Connecticut College Alumni Magazine, Summer 1980

Connecticut College
Editorial Board: Vivian Segall '73, Editor (15A Latham Lane, Noank, CT 06340) / Gertrude E. Noyes '25 / Katherine Gould '81 / Sarah Hargrove Harris '57 / Wayne Swanson / Marilyn Elman Frankel '64 / Marion Vibert Clark '24, Class Notes Editor / Elizabeth Damerel Gongaware '26, Assistant Editor / Helene Zimmer Loew '57 and Louise Stevenson Andersen '41, ex officio

Alumni Association Executive Board: Helene Zimmer Loew '57, President / Michael J. Farrar '73, Vice President / Warren Erickson '74, Secretary and Chairman of Programs Committee / Cynthia Caravatt Holden '74, Treasurer and Chairman of Finance Committee / Joan Jacobson Kronick '46, Joann Walton Leavenworth '56 and Janel Muddle Funkhouser '53, Alumni Trustees.

Nancy L. Close '72, Suzanne Krim Greene '57 and Carol J. Ramsey '74, Directors / Committee Chairmen: Ellen Lougee Simmons '69 (Nominating), Ann Crocker Wheeler '34 (Alumni Giving), Barbara Vosburgh Omohundro '72 (Clubs), Nancy L. Close '72 (Classes), Roy D. Taylor '74 (Undergraduate/Young Alumni Relations) / Jay B. Levin '73, Legal Advisor / Louise Stevenson Andersen '41 (Executive Director) and Vivian Segall '73 (Alumni Magazine Editor), ex officio

Communications to any of the above may be addressed in care of the Alumni Office, Connecticut College, New London, CT 06320.

Cover: Special thanks to Professor Charles Chu, whose painting of the Great Wall is inscribed "The 1980 Connecticut College Alumni Association Trip to China."

Left: The poem translates "Watching a few falling flowers / Listening to the scattered singing of birds." Calligraphy by Charles Chu.
2 China: The runner tumbles
Charles Chu

5 China: Travels with Charley
Helen Haase Johnson '66

7 Eulogy to a crane
Charles Chu

9 Coming of age in the “me generation”
Laura L. Nash '70

11 Letters

12 Round & About

13 In Memoriam

14 Reunion Notebook

20 Class Notes
Charles Chu found China in a fervor of modernization, experimenting with freedom, but living under a bureaucracy as old as Chinese history. The character above means "return."

After 35 years of living in America, I was naturally drawn to the idea of taking a trip to the land of my birth. In fact, Helen Johnson ’66, the ever enthusiastic alum, and I had talked about organizing an alumni group to visit China ever since Nixon’s journey of peace to Peking. It was not until Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping came to visit the United States last year that China finally swung her door open to foreign tourists in large numbers.

China has undergone constant changes in the past 30 years. Intensive reading and research for my own curiosity have kept me up with Chinese affairs. I lamented the demise of the old regime, but still held high hopes for better days for China’s millions after 1949. Three decades had gone by when, in March of this year, China—the real China—reappeared before my eyes. A jaunt of over two weeks in vast China was too short to learn everything, but it was long enough to bring back many memories. My impressions told me that old, incredible China is still there, but better days for the common people have yet to come. I came home with excitement and puzzlement.

Like curious foreign tourists, I was eager to poke around to see new things; but unlike others, I found myself easily merged in a culture that was familiar no matter how it has changed. On a few occasions, I was overwhelmed by the genuine smiles of children; I was touched as I talked with some young people; memories flashed through my mind as I chatted with old friends and professors. I could not help but be emotionally drawn to those whom my hand touched. Wherever I met people, the warmth of kinship gripped me, and my emotions churned. At times I felt there were so many unspoken words that my excitement froze.

“What did I do during the Cultural Revolution?” my friend said, repeating my question. “I taught my subject, otherwise lay low.”

“ Incredible!” I said.

“ Even though I tried to be quiet, they were ‘fishing’ for me,” he said. “They picked bones out of the egg, misquoted a passage from one of my articles and sent me down to work on the construction of the Yangzi River bridge. It lasted two years.”

I looked right into his eyes, speechless.

China: The runner tumbles

What kind of nation will China become as she hurtles into the 20th century?

By Charles Chu, Professor of Chinese freedom was found to be incongruous with the leaders' tastes, and the lid was put on once more. The well-known playwright Cao Yu, now visiting in New York, said in March that the Chinese government feels the exercise of the Four Rights "is a practice which allows a person to talk irresponsibly, concoct false accusations and make slanderous statements against another without ever having to identify himself." He considers the practice of these rights as more tyrannical than democratic. Now it has been announced that the Four Democratic Rights will be taken away this August when the National People's Congress meets. Those courageous youths who, over the past 18 months, voiced opposition to certain government policies or uncovered injustice on the part of certain individuals are now being jailed or banished. As a result, no more waves are being made. The rallying cry is that the nation is on a Second Long March toward Four Modernizations, which are to be achieved by the year 2000. Our alumni group toured China at the beginning of this national fervor.

The situation is this. Since 1979, thousands of students have been sent abroad to study—over 450 are in the United States. Trade agreements with the West have increased in number and volume; foreign loans are negotiated, modern machinery is ordered and delivered. Laws are passed to encourage the foreign investments that were shunned in the past. Internally, new economic directives allow more freedom to factories, communes and collective enterprises. The most important changes involve the self-management of factories, labor contracts with communes, wage increases and new bonus systems, and the reversal of collective ownership of some land in Anhui Province, where land has been returned to small families and even to individual farmers. All these measures point to a more diversified economic system and the prospect of a thriving foreign trade. They represent a break from China's splendid, self-imposed isolation.

Children at a commune near Shanghai meet Connecticut's secret weapon, Charles Chu.

But the first step of the New Long March is not easy. China's economic backwardness is centuries old. A huge population lives on limited arable land. There are too many enormous projects aimed at modernizing agriculture, industry, defense and science, and too little foreign exchange and modern technology. One gets the impression that China is waging an all-out war to build a socialist society in a hurry. The Party has rallied people from all walks of life to discuss ways that every able-bodied cadre, intellectual, worker and agricultural technician can give himself to this national call. When we were in Peking, the Second Conference of Scientists and Technicians was being held there. Several hundred attended. During the past two years, conferences of all kinds have met, attracting huge delegations. Speeches were heard, proposals made, and then everyone returned home, presumably to work for the Four Modernizations. The nation is scrambling for time, and everyone, adult and child, is urged to play his role. To describe the tumultuous, frustrating atmosphere of China today, a reader of the official newspaper the People's Daily wrote a parable about a man who has ten lice in his hair and is trying desperately to get rid of them. If he uses his ten fingers to catch ten lice at the same time, he finds them utterly inadequate.

No one doubts that China needs Western technology. But China fears the loss of her identity and is afraid to make some basic changes in the socialist structure—changes that may spell its doom. A major obstacle, it seems to me, is that the old cadres are either unable or unwilling to recognize and make use of new talent. Many do not truly serve the people who, despite the egalitarian goals of socialist democracy, still live under the shadow of a bureaucracy as old as Chinese history, though in a slightly different form. For two years the People's Daily has been printing reports of cadres' corruption, factory inefficiency, institutional inadequacies and the arbitrary handling of matters of common interest. All these smack of the old China I used to know.

"Don't worry about us making a living," my friend said, as we chatted in Peking. "It is easy to just exist. But there is no room for a talented person to develop."

I thought to myself that man does not live by bread alone. "You mean you have never changed your job," I said. "No promotions?"

"No change, and no change in pay either," he said. We had to switch to another subject. I sighed with outrage.

While we were in China, the process of rectifying wrongs done to hundreds and thousands of intellectuals, scientists and party members was coming to an end. The names of the dead have now been cleared of their alleged crimes. Eulogies have been read, long articles about their achievements published. But with so many lives lost, the living remain fearful. People do not seem to laugh as much as I used to see, and many talk in a hush-hush manner. I remember boisterous conversations and laughter in Chinese restaurants, but now people have become quiet eaters. How much I wish it were the other way! I deeply feel that China now is like a young woman standing on her hands, feet to the sky.

I am getting old, my eyes are dimming. Everyone I see has two faces, and they can turn about, standing on their hands, feet to the sky.

My ears too are failing me. I am very hard of hearing. When you say white, I think you mean black. When you say square, I think you mean round.

—March 1, 1980

Apart from time, there is no life. Life and time lean close upon each other.

When time is lost, life becomes empty. Without life, time becomes ephemeral. What we have lost is not three years or five, but the past ten and twenty years.

What we have wasted is not just one generation of youth, but time as well, time of millions. Time is gone like water vanishing in the Yangzi.

The devastation, unprecedented and vast, has left us a blank space of time. How much energy we need now to redeem the time already lost.

—May 14, 1980

These two poems put in a nutshell the tragedies of our time.

I did witness a thaw in China, but somehow another poem constantly enters my mind. Writing about spring, the famous tenth-century poetess Li Qingzhao said, and I translate in part:

Suddenly warm, it is still chill, and hard to rest.
Connecticut College was lucky when Helen Johnson retired from a successful business career and moved to a farm in Preston. After graduating in 1966, Helen edited the Alumni Magazine, initiated Crest Circle for the Alumni Annual Giving Program, created the C.C. book sale and helped organize the China trip. The Chinese character above is the symbol for friendship.

In March, during the Chinese year of the monkey, 50 Connecticut College alumni, husbands and friends descended upon China. We ranged in age from two members of the senior class to a couple married for fifty years. Our occupations varied from the manager of a health food store in Maine to a Washington consultant on government affairs, with seven books published by the Brookings Institution to his credit. A third statistic: we shared a multiplicity of simian characteristics. Or so it must have seemed to our mentor, Professor Charles Chu. Curious, inquisitive, indefatigable, darting from one point to another, amazed at the diversity of sights and sounds, we were probably as exuberant a group—in spite of cold, beastly weather—as China has seen since Marco Polo visited Kublai Khan.

For the most part, few of us had met before assembling at Kennedy Airport. But in flight, between the two movies when non-alcoholic drinks were served, people milled about as though at a cocktail party and became acquainted. The plane at the time was flying over the magnificent Alaskan icecaps, and this, too, promoted sociability. Trying to identify the peaks, we crowded around a wall map and then rushed to exchange "ohs!" and "ahs!" with those willing to relinquish their window seats for a minute. In the midst of the hubbub one stewardess was overheard saying to another, "What a party they're having. Aren't they the greatest bunch?" which, as the days passed into weeks, we became more and more certain we were. At least to one another.

The pattern of China tours is by now so familiar that to repeat our itinerary would be as tiresome—at least to those who were not with us—as looking at most of our slides. Of course we "did" and enjoyed the Forbidden City, the Wall, Sun Yat-sen's tomb, etc., and we visited communes, factories, schools, Friendship Stores, etc., and we saw acrobatics and Tang dynasty artifacts as well as operations performed under acupuncture. Yet as much as anything else, although in a different way, hotels in China also have something to say, and each has a significance well beyond mere mortar and bricks. Moreover, long after we have forgotten tour-book attractions and dynasty names, certain events associated with these hotels will be remembered vividly.

Our briefing in Hong Kong warned that hotels in the People's Republic of China were likely to be dingy and might even be infested with mice or rats. (To China's credit, the only creeping creature I saw on the entire trip was a huge waterbug in the JFK motel the night before we left.) Hotels varied considerably, but certainly none were objectionable. Besides being comfortable, they all added to our knowledge of China and what is happening to her today. Beijing's worn-out, Western style Chien Men Hotel—large, with banks of elevators at each end and two dining rooms—seemed to symbolize the subjugation of one civilization by another. And our hotel in Nanjing, located in a complex of former British diplomatic buildings, proved for all time that the sun could set on the Empire, or any other nation for that matter.

In Guangzhou even the guides were astounded at our being quartered where we were. Set in a charming park at the edge of a lake, the hotel consisted of many buildings: one containing the dining room and public rooms, the others each having eight or ten bedrooms with baths. At first we could not imagine what role a country club, as it appeared to us, could play in the life of the Chinese, but soon we learned it served as a rest and recreation area for VIPs in need of recharging. Why we were there, no one knew; had it been summer when tourism is at its height and accommodations scarce, there would have been a reason. Perhaps official China shuns the recuperative powers of nature until the weather cooperates. Be that as it may, we realized then that democracies are not alone in providing luxuries for the privileged. Incidentally, no one will ever forget the beds. In lieu of mattresses, we slept on caming stretched taut over wooden slats. Undoubtedly they were therapeutic, but that night quilts were doubled and placed beneath for padding rather than on top for warmth.

