river, a civilian group of 200 old men, women and children, streaming westward, stopped by the blown bridge over the Elbe at Strehla, had encamped for the night, huddled about the bridgehead. The night the advancing Russians saw lights flickering at the bridgehead from a distance. Believing enemy military units were engaged for a stand, they bombarded the bridgehead with artillery.

Crossing the Elbe

On the morning of April 25, 1945, a patrol of American infantrymen reached the west bank of the Elbe at Strehla. Upon being hailed by the Russian soldiers on the east bank the Americans prepared for a crossing. The only means available for the crossing was an old wooden boat moored to the shore. The Elbe, flooded by spring rains, was a swift running river. To avoid being swept downstream when making their crossing, the Americans moved the boat upstream to be swept by the river into the remains of the bridge jutting out from the east bank. Achieving their objective, the six American infantrymen crossed the Elbe river at noon and were joyously greeted by the Russians.

Oath of Peace

The greetings took place in the midst of two hundred corpses of old men, women and children. At this historic moment of the meeting of the armies, all of the soldiers swore that the nations must and would live at peace.

As one of the six American infantrymen to make the boat crossing over the Elbe River seven years ago, I believe I voice the feelings of all of us on this seventh anniversary of the day in history when men met as brothers.

I therefore call upon the nations for a new birth of conciliation and friendship, that the oath sworn on the blood-soaked historic ground at the Elbe river shall be fulfilled, and become an abiding assurance of man's future.

Diplomatic Crisis Centers On New Russian Peace Proposal

by Betsy Goodspeed

Most of America is so intent upon the coming elections and the outcome of the present primaries in the various states that they have almost completely forgotten about the international situation which has not become any less important. We are now in a diplomatic crisis, and this crisis is centered around Germany and a recent proposal of the Russians. The Kremlin has offered to unite East and West Germany on the basis of free elections. However, it is stipulated that Germany shall not enter any alliance such as the Atlantic Pact.

Also the Russians have offered to the business-hungry European industrialists up to $10,000,000,000 in East-West trade. All this and many other details add up to a Russian proposal of peace and it is up to us to decide if they are being sincere (there is always that possibility but not probability) or if this is just another one of their games to gain, in some underhanded manner, the desired results.

It seems fairly obvious what the Russians want this time: to unify Germany and then split it from the West. If we allow the unification of Germany it may mean sacrificing the West German divisions which are the key points of General Eisenhower's NATO. If we reject this proposal the Germans may be so disillusioned over not being unified and rearmed again that they may refuse the NATO divisions anyway, which is exactly what the Russians want.

Germany, under the present rearmament plan of Eisenhower proves to be a great threat to the supremacy of the Kremlin in the Eastern world. Through the free vote the Russians believe that they could add Germany to the realm of Communism and thus weaken the Western world. Once Germany is united and given the free vote it will become a contest to see who can win her over to their side; the Communists or the Capitalists. Germany is one of the loop holes in the power of the Communists' realm in the East, and they have devised a clever way to attack our strong hold upon it.

Along with the proposal for unification came an offer to the impoverished nations of Europe. The economic status of Britain and Europe is poor. The possibility of a new East-West trade being opened to them seems like the answer to all their problems; a means to dispose of their materials and a means to bring more wealth into their countries. The Kremlin also likes the idea of this trade. At present there are restrictions on shipments of certain strategic materials to the Soviet Union. Russia needs these materials to strengthen her military power. So why not "kill two birds with one stone," think the Russians.

There also seems to be some feeling that the Russians are ready for a settlement in Korea, but that remains to be seen. Russia's campaign can not help but have a strong appeal to the Europeans. It may also play a large part and have strong appeal to the opinions of such powers as India which at present play a neutral role.

The problem which faces the State Department is not an easy one and it must be handled carefully. It seems clear that the rebuilding of Germany must continue at all costs. A refusal on our part to consider the Russian proposal would seem to be inviting an all-out-war. If we do consider it, the Russians may have gained a large step towards their goal.

Carpe Diem

Pardon us for temporarily ignoring the academic side of life, but a sudden burst of spring fever overwhelmed us. With a start we realized that we'd been overlooking all the little aspects of spring that make it one of our favorite seasons (summer, winter, and fall will gain ascendance in their own due time).

For instance, we've noticed the daffodils in bloom, gracing the dormitory doorways. Scallions in the salad at lunchtime were a welcome change from the wintry onions of not so long ago. The tangy taste of the milk proves beyond a doubt that the cows have been put out to pasture after a winter of confinement.

The weather more than favors our weekend partying—may this delightful aura of spring continue! We'll admit that so many gala weekends so close together are somewhat of a distraction, but it's a welcome change to blossom into sociability once in a while and temporarily discard the well-patched blue jeans and daddy's oldest shirt.

