Arts Center Named For N. Cummings

The New Joanne and Nathan Cummings Arts Center.

Nathan Cummings, Chicago industrialist, art collector and philanthropist, has made a major pledge to Connecticut College for the new Arts building, to be known as the Joanne and Nathan Cummings Arts Center.

Mrs. Cummings graduated from Conn in 1950 as an art major.

In announcing the Cummings Pledge here today, President Charles Shain said, "This is the largest single commitment the College has received to date in its Quest Program for $18 million.

Gifts and pledges to the program now total $5.4 million.

Connecticut's Board of Trustees accepted the Cummings pledge with thanks and voted to name the new building after its chief donor.

Last winter, an exhibition from the Cummings' collection of paintings and sculpture was held at Lyman Allyn Museum.

The collection includes works by such artists as Renoir, Picasso, Modigliani, Lautrec, Gauguin, Degas, Dumié, Mattise and Monet.

Wallace Speaks In New York

McCarthy In Boston Gardens

Protestors Confront the NYC Police

by Anne Lopatto and Nancy Topping

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—The crowd outside was chanting "Chicago, Chicago," but it wasn't. The cheering, crowds, charges, police, and party supporters were all there, but this time the scene was New York and the occasion an appearance by Third Party candidate George C. Wallace at Madison Square Garden.

While Mr. Wallace was dining at a fairly well attended 834-seat plate dinner at the Hotel Americana, groups of protesters were already beginning to form in front of the Garden in anticipation of his 9 p.m. appearance.

These reporters were among the crowd outside.

Police Ready

Though a police showdown was in progress, 2,000 of New York's finest were poised for action.

From the corner of W. 45th St. and 8th Ave. away from the Garden, one was greeted by innumerable regiments of riot-bolstered policemen marching themselves for the battle.

Rounding the next corner one met a large group of anti-war.

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

Wesleyan SDS Organizes

With Wide-Range Program

by Linda Rosenerweig

Students for a Democratic Society has developed at Wesleyan this year as it has previously at campuses across the country as an organized political response to a system which oppresses and exploits.

We are disgusted with the War, with racism, with being part of a system over which we have no control, a system which demands gross inequities of wealth and power, a system which denies personal and social freedom, a system which has to manipulate and repress us in order to exist.

Wesleyan SDS shares the discontent expressed in the above statement by members of the Columbia Strike Coordinating Committee.

Wesleyan SDS members see their first task as identifying for themselves and for others the nature of our society—who controls it and for what ends, and their second task as initiating programs of action to transform the society.

SDS spokesman David Redden '71 explained that six committees have been established to take action to effect these transformations.

Fights Imperialism

After considerable investigation, the Wesleyan Committee on Imperialism and Foreign Affairs found that since the end of World War II, U.S. business interests and the Government have found it necessary to maintain what amounts to an overseas empire based on economic and political control.

This empire has been the source of much human suffering, including economic stagnation, war and starvation.

The Cold War, the missile race, futures causes' spending at a time when social needs are ignored, and most recently, the war in Vietnam, are all diplomatic and military manifestations of the drive to maintain U.S. interests abroad.

To combat this drive toward empire, SDS has recommended a halt to the imperialistic bent of American foreign policy.

The committee is considering draft counseling for those who rebel against perpetuating acts of aggression to maintain the U.S. empire abroad.

Black Liberation Movement

The Community Affairs committee will involve itself with exploited groups in the Middle-American community, especially Black.

SDS aims at organizing the masses (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

WESLEYAN SDS members (left to right) Frank Carrabino, Larry Futterman, David Redden, Harvey Yarjins after election disruption activities meeting on October 17. (Photo by rosenweig)

LeMay Fans

Deny Charge

Of Racism

General Curtis LeMay, running mate of Governor George C. Wallace, appeared last Thursday night in Hartford.

He spoke very briefly, saying only that he had been to Hartford once before and now he was back. And he said that he had all come. Someone asked if LeMay was open to questions—and was ignored.

At that point, this reporter decided to try Webster headquarters to speak to supporters and aides.

A Wallace supporter at headquarters: "Those damned long-haired, feminine looking —" His friend, "I wish we had a (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

We need your help! We're going to poll the Class of '70 and doing a feasibility study, talking to the administration and local real estate agencies.

Contact: Sue Derman, Lambdin, Box 257; Kittie Marx, Lambdin, Box 647.

LeMay builds his empire abrad.

Groundwork Lead

Although he hesitated to state that the threat was the last resort as a means of change in American foreign policy, Sen. McCarthy said that the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee has laid the groundwork for influencing the war policy.

