Dr. C. Webber, Professor at Union Seminary Spoke at Vespers

The Essence of Religion is the Giving in Service

WE SHOULD FIND WAYS OF SERVICE, HE STRESSES

Professor Charles Webber of Union Theological Seminary spoke at Vespers, April 25, on "The Essence of Religion". As the old saying goes, "Man has always been religious". In the ancient ruins of Rome, Greece, and Crete, articles have been found with inscriptions which indicate the deep religious feeling of people of former years. The study of anthropology shows the amount of religion associated with human society.

Man has been and still is religious.

There are many aspects of religion which combined make the essence of religion. One of these phases relates to the place of worship. Throughout the centuries, this has always been an important consideration. The United States, today, needs more and better planned places of worship. Connecticut College needs an adequate place where students may worship. However, such a place is itself not the essence of religion.

The second aspect relates to the worship of God through prayer, hymns, and the reading of scriptures. The great hymns of the church express the deepest feeling of man. Reading the Bible, gives renewed strength to meet all difficulties. We need to develop a new sense of worship.

In this respect, we must guard against spending an hour and better planned places of worship. Connecticut College needs an adequate place where students may worship. However, such a place is itself not the essence of religion.

The third aspect is of studying and knowing Christ's life. Knowledge of the Bible is a means to an end. We need to have houses of worship, prayers, hymns and (Continued on page 5, column 2)

It is with some mingling of joy that I start to set forth certain ideas that I have been requested to express. Two things are wrong with the Field: I do not pose as a competent dramatic critic, and second, I greatly doubt my ability to write as well as the producers of our recent theatrical efforts.

Once in a while I am called upon to read my poetry persons to fulfill a request which by better judgment tells me might be more simply neglected. (No! It is always wise to let achievement or misachievement rest on its own laurels.) Well, well ... a diatribe! I know. I am muddled up with the rule so often called to my attention by friends of mine who had by better interests at heart, to wit, that one may accept with mild negation the criticisms a mother makes of her own child, but one may not agree with her, and snakes be upon his head who dares to be the original giver of the advice.

This statement is a bit of propaganda. It seeks to win signatures for the League of Nations petitions now being circulated on the C. C. Campus. Note that these petitions do not ask for immediate membership of the United States in the League, but rather that we state our allegiance.

In support of this action, the following argument is offered, in outline form:

A conference, who stressed the necessity of military training to protect young men should they go to war, show that they have no real grasp of what modern war means. A life time of rifle-carrying can’t protect a soldier from bombs and poison gas,” one of them stated.

The Peace Action Group of American University, one of many throughout the country, which is working on a plan to block war, is sponsored by the Youth Movement for World Recovery. This organization, which maintains national headquarters in Washington, D.C., bases its plan of action on the conviction that voters and near-voters must use their power to influence Representatives, Senators, and the President in the interest of peace.

“The Administration and Congress must be made to see,” said Paul Harris, Jr., Director of the Youth Movement, in commenting on the R. O. T. C. dispute, “that young people are on the side of Peace. They must be shown that Youth demands policies which will lead us toward peace and not toward war.”

The way tobacco is cut has a lot to do with the way Chesterfield burns and tastes

There are many different ways of cutting tobacco.

A long time ago, it used to be cut on what was known as a Pease Cutter, but this darkened the tobacco, and it was not uniform.

The cutters today are the most improved, modern, up-to-the-min-ute type. They cut uniformly, and cut in long shreds.

The tobacco in Chesterfield is cut right—you can judge for yourself how Chesterfields burn and how they taste.

Everything that science knows is used to make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder...the cigarette that tastes better.

scripture reading to know the life of God. The essence of religion, however, involves putting into practise all these religious principles. Jesus believed in "Doing unto others as you would others do unto you." He practiced brotherhood, and his service was unselfish.

In school, there are many opportunities to put religion into use. At home, those who are talented ought to give their services to those church schools which are trying to educate children during the summer in art, dramatics, and religion. If we give ourselves in service, we find ways in which to place our lives where we can help. The essence of religion is the giving of oneself in service.

"Social Workers as Social Changers."

Every student should be interested in the phases of this program and we emphasize again the unusual opportunity of hearing experts discuss the most urgent needs of the day.

The College is well represented in the Conference, with Professor Wessel as President of the Conference, Dr. Katharine Blunt, Vice-Chairman of the Regional Committee and also a member of the Program Committee; Mr. Lambdin, Chairman of the Thursday morning luncheon meeting; Professor Frank E. Morris, Chairman and Discusser of the round table meeting on "What Opportunities are Inherent in the New Emergency Relief Program for Education and Leisure?" Dr. Scoville is in charge of publicity and leader of a round table discussion of "Preventive Medicine in Social Work."

Time and place of meetings will be stated on programs and bulletin boards.

RAYMOND CALKIN, PASTOR OF CAMBRIDGE CHURCH TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Subj. is "Necessary Virtues"

The speaker at the 7 o'clock Vesper Service on Sunday will be the Rev. Raymond Calkins, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Cambridge. Dr. Calkins is a graduate of Harvard University and also did his theological work in that institution. He has taught modern languages in Grinnell College, and German in Harvard.

After his ordination to the Congregational ministry, he held pastorates in Pittsfield, Mass., and in Portland, Me., and since 1912 has occupied his present position.

Mr. Colin Buell Shows Need for Cooperation Among Faculty and Pupils

Tuesday morning at Chapel, in the absence of President Blunt, Mr. Colin S. Buell, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Connecticut College, spoke on the administrative problems of the college in connection with its intellectual life.

It is hard for us to understand the difficulties with which the administration must cope in order to make coordination possible in all fields and to unify the entire institution. A small college requires a leader who is able to survey the problem of college life as a whole. In President Blunt we have a leader who is interested in the physical welfare of the school, who possesses calmness of judgment, sincerity of purpose, and who looks not only at the present but into the future.

The faculty, in collaboration with the president, combine wisdom with understanding, to solve the problems which necessarily arise in such a community. The students, on the other hand, are free-lancers who are receiving an education in a time or rapid change, during which the general outlook is constantly broadening and the universe is every expanding.

A free-lance is a "pretty playing-thing" which, if used as a weapon, may prove to be not only interesting but dangerous. If the students combine, they can either make or ruin whatever they attempt. In all our problems, therefore, we must cooperate with the administrators in wisdom, understanding, and an outlook of completeness and sincerity.

Carpenter's books on Sociology of City Life, Immigrants and Their Children, and Guild Socialism are used by the college classes in Economics and Sociology.

Definite Modifications of League of Nations are Suggested for Peace

War. Nevertheless, the present uncoordinated nationalisms make the world thoroughly unsafe for civilization. And a modified League is the next logical step toward the restriction and pacification of these rampant nationalisms. Among the League modifications suggested are: (1) that it no longer guarantee the post-war treaties; (5) that it postpone its efforts at coercion; and (3) that it make a more generous bid for universality. The United States, by participating on its own terms, can best aid in preventing the wars that would ultimately involve the whole world, including the United States, in ruin. Our participation might well include pressure on the victors for adequate concessions to the vanquished, and pressure on the rebels not merely by the concessions but also by the evidence of the League's new moral integrity.

Against the urgent advice of William Randolph Hearst, we are thus recommending action, faith, and hope, to replace inaction, distrust, and despair.