In the morning early risers found they were not the first to be out walking. Persons familiar with Charles Chu will not be surprised to learn that he had already explored the grounds, chatted with the workmen and was about to embark on tai chi chuan, the exercises one sees in the day: Following his example, we wondered how the timing had been arranged, but at the moment we were too impressed to do anything but clap, clapping being the Chinese way of saying thank you.

The cordiality we experienced that first day continued until the day we left. Hotels soon to be built in China by the United States will certainly exceed in modern accoutrements those we lived with in Shanghai in 1980. Every bathroom will sparkle with new chrome fixtures, and (God forbid!) they may even have wall-to-wall carpeting, but whether they can ever eclipse the Da Hua in hospitality is questionable.

Both in Guangzhou and Shanghai Charles renewed old friendships with former classmates and teachers. And one night in the Da Hua dining room after the tables had been cleared, he relayed to us the hardships his friends had endured during the Cultural Revolution, and he spoke about the problems confronting them today in restoring education to what it had been formerly. We looked forward eagerly to Charles’ lectures, but the information gleaned from him in individual conversations was of even greater importance. Furthermore, his accessibility gave us immediate answers to questions that might have been forgotten if time intervened.

When we originally learned we were to go to Zhenjing, everyone searched for it in travel books and questioned friends who had recently been to China. But no information was forthcoming. Except for what Marco Polo had written in the 13th century, it was only a dot on the map. When we arrived there we discovered why. Until a short while ago Zhenjing, like so many other cities in China, had no accommodations for tour groups. The hotel is brand new. Designed by Australians, it is as modern as a Ramada Inn, which, unfortunately, it resembles architecturally on the outside. Inside, it is pure “down under.” Instead of using China’s vibrant colors and imaginative motifs, the interior designer installed insipid tan draperies with a pattern of cavorting kangaroos and koala bears in brown. Under the circumstances, it was miraculous that a centuries-old Buddhist temple seen in the distance could still retain its beauty.

Draperies scarcely warrant this much scrutiny. Still, they draw attention to what may be happening in other fields such as industrial equipment or armaments. How much China’s past isolationist policy inhibits her judgment in deciding what to take from the West—and what to reject—is the question.

While we were drinking tea on the train from Shanghai to Zhenjing, the radio announced that the next day was to be dedicated to tree-planting. Everywhere we went trees lined the streets, sometimes even in double rows. And we were told in Nanjing that 24 million had been planted in that city alone since liberation, which gives an idea of how important they are to China. At our new hotel the landscaping was not completed. Much of the nursery stock was still balled and waiting to be set into the ground, which started Charles thinking. Deciding that we, too, should participate in China’s Arbor Day, and that it would be a fitting manner in which to memorialize the alumni association, he persuaded the management to let us also plant a tree. Little can be said for the ceremony, but our enthusiasm compensated, and now if you go to the Zhenjing Hotel next year, you will see our tree—the tallest one, that’s yours and mine.

In out of the way places as well as where it was expected, we enjoyed a number of people-to-people experiences. To begin with, everyone owned a handy little Berlitz paperback that enabled us.
In books on Chinese calligraphy, I have run into stone rubbings bearing the name of Yi-Ho-Ming (Eulogy to a Crane). Neither the name of the calligrapher nor the date are known, but the story fascinates me. When I saw a copy of these rubbings in Chiao-shan, an island located in the northeast of Chenchiang where our alumni group visited last March, I was excited.

Would it be worth over $250 to buy 92 Chinese characters? Who would enjoy it if the book were presented to the college library? While I hesitated, I told this story to Joan Jacobson Kronick '46.

Legend says that once upon a time there was a Taoist sage who used to ride on the back of a crane as he traveled around. One day he reached Chiao-shan, and his favorite crane died. He mourned, and he eulogized.

The story was passed down with emotion. Unknown to the outside world, a calligrapher of fame walked to the west side of the island and carved the eulogy on the surface of three rocks at the edge of the water. The rocks were so close to the water that when the water level rose in the summer, they were submerged. Although the carvings were much admired throughout hundreds of years of their existence, no one ever made rubbings out of them until the Sung Dynasty (960-1276). One of the earliest rubbings was done by Ou-yang Hsiu (1007-1072), a scholar and calligrapher. Between the 11th and 12th centuries, the rocks cracked and fell to the bottom of the Yangzi River. It was not until 1713, during the reign of Emperor KangHsi, that the rocks were brought up to the shore. Frequent rubbings were made, and copies from other rubbings were done. As a result, the characters were no longer clear by the end of 18th century.

Looking at the inscription on the book's sandalwood cover, I saw it was the brushwork of a well-known calligrapher, Chao Pu-chu, the President of the Institute of Buddhist Studies Association of China. It could not be too wrong to get a copy, for it was labeled as Shui-chien-pen, meaning that the rubbing was done before the rocks were rescued from the river bottom.

The story I told Joan was not this long, but she looked at me and simply said, “Let us get it.” She showed no hesitation. Chip Siegel came by, cigarette in hand.

“Sure get it. I will ask for donations. Can this be delivered to our hotel this evening when money is collected?”

And then with the voice of an executive, he said, “Send it.”

By 8 p.m., a man from the city government came with the book. He told me that the rubbings had been kept in the city museum, and were only recently rebound for sale.

During reunion weekend this May when a presentation ceremony was performed, I was speechlessly surprised to learn that this gift has been dedicated to me. I feel deeply honored and grateful to all who were on such a peaceful and enjoyable journey. I am touched.

—Charles Chu
Continued from page 6

by pointing to a word here and a phrase there, to stop any Chinese on the street and "ask" for directions or anything else. The Chinese have a natural curiosity, especially concerning foreigners, and some continued the "conversation" through the Berlitz as we had done. Then there were the teenagers, who, trying out their high school English, would begin with "Where are you from?" as they do all over the world. But discussions with our guides meant more than anything else, for we were with them day after day, and our talks extended beyond passing pleasantries. It was mainly from them that the picture emerged of present-day China: proud of her splendid heritage and not about to give it up entirely, yet with one foot in Mao's past, too, and the other in a Westernized future.

I went with a guide to a Shanghai hospital twice for acupuncture treatments, and during the taxi rides and in the waiting room we pried each other with questions. Having been born ten years after the 1949 liberation, she has never known any system other than the nationwide leveling process. As a consequence, her standards conform to austerity, sacrifice and idealism, but incentives and more consumer goods are clearly on her mind. We discussed books also. She prefers Poe to all other American authors, but her favorite book is Gone With the Wind. Love and adventure live on in China!

When we went to the Nanjing Teacher's College, each one of us was assigned a student in the foreign language department, with whom we conversed privately for quite a time. My young woman, who has studied English for three years and is well versed in many subjects, showed a great interest in our forthcoming elections. However, she was familiar only with Carter and Kennedy, as though the race was between those two alone and no Republican Party existed. But how many of our students know even that much about Chinese politics? We found that most of the students are children of professional people, which raised the question of whether they are in college because they were exposed to an intellectual environment and are brighter than most, or whether because of political influence.

In her impressions of China, which everyone was asked to write at the end of the trip, Laurie Norton '78 described an encounter of a different sort.

Sometimes I get rubbery legged just remembering my silhouette cutter at the Pearl River. This came about when I attempted to use my Chinese. The man was advertising his services for only 2 Yuan (approximately $1.30), but at that point many of us had not yet exchanged any money. Sally Morrill was trying to tell him this, and then I came over and told him in Chinese. He was so surprised at my speaking Chinese that he bade me pose for a silhouette. Seemingly hundreds of people, both Chinese and from our group, were crowded around as he cut and snipped. When it was over, in what seemed hours and was only a few minutes, he held up my profile and everyone laughed and clapped. The silhouette really looks like me and is one of the most meaningful treasures I returned with.

When Charles Chu heard about Laurie using her Connecticut College Chinese so successfully, he beamed for the rest of the day.

A short distance away, a larger than usual crowd gathered around Mary Ann Garvin Siegel '66, who had been standing by herself watching the busy river traffic. (From a handful to a hundred or more Chinese invariably surround foreigners wherever they go, but when anyone wishes to move on, they open up a path immediately.) Serious, intent and gaping in disbelief, this crowd was staring at Mary Ann's six-foot height. Not knowing quite what to do but amused by their expressions, Mary Ann smiled at the crowd, and they grinned back in return. At the same time, unbeknownst to Mary Ann, her husband Chip, taller than she, stole up behind her and began entertaining the crowd with pantomime exaggerating her height. The Chinese, waggish by nature, roared with delight, and when Mary Ann turned around and discovered what Chip was up to, she laughed with the rest. A young Chinese man then stepped forward and, as though to balance the act, selected the tallest girl in the crowd and suggested by means of gestures that Chip take her picture standing beside Mary Ann, which Chip did. The performance might have continued had not our busses started to honk for us to come. While this incident is not a profound one, we were all impressed with the similarity between American humor and Chinese—not of little value in bringing nations together.

Another completely different episode occurred in Zhenjing. One day we boarded a Yangzi River ferry to visit Chiao-shan, a Buddhist temple. There was much to see—the buildings, the hot-house and the beautiful grounds, but of special fame are the Ming tablets with their historic calligraphy. To Charles it was a rare experience because he had never seen them before. Sharing his excitement, we listened with more than general interest as he gave us an on the spot art-history-literature lecture all in one.

When we entered the temple itself, priests in black robes were praying in front of a handsome altar, and behind them, also praying, was one dressed in the tallest girl in the crowd and suggested by means of gestures that Chip take her picture standing beside Mary Ann, which Chip did. The performance might have continued had not our busses started to honk for us to come. While this incident is not a profound one, we were all impressed with the similarity between American humor and Chinese—not of little value in bringing nations together.

Another completely different episode occurred in Zhenjing. One day we boarded a Yangzi River ferry to visit Chiao-shan, a Buddhist temple. There was much to see—the buildings, the hot-house and the beautiful grounds, but of special fame are the Ming tablets with their historic calligraphy. To Charles it was a rare experience because he had never seen them before. Sharing his excitement, we listened with more than general interest as he gave us an on the spot art-history-literature lecture all in one.

When we entered the temple itself, priests in black robes were praying in front of a handsome altar, and behind them, also praying, was one dressed in the tallest girl in the crowd and suggested by means of gestures that Chip take her picture standing beside Mary Ann, which Chip did. The performance might have continued had not our busses started to honk for us to come. While this incident is not a profound one, we were all impressed with the similarity between American humor and Chinese—not of little value in bringing nations together.

Another completely different episode occurred in Zhenjing. One day we boarded a Yangzi River ferry to visit Chiao-shan, a Buddhist temple. There was much to see—the buildings, the hot-house and the beautiful grounds, but of special fame are the Ming tablets with their historic calligraphy. To Charles it was a rare experience because he had never seen them before. Sharing his excitement, we listened with more than general interest as he gave us an on the spot art-history-literature lecture all in one.

When we entered the temple itself, priests in black robes were praying in front of a handsome altar, and behind them, also praying, was one dressed in the tallest girl in the crowd and suggested by means of gestures that Chip take her picture standing beside Mary Ann, which Chip did. The performance might have continued had not our busses started to honk for us to come. While this incident is not a profound one, we were all impressed with the similarity between American humor and Chinese—not of little value in bringing nations together.
were something to behold—as though we were an apparition, for they had no idea of what had been going on. Twice more we disappeared and emerged before the procession finally ended. When we were outside and could explain, Joan Jacobson Kronick '46 said, “I know, Born-again Buddhists!”

My colleagues are probably wondering why other things have not been included. The 24e haircuts some of the men got when Charles returned to the barbershop he patronized over 30 years ago. The crowded church service Barbara Fawcett Schreiber '37 attended in Shanghai. The discovery made by Thea Coburn '41 in the Nanjing museum. Discussions about China's flora with Dr. Richard Goodwin, Katharine Blunt Professor Emeritus of Botany. Tobey Griffis' (husband of Kathy Buckley '69) patience in explaining U.S. politics to the guides. Jane Keltie '51 and her red stars and Sally Morrill '65 and her feather duster, tall as herself. The t'ai chi books the Morrisons (Martha Boyle '43) and Eleanor Hine Kranz '34 located in Beijing. What we learned about psychology from the DeMarcos (Vera Jezek '47) and about Russia from the Ricklins (Lois Webster '44). The little stone whistles in bird shapes that Janice Reed Harman '41, Louise Radford Denegre '43 and Margery Jenkins Brewster acquired, exactly like the ones the Chinese used to attach to pigeons' legs (how beautiful it must have sounded as they flew over the housetops). The kindness of the Smiths (Mary Blackmon '42) and the Stanleys (Helen Swan '38). The gratitude of those administered to by Dr. Donald Kent (husband of Virginia Golden '35) and Dr. Donald Lehman (father of Becky '74). The quietness of Janice Roberts Wilford '49, which didn't keep her from missing a trick. Finally, our thankfulness that Laura Cohen Roskind '61 suggested the trip in the first place, and that we had those two delightful seniors with us, Susan Brewster '80 and Alice Wilding-White '80.