"If we have more men like Wayne Morse in the Senate," he stated, "then the effort will eventually spread to the entire body." This "effort" is to move away from the concept of a foreign policy determined by one.

(Continued on Page 5, Col. 3)
Fund Drive
To the Editor:

Until now, I, like many others on this campus, have been restraining myself from writing to express my opinion on certain articles printed in Conn. Cen- nus. However, I feel that one article which you printed in your October 22, 1968 issue concerning Black Student Scholarship is an exception. I have had the privilege of supporting the Black Scholarship Fund for several years and I can appreciate and do not feel that you could have written an article that is very poor in its factual information.

I found it appalling that Conn.
Census would print, not only such a publication of information that last but would also word it in the scathing, degrading and demeaning manner that you did.
Was it an oversight, typographical error or did you have some comments on your part of the fact that the Conn. Cen- nus Foreign Students’ Fund is a part — and a large part — of the Conn. Cennus Student Community Fund? I can certainly see why no person was credited with having written this article. I am imaging that, beginning now, you check into this kind of your information before you jumble it together and print it.

I would like to clarify the position of Service League and the Student Community Fund in relation to your article. The Student Community Fund, composed of the 30% tax on campus tuition and a change (or its money) in the discretion of the individual student.

Last spring, the committee was very much interested in the idea of making the Fund a Com-unity Project with one specific, determined goal to which the money would go. This idea was quickly rejected because it was felt that although many worthwhile organizations were considered, as for your “writing that was not considered giving ALL the money to, in particular, the Black Scholarship Fund — they comprised two members of this campus and under the auspices of either the World University Service or the College Foreign Student Fund as one of the choices of allocations. World University Service has no specific interest in the Wide Student Service.” The tax on campus tuition and the 20% ળ tax on campus organizations were proposed last year in Campus Life Committee money — a real sacrifice on the part of the student — right out of their own pocket. Last year, there was the idea of REQUESTING the Conn. Cen- nus to allocate 20% of its budget money to the Fund — a rather impractical idea considering all the problems and clubs have trouble operating within their budgets as it.
Also rejected was a proposal, NOT made by the Community Fund, to levy a tax any of Conn. Cen- nus.

I feel that, as President of the Service League and as one who is thoroughly acquainted with the facts, the students are and prodons would have dealt with in your, article, are publications, are published and are available to to you, the student body, faculty and friends to write about it and make a

Our energy and organization are far too valuable to waste on crying “Sour Grapes,” however near you may actually be.

Sour Grapes

Regardless of the accuracy of the Harris or Gallup polls this week, the recent changes in the Humphrey campaign from one of low-perception to a high-pitched invective, or the proposed legal support for the Wallace campaign, Nixon’s victory at the polls is all key persuasion to a high-pitched invective,

Regardless of the accuracy of the Harris Or Gallup polls this week, the recent changes in the Humphrey campaign from one of low-perception to a high-pitched invective, or the proposed legal support for the Wallace campaign, Nixon’s victory at the polls is all key persuasion to a high-pitched invective,

The general purpose of CURA was to becorresponding with a young lady. I just don’t happen

Do not hallucinate.

To the Editor:
I was wondering if perhaps a young lady from your school would be interested in writing a sailor? I am very much inter-

To the Editor:

As students we as students

To the Editor:
I am concerned that you or your staff or your contributors

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor:

To the Editor:
I was wondering if perhaps a young lady from your school would be interested in writing a sailor? I am very much inter-

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I was wondering if perhaps a young lady from your school would be interested in writing a sailor? I am very much inter-

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.

To the Editor:

To the Editor: We are concerned that certain facts have not been expressed in recent articles. We would like to clarify the purpose and constituency of the organization.

To the Editor:
I feel that in dealing with an organization representing the entire student body, as implied by its name, Student Community Fund, we deserve the unlabeled publicity we asked for.
Beyond the Wall
by Myrna Chandler

Although the draft does not directly affect any girl at Conn, I couldn't help including the following article after reading in the "Yale Advocate," the Yale Law School newspaper, that thirty-five members of last year's freshman class did not return. According to the "Yale Advocate," some joined the Peace Corps, but the reason for leaving in most cases was dissatisfaction with the Selective Service System. The following is a letter from one such member, who had joined the Peace Corps. A list of her draft board could apparently not be found.