Speaking of partying, we've come to the conclusion that there is more to life than a round of classes. No, we're not being heretical; we believe in learning as much as we can from classes. A good discussion course or lecture can be an excellent spring tonic for reawakening that much-maligned intellectual curiosity from hibernation. Granted that lawnmowers and butterflies are a hindrance to concentration, still our spirits are much higher in classes held out-of-doors.

But, as we've said, there's another side to our existence. Thanks to spring, we've acquired a perspective that says life can be fun when you're not too busy to look for frogs in the Arboretum—with or without a certain party—or to stop and make the acquaintance of someone you suddenly discovered has been a member of your class all these years. And, even though we don't advocate a mass exodus to Ocean Beach and Rocky Neck—and beware of poison oak!—an occasional trip to either of these places is far from being wasted time.

So—we aren't burning to deliver any sermons—at least not at the moment. Our advice for the week is for you to look up from your homework at least to see the sun set behind the dorms on the westside of campus and to say a kind word to your roommate now and then.—SWW

THE VOICE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

The meeting of the House of Representatives was called to order at 5:15 p.m. on April 15 by the Speaker, Esu Cleveland.

First, the activities taking place during Fathers' Weekend, May 16-18 were announced. On Saturday afternoon after the traditional Fathers' Luncheon there will be a Faculty Reception at Knowlton. Students were urged personally to ask the faculty to go, in order to meet the parents.

An explanation was given for the lateness of our beginning classes in September. The time between the School of the Dance and the opening of the college is reserved for the employees' vacations and for dormitory preparations.

Barbara, Painton announced the hours granted on Friday night for one o'clock and on Saturday two o'clock. The Saturday permission applies only to those attending the dance.

After this, plans for the recreation hall and methods of earning money were discussed.

Because there was no further business the meeting was adjourned at 5:50 p.m.

CAUGHT ON CAMPUS

Prom Committee is Headed by Versatile Senior, MK Lackey

After an athletic hour with Watch, the horse who needs no coaching, we bow-legged it into the Snack Shop to talk to M. K. Lackey, the peppy, smiling KB senior who is chairman of the senior prom. While enjoying her charming laugh that made us almost forget our saddle sores, we learned a few interesting facts about the life and times of Miss Lackey.

MK has been having quite a good time planning the Senior Prom. She has engaged Paul Anderman's band from Hartford to play dance music, and the Nassoons from Princeton will entertain. Although the committees all function smoothly, not a day seems to go by that something doesn't go wrong; but it all seems to get straightened out. MK has also arranged for the jazz band to play at the Rocky Neck picnic Sunday. It would seem that she's been a mighty busy gal.

MK came to CC almost four years from Abbott Academy. She is majoring in home ec, with a great deal of concentration also in the music department. Her time is divided largely between Holmes Hall, Yale, and the tennis courts. No one laughs when she sits down at the piano. Her favorite pieces are the songs of Gershwin, and Rodgers and Hammerstein. MK has written the compset song for the last three years, and has sung in the Shwiffs and in Glee Club and Choir.

An avid tennis player, she won the tennis tournament last year and is now on the senior tennis team. She enjoys golf, roots for the Yankees, and loves to travel. Last summer she was in Europe; during spring vacation she and Winann Meyer went to Nassau.

MK has decided that senior year is absolutely the best of the four; so she isn't too anxious for it to end. After graduation, she may work in a music publishing house.

Baseballs Appear As Weather Shows Spring's Mildness

by Midge Briggs and Ann Matthews

Now that the fog has lifted and we have some good weather for a change, there has been a sudden appearance of baseball bats, tennis racquets, and golf clubs. With an eye on the major leagues, the baseball season here on campus has gotten off to a good start. There have been tryouts for the class teams, but so far senior participation has been lacking. How about a little action in the '52 bullpen! You need a full team to capture that pennant!

Archery Competition

The "Robin Hoods" of the campus have been busy with tryouts, and the archery competition, which started this Monday, will last for three weeks, under the direction of Pris Sprague '54. All competitors shoot from 50 yards, and if you don't think that is hard, try it sometime.

Tennis Matches

The only interclass tennis matches played so far were between the seniors and sophomores. As it stands now, they are tied with two wins apiece, each having won a doubles and a singles match. The deciding match has yet to be finished.

Golf Tournaments

The golf tournaments have been scheduled, an advanced and a novelty competition. The novelty tournament will be played on campus Tuesday, April 29, from 1:00-3:00 p.m., and is open to anyone who wants to join in the fun. Gather your wits together, head for the field facing the library, and be prepared for lots of laughs.