Laura L. Nash '70 has a Ph.D. in Classical Philology from Harvard. She returned to Connecticut in 1976 as a visiting instructor in the Classics Department, has been a visiting assistant professor at Brown and Brandeis Universities and is currently a post-doctoral fellow in business and ethics at the Harvard University School of Business Administration. Her article, “Concepts of Existence: Greek Origins of Generational Thought” was published in Daedalus in 1978 and reprinted in the book Generations (edited by Stephen Graubard). Dr. Nash lives in Cambridge with her husband, Thomas Wight Beale, and their daughter Alexander.

Coming of age in the “me generation”

Even when they're working for the Other Side, "those bums" still have a social conscience.

By Laura L. Nash '70

I've heard a rumor that Tom Wolfe keeps a blackboard in his kitchenette, and every time one of his neologisms appears ten times in the media, he chalks up a star. I believe this rumor, because his latest buzz-word, "ruburb," sounds vaguely edible, as if he coined it while chalkling up stars in the kitchenette. Considering the media's fixation on the "me generation"—another Wolfe original—he probably can't leave the board at all these days.

I, for one, can't stop cringing. You see, it's always been this way with my generation, which graduated from college sometime between 1968 and 1971. We are so big that whatever we do automatically forms a sizable Market and becomes the subject of sitcoms, scholarly journals, SAT tests and television commercials. Have you noticed the sudden shift from Boy-Meets-Girl to Young Family in today's ads? My generation is finally having children.

I graduated from Connecticut in 1970, the year that we all picketed for Huey in New Haven and knocked on the doors of admirals' houses in New London to gather petitions against the war instead of taking final exams. Our subsequent failure to stop the war, to take care of the veterans, to defeat poverty, and to love our fellow human beings even if they were Republican has been categorized, chastized and criminalized. Worse, our retreat from political activism in the 70s has been taken to be a final and cowardly admission of defeat. I was only two years into graduate school at Harvard when the freshmen in my section of John Finley's "Humanities 3" had drawn the line between their generation and mine: when I asked them why they all felt it necessary to become doctors or lawyers, they replied that my generation was so ineffective. Our rioting and picketing didn’t stop the war, didn’t clean up the rubbish in the streets, and didn’t convert the nation into Nixon-doubters—Mr. Nixon expected that himself a few years later. These freshmen saw us as immature, self-indulgent, and —after we had begun to lay low—narcissistic. Then in the mid-70s Tom Wolfe typified us by this last stage of asocial narcissism and dubbed us the “me generation.” Wolfe wasn’t necessarily wrong—our generation may in fact have passed through this rite sooner than the rest of the society—but in retrospect, narcissism was not exclusively ours.

The media, however, with its unfailing inclination to characterize an era by the historically bizarre (after all, wasn’t the Ayatollah Khomeini chosen Man of the Year?), has seized upon what must be the least interesting aspect of a generation whose peer group spanned at most a four-year period, and used the term to typify ten years of a nation’s life. Viewing our generation once again as the sign of the times, the media has transferred Wolfe’s characterization of us to the entire decade, and by the process of confusion pinned the general narcissism of the 70s on us.

I’m beginning to wonder, “why me?” Perhaps there’s a conceptual error here that needs correcting. “Me,” like its grammatical function, puts self as the object of all activity: Give it to me! Show it to me! Do it for me!

It is true that my generation has logically considered itself to be of supreme importance. Our parents, upwardly mobile in the 50s, gave up everything to this end: that we could have it good. Sometimes we are confused with the next generation and its parents (the 50s generation), who backfired at age 40 and left their families to go off and fulfill themselves. This confusion rests mostly on the fact that in the 1970s, the 50s generation began dressing like us (blue jeans, beads, tennis shorts), but it also hinges on their new-found preoccupa-
To the Editor:
As you undoubtedly have heard from others of our recently returned group from China, Connecticut College was privileged to have toured, seen, talked, met and otherwise absorb China and her people in a sensitive, caring and altogether heart-warming manner. This was due in part to the wonderful guides of the China Travel Service, Pan Am's Monique Seyler-Fennessy, and our own Charles Chu and Laura Cohen Roskind '61, but I'd also like to include Louise Stevenson Andersen '41, who gave her time and effort to our group's arrangements before any of this became a reality.

My personal response to the trip was both emotional and insightful. I've yet to grasp, if ever I can, the totality and depth of the civilization we just took a peek at. I will always treasure the chance to have visited new China during the blossoming of her international development.

The blend of almost 50 Connecticut alumni, family and friends created a stimulating and friendly group of traveling companions. I am proud to have so recently joined such an exciting group of alumni.

—Laurie Norton '78
Lenox, Massachusetts

To the Editor:

The Alumni Magazine came yesterday and I am very pleased with its fine general appearance and your fine handling of the faculty articles—each one so individual, and each person seemed so natural and real. I read each with great interest and also read most of the class notes. I always read the class notes of 1930 through 1958 and always am glad that you put the name of each girl into boldface. One thing I miss now that I no longer live on campus is the occasional chats with alumni on campus.

I'll look forward to reading the future issues.

—Margaret Chaney
Professor Emeritus of Home Economics
Menlo Park, California

To the Editor:

Thank you very much for the copies of the Connecticut College Alumni Magazine (Spring 1980), which have come to me. I am so happy to read the accounts written by former faculty at Connecticut College of their present interests and activities.

Also I am especially glad to read your articles about the new C.C. Arena and the photography program at the college. Ted Hendrickson's parents are special friends of mine, and I'm delighted the new rink is so great an asset to the college.

—Hazel A. Johnson
Librarian Emeritus
Portland, Oregon

To the Editor:

Having just attended a President's Conference on Directions at Connecticut College, my husband and I wish to confide in other alumni who may be invited to one of these affairs in the future.

—Eleanor Hine Kranz '34
Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts

Letters

Official notice

The annual meeting of the Connecticut College Alumni Association will be held at the college on Saturday, September 27, 1980, at 1:15 p.m. The agenda will include reports from the officers of the Association, an alumna trustee and chairmen of standing and special committees.

Unauthorized mailing

A recent mailing to our alumni by the Ivy League Alumni Trust offering hospitalization insurance is not authorized by Connecticut College or its Alumni Association. We do not know the source of the mailing list that was used.

The Connecticut College Alumni Association does sponsor a life insurance program with the New England Alumni Trust.

September 26 & 27

Alumni Council

Mark the date
Minority alumni return for Eclipse weekend

For five years, minority students at Connecticut and the Coast Guard Academy have brought outstanding scholars, writers and artists to campus for Eclipse, a minority cultural weekend. Besides academic lectures, this year's program offered jazz in Crozier-Williams, soul food in Smith-Burdick, basketball between cadets and Connecticut students, a student theater presentation, a traditional church service and brunch with Alumni Association officers.

The Alumni Association invited minority alumni attending Eclipse for a brunch meeting to discuss establishing a student-alumni network. Connecticut's newly appointed assistant director of admissions, Richard McLellan '78, told alumni how they could help recruit minority students. Another link in the alumni network is Janet Foster '80, a Return to College graduate and advisor to Unity, the minority student center.

Above: A brunch for minority alumni brought Marlene Lopes 70, government documents librarian at UMass, together with Jackie Harris '83, (right) the local Miss Black America.

Alumnae win Rockefeller, Sloan fellowships

Connecticut alumnae have won two of the nation's most prestigious fellowships—the Rockefeller Foundation fellowship in the humanities and the Alfred P. Sloan fellowship in science.

Carroll Smith-Rosenberg '57, an associate professor of history and psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania, will use her Rockefeller fellowship to study “Sex, symbol and social structure: an exploration of 19th-century America.” She is one of 40 fellows chosen from 1,055 applicants for the grants, which range from $10,000 to $20,000. Dr. Rosenberg has won several other post-doctoral research grants, and in 1971 was awarded the prize for the finest article in the American Quarterly.

A two-year, $20,000 grant from the Sloan Foundation will support the research of Maria C. Pellegrini '69, an assistant professor of biology at the University of Southern California. Dr. Pellegrini is one of 78 fellows chosen for their potential to make creative contributions to science early in their careers. Using recombinant DNA techniques, she is trying to find out which genes control the machinery of protein synthesis. Like Dr. Smith-Rosenberg, she earned her doctorate at Columbia University.

Carol Ramsey 74 elected to executive board

Carol Ramsey '74, who became Vassar's associate director of admission at the age of 26, has been elected a director of the Connecticut College Alumni Association. A botany major and housefellow at Connecticut, Carol has worked in college administration since graduation. While assistant dean of students at Bowdoin, Carol assumed special duties as a recruiter of minority students and helped to found the New England Consortium of Black Admission Counselors. Last year, the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students asked her to serve on their selection committee, and she also is co-chairman of the Association of Black Admissions and Financial Aid Officers of the Ivy League and Seven Sister Schools. As one of three Alumni Association directors, she will take on a special project for the executive board.

Elected on single slates along with Carol Ramsey were Helene Zimmer
Loew '57, the new Alumni Association president; Jane Muddle Funkhouser '53, who will serve a five-year term as alumni trustee; and Warren Erickson '74, secretary. The proposed change in Alumni Association bylaws was approved as well.

Connecticut Snetwork

There is the famous “old boy” network, the newer “old girl” network and there most assuredly is a network of Connecticut alumni at the Southern New England Telephone Company (SNET) headquarters in New Haven. Sixteen Connecticut alumni employed at SNET gathered at New Haven’s Quinnipiac Club in June and were introduced by SNET’s vice president for public relations, Jean Handley ’48. (The Quinnipiac Club, by the way, was an “old boy” stronghold until Jean became its first woman member last year.) Ann Bodurtha ’76 outlined some activities of the Connecticut College Club of New Haven and Kathleen Smith Belmont ’76 announced that a portion of the dinner funds, matched by the SNET Matching Gift Fund, would go to Connecticut College as an unrestricted donation.

Boston will cheer on winning crew team

Rowing for the College Boat Club of Philadelphia, two Connecticut students won medals at the National Rowing Championships in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, this summer. Laura Peck ’81 of Waverly, Pennsylvania, captured the gold medal in the elite four and Carolyn Leavenworth ’82 of Wayzata, Minnesota, won a silver medal in the senior pair. Carolyn is the daughter of Alumni Trustee Joann Walton Leavenworth ’56.

A proper Bostonian welcome is planned for Connecticut’s crew team when it rows in the Charles River Regatta this fall. The Connecticut College Club of Boston will have a hospitality booth near the finish line of the October 19th regatta, and alumni, parents and friends of the team are invited to stop by.

We represent you

The Nominating Committee of the Connecticut College Alumni Association is made up of a chairman, elected by the Association, and a committee of five or six alumni from the area of the chairman’s home. For the past two years, your Nominating Committee has been located in Houston, Texas, and next year when you elect a new Nominating Committee chairman, it will move to another location in the country. We have appreciated all your suggestions and hope you will continue to tell us of alumni you want us to nominate for Executive Board positions. We encourage self-nomination.

The nominating committee includes Ellen Lougee Simmons ’69, who is chairman, Carol Cronin ’73, Mimi Dreier Berkowitz ’55, Gail Cunningham Rasmussen ’69, Dorset Townley Mosely ’49, Elizabeth Shank Post ’43 and Michael Farrar ’73. You can contact any of them through the Alumni Office at the college.

In Memoriam

Paul H. Garrett

Paul H. Garrett, professor emeritus of physics at Connecticut and a member of the original faculty at Bennington College, died at his home in Wellfleet, Massachusetts, on June 4, 1980, after a long illness. He was 77.

With a research grant from the Carnegie Corporation, Mr. Garrett and a colleague from the chemistry department, the late Gordon S. Christiansen, wrote Structure and Change: An Introduction to the Science of Matter. Published in 1960, the book and its laboratory manual became a standard text for college courses nationwide.

When he joined Connecticut’s faculty as professor and department chairman in 1952, Paul Garrett brought with him a wealth of teaching experience. As a member of Bennington’s first faculty, he helped to shape the college’s curriculum. He also taught at Columbia, Hunter College, Sarah Lawrence, Bard, and his alma mater, Wabash College.