"You wouldn't believe how great it is here. It's changed my mind about liberal arts colleges in New England concerning various ways that you can make a difference. Other members of the group are Amherst, Bowdoin, Dartmouth, Occidental, and Wellesley. Announcements of the proposed coruscation was made today on hand of the president in order to participate among all the American institutions. However, I must say by any stretch of the imagination, could CURA be a sampling which seek to undermine the basic values of our society. Rather, it is an attempt to change attitudes which our basic beliefs in human dignity and equality.

Neither is CURA a sensational organization. Rather it seeks to penetrate the deep subtext of prejudice and racism. The play tries to make an audience understand a little more." (Continued from Page 2, Col. 5)

Ten N. E. Colleges Plan Cooperation

Connecticut College has entered into discussions with nine other liberal arts colleges in New England concerning various ways that you can make a difference.

Other members of the group are Amherst, Bowdoin, Dartmouth, Occidental, and Wellesley. Announcements of the proposed coruscation was made today on hand of the president in order to participate among all the American institutions. However, I must say by any stretch of the imagination, could CURA be a sampling which seek to undermine the basic values of our society. Rather, it is an attempt to change attitudes which our basic beliefs in human dignity and equality.

Neither is CURA a sensational organization. Rather it seeks to penetrate the deep subtext of prejudice and racism. The play tries to make an audience understand a little more." (Continued from Page 2, Col. 5)

Thank Heaven
To the Editor:

Thank Heaven for the letter of October 28, 1968 from Frederick Brown, Davenport, Matteson, et al. We support your view. We support President Shain. We are outside at the rate and unauthorized accumulations leveled at President Shain (Doesn't Anyone Know Our President's Name?
Oct. 15, 1968). We wonder if the anonymous author of the article ever reads Conne Cenws, ever has spoken with President Shain, never has been aware of what is going on at Connecticut.

We believe President Shain deserves an apology.

Jody Coby '69
Lynda Greenberg '69

Racial Attitudes

"RIO'T" COMING NOV. 7. "RIO'T", a new play—indeed a new form of play—that deals with realities and brutalities of an increasingly common American experience, will be performed Thursday night, Nov. 7th, in the Gym at Coxe Williams. The production is being sponsored by Theatre One.

"Riot" is not statistics, or laws, or history. It is said to be a play in the ordinary sense. "RIO'T" is an attempt to communicate the subhumanity of riot, the fear, the hatred, the pain, and the animalism of riot. It may be that theater is the only medium left that can do this.

Letters to the Editor cont.

Black Literature

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to some comments made by Miss Friedman's printed in the Conn Cens on October 15. If Miss Friedman is quoted accurately, what the term "a gross insult" to herself he in fact a gross insult on the English Department, who do not hold the views the ascribes to them.

For the record, no member of the English Department denies the existence of great Black artists. On the contrary, we believe that there are many and look forward to the possibility of a renaissance in the English Department.

Mackie Jarrell
Chairman, Committee for the Undergraduate Department of English

Mao at Berkeley?

(MNS) — Governor Ronald Reagan today appointed the com-mmander of the California National Guard, General A. H. Scheisskopf, as chancellor of the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

The Governor's action was taken in response to the success yesterday of student referendum which chose Mao-Tse-Tung as the new chancellor of Berkeley's political science department.

Coincident with the Governor's announcement two battalions of combat ready Guardsmen took over front-line positions from the embattled campus police.

Reaction to the student's choice has been muted at the University. Senior members of the faculty generally expressed dissatisfaction, though most professed ignorance of his publications. But seventeen junior members of the political science department have issued a statement welcoming Mao's chancellorship.

"Chairman Mao is not only a top-notch thinker and scholar," the young professors wrote, "but he also has years of first hand experience with the problems of the country."

Great Leader

Mao has been granted the leave of absence from his duties as head of the Chinese government. His acceptance of the chancellorship, delivered in Chinese and English, was broadcast in Peking and intercepted late this evening by U.S. intelligence vessels operating just inside Chinese territorial waters.

Both versions were in verse. Mao is a widely published poet as well as world-renowned expert of the political movements of this century, particularly those in Asia.

In his acceptance chairman Mao lauded what he called "the spirit of democracy" and "the troubled darkness of your land.

He is reported arriving by air in San Francisco tomorrow afternoon.

Governor Comments

Informed of the new chancellor's acceptance, Governor Reagan told newsmen that "California will never accept democracy if this kind of thing happens because of it." At an afternoon press conference concerning his appointment and the immediate military problems confronting him, General Scheisskopf revealed that one of his first acts as chancellor would be the organization of an "Inter-University Peace-Keeping Force modeled on the "International Peace-Keeping Force" in the Dominican Republic in 1965.

