Hiawatha Scenes

Freshmen Present "Hiawatha" Scenes Saturday

On the edge of the lake in Bolleswood, the fathers of college students will imagine themselves on the shore of Gitche Gurnee during the composition of scenes taken from Longfellow's famous Indian legend. Theatre on Saturday afternoon, May 15, will begin with a table told in an Indian circle by the presence of speaking and singing choirs and by a group of dancers. The choirs are to be dressed in costumes to blend with the lovely natural scenery, while the dancers will wear Indian costume. The wedding festival of Hiawatha and Minnehaha calls for a gay and colorful village scene, which will probably so arouse the audience that it will want to get up and walk about the aisles. On the stage will be a perfect setting, the perfect play for such a setting, hard-working and talented freshmen, and an enthusiastic audience who could want to miss being down in Bolleswood on the afternoon of Father's Day.

The cast is as follows:

Hiawatha: Jane Merritt
Minnehaha: Anne Rubenstein

The Arrow-Maker: Katherine Bas
The Black-Robed Chief: Leslie Bannister

Committee heads are: speaking, Sally Kiskadden; singing, Barbara Stoecker; social chairman, Barbara Tucker.

Plans For Course In Child Service Are Developed

Child study will become a more vital part of the Connecticut College curriculum with the addition of a major course, the establishment of a nursery school on the campus next year. The course will be given in a new white cottage to the north side of the campus. The first group of children will be selected from the applicants, and the course will open early in October and will close about the middle of May, with the same vacations as the college. The teacher, already selected, holds a degree from the Department of Family Life School of Home Economics of Cornell University and has had graduate work in the field of child study. The nursery school will have an average of 24 children, will be open to students on approval of the Department of Family Life. The program will be varied according to the individual needs of the children and will include daily health inspection, play, out of doors when weather permits, mid-morning fruit juice, a rest period, and an hour for classroom work, in art and work are to be formed as part of the course. The department of home economics, psychology, and education will cooperate in the new major field. For all these departments the nursery school will serve as a laboratory.

The plans for the child development major and the nursery school were the subject of a committee consisting of Dr. Margaret S. Chane, chairman, Dr. Frances M. Conant, Dr. Eldelbert W. Foss, Dr. Drorothy H. Sewell, and Mrs. Earl W. Aldrich. The chairman of the home economics department, who is the wife of the member of the committee, is herself a trained nursery school teacher.

Required courses: psychology 23-24, education (a) three and four years of age will be developed in the college gymnasium on May 16.

Need For Orderliness Throughout Campus Says President

President Blunt spoke on orderliness in Chapel on Thursday, stressing the community, the aesthetic and the intellectual sides of it. She pointed out that the beauty of the campus depends on its being free from all cigarette wrappers, old papers, and such things. "It makes me so troubled to see so many of us do not appreciate orderliness in its personal aspects." She levered the orderliness in the campus, and in the Presidents Office, and in the Library, and in the laboratory work wherever it is possible.

Dear Editor:

Last week there was a letter in this column about how to vote, and so its appropriate now to mention the fact that we can show our loyalty to the present government by voting. I am planning to make a special effort to get over to Fanning and vote. Last year almost all the students voted. Let's make it one hundred percent this year. We surely have an interest in the elections; they are, after all, a determining factor. Please support them by being on hand Thursday to vote.

P. S. The earlier, the better!

Dear Editor:

It was once said, "He that is not against us is for us." by this test I call Connecticut a religious place.

But by other tests I think we are not an unreligious college. If the average professor or student could only be asked the question, "Is this the last Commandment of all," I judge the reply would be the same as the scribes of old to the young Hebrew leader—

"Master thou hast said the truth: for there is one God, and there is none other than He: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more than burnt offerings and sacrifices."

You may remember the response of Jesus when he saw the scribes "answered discreetly"—"Then are ye far from the Kingdom of Heaven."

"Hello, Hello, it's off to work they go," recited a group of students from a scene in a well memory of the past. Under a Friday night in Nancy Weeks' band, they turned forward through pictures and parties to a spectacular Saturday night with Charley Barnett swinging out "Good Night Sweetheart" or its equivalent. The dovotation of 82 were perfect—aged and even the real Snow White would have envied the Seven Dwarfs that flacked about the room. Friday night of Junior Prom is all but a memory.