Members of Mr. Garrett’s family are connected to Connecticut College as well. His daughter, Anne Garrett Chappell, is a secretary in the Alumni Office, and his wife, Louise, is a former lecturer at Connecticut. Mr. Garrett is also survived by a son, James, and six grandchildren.

GREECE

Space is still available on the Alumni Association charter tour, October 30 to November 7.
Reunions are emotional, and you really need your hands to hug, point, clap, explain or just hover. Showing good handwork (top left) is former Alumni Association President Cassandra Goss Simonds '55 (alumni affairs director at Iona College), who can't quite grasp having won the Agnes Berkeley Leahy Award for her service to the Association. Guffawing together are Professor of Philosophy Lester Reiss (who lectured at the alumni college) and Lincoln Baxter '75, back for his first reunion. Executive board member Ken Crerar '77 (an aide to Congressman Dodd in Washington) chats with a member of the class of '55, while a contingent from the class of '30 forms an admiring cordon around Oakes Ames at the Friday cocktail hour. Back in force for their 50th, the class of '30 posed for their formal portrait (bottom right). The week before reunion, the college honored alumnae whose daughters and sons graduated in the class of '80. The proud group gathered outside of Branford (bottom left) and included one three-generation set of alumnae. Peering out of the back row are Karla Heurich Harrison '28, her granddaughter Karla Evans Griswold '80, and her daughter Jan King Evans '54 (second, third and fourth from right).
Without the class of '40 and their funny hats, without a few daring and svelte alumnae who unearthed their prom dresses for the Friday night dance, and without people like Marcella Bourque and Blanche Darrow to prepare and serve thousands of hors d'oeuvres, lunches and dinners, reunion wouldn't be possible. The baby strollers all over Harris Green (top left) belonged to alumnae in the class of '70, who all seemed to have had the same idea at the same time. Historian Dale Plummer (top right) led two busloads of alumni around a radically altered New London. That's author-photographer Dave Anderton, husband of Katherine Meili Anderton '40, plying his craft during the tour of Starr Street. Cynthia Enloe '60, professor of government and international relations at Clark University, delighted alumni with her Phi Beta Kappa lecture, "America's World Power: A Non-renewable Resource?" Frances Wells Vroom '29 unveiled her class' 50th reunion gift to the library: a perfectly restored model of the ship Sea Witch, the class mascot. Over $191,000 in reunion class gifts were presented to Oakes Ames during the Association's annual meeting, and we corralled some of the hard-working reunion class agents (bottom right). They are (l-r): Marilyn Raub Creedon '50, Constance Barnes Merman '45, Sue Lee '70, Rick Dreyfuss '75, Cassie Goss Simonds '55, and in front, Betsy Allen '25 and Dora Schwartz Epstein '20.
A favorite totem makes alumni feel at home. For Rick Dreyfuss '75, it was a frisbee, and for a group of beaming '40ites (top) it was a vintage beer jacket printed with the college seal. A band of husbands lined up to photograph the class of '50 (left). One must always be prepared—even in mid-bite—for the photographer, as Dottie Rugg Fitch, '55, new president of her class, found out. Munching hotdogs with Dottie is Carolyn Diefendorf Smith '55. The Sykes Society—alumni who have celebrated their 50th reunions—had its first meeting, and alumnae from the classes of 1919 through 1929 returned to help 1920 and 1925 celebrate. Center, Mildred Howard '20 greets Esther Batchelder '19 and Sadie Coit Benjamin '19. The Alumni Association honored two alumnae retiring from the college staff: May Nelson '38 retired as associate director of admissions after 42 years of service, and Bernice Wheeler '37 retired as professor of zoology. Opposite, Bunny Wheeler chats with Frannie Steane Baldwin '55, the mother of Susan Baldwin '82 and daughter-in-law of Edith Lindholm Baldwin '20. Lest anyone think the 60th reunion class is less than hale and hearty, Mary Virginia Morgan Goodman '20 gave a rousing speech to several hundred alumni, explaining how she began a new career as a newspaper column. The alumni gave Mary Virginia a standing ovation, which she certainly deserved.
Margaret Davies Cooper writes that after delightful years in NC, her husband Bennett developed a serious illness, and they went to Lancaster, PA, to be near their son. After Bennett died Dave came to a retirement home, Calvary Home, where she is as happy as possible with her fine son and family near by. She is looking forward to the reunion.

Alice Gardner Crawford writes that she will not be able to make the reunion but she hopes for the next one perhaps in 1983. She reports “business as usual except for chippings away at the old anatomy.”

Dora Schwartz Epstein was honored as a founder of Hartford College for Women at the start of the 40th anniversary. Congratulations to Dora.

Catherine Finneran hopes to spend at least one day at the reunion. She writes that her apartment has been turned into a condominium and because she could not face moving she has bought the place.

Dorothy Matteson Gray writes that her husband is still very ill and her care of him keeps her busy. The fact that she is the great-grandmother of a four-year-old girl and a two-year-old boy gives joy in the hope that some day they will be ready for Connecticut College.

Kathryn Hubbert Hall is enjoying her senior citizen lifetime learning classes in astronomy and American literature. In Feb. she went to FL to see her new great-granddaughter who was two weeks old. She is thankful that her 20/20 vision with her new cataract glasses enables her to drive her car.

Clarissa Ragdale Harrison writes a cheerful note saying, “Being 81 years old is not half as bad as I thought it would be—not too many aches and pains have caught up with me yet.” She reads with avid interest every issue of the Connecticut Valley Bulletin. As the Class Notes section and was especially interested in the last issue on renovation.

Lorettta Higgins is recovering from pneumonia and is looking forward to attending the reunion.

Mildred (Miff) Howard is busy as usual, settling the estate of a friend, and looking forward to starting golf and the arthritis will prevent her attendance at the 60th reunion but she writes that she will be there in spirit if not in the flesh.

Fanchon Hartman Title’s note came to the class correspondent the day before her tragic death. Her note told us that their winter trip started in Los Angeles. They took a lounge cruiser trip to SF which gave them a delightful way to see the cities along the way. Then they boarded the Redwood Ferry, San Francisco to Mexico and went through the Panama Canal. They made some stops in Caribbean ports, and the trip ended in Fort Lauderdale. She wrote that her daughter Elaine will be having her 20th when we have our 60th.

Marion E. Warner writes that on January 17 she fell in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Dorothy Doane Wheeler writes that she is sorry that she will not be at the reunion. Although quite crippled in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Alice Horrax Schell keeps busy with her cloisonné enameled jewelry leading a very pleasant life in FL in the winters. She swims and bicycles and entertains old friends traveling in the South.

Dorothy Stelle Stone spent Easter in Wellsley Hills at her son’s home. She writes of the many connections and relatives of her family who are graduates of C.C. among them her daughter Mary Elizabeth and her daughter-in-law Sally How Stone. Dotty’s poor vision and the arthritis will prevent her attendance at the 60th reunion but she writes that she will be there in spirit if not in the flesh.

Fanchon Hartman Title’s note came to the class correspondent the day before her tragic death. Her note told us that their winter trip started in Los Angeles. They took a lounge cruiser trip to SF which gave them a delightful way to see the cities along the way. Then they boarded the Redwood Ferry, San Francisco to Mexico and went through the Panama Canal. They made some stops in Caribbean ports, and the trip ended in Fort Lauderdale. She wrote that her daughter Elaine will be having her 20th when we have our 60th.

Marion E. Warner writes that on January 17 she fell in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Dorothy Doane Wheeler writes that she is sorry that she will not be at the reunion. Although quite crippled in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Alice Horrax Schell keeps busy with her cloisonné enameled jewelry leading a very pleasant life in FL in the winters. She swims and bicycles and entertains old friends traveling in the South.

Dorothy Stelle Stone spent Easter in Wellsley Hills at her son’s home. She writes of the many connections and relatives of her family who are graduates of C.C. among them her daughter Mary Elizabeth and her daughter-in-law Sally How Stone. Dotty’s poor vision and the arthritis will prevent her attendance at the 60th reunion but she writes that she will be there in spirit if not in the flesh.

Fanchon Hartman Title’s note came to the class correspondent the day before her tragic death. Her note told us that their winter trip started in Los Angeles. They took a lounge cruiser trip to SF which gave them a delightful way to see the cities along the way. Then they boarded the Redwood Ferry, San Francisco to Mexico and went through the Panama Canal. They made some stops in Caribbean ports, and the trip ended in Fort Lauderdale. She wrote that her daughter Elaine will be having her 20th when we have our 60th.

Marion E. Warner writes that on January 17 she fell in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Dorothy Doane Wheeler writes that she is sorry that she will not be at the reunion. Although quite crippled in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Alice Horrax Schell keeps busy with her cloisonné enameled jewelry leading a very pleasant life in FL in the winters. She swims and bicycles and entertains old friends traveling in the South.

Dorothy Stelle Stone spent Easter in Wellsley Hills at her son’s home. She writes of the many connections and relatives of her family who are graduates of C.C. among them her daughter Mary Elizabeth and her daughter-in-law Sally How Stone. Dotty’s poor vision and the arthritis will prevent her attendance at the 60th reunion but she writes that she will be there in spirit if not in the flesh.

Fanchon Hartman Title’s note came to the class correspondent the day before her tragic death. Her note told us that their winter trip started in Los Angeles. They took a lounge cruiser trip to SF which gave them a delightful way to see the cities along the way. Then they boarded the Redwood Ferry, San Francisco to Mexico and went through the Panama Canal. They made some stops in Caribbean ports, and the trip ended in Fort Lauderdale. She wrote that her daughter Elaine will be having her 20th when we have our 60th.

Marion E. Warner writes that on January 17 she fell in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Dorothy Doane Wheeler writes that she is sorry that she will not be at the reunion. Although quite crippled in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Alice Horrax Schell keeps busy with her cloisonné enameled jewelry leading a very pleasant life in FL in the winters. She swims and bicycles and entertains old friends traveling in the South.

Dorothy Stelle Stone spent Easter in Wellsley Hills at her son’s home. She writes of the many connections and relatives of her family who are graduates of C.C. among them her daughter Mary Elizabeth and her daughter-in-law Sally How Stone. Dotty’s poor vision and the arthritis will prevent her attendance at the 60th reunion but she writes that she will be there in spirit if not in the flesh.

Fanchon Hartman Title’s note came to the class correspondent the day before her tragic death. Her note told us that their winter trip started in Los Angeles. They took a lounge cruiser trip to SF which gave them a delightful way to see the cities along the way. Then they boarded the Redwood Ferry, San Francisco to Mexico and went through the Panama Canal. They made some stops in Caribbean ports, and the trip ended in Fort Lauderdale. She wrote that her daughter Elaine will be having her 20th when we have our 60th.

Marion E. Warner writes that on January 17 she fell in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”

Dorothy Doane Wheeler writes that she is sorry that she will not be at the reunion. Although quite crippled in the road bruising her side which is still painful, and her side is still paralyzed. Notwithstanding all this pain she cheerfully says, “Very grateful to callers and card senders. So many good things come to me, easy to count blessings.”
24 Marion Lawson Johnson: "I am grateful that the past year has been very good to Roy and me. We thank the wonderful AZ climate. Roy is a busy officer of the AARP program and travels a lot. I usually tag along when I am not conducting duplicate bridge groups. We go to St. Paul in June to attend the wedding of a grandson."

Dorothy Cramer spent four days in DC visiting the Smithsonian, a trip conducted by Northwestern CT Community Garden to Washington. In the spring she spent 3 weeks in FL with friends. At home she volunteers at the hospital.

Ava Milkhaull Hilton was flying to Newark to board the Delta Lines Stea. Isabel for a trip through Central Europe. She turned 80 in May. She has four great-grandchildren. While she no longer sees enough to read and write, she still plays bridge, using large cards.

April Keller and her sister Edith have an apartment together. Aura still enjoys arts classes at the Cambridge Adult Center. They have just been "ripped off—second one in 3 months. Now I think we're safe."

Lillian Kusunoki died because of the death of her brother a few days before.

Hazel Converse had to move because "my nice garden apt. went condemned." She is only a mile away from her former apartment but moving itself is no fun. She had quite a garden before and will start again.

Anna Frazer Lioyanc was "just home from the hospital recuperating from a cervical decompression operation—supposed to help arthritis arm—too early to evaluate results."

Lucile Witke Morgan joined the "great-grand—what a beautiful little boy."