Scheisskopf said that he had a "heartening response" from initial consultations about the Force with General B. C. Peckom, newly appointed president at Columbia University, and General Douglas MacArthur, who took over yesterday at the crisis-ridden University of Wisconsin.

Troops Regroup

General Lucius Clay, special presidential assistant at Stanford, has shown "tentative interest," Scheisskopf said. Stanford plasma-creep forces might have a "red tape" difficulty matching its units with other university's national guards, since Stanford's troops are privately recruited and are commanded jointly by officials of the Stanford Research Institute and the United Coalition.

Scheisskopf had said he intends to advise Berkeley on the Latin American "such as had been demonstrated recently in Argentina, Bolivia, and Mexico." At his press conference he issued a press release bannering campus political groups, the distribution of all newspapers excepting the Oakland Tribune and gatherings of more than three people.

Student leaders hailed the proclamation as heralding an end to overstrained classes. An ad-hoc committee to Bring Teaching to Berkeley, "recognizing that the chancellor'sdynamic new program will demand a tremendous expansion of the teaching staff," has sent requests for instructors to revolutionary governments and groups on three contenents.
In Germany in the 1950’s the political system was young and fresh. There were no doubts about it — West Eisenhower and Dohlen were Ger-many’s best friends. Today, German students take more time to think about such things.
With this explanation Professor Werner Hoffmeister of Bowdoin College's talk on “German Students - Restless and Rebellious” last Tuesday ev-ing.
Hoffmeister spent the past year in West Germany and witnessed firsthand much of the student unrest which permeates the German universities. He attemted to outline for his audicence the underlying causes of student discontent.
Unfavorable treatment by the news media, he contended, has led the American public to regard the student leaders as anarchists without a basis for discontent.
Hoffmeister was strongest in favor of the so-called "radical" students who planned and executed last spring's demonstration.
From his study of the situation, Hoffmeister maintained that the students who should be con-

Relevance the Key

In New Seminar

by Mary Ann Rafal

Five Conn girls and five cultural behavior majors from Yale are putting on a new and revolutionary seminar course called "Sociological Psychology of Contemporary Student Life." The political science department is advised by Mr. Philip Goldberg, associate professor of psychology, and Miss Lillian Sachar, director of the Medical School. Course topics, chosen by the students themselves, are selected for their relevance to campus life, they range from student activism, to drug use, and so on.

Occasionally the whole group reads pertinent books in preparation for a seminar, or members pursue special topics independently.

Before the discussions on student activism, for example, the group has been reading Kenneth Keniston's "The Young Radicals" and "The Breakdown of the Extensive power structure which eliminated the old routine and order and is leading to new social arrangements which are still vague but that are genera-

The seminar is sponsored by the College Psychology department and is advised by Mr. Philip Goldberg, associate professor of psychology, and Miss Lillian Sachar, director of the Medical School. Course topics, chosen by the students themselves, are selected for their relevance to campus life, they range from student activism, to drug use, and so on.

Occasionally the whole group reads pertinent books in preparation for a seminar, or members pursue special topics independently.

Before the discussions on student activism, for example, the group has been reading Kenneth Keniston's "The Young Radicals" and "The Breakdown of the Ex-they think about such things.

"The grade becomes irrelevant, for you get out what you put into it.
"Sign 59, finds the course particularly relevant to her major, psychology. She emphasized the simulation and ex-enit" statements against the "note-lecture syndrome," the professor continued.

"The course is operating in a free, open atmosphere without any predetermined roles, either male-female, teacher-student. Rather, the group is a meeting of equals, where everyone's honest ideas and feelings are valid and respected.
"Sign 59, found that the course was very refreshing, especially in relation to its uniqueness. She commented that it was a "cross between a mass-tutorial and a T-group, even like living through history.

Namat hopes that more courses will be offered on this and also in other departments.

Police Force Quits

Wallace Supporters Condemn Hippies, Reds:

Find Order, States Rights of Most Importance

LeMay

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5)

reporter to another Wallace supporter, same question. Answer: "Wallace stands for working men. If I stood on law and order."

Reporter: "Do you believe Wallace is a racist?"

She: "NO-Wallace is not a racist. Wallace was a good nul-
time Democrat before the Dems became so liberal."

Breakdown of Order

Another fan: "I think there's been a breakdown of law and order in the U. S. W. We should stop protecting the criminal as much; the penalties for crime should be more severe."

"I don't think Wallace is a racist," she continued.

Are the students the Communists agitators that Wallace claims are stirring up riots, she was asked.