Swimming Party

A Student-Faculty swimming party, organized by Connie Meehan '54, was the closing highlight of the swimming season. Mr. Coleman, of the physics department, captain of the winning relay team, was overjoyed with his prize, a water pistol, and made good use of it during the evening. Mr. Ferguson, of the math department, won the balloon race; and Mr. Mack, of the philosophy department, with the aid of his underwater - with - tube - to - surface breathing mask, was victorious in the freestyle race. Perchance he saw the Fragmaen!

Pam Kent '54 and Joan Herman '54 were elected at a recent meeting of Dance Group as chairman and assistant chairman respectively of the group.

Record Offspring Enjoy Baseball, School, Cowboys

by Ricki Rudkoff

Double trouble takes the form of two brown-haired boys, aged nine and four and a half. The former, or Mason T. Record, Jr., is known to his family and friends as Tommy. He is the real cowboy in the family, who has as his favorite Wild Bill Hickok. Tommy is a fourth grader at the Quaker Hill School. Much of his time is spent playing baseball of which he is very fond. When not engaged in this active sport, he can probably be found reading some new book. Tommy, being the oldest of the two boys, is entrusted with the care of the Record's dog.

Tommy and Stevie Record

Stevie Record, a pug-nosed youngster of almost five, is a precocious boy who keeps his baby sitter well informed. Right now he is too young for public school, although he did attend Nursery school for awhile. He is full of energy, and the general complaint in the Record household is that he gets up much too early in the morning. His enthusiasm for cowboys runs second only to Tommy's and he owns a pair of cowboy pants which he wears as often as he can, in order to have his two six-gun shooters with him.

Even though there is a noticeable difference in their ages, Tommy and Stevie get along well together. There are not too many fights and squables except for the inevitable ones which always crop up. As their father so aptly puts it, "they are both a joy and a tribulation to their parents."

factory—stage left being warmly lit by lamplight, in contrast with the coolness of the farther side (where the concrete slab was resting.)

As usual, and often taken for granted, Miss Hazelwood has done a professionally adroit job of tying A Phoenix Too Frequent into a very neat package—movements well motivated, stage composition effective, and pace properly rapid.

Dr. J. Edgar Park Will Speak Sunday At Vesper Service

Dr. J. Edgar Park, president emeritus of Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., will be the speaker at the 7:00 p.m. vesper service on Sunday, April 27.

Dr. Park is the father of President Rosemary Park of Connecticut College. Those who have heard him on his previous visits will remember him as a speaker of rare charm, possessing a keen Celtic wit as well as being a thinker of unusual intellectual penetration.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, Dr. Park received his education at New College, Edinburgh, at the Royal University, Dublin, and at Princeton University. He has been awarded the honorary degree of D.D. from Tufts College, and the LL. D. from Wesleyan University.

After having held parishes in New York state and in New England, he was called in 1926 to the presidency of Wheaton College. He has also been a member of the faculty of the Boston University School of Theology, and has delivered the Lyman Beecher lectures at Yale. He is the author of about fifteen books on a variety of subjects.

for the year 1952-53. The Christmas Pageant Committee, which plans and carries out the production of the pageant, is composed of Miss Hazlewood, chairman; Mr. Laubenstein, Miss Hanson, Miss Alter, Mr. Mayhew and Mr. Kasem-Beg.

The members of the Committee of Post-War Services are Miss Burdett, chairman; Miss Harriet Warner, Miss Ferguson, Mr. Beebe, Mr. Mayhew, Miss Jacynowicz. This committee serves as a clearing house for all campus post-war service activities in conjunction with the student Post-War Services Committee.

The Schedule Committee, which assigns hours, days, and rooms for courses and examinations, and also arranges the college calendar, is composed of Miss Bower, chairman; Mr. Smyser, Miss Snider, Miss Wylie, and Mrs. Peugh, ex-officio.

The members of the Student Organizations Committee are Dean Burdick, Miss MacBain, Miss Burdett, ex-officio; Mr. Ferguson, Miss Stanwood, and Miss Wheeler. This committee advises student organizations, administers the blanket tax fund, and approves or disapproves the formation of any new student organizations.

The members of the remaining committees will be elected next fall. President Park is an ex-officio member of all committees.

case of rain. Also on Sunday a small group from Freeman will take an all-day excursion in a rented boat.

Late permissions for both Friday and Saturday nights have been granted the seniors. They may stay out until 1:00 a.m. after festivities on Friday and until 2:00 a.m. following the prom on Saturday evening.

No tickets will be on sale because the dance is closed to seniors; the cost is covered by senior dues.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 40...

Poor guy was submerged in a veritable sea of cigarette tests! He didn't know whether he should "blow"—or just jettison the whole job! But he fathomed the matter when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be judged in one quick spout! Millions of smokers have found, too, there's a thorough cigarette test!

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness Tests...