Eleanor (Woodie) Wood Frazer copes magnificently with Century 21. She recently completed her degree at the Graduate Real Estate Institute, and a three-day meeting held at the St. Petersburg Coast Alumni Ass'n meeting held at the St. Petersburg Yacht Club in Sarasota, 1928 was well represented: Elizabeth (Bus) Arthur Roth and John enjoy retirement. They will graduate with distinction which is "something I can imagine a granddaughter of mine doing."

Abbie Kelsey Baker writes from FL her winter quarters. She has joined a Sarasota organization, Friends of the Arts and Sciences, and has sampled many of their interesting bus trips. She enjoyed a golfing visit with Mildred Vogott Angell and sister Anne '24 who were nearby. Elizabeth (Betty) Mallick is nicely located between the mountains and the river, near Rt. 81 in Greenville, TN. She invites any '26ers going to or from FL to stop by.

Dorothy Bidwell Clark is president of the East Hartford Garden Club and the Woman's Club and is moderator of the First Congregational Church in East Hartford.

Helen Wood Diefendorf and Bob reported from Naples, FL, that they were delighted with a recent visit from Adeline (Att) Kimball Archibald and husband Howard. They enjoyed walking in Naples with grandmother Schneidewind who sold her apt in Naples a year age. The Archibalds divide their time between winter in Jacksonville, FL, and their summer home in Maine. They plan to start north in early May. An grandchild's graduation from Clemson University, and to take in Doug's 55th reunion at Dartmouth, then two days later take off for Europe and visits with children and grandchildren residing over there.

Barbara (Babs) Brooks Bisby and Chet have restricted their usual winter travel this year due to unsettled conditions. They will be joining Dorothy Brooks Cobb and San for a gathering in honor of the golden wedding of Dick and Jeanette Bradley Brooks '28 in Greensboro, NC, in May. On the way home they will stop to see Imogene (Imo) Hostetter Thompson in Washington. The Cobb's return to their March home on the FL West Coast in the best weather they've ever had there.

Harriet Stone Warner is busy with her husband, a large house, church work, and trying to keep up with all the activities of their nine grandchildren, the oldest of whom is completing her freshman year at Middlebury. She reports Katherine (Kay) Colgrove happy in her new apartment.

Annette Olness is a volunteer for recording books for the blind, and holds an almost full-time job managing the Book and Art Supply Store at the Louis- ville (KY) School of Art. Will be visiting friends in England this summer.

Mary Philip Alves reports from Daytona Beach that she also reads to tape for the blind and does errands for her two great-grandchildren. She feels that the preamble to the Constitution should be amended to read: Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Usefulness—instead of Happiness, because that is so useful, every one likes and to be happy.

Edna Smith Thistle is spending the month of May in Italy with her sister Marjorie Smith '22 and some local friends. They plan to spell over a little into Switzerland. Your correspondent, Jessie Williams Kohl is enjoying the challenge of second career, in real estate with Century 21. She recently completed her degree at Graduate Real Estate Institute, and a three-day seminar with Tom Hopkinson in Daytona, CT, where she received the top award among the nearly 600 participants.

Alise Hess Patton died June 3, 1980. The class extends its sympathy to her family.

We extend sincere sympathy to all class members to Larry Ferris Ayres on the death of her husband, Dr. Payson B. Ayres, in Cox Cob, Connecticut, January 9th, after a long illness.

Elinor Hanken Torpey spend Feb. in St. Petersburg, FL, and December in Boney Hopper Levick '27, Karla drove to the FL West Coast Alumni Ass'n meeting held at the St. Petersburg Yacht Club in Sarasota, 1928 was well represented: Esther (Mary) Harmon Porter for her 70th birthday party. Kinkaid, Margaret McKay Reith, Abbie Kelsey Baker and Karla. This May, Karla and husband Gene plan to attend the C.C. graduation of their eldest granddaugh- ter at Florida State University. They will graduate with distinction which is "something I can imagine a granddaughter of mine doing."

Abbie Kelsey Baker writes from FL her winter quarters. She has joined a Sarasota organization, Friends of the Arts and Sciences, and has sampled many of their interesting bus trips. She enjoyed a golfing visit with Mildred Vogott Angell and sister Anne '24 who were nearby. Elizabeth (Betty) Mallick is nicely located between the mountains and the river, near Rt. 81 in Greenville, TN. She invites any '26ers going to or from FL to stop by.

Dorothy Bidwell Clark is president of the East Hartford Garden Club and the Woman's Club and is moderator of the First Congregational Church in East Hartford.

Helen Wood Diefendorf and Bob reported from Naples, FL, that they were delighted with a recent visit from Adeline (Att) Kimball Archibald and husband Howard. They enjoyed walking in Naples with grandmother Schneidewind who sold her apt in Naples a year age. The Archibalds divide their time between winter in Jacksonville, FL, and their summer home in Maine. They plan to start north in early May. An grandchild's graduation from Clemson University, and to take in Doug's 55th reunion at Dartmouth, then two days later take off for Europe and visits with children and grandchildren residing over there. winter get-together with Sally Pihouse Becker 27 because of Sally’s persistent flu. Daughter Gail was marooned in a PA Thruway blizzard. Granddaughter Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. The Frazer celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary. Helen (Lainie) Balderbeck Marquardt and her granddaughter. Beatrix Lord: “I’m still going and thinking about C. North, but all happened back in the ‘20s.” Bea is feeling fine after a short bout in the hospital last June.

Margaret Briggs Noble and Herb are tripping to CA in June. The Dees have moved to #1 grandson, Brian Ross, graduate from high school.

Edna Somers: “My winter has been fairly pedes- trian.” She had a long Christmas visit in VA and winter found her in the Northeast where she kept warm, walked, read and did some writing.

Dorothy Davenport Voorhees and Ralph took a barge cruise in France and enjoyed wine, tasting, chateaux, and Mont St. Michel. “I have given up my cane. It feels so good not to hurt any more.” Their return was saddened by the death of Ralph’s brother, followed soon by that of his wife. Ralph and Dot returned home, having soldiered for weeks settling the estate.

Catherine (Dill) Page McNutt: “Iran and Afghanis- tan were scheduled for this year to complete a trip around the world. But NOT NOW.” She tells how she and Johnny returned to China. They were allowed to witness a successful acupuncture treatment in a country commune hospital outside of Shanghai. Canton was hot and so humid that the condensation on the hotel marble floor, despite constant mopping, was “deep enough for rubbers.”

Hazel Gardner Hicks reports an imminent Key vaca- tion, much walking since the demise of her exercise class, branching out from crowd to include treadmill and the Camels (C, C,viccy hockey team) now at home on their new sink.

Martha (Mickey) Wells Dunody held an F. reunion for Bebe Cox Elbers, Cordelia Kilbourne Johnson, Edith Cloys McIlwaine and Abbie Kelsey Baker in Berkeley, CA to take care of a very illsister. She hoped to be back east, Psychologically as well as physically it is hard to go back. Mildred Meyer Doran lives a relatively quiet life since her husband’s death last year. She took a trip to CA to visit friends and spent the holidays with her daughter and grandson in Alexandria. Since moving to NJ she has taken up bowling and is improving.

Helen Oakley Rockhold finds the climate of NM nearly ideal with a very low cost of living. She spent May ’79 with Carol and her family in NH. Alan and her family live in CA. Helen and Ralph keep busy in many different areas but especially church work. When Helen wrote in Mar. she said daffodils, tulips and shrubs were written in Mar, she said daffodils, tulips and shrubs were out. May ·79 with Carol and her family in NH. Alan and her family live in CA. Helen and Ralph keep busy in many different areas but especially church work.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anni- versary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th. She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.

Kathleen Halsey Ripper published in the summer of ’79 tourist guide to the Olympic Games. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

Edna Whitehead Gibson had just returned from a recent trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not as it seems very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th, “inc redible as it seems.” She was planning a trip to the South Pacific. She said Tahiti was not very tame. Betty would like to attend our 50th.

The class extends its deepest sympathy. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack. The Frazers celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary at a favorite neighborhood pub called “What’s New.” Donna was sent to the London Hotel Owners Conference. Eleanor (E) Mann Romano was hospitalized due to a heart attack.
Correspondent: Mrs. O.H. Murray (Norma George), 5580 Green Tree Ct., New Berlin, WI 53151

32
Margaret Rathbone spent a good part of last year recovering from a broken foot, but did manage, with the help of a cane, to get to France for 3 weeks in August through the Art League in Baltimore. In the summer she visited Chappaquiddick Island where her family has beach houses. Now she is excited about a trip to China in April with the World Affairs Council.

Mercia May Richards, after fighting the big “C” for 13 years, had a huge operation in June and is doing well now. She paints, bowls, plays bridge and gardens in season. She is a volunteer program with her local A.B.C. House. It is a worthwhile project and she hopes she can contribute something.

Marianne Edgell got tired of this two trips each year—one to HI for a month in the spring and the other to Salt Lake City where she loses herself in genealogical research at the Mormon Library.

Therese Greenslade recently retired and is hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life. She and her husband, David, Fritz is back at substitute teaching, and travel teacher for the Metropolitan Divisions. Welcome any 34ers. They are hosting 9 Laotians until the Laotians are more accustomed to an “electric” way of life.
committees. They couldn’t spend as much time as they’d liked at their Candlewood Lake hideaway. Cappy was selected to run for the Select Board, but now he wants to spend more time at home in Shelton.

Shelby (Sherry) Dunn Hammersten of W. Chatham, MA, said she and Ham had a wonderful trip to England and Ireland in Oct. ’79. They visited one of her bridesmaids whom Themey hadn’t seen in 14 years. She and Ham were charmed by Ireland’s spectacular coast. Gerutha (Rita) Kempe Knore of Bayreuth, W. Germany, reported a very busy fall selling UNICEF cards again for nearly 9,000 Deutches Marks. She was not able to attend a trip to Scandinavia in June ’79. She sent to me a copy of the brochure for their next trip to Paris, put out for our bicentennial, the figures being the British and American soldiers. Rita spent over a week in Vienna with a friend, and then travelled to Venice. She and her friend visited a friend in Trieste, Italy, where they stayed for a week. They enjoyed the countryside and making new friends. Gerutha’s (Rita) daughter, the author of this article, was married in Nova Scotia.

Sheila (Shi) Caflisch Brachter and Warren had a week in Puerto Rico. Elizabeth (Beverly) Pearson Lehman and husband are enjoying their retirement home in Quechee, VT, and have had trips to CO and PA. They benefit by attending athletic and cultural events at nearby Dartmouth from their 1778 farmhouse. All their children and grandchildren spent Thanksgiving ’79 with them and they expected 10 grandchild (in May). They are relaxing, enjoying the countryside and making new friends.

Caroline (Carole) Kemper and Seth’s daughter Deb was married in Nova Scotia.

Amy (Tex) McNutt McNeill and Bill took a trip to AK in June ’79.

Priscilla (Pete) Spalding Scott and Doug spent six weeks in New Zealand, covering much of the two islands by car, train, plane and bus. They brought along their young daughter, who ended up in hospital for surgery to remove a large benign cyst in one lung. They recuperated the rest of the winter at home.

Alice (Bunny) Normandy Webster and Bill took their boat south again in Oct. ’79, returning for the holidays. In Feb. they returned to FL, coming back in May. They had an enjoyable trip to Key West and Big Pine Key. Andy and Vero Beach where the Roises now winter.

Elizabeth (Beverly) Washington and husband are enjoying their retirement home in Quebec, VT, and have had trips to CA and PA. They benefit by attending athletic and cultural events at nearby Dartmouth from their 1778 farmhouse. All their children and grandchildren spent Thanksgiving ’79 with them and they expected 11 grandchild (in May). They are relaxing, enjoying the countryside and making new friends.

Corrugated Kees arrives. Mrs. Robert W. Stoughton (Arline Goetler), 34 Cold Spring Drive, Bloomfield, CT 06002

38 Selma Silverman Swarts and Harry had two great trips this past year, one to China, the other to Egypt.

Dorothea (Tex) Bergman, director of dietary services at Mary Hitchcock Hospital in Hanover, retired last June after 33 years of service. After graduation from C.C., Dot had an internship in dietetics at Mass. General Hospital. She worked for Royal in India as an assistant dietician and taught therapeutic dietetics. Three years later she went back to school and received an M.S. degree from Teachers College at Columbia. Dot returned to the hospital in 1949, after working at hospitals in NH and MA.

Jean Pierre Field and Bob took a trip across Canada last summer and sent a picture taken at the railroad station of Field, B.C.