"It's the Professors,

she continued, "No, the kids aren't the Communists. It's the college professors who lean toward liberalism and Communists-stir up the kids. The kids are just influenced, they just don't know what it's about."

To a relatively rational, soft-

spoken Wallace fan: "If you don't agree with it, just say so, anyway."

Her: "Well, I have some things in my home that wouldn't be a worth thing to anyone, but to me... If anyone tried, I'd stop him."

Way: "Even if it meant risking his life?"

Her: "Yes, even if it meant killing him."

This, in cross-section, is the Wallace constituency.

***

---

ODD BOOKS

Delivered were the conservatives who "place law and order above justifice and freedom." Admitting it was a "hot subject" and that demonstrations methods were "not gentle," he stated that the violence which did occur was a result of the excessive brutality of the police.

Hoffmeister outlined three main causes of student discontent. Students are primarily dissatisfied with the university itself, an-

\[Continued from Page I, \]

subscribe should contact Joan Windleby through campus mail, Box 1179.

\[Received complaints from their
tiology to the escape from the "note-lecture syndrome," the professor continued.
"The course is operating in a free, open atmosphere without any predetermined roles, either male-female, teacher-student. Rather, the group is a meeting of equals, where everyone's honest ideas and feelings are valid and respected.
"Sign 59, found that the course was very refreshing, especially in relation to its uniqueness. She commented that it was a "cross between a mass-tutorial and a T-group, even like living through history.

Namat hopes that more courses will be offered on this and also in other departments.

Police Force Quits

Wallace Supporters Condemn Hippies, Reds:

Find Order, States Rights of Most Importance

LeMay

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5)

reporter to another Wallace supporter, same question. Answer: "Wallace stands for working men. If I stood on law and order."

Reporter: "Do you believe Wallace is a racist?"

She: "NO-Wallace is not a racist. Wallace was a good nul-
time Democrat before the Dems became so liberal."

Breakdown of Order

Another fan: "I think there's been a breakdown of law and order in the U. S. W. We should stop protecting the criminal as much; the penalties for crime should be more severe."

"I don't think Wallace is a racist," she continued.

Are the students the Communists agitators that Wallace claims are stirring up riots, she was asked.

"It's the Professors,

she continued, "No, the kids aren't the Communists. It's the college professors who lean toward liberalism and Communists-stir up the kids. The kids are just influenced, they just don't know what it's about."

To a relatively rational, soft-

spoken Wallace fan: "If you don't agree with it, just say so, anyway."

Her: "Well, I have some things in my home that wouldn't be a worth thing to anyone, but to me... If anyone tried, I'd stop him."

Way: "Even if it meant risking his life?"

Her: "Yes, even if it meant killing him."

This, in cross-section, is the Wallace constituency.

***

---

ODD BOOKS

Delivered were the conservatives who "place law and order above justifice and freedom." Admitting it was a "hot subject" and that demonstrations methods were "not gentle," he stated that the violence which did occur was a result of the excessive brutality of the police.

Hoffmeister outlined three main causes of student discontent. Students are primarily dissatisfied with the university itself, an-

\[Continued from Page I, \]

subscribe should contact Joan Windleby through campus mail, Box 1179.

\[Received complaints from their
tiology to the escape from the "note-lecture syndrome," the professor continued.
"The course is operating in a free, open atmosphere without any predetermined roles, either male-female, teacher-student. Rather, the group is a meeting of equals, where everyone's honest ideas and feelings are valid and respected.
"Sign 59, found that the course was very refreshing, especially in relation to its uniqueness. She commented that it was a "cross between a mass-tutorial and a T-group, even like living through history.

Namat hopes that more courses will be offered on this and also in other departments.

Police Force Quits

Wallace Supporters Condemn Hippies, Reds:

Find Order, States Rights of Most Importance

LeMay

(Continued from Page 1, Col. 5)

reporter to another Wallace supporter, same question. Answer: "Wallace stands for working men. If I stood on law and order."

Reporter: "Do you believe Wallace is a racist?"

She: "NO-Wallace is not a racist. Wallace was a good nul-
time Democrat before the Dems became so liberal."

Breakdown of Order

Another fan: "I think there's been a breakdown of law and order in the U. S. W. We should stop protecting the criminal as much; the penalties for crime should be more severe."

"I don't think Wallace is a racist," she continued.

Are the students the Communists agitators that Wallace claims are stirring up riots, she was asked.

"It's the Professors,

she continued, "No, the kids aren't the Communists. It's the college professors who lean toward liberalism and Communists-stir up the kids. The kids are just influenced, they just don't know what it's about."

To a relatively rational, soft-

spoken Wallace fan: "If you don't agree with it, just say so, anyway."

Her: "Well, I have some things in my home that wouldn't be a worth thing to anyone, but to me... If anyone tried, I'd stop him."

Way: "Even if it meant risking his life?"

Her: "Yes, even if it meant killing him."

This, in cross-section, is the Wallace constituency.

***

---

ODD BOOKS

Delivered were the conservatives who "place law and order above justifice and freedom." Admitting it was a "hot subject" and that demonstrations methods were "not gentle," he stated that the violence which did occur was a result of the excessive brutality of the police.

Hoffmeister outlined three main causes of student discontent. Students are primarily dissatisfied with the university itself, an-

\[Continued from Page I, \]

subscribe should contact Joan Windleby through campus mail, Box 1179.

\[Received complaints from their
tiology to the escape from the "note-lecture syndrome," the professor continued.
"The course is operating in a free, open atmosphere without any predetermined roles, either male-female, teacher-student. Rather, the group is a meeting of equals, where everyone's honest ideas and feelings are valid and respected.
"Sign 59, found that the course was very refreshing, especially in relation to its uniqueness. She commented that it was a "cross between a mass-tutorial and a T-group, even like living through history.

Namat hopes that more courses will be offered on this and also in other departments.
New Forms Of Political Tactics Emerge On Left; Students Want Action, Not Leadership Or Causes.

NEW YORK (CPS)—The generation gap has hit the student movement. From the riots of Berkeley in July, to the confrontation at Chicago in August, to campus protests as they have unfolded this fall—the old definitions of "correct political struggle" are under attack, and new forms are beginning to emerge.

The character of the challenge is slowly beginning to take shape; the context of the issues raised is more inconsequential to the action taken; the deference to an established leadership is all but forgotten; and any sense of the total political effect of an act is very nearly irrelevant.

A mood is spreading in the wake of these shifts. The new-style activists gladly leave to the older "political types" the question of ideology. Bhikerti, so revered in the past, serves young militants of today as little more than a pretext for greater belligerence.

The students involved this year want action. And they are ready to move whether they have a clearly defined "analysis of racism and imperialism" in their back pockets or not.

The act of defiance alone is creating its own rationale. The "mood" is becoming less and less the medium. It is perhaps the most important clash of sensibilities within the youth Left since Negroes declared for black power and white radicals began refashioning the doctrine of non-violence.

The crucial case in point was the Democratic National Convention. Somehow nothing has been the same since Chicago.

That confrontation was for many the climactic moment in a whole series of events stretching from the 1963 death of John F. Kennedy, past the dissolution of the Great Society, into an increasingly savage war, concluding with one or two exquisitely placed assassinations and the automatic nominations of Nixon and Humphrey for President.

Abstractions and Violence

Distilled within this short, traumatic half-decade are sources of hostility and frustration powerful enough to infect a whole generation. It is no longer necessary to join a protest movement to confront these realities. The patent absurdities, the unending violence have become as predictable as the six o'clock news.

Shattered, in all of this, has been the sense of an orderly progression of political consciousness. The anti-racism/imperialism movement (which had replaced the anti-war movement, which had replaced the civil rights movement), appears itself threatened by pure chaos.

Movements Were Provincial

While each movement moved for its time, one sensed throughout them all that they were provincial in scope.

Oddly, they touched only a small part of what still troubles the great mass of Americans. Often, more fundamental questions remain—more deeply felt needs to which no voice in our national life has yet spoken.

The American environment, for too many people, simply does not permit a satisfactory way of living. But if these conflicts persist, more remains unresolved, for many young people at least, they will not go unassessed.

Thus, in 1968, for thousands of kids from high schools and colleges all over the country, the Democratic Party became the Time and the Conrad Hilton became the Place. There for one, brief, incredible moment, everything was out in the open, and Americans glimpsed—for perhaps the first time—just how deeply the divisions really run.

A Turning Point

Somehow, not very long ago, a turning point of sorts was passed. One senses within the student movement a kind of blow, a loss for the past. One sees the word "student" becoming too restrictive; the indictment against American society, once the property of a desperate, suspicious, bearded minority, has been joined in by a new host both on and off the campus which defies simple classification.

Already they are making their presence felt, but in ways that don't always fit traditional models for political action.

New Tactics N.Y.U.

Last week, for example, New York University students mobilized militant backing over an issue many older radicals condemn as "reinstatement of a fired professor."