Carman Paliner vom Bremen became a grandmother last May, when a boy was born to her son Robert’s wife. They were in VT while her daughter and husband attended a wedding in Cape Cod, where they had been married. Barbara, her husband’s sister, lives nearby. Barbara is now manager of the merchandising dept. in Sears. Carman is a coordinator of the hospital gift shop in Cooperstown, NY.

Wilhelmina (Billie) Foster Reynolds helped organize a Youth Service Bureau. Beginning as a Year of the Child project for the Women’s Assn of their church, it grew into a community undertaking and Billie ended up as its organizer. The project continues as an officer and director of the Children’s Aid Society of Montgomery County, PA.

Margorie Mintz Deitz and Ted last summer took a trip to Seattle and the Canadian Rockies. They winter at Bonaventure in FL, Lauderdale. The Deitz’s son John moved back to Chicago where Sears has concentrated all their offices for women’s fashions.

Jane Husted and her husband live in our neighborhood. They have been married for 20 years and have 4 children. They moved to a house just a few miles from their previous home. They have recently purchased a new house in the same neighborhood. Their children are all grown and live nearby. Their daughter is married and has four children.

Barbara Mclain Kerr still enjoys sailing in ME in the summer and skiing in the winter. This winter included skiing in VT with Frank and Nancy Marvin Wheelock ’41. Her travels have taken her recently to Brazil. She has an MBA from the University of Minnisota, and she is currently working on a PhD in Business Administration.

Frances Golden Thomas is still an active interior designer in Orlando. She lost her husband in 1975. She would love to know if there are any C.C. ’40’s in her area. She is sorry to miss the 40th reunion this year.

Olive McIver Kerr still enjoys sailing in ME in the summer and skiing in the winter. This winter included skiing in VT with Frank and Nancy Marvin Wheelock ’41. Her travels have taken her recently to Brazil. She has an MBA from the University of Minnisota, and she is currently working on a PhD in Business Administration.

Barbara (Bunny) Deane Olmsted brought Koin and albums of old college pictures and how quickly they focused our attention on the happy innocent moments of our pre-war world. After the Sat. noon picnic, we gathered to attend to class business. Elizabeth (Lib)
June Perry Mack and husband Eddie hosted Christmas dinner '79 in their home—45 relatives in all including our five children and their spouses and three grandchildren. We recovered with trips to Mexico, AZ and HI. My mother and sister, Elaine Perry Sheldon '40, and her Scotch collie, live in Bozeman, MT. The woman's Guild of the Glencoe Union Church and won the golf's championship last summer at Skokie
Country Club for the third time.

Correspondents: Mrs. Edward E. Mack, Jr. (June Perry), 481 Grove St., Glencliff, II 60022

Muriel Jentz Schultz and Bob moved in Oct. '79 from Croton-on-Hudson, NY, to a relaxing and tax-free home out of town. More than 40 per cent of our houses joined in the same activities and seemed to enjoy their minority status. Those few classmates who chose Norwich Inn over Hamilton dormitory for sleepning accommodations warn anyone not to follow suit.
Sun., moon, and all music service of remembrance at the college chapel.

Katherine (Krin) Meili Anderson finished her last year to become a certified Gestalt Synergist. She teaches individual clients and also gives lectures in developing body-mind wisdom for easing tension and staying healthy. Author-photographer husband David and his wife live in Cooksburg, PA, on the edge of Cook
Stan Hewett Home in Akron. Much of her handiwork From OH State in landscape architecture. Peg spends her retirement from Texas Tech. Actually he is busi-

Yours truly ran into Lenore Tingle Howard on the second floor in the campus library. She is still waiting for her permanent retirement. Sad news also comes that our former student, on leave from the college, has died.

Margery Rogers Safford and husband Lou recently moved to Williamstown, MA, where they've extended their sympathy to Anne Davis Heath and Gordon on the death of their youngest son, Brad in '79.

Co-correspondents: Mrs. Neil D. Josephson (Elise Abraham), 419 Indian Trail, Vernon, CT 06066; Mrs.
George H. Weller (Alice Cary), 423 Clifton Blvd., East
Lansing, MI 48823

Margaret Ross Gibbons and husband Lou recently moved to Saratoga, NY. Their home near Saratoga is where Lou grew up, after spending all their married life in the Cleveland area. Since the move, the Saffords have welcomed their first grandson, seen their elder son moved and taken up residence in Italy. Midge is a docent at the Clark Art Institute.

Winifred Wasser Fein of Hartsdale, NY, was mugged in Westchester County and her shoulder broken. Winnie is engaged in volunteer work and has learned to make fruits for her calligraphy.

Ruth Ellisberg Van Raalte has a first grandson, Alarie, born March '79, who is the son of her daughter and Susan. Second son Peter was married in Jan; daughter Peggy,
C. The class extends its sympathy to Anne Davis
Heaton and Gordon on the death of their youngest son, 10, in '79.

Co-correspondents: Mrs. Neil D. Josephson (Elise
Abraham), 419 Indian Trail, Vernon, CT 06066; Mrs.
George H. Weller (Alice Cary), 423 Clifton Blvd., East
Lansing, MI 48823
Lois Becker Oonce has been living in the Boston area (Brookline) for eight years with husband, Charles, a stockbroker, and is enjoying her daughter Barbara and one grandson and two grandchildren. Other daughter Ruthy lives in Clearwater with her husband and three daughters. Lois does volunteer work for the Boston Symphony and Brandeis University National Women’s Committee. The Oonces travel a lot and think Great Britain and heaven on earth.” Lois hears from Ann C. Bartlett Wolgum.

Jane Brecxwothdl’s son, Ken, married Laurie Slaton of Far Rockaway, NY, on Jan. 20, ’80, while Eleanor of Charlestown’s daughter, Elizabeth, married Thomas Jarrett on May 24 in Richmond.

Almy Scudder Bierrger’s eldest granddaughter was graduated from Miss Hall’s in June, and in May daughter Holly and grandson Timmy, a dentist at the Duke University Medical Center where Holly works with hospitalized children. Almy’s third son, Robin, is working in the jungles of Brazil for the World Wildlife Fund. Almy has her Silver Needle shops in Chappaqua, N.Y., and Edgartown, MA. Eleanor Stroin Leavitt ran into Almy in Hilton Head in March. Almy was visiting friends there and had come from a stay with Joanne Viall Davis and Kelso. The Leavits keep busy with golf and tennis.

Nancy Bailey Ncys escorts motorcoach tours, mostly into Canada, and drives and conducts personalized Shunem Tours on unchartered routes from also the Berkshire Mountains to Bucks County to Nova Scotia plus an interlude into service. A grandson named Bailey has arrived. Son Mark is now in college, making this “my first year in 33 without a boy at home.” Nancy’s husband is in the automobile business “which right now is like sitting on the edge of Vesuvius.” The Ncyls live in Telford, PA.

Nancy McCuren Curme still works at the U. of VA in the graphics division (proofing and editing) and also started a new job in a linen shop where her hours dovetail nicely. Her youngest, Caroline, is a buyer trainee with Montaldos in Richmond.

Jane Sava Poston and Larry Carolyn (Connie) Arndoly Butler in Manila during a stopover last Feb.

Ann Simpson Risk, while in NYC with her husband attending the Iron & Steel Institute, had lunch with Elizabeth Brown Crouse and Patricia Fulmore White, stone in an Italian restaurant, complete with boce court. Pat followed Betty back to Dewey, Ballantine, llantaine law firm where Betty is a paralegal, in order to visit its libraries for her newsletters on library technology and data base publishing. Pat attended daughter Kim’s C.C. ’80 graduation a week before Reunion. Alan Alda of M*A*S*H, whose daughter was graduating, was the outstanding speaker.

Elsie MacMillan Cornell still has one foot in Briarcliff, NY, one in Naples, FL, and one in Martha’s Vineyard, where the Connells own homes. Her eldest son, a companion to his horse back in Haverstraw while daughter is beginning her fourth year of medical school. Son Jack, an engineer, is married to a doctor and living in Minneapolis. Elsie gave up being a librarian when Pace University phased out what used to be Briarcliff College library; husband Jim works for IBM.

Wilda Peck O’Hannon had a knee operation in Feb. to correct an old injury and continues to work for Rehoboth Beach Tennis Ass’n. Her second grandson was born in January and she “loves being a grandma.” Patricia Bausdoin, among 45s attending our 35th reunion, is still in real estate with any high interest-rate slump. Patty’s oldest became engaged to a bridesmaid he met at his sister’s wedding last March 25.

Elizabeth Eloworth Starbu’ck came the farthest to reunion because her home is in Oahu, HI: Betty had actually traveled an even greater distance to New London from Saudi Arabia. Elizabeth Bevens Cassidy of Atherton, CA, was runner-up, having just returned from a trip to Paris.

Charlotte Kavanagh Duvally is special (corporate) librarian.

Carol Schafer Wanye is a seamstress par excellence with a fantastic wardrobe (including coats) to show for her hobby. Tink lives in Arlington, VA; Hal is with NASA. She has worked part-time for the past eight years at U.S. News & World Report. For the five preceding years she has been a part-time secretary; her hobby is tin painting. Son Mark was married on June 14. Daughter Barbara lives in Pensacola, where the Churches visit as often as possible, while oldest son, Skip, lives close by in CT and is in business with his father.

Florence Murphy Gorman is a part-time occupational therapist in a Richmond Hospital.

Constance (Connie) Barnes Mermann is a librarian in the Guilford, CT, Library. Connie’s daughter (who won us all by saying what an attractive grandmother she was when we were) was part of a jug band that entertained us at reunion before our class dinner at Lighthouse Inn, so nicely arranged by Sarah Bauernschmidt Bost of Gales Ferry. Other reunion highlights were a tour of Starr Street and other restored areas of New London; Professor Charles Clu’s report on his first visit to China since the 1930s, accompanied by wonderful slides by David Anderson, author-photographer; and a lecture on America’s world power by Cynthia Enloe ’80, a professor of government and international relations at Clark U. Where our friend Mary Merton is running a new dormitory course, fitted in Harris refectory, provided with dance music in the soaring new Arena (sitting ice at the moment) by the Thymes. Some 35 45s attended, some like Joanna Dimorin only poaching in for part of the weekend. Others such as Betty Anderson Wiseman and Marcia Faust Meenes, our class treasurer supreme, brought husbands.

Our new class officers are: pres., Natalie Bigelow Barlow; v.p., and nominating committee chair, Joan Faxon Tuttle; treas., Marcia Faust Meenes; class agent, Constance Barnes Mermann; nominating committee, Patricia Wells Calkins; volunteers for crises, Sarah Bauernschmidt Murray, Charlotte Burr Evans and Patricia Hancock Blackall.

The class gave its gift of $14,415.27 to the college in memory of eight classmates: Miriam Braun Teipin, Winifred Clarke Geiger, Constance Fairley Lape, Sarah Gilbert Marquardt, Marguerite Goe Fadull, Catharine Rau Marekew, Jane Wilson Scally and Elizabeth Woodruff Stevenson.

Co-correspondents: Mrs. William M. Conroy, Jr. (Elizabeth Brown), 10 Grimes Rd., Old Greenwich, CT 06870; Mrs. Dorsey Whitehouse (Patricia Feldman), 71 Kerry Lane, Chappaqua, NY 10514

46 Suzanne Levin Steinberg related the 15-month living experience that she and husband Cliff recently had in Israel. They totally immersed themselves in the culture, starting in a center where they took a five-month Hebrew course and followed by visiting many places. They found jobs in Jerusalem and fell in love with that ancient city. The many friends they made from diverse parts of the world made them feel almost like a little U.N.

Betty Reiffel Bry, doing what she loves and being paid for it, has a part-time job as a radio copy writer. She is also a photographer, traveler, indoor gardener, and a political activist with a strong pro-choice position on abortion.

Elizabeth Lyman Warden’s church took a Cambodian family and find it a tremendous experience. She and Jim consider Bible studies most exciting and their lives so free. She recently saw Joanne Fery Gais, looking great.

Janet Potter Robbins lives in the Vine Knoll Short North area of Columbus, Ohio, and is a vice president at the Ohio Bank.

Jane Montague Wilson is “catching up” after enjoying a year of living in beautiful Yugoslavia where her husband worked on a company contract in a wire mill.

Lester Green of New York City and St. Louis lives in a sumptuous apartment near the Missouri Art Museum. He and his wife are members of the Board of Directors of Friends of the St. Louis Art Museum.

Tink’s son, Andrew, who has dual degrees in Biochemistry and Russian, left for North Carolina’s Bogue Banks.

Betty Reiffel Bry, doing what she loves and being paid for it, has a part-time job as a radio copy writer. She is also a photographer, traveler, indoor gardener, and a political activist with a strong pro-choice position on abortion.