But if the issue was emotive, the tactics certainly were not. Students took over two campus buildings, bombed two dorms and disrupted the university's telephone system as an expression of their support, and campus politics moved in to broaden the issues.

Chapel Sanctuary for AWOL

Similarly at Boston University recently, students often numbering 1,000 joined an AWOL Army private in a symbolic gesture of sanctuary in a university chapel and holding off federal officers for five days and nights. But when radical leaders tried to link that action with the issue of campus ROTC, the interest lasted only until the deserting soldier was placed under arrest.

One of the sanctuary organizers confessed with disappointment, "We raised their commitment to action, but not their political consciousness."

Perhaps the real source of his disappointment was that the protest failed to develop the kind of awareness he was used to recognizing. For while students this fall clearly have a greater sense of the political dimension of their lives, that awareness has not automatically committed them to the struggles of the past.

More Immediate Involvement

These new activists, many of whom date their changed perspective as recently as, for example, Time's cover story on Columbia, seem to be looking for more personal, more immediate forms of involvement without a regard for correctness of strategy and ideology.

These new revolutionary recruits, of course, may just be politically naive—"as many older radicals contend. On the other hand, it could be they no longer need the remote Great Issues, so important to the movement until now, to motivate them to action. That they feel the need to act can be justified enough.

In this shifting mood, demand for the development of a unified revolutionary movement is more and more convincing, with the way younger "revolutionaries" individually want to live.

They need to find a combination of life style and politics—an atmosphere where neither impasse implies a contradiction of the goals of the other.

U. S. Civil Service Commission

Career Day

Wed. October 30 — 1:00-4:00 pm

2nd floor Crozier-Williams

Social Security Administration

Veteran Administration

U. S. Civil Service Commission

Internal Revenue Service

U. S. Air Force (Hanscom Field)

Navy Underwater Sound Laboratory

Federal Aviation Administration

Walk-in Federal Service Entrance Examination

Thursday, Oct. 31, 1968 at 1:00 pm

Room 102 New London Hall
The aim is not merely to question the structure of the university, but also to question its function. What is the place of the university within society if the university exists as a critique of the society, it can also work to solve some of the problems and to better the lives of its people.

SIDer Harvey Yatzik has recommended the formation of an experimental college, which would offer a wide range of courses in the framework of seminar.

Corporate Structure
Acting on the belief that Wesleyan has certain corporate and real estate interests as part of its financial structure, another committee will investigate Wesleyan's financial ties, specifically those that may involve defense connections, if any exist.

This committee may also investigate the Hill Development Corporation, a housing project aimed at upper-income families, while housing units for the poor are needed desperately.

Radical Education
The Radical Education committee exists to inform the students on campus of what SDS is doing. It may also set up a bookstand of New Left literature. Harvey was also instrumental in setting up the New Left seminar.

SDS has also called for the dismantling of the military-industrial complex. In order to maintain its "reps" skills and technology in business, government and military sectors are vitally needed. These activities must be halted.

Responsiveness
SDS contends that the government must be more responsive to the needs of the people—no its own selfish needs or the needs of powerful business and military elites.

SDS has also called for police departments that will be responsible to the community for protection, not suppression and brutality.

Law and Order Represses
In a policy statement, SDS asserted that "law and order" is not the real answer as the three candidates would have you believe. It is only an evasion of the real issues that must be faced now.

Law and order will not solve the problem of jobs, housing, schools and police brutality in our cities or the problems of alienation and political impotence facing each one of us.

"Instead of solving these problems, the false issue of 'law and order' is used to repress those people really attempting to face them—problems which demand radical solutions and radical action.

"No major candidate ran or will supply these solutions because their positions of power depend on the preservation of the present power system.

"And until we bring about the changes we've outlined, we will forever be forced to choose between the Romans, the Hum- phreys and the Wallaces.

"How long will we, how long will you, continue to support an establishment which embodies the values of profit, property and production over those of life, liberty and the pursuit of human happiness?"
PROS AND CONS OF COEDUCATION AT CONN CONSIDERED

(Continued from Page 1, Col.1)

coeducation, there are articulate champions of single-sex institutions who argue that women will always be young men and women who will be served best educationally and socially, by separation during their college years.

Thus, they say, there will always be a place for women's colleges to serve the majority that prefer them. And in any case something of the present diversity of American higher education should be retained, rather than having all institutions become coeducational.

As women students might suffer from coeducation, so also might women faculty. The present parity of the sexes in the faculty might give way to a male majority, as an attraction to men students, and Connecticut would then cease to serve women academically as extensively as it has done in past and does now. With such a male majority, would women be subordinated as they often are at coeducational colleges?