Jewel Crump is now a director of the Speakers Bureau for the National Council of Jewish Women, and is living in the Washington, D.C., area.

Patricia Feldman is now living in the Washington, D.C., area.

Barbara Saidov and her husband, both from New York, are living in England.

Joanne Fery Gais, looking great.

Jane Montague Wilson is “catching up” after enjoying a year of living in beautiful Yugoslavia where her husband worked on a company contract in a wire mill.

Lester Green of New York City and St. Louis lives in a sumptuous apartment near the Missouri Art Museum. He and his wife are members of the Board of Directors of Friends of the St. Louis Art Museum.

Tink’s son, Andrew, who has dual degrees in Biochemistry and Russian, left for North Carolina’s Bogue Banks.

Betty Reiffel Bry, doing what she loves and being paid for it, has a part-time job as a radio copy writer. She is also a photographer, traveler, indoor gardener, and a political activist with a strong pro-choice position on abortion.

Jewel Crump is now a director of the Speakers Bureau for the National Council of Jewish Women, and is living in the Washington, D.C., area.

Patricia Feldman is now living in the Washington, D.C., area.

Barbara Saidov and her husband, both from New York, are living in England.

Joanne Fery Gais, looking great.

Jane Montague Wilson is “catching up” after enjoying a year of living in beautiful Yugoslavia where her husband worked on a company contract in a wire mill.

Lester Green of New York City and St. Louis lives in a sumptuous apartment near the Missouri Art Museum. He and his wife are members of the Board of Directors of Friends of the St. Louis Art Museum.

Tink’s son, Andrew, who has dual degrees in Biochemistry and Russian, left for North Carolina’s Bogue Banks.

Betty Reiffel Bry, doing what she loves and being paid for it, has a part-time job as a radio copy writer. She is also a photographer, traveler, indoor gardener, and a political activist with a strong pro-choice position on abortion.

Jewel Crump is now a director of the Speakers Bureau for the National Council of Jewish Women, and is living in the Washington, D.C., area.
Nancy Beatrice Cregan and husband Tom went around the world last year: first to India and Pakistan where she had 5 weeks speaking and workshop assignment on law of the sea under auspices of U.S. Information Agency; then to N.Y. for U.N. Law of the Sea Conference. They visited son Dave in Sofia and saw son Tom and wife Carol in NY. They returned for start of school for both Tom and herself—Tom at U. of Miami Law School and Nancy still working in "early childhood."

Marcia Dormat Katz wrote a book a few years back called How to Get a Glamour Job. It is coming out in paperback. She enjoyed a visit with Roberta Trager Cohen and husband Ralph while in Washington last TV promotion for the book. She is struggling with a novel and polishing up some children's stories to give to an illustrator. Last Aug. the Katzes found sybaritic beauty in a rented villa in Porto Ercole, a tiny fishing village between Rome and Florence. Amy graduated from Trinity last June and works for ABC-TV. Michael 20 works for a computer firm in Chicago.

Beth Youman Gleick began to publish house organs and management newsletters for businesses eight years ago. A major client is Hilton International. She is also working on a M.A. in English at NYU. Betsy is a high school and college English teacher and receives graduate program at Berkeley. Jim, married last summer to a fellow journalist, is a copy editor on the New York Times. Beth has recently seen Dorothy (Dotty) Hyman Robertson and her husband from Nashville. Also Zingman, Frances (Fritzi) Keller Mills, Estelle Parsons '49, Leona (Lea) Berlin Lehman '49, Virginia (Ginny) Berman Slaughter '48, Elaine Title Lowengard.

Dorothy has done several years of Echo Scarves since husband Mickey passed away. She works hard, travels a lot, enjoys living in NYC—going to museums, galleries, movies, theater and being near her children and friends.

Lois Papa Dudley is a full-time realtor and associate doing well despite the economic crunch. Volunteer work continues ad nauseam and includes the library board, the Audubon Park and Home Health Agency. Marshall Jr. graduated in May from Trinity. Liz took four high school track records with her to U of VT and placed in N.E. indoor regionalys in the pentathlon. Matthew is at private day school. Two 25th anniversaries: Marshall's as a lawyer and the Dudley's wedding anniversary.

Nancy Murray Roberts and husband John visited Argentina last April after a winter internship at No. Trust Co., Peter returned to Dartmouth to complete sophomore year. Julie spent first semester studying in London, returning to finish junior year at Bucknell.

Dorothy Globus has spent the winter slaving as associate producer on a three-hour TV special, For the Last Time starring Jason Robards presented May 4 on NBC.

Alice Hess Crowell journeyed through beautiful Northern Ireland last fall. She works at the Univ. City Science Center, a unique consoritum owned urban research park, research institute and real estate development. Family is spread all over the U.S. Two Drop in from college on occasion. Alice sees Dorothy Holfinger who is teaching math and Jane Baker Clark in OR, to Montana with friends to dig for sapphires are also planned. Edith jogs 3 miles a day, does much board work both local and statewide.

Francis (Sis) Lee Dougherty writes the closest she will get to reunion is seeing Jane Keeler Hawes in St. Croix this May, a celebration for the Osbornes' 25th. Their high school senior is the only child at home.

Shirley Hossack Van Winkle's son Dave, a Phi Beta grad of Colby, is a Ph. D. candidate in physics at the U. of CO. Susan is in her 3rd year at the Pitzer School of Arts. Tommy is in junior high school. The Van Winkles plan a western trip this summer. Shirley serves as chairman of the Regional Board of Education, work which is interesting, time-consuming but lacking in financial reward.

Edith Kolodny Block looks forward to her 30th on her way to Spain to visit son Matt, who is spending junior year in Sevilla. 'Will have 4 1/2 week trip 'entodas partes.' "Trips to see son Jason at Lewis and Clark in OR, to Montana with friends to dig for sapphires are also planned. Edith jogs 3 miles a day, does much board work both local and statewide.

Susan little Adamson's first child finished college and is doing well despite the economic crunch. Volunteer work continues ad nauseam and includes the library board, the Audubon Park and Home Health Agency. "Career/Life Alternatives" in New Haven. Two partners share their problems and solutions. After receiving a contract from the V.A. to counsel eligible Vietnam veterans and dependents. Daughter Lisha is finishing UConn Law School, Andrea works at Saks in Philadelphia, and July and Anna are in Miami. In the meantime, she has taken on a new challenge of changing the face of New Haven with his building renovation hobby.

Elise Miller Palmer, along with Russell, his son and husband Bob, also visited Spain to attend a family reunion in Echo Scarves since husband Mickey passed away. She works hard, travels a lot, enjoys living in NYC—going to museums, galleries, movies, theater and being near her children and friends.

Linda Slade is planning to go to Spain to attend a family reunion in Echo Scarves since husband Mickey passed away. She works hard, travels a lot, enjoys living in NYC—going to museums, galleries, movies, theater and being near her children and friends.

Robert Donald Gehrke Anber's son Tom, who will he married this May, a celebration for the Osbornes' 25th. Their high school senior is the only child at home.

Shirley Hossack Van Winkle's son Dave, a Phi Beta grad of Colby, is a Ph. D. candidate in physics at the U. of CO. Susan is in her 3rd year at the Pitzer School of Arts. Tommy is in junior high school. The Van Winkles plan a western trip this summer. Shirley serves as chairman of the Regional Board of Education, work which is interesting, time-consuming but lacking in financial reward.

Edith Kolodny Block looks forward to her 30th on her way to Spain to visit son Matt, who is spending junior year in Sevilla. 'Will have 4 1/2 week trip 'entodas partes.' "Trips to see son Jason at Lewis and Clark in OR, to Montana with friends to dig for sapphires are also planned. Edith jogs 3 miles a day, does much board work both local and statewide.

Francis (Sis) Lee Dougherty writes the closest she will get to reunion is seeing Jane Keeler Hawes in St. Croix this May, a celebration for the Osbornes' 25th. Their high school senior is the only child at home.

Shirley Hossack Van Winkle's son Dave, a Phi Beta grad of Colby, is a Ph. D. candidate in physics at the U. of CO. Susan is in her 3rd year at the Pitzer School of Arts. Tommy is in junior high school. The Van Winkles plan a western trip this summer. Shirley serves as chairman of the Regional Board of Education, work which is interesting, time-consuming but lacking in financial reward.

Edith Kolodny Block looks forward to her 30th on her way to Spain to visit son Matt, who is spending junior year in Sevilla. 'Will have 4 1/2 week trip 'entodas partes.' "Trips to see son Jason at Lewis and Clark in OR, to Montana with friends to dig for sapphires are also planned. Edith jogs 3 miles a day, does much board work both local and statewide.

Susan little Adamson's first child finished college and is doing well despite the economic crunch. Volunteer work continues ad nauseam and includes the library board, the Audubon Park and Home Health Agency. "Career/Life Alternatives" in New Haven. Two partners share their problems and solutions. After receiving a contract from the V.A. to counsel eligible Vietnam veterans and dependents. Daughter Lisha is finishing UConn Law School, Andrea works at Saks in Philadelphia, and July and Anna are in Miami. In the meantime, she has taken on a new challenge of changing the face of New Haven with his building renovation hobby.

Elise Miller Palmer, along with Russell, his son and husband Bob, also visited Spain to attend a family reunion in Echo Scarves since husband Mickey passed away. She works hard, travels a lot, enjoys living in NYC—going to museums, galleries, movies, theater and being near her children and friends.

Linda Slade is planning to go to Spain to attend a family reunion in Echo Scarves since husband Mickey passed away. She works hard, travels a lot, enjoys living in NYC—going to museums, galleries, movies, theater and being near her children and friends.
an architect. Laura plays squash and tennis "as much as the middle-aged legs will let me." Husband Sam is the manufacturing vice president for Cains and keeps New England in mayonnaise and pickles. Their oldest, Sam Jr., is at Clark College. The twins graduate this year from high school.

Rosemary Dunne Kelly is taking part in a 90-hour intensive real estate course sponsored by the Conn. Ass'n of REALTORS. Completion of the course leads to the nationally recognized "Graduate, REALTORS' Institute" designation.

Shirley Kline Wittmann has gone from an "ex-52" to a "delayed 52"-a full-legged "79," having returned to C.C. to complete her degree requirements. Shirley is now working for her husband Jack in the office of his manufacturing plant. Shirley's oldest daughter graduated from C.C. and is now assistant dean of students at Grinnell College; another daughter is teaching at Lake Forest Country Day School; one son is at Johns Hopkins Medical School, and the youngest is a sophomore at Washington & Lee.

Julie Russillo Hathaway has been living in Brussels since 1976 and loves it. Her husband Warren retired from the Army in May and they will fly directly to CA to attend their son's graduation from Santa Clara U. From there they'll go to Monmouth, ME, where they will take over a small family elder mill. Their other son, Tom, will graduate from CO State U. in Dec.

Emilie Starke Piper moved to an apartment on a farm in Alford, MA. Besides her work as a regional school librarian, she is researching the "evidence of farms, mills, charcoal pits, old lumber roads and stone walls, even a gold mine in these wonderfully wooded hills which are my back yard," Emilie's family is grown—one child a businessman in Houston, one in graduate school, one dancer and the youngest daughter a technician for Eastern Artificial Insemination Co.

Janice Well Libman's daughter Julie is a freshman at the U. of Richmond and Karen a junior in high school. Jan's husband Al is accounting manager for a law firm.

Dorothy Ann (Bunny) Wood Price is an avid traveler. Bunny recently did the college search tour with a niece, which included C.C. She found that everything seemed smaller than she remembered.

The class extends its sympathy to Bunny whose brother died recently and to Jane Wilson Shackford on the death of her husband. Jane sent the following message too late for inclusion in the last notes: "It is with great regret that I write of the many people in the Connecticut College community that have continued to sustain and comfort me since the sudden and untimely death of my husband Charles, a professor of music at the college since 1965. Daughter Nancy, C.C. '78, a full-time social worker and a children's theater director, has returned home to help for a while."

Sue Scott (Mrs. James R. Glassco [Elizabeth Brandeis], 1024 Pine Hill Rd., McLean, VA 22101)

54

Mae Wright Holdridge moved to Houston where David is pastor of a Lutheran church. Mary teaches 1st grade. Their children are at Texas A&M and in high school.

Diane MacNelle Dryden has one son living near Chicago and another who is a musician in NY. The Drydens live in MI.

Joan (Kelly) Britton Cox and husband retired to FL. They spend summers in NC and Feb. in Mexico. Two daughters are married, one is at William & Mary, and one is still at home.

Jeanne Knitel Walker works part-time in a sport shop. Frank's job as a manufacturing manager is just two blocks from Disneyland. Their son is an artist for Kawasaki.

Elisabeth Koulomzin Lopuchin is social services coordinator at a nursery school. Michaela is a psychotherapist. Their daughters are away at school, one in Montreal and one at C.C. Their son is at home.

Nancy Powell Beaver and Bill live with their three children on 48 acres near Waterford, VA. They garden, raise cattle and horses. Nancy does free-lance writing, editing and public relations; traveled lately to Peru and Switzerland. Bill is a professor of pharmacology at Georgetown.

Evelyn (Eve) Stevie Barrett lived for 6 months last year in Brazil with her husband and youngest daughter. They now live in Memphis. Her oldest daughter is a cellist in the Boston area; son Jeffrey is a college senior; son Peter a college freshman.

Marcia (Mush) Bernstein Siegel is teaching a course on Doris Humphrey's choreography at the Graduate Drama Div. of NYU School for the Arts; also does reviews for the Soho Weekly News. She has lectured and spoken at Goldsmith's College, London; the Nat'l Dance Guild in Washington, D.C., and at the C.C. summer session.

Diane Lawrence Jonardi and mechanical engineer husband Raymond live in Philadelphia, have two children; their daughter is a junior at Stetson U. and their son is a high school senior.

Katherine (Kate) Webster Troast and husband Art, a Superior Court judge, have four children: a daughter studying landscape design after graduating from Madison College; a daughter studying theater and comfort me since the sudden and untimely death of my husband Charles, a professor of music at the college since 1965. Daughter Nancy, C.C. '78, a full-time social worker and a children's theater director, has returned home to help for a while."

Correspondent: Mrs. James R. Glassco (Elizabeth Brandeis), 1024 Pine Hill Rd., McLean, VA 22101

Connecticut's family tree
Alumni relatives in the class of 1983

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Relationship</th>
<th>Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Todd Bank</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sara Barrett</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sarah Becker</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deborah Black</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stephen Busher</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>James Claus</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John Cohen</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Catherine Crow</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laura Davis</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Geoffrey Farrell</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carol Fine</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrea Florey</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christophe Georges</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hans Gibson</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Glenn Glass</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elizabeth Gorvine</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claudia Gould</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Christopher Hamblett</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greg Hartvigsen</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lynn Herrick</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Hoffman</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anthony Iannotti</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caroline Kercher</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jeremy Kramer</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blair Landau</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ernest Levenson</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andrew Mann</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nancy Maxwell</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert Newbold</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Janet Phillips</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Calvin Pond</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary Reardon</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edith Taylor</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jocelyn Taylor</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Megan Vosburgh</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steven Wilson</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Janet Frost Bank</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Mary (Betty) Beck Barrett '51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mary Elizabeth Barrett</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td>Steve Dennis Becker '82</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Patricia Grossman Black</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Catherine Ann Myers Busher '55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toby Elizabeth Claus</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td>Jeffrey Alan Cohen '76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ann Henry Crow</td>
<td>Daughter</td>
<td>Mary Ann Wopert Davis '55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elizabeth Mary Davis</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Diana Dow Farrell '56</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nancy Moss Fine</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td>Peter George Florey '80</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Audrey Bateman Georges</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Linda Stallman Gibson-Geller '60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sharon O'Gorman Glass</td>
<td>Sister</td>
<td>Enid Sivigly Gorvine '54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Susan M. Gorvine</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Christine Andrea Gould '79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mark Manning Hamblett</td>
<td>Brother</td>
<td>Katherine R. Gould '81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nan Bawden Hartvigsen</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Nancy Herrick Gruber '66</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Robert G. Hoffman</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Lucie Hoblitzelle Iannotti '57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Matthew Kercher</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Frances Koepfgen Kercher '72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Karen Kercher</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Philip Kercher '72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nancy Alderman Kramer</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Matthew Kercher '79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barbara Gordon Landau</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Nancy Alderman Kramer '52</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jana Honey Levenson</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Virginia Gordon Landau '55</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rhoda Fried Mann</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Jean Ann Maxwell '77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Richard Newbold</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Nancy Newbold '77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Alexander Newbold</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Joan Campbell Phillips '51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hartley Linwood Pond</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Michael J. Reardon '78</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ann Wakeman Taylor</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Hugh Gibbs Taylor '81</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gregory Paul Taylor</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Barbara Vosburgh Omohundro '72</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Barbara Vosburgh</td>
<td>Son</td>
<td>Nancy Vail Wilson '51</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Have we left you off this listing? If so, please let us know—this is all the information we've been able to gather.
and counselor, have two daughters. Lyn, Lehigh '78, does public relations for Lord and Taylor. Ellen, Ohio Wesleyan '79, is a mental health counselor. Nancy has recently been doing research for her husband.

Joan H. Halbower, a basic researcher in developmental immunology at the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Research Center and teaches in the graduate school of Cornell Medical College. She skis and plays tennis when possible and cooks at Colgate and in the house where she has a home.

Elizabeth Sager Burlem and Bill spent two weeks in Nov in Barbados. One daughter is a senior at Northern AZ U. and another a sophomore at Cal-Stato. Chico. Bill is a former Naval Air Traffic controller at the Naval Air Reccon Facility in San Diego. Betty is pres. of Cor再到 Chapter of Children's Home Society and treasurer of church altar guild. She does publicity for local library.

Kathryn Hull Easton and husband Peter live in Singapore where he is the U.S. Defense Attachée. Kathy describes Singapore as "a garden city—clean, green, with an economic progress to be envied throughout the world".

End Sivigly Gorvín's daughter graduated from C.C. in May.

Pamela Kent Lant lives in Palo Alto. She visited Norma Harried Richards in MD. Norma's son is in med school at the U. of MD.

Patricia McCabe O'Connell lives in NJ. She and daughter visited the C.C. campus. Clare Hallach England for the Hawaii Chamber of Commerce. Ray is a lawyer and scout master. Their sons are at OR State, in high school and junior high. Martina (Tina) Child Reynolds, in Poughkeepsie. M'Lee's daughter stayed with us one year. Older daughter is a legal secretary. Younger daughter and son are in high school.

Mildred (MTJ.e) Catledge Sampson and Bob spent a weekend with Frank and Kathryn (Kitty) White Skinner in Poughkeepsie. MTJ.e's daughter stayed with Ann Regan Weeks in Georgetown while she was apartment hunting. Ann works for HUD. He has a daughte-r at William and Mary and a high school. The Sampsons also spent a weekend with Les and Lois Keating learned.

Correspondent: Mrs. Rollin Harper (Dorothy Knapp). 4027 Wessaway Dr., Lafayette Hill, PA 19444

56

Eleanor Erickson Ford and family returned to NJ after three years in TX. Daughter Laurie is a sophomore at Colgate and son Eric is in high school.

Marsden Williams Gresham is membership chairman of the Richmond Artists' Ass'n. She enjoyed June 1979 in Spain.

Jacqueline Jenks McCabe is a teachers' aide in the English classes at a high school in Grosse Pointe, helping the students with their writing.

Linda Jo Cooper Roemer is still teaching Sunday School creatively still teaching and is the happiest bank president's wife around.

Laura Elliman Patrick has two daughters at Dartmouth. Her youngest is a senior in high school. Laura and husband Albie have between them 9 children, but Laura has grown to add that most of them are grown and out of the nest.

Suzanne Gerber Offit is the assistant director of admissions at Colgate College. Suzanne says it is to extol the virtues of a woman's college—she just has to think back 25 years. The Offit's eldest son is a sophomore at Emory U.

Joy Schults Scher is teaching high school science in Roslyn, NY. Joyce's husband and Martin opened his own labor law practice on L.I. Arnold and Naomi Bickstein Pollock and family joined the Schers for the Passover holiday.

Abson Chamberlain Ogilvie is involved in indexing information for the genealogical study of the Chamberlain family. A project she expects will last about two years.

Carole Awan Hunt is about to become chairman of the board of Spence School in NYC. She is working for George Bush and running a decorating business.

Naomi Bickstein Pollock is a medical social worker in a Tensay hospital and serves on a mental health committee. Husband Arnold is an adjunct prof. of marketing and management at Rutgers and runs an executive search firm.

Sarah (Sally) Dawes Hauersson was the first person from C.C. to run for the Board of Education in New England. She was married in May and has been pres. of the radio station. Sally is working to improve the court system in Columbus, OH through an organization called Court Watching.

Mary Jo Wolfrum is a local resident in real estate in Cranford, CT. Her son sells commercial real estate in CT, one daughter is in college in FL and their other daughter is a sophomore at Northfield-Mount Her-mont. Mary Jo and Jim vacaioned for three weeks in Key Largo.

Nancy Stewart Roberts continues to teach Spanish in high school and is taking a group of students to Mexico in April. Nancy and her eldest daughter is at UCSC. Their other children are a senior and a sophomore in high school and a 5th grader.

Ann (Bonny) Fisher Norton and family sailed round trip to England on the QE2 last summer, toured southern England and Wales by car and then rented a narrow boat and cruised the English canal system. One of their children spent the summer in Switzerland visiting friends and biking.

Gayle Greenlaw Ingham is office manager and classified sales rep. for the Lifeshire Enquirer. Her eldest is living in Knoxville and her three boys, 17, 15 and 14 are at high school.

Heidi Schweizer Ely and family spent 1979 living in Europe. Husband Bob's law firm has a sabbatical program, so they traveled through five countries. Heidi was able to revisit many places of her family and family from her junior year in Geneva. She saw Margaret (Margee) Zellers Lenci a number of times.

Joan Winchester Maddox and Bill's children include a son 20 working in parttime college student, a daugh- ter 19 at Auburn, and a 14-year-old. Bill and Joan are planning a safari to Africa.

Barbara Jenkins Greenman is embarking on a career in FL real estate. Her eldest is at the UNH and two children are in high school.

Jill Long Leinbach, our class agent, sent a list of 15 young people who have married daughters of classmates, current-ly enrolled at C.C. "At the last Alumni Council meeting, one of the highlights was the opportunity to meet with Legacy Children." Along with Jill at that meeting last Oct, were Betty Ann Smith Tyler, Joan Walton Leavenworth and Anne Godfrey Simmity.

Correspondent: Mrs. Alison Collard (Julia Conners). 15 Central Dr., Plandome, NY 11050

58

Kathryn Rafferty Tollerton is chief of the legis-lative staff of science and education for the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in DC. She handles the legislative and congressional liaison activities for the agency.

Nancy Dorian has now and acting chairman of the German Dept. at Bryn Mawr, will have a book published this fall on the process of linguistic extinction. This summer will find her in Scotland on another grant to do an oral history project for a book. Her spare time is spent as our active AAGP chairmen.

Nancy Ellsworth Peterson writes from Bellevue, WA, of her plans to marry Dr. Jerome T. Jerome, a periodist. She is 16 at VFI Academy, and daughter of kitchen 's home. Nancy enjoyed a ski trip to Mt. Bachelor, OR, this winter.

Mary Jane Driggs Pacholczyk enjoys life in Tucson. Her family, which includes children 15, 14 and 14, escape some of the hot summer in a cabin in the woods of the Apache Reservation in northern AZ. They attended the C.C. meeting in Tucson and saw the lovely slides of the city.

Penelope (Peggy) Foulds Barrett Barilla is director of financial aid at Cazenovia College in Syracuse. Her four children are: David, a senior at Alfred U.; Laura, a freshman in fashion design at the Fashion College; Kristin, who will be a junior at Alfred U. and who sings and plays guitar professionally; and Linda, a freshman in high school. M.F., sailed a 34-foot sloop for two weeks in the Bahamas. In summer she crewed for races.

Carol Fuhrer Beitz. was director of the program in Pittsburgh last year for the International Year of the Child, and got her M.S.W. at Pitt in 78. There are still three boys at home, one in Paris, one at U. of WI. She sees Ann Woolfolk Austin at meetings. Ann is very busy in the community.

Evelyn Evist Sailer writes from Schenectady that she still uses her daughter's teaching plans in Albany Academy for Girls and participating in chamber music groups. She has been studying the viola for five years. Her three boys are all teenagers. Gerhard is currently in his first year of his degree at RPI.

Sadly we must announce that Margaret (Peggy) Porter Mitchell died on Oct. 18, 1979 in Boston. She is survived by her husband Richard, one son and two daughters.

Co-correspondents: Mrs. Harold Stein (Elaine Wolf), 2420 Parallel Lane, Silver Spring, MD 20904, Mrs. Neil Kendall (Mildred Schmidman), Qrs. 122-1, Governors Island