Quality of Men

Another possible hazard involved in coeducation concerns the quality of men who would seek admission to a former college for women. Such men might be more equal in quality to the women Connecticut College has attracted, and its high standards of academic excellence might be eroded if the College were to accept them.

Further, the kind of fine women students who have chosen Connecticut as a women's college might turn elsewhere if it admits men, and the result would be a decline in quality of Connecticut College women, as well as academic inferiority of its men, as compared with other coeducational colleges.

These are serious considerations which cannot be easily dismissed. But there is much more compelling, on the other side of the question.

Among the present generation there is a persistent demand for involvement in the world the student will enter on graduation, for experiences which are not mere what students call "real life." Students themselves are insistent spokesmen for coeducation, which they feel is the normal order of things. "God's way," if you like, to use a phrase of President Shain's. College undergraduates are exceedingly tolerant of the College, generally, of course, but do coeducation, there are articulate champions of coeducation. Thus, they say, there will always be a place for women's colleges to serve the majority, as an attraction to men students, and Connecticut would then cease to serve women academically as extensively as it has done in past and does now. With such a male majority, would women be subordinated as they often are at coeducational colleges?

These are serious considerations which cannot be easily dismissed. But there is much more compelling, on the other side of the question.

Among the present generation there is a persistent demand for involvement in the world the student will enter on graduation, for experiences which are not mere what students call "real life." Students themselves are insistent spokesmen for coeducation, which they feel is the normal order of things. "God's way," if you like, to use a phrase of President Shain's. College undergraduates are exceedingly tolerant of the College, generally, of course, but do

TONY BENNET OCT. 4-19 * ADAMS OCT. 21-NOV. 2

Now 60% to 80% off on top-name entertainment at world-famous Empire Room in the Waldorf-Astoria

THE STUDENT STAND-BY PLAN

(Continued from Page 1, Col.1)

coeducation, there are articulate champions of single-sex institutions who argue that women will always be young men and women who will be served best educationally and socially, by separation during their college years.

Thus, they say, there will always be a place for women's colleges to serve the majority that prefer them. And in any case something of the present diversity of American higher education should be retained, rather than having all institutions become coeducational.

As women students might suffer from coeducation, so also might women faculty. The present parity of the sexes in the faculty might give way to a male majority, as an attraction to men students, and Connecticut would then cease to serve women academically as extensively as it has done in past and does now. With such a male majority, would women be subordinated as they often are at coeducational colleges?

These are serious considerations which cannot be easily dismissed. But there is much more compelling, on the other side of the question.

Among the present generation there is a persistent demand for involvement in the world the student will enter on graduation, for experiences which are not mere what students call "real life." Students themselves are insistent spokesmen for coeducation, which they feel is the normal order of things. "God's way," if you like, to use a phrase of President Shain's. College undergraduates are exceedingly tolerant of the College, generally, of course, but do
Ormandy Conducting
"Dignified, Powerful"
by Mady Kraus

Choosing a concert series is sometimes as baffling as being in a Chinese restaurant, and having to select "two from column A and three from column B," when all the choices are equally intriguing.

Beethovn's "Piano and Fugue in C minor" was originally written for harpsichord, but later rearranged by the composer for orchestra. Mr. Ormandy's transcription of this work for orchestra was wonderfully effective.

Just as exciting was Mr. Ormandy's conducting. He had the habit of holding his pinchy in a way the cigarette box must forever--extended pinky while drinking from a glass. Mr. Ormandy's gait was his hands, and his conducting was dignified and powerful.

The audience enthusiasm pronounced by Mr. Ormandy: "this is like blue heavens. the murmurs of the great symphony orchestra were wonderful."

The music was exciting and passionate, and was delivered almost effortlessly by the Philadelphia Orchestra.

It's a "love in", "See In", "Dance in"
Every Fri. & Sat.
AT THE MEADOWS
Lt. #1 New London, Across from the K.L. Shopping Center, Next to the Holiday Inn, New London.

Orders for Connecticut College Rings
will be taken in the Fort Office Lobby 9 am - 4 pm
Thursday, November 7th

As Life Magazine said, Stanley Kubrick's 2001 is an unprecedented psychedelic roller coaster of an experience!

"Love in", "See In", "Dance in"

Thursday, November 7th is RING DAY

Orders for Connecticut College Rings

will be taken in the Post Office Lobby 9 am - 4 pm
Thursday, November 7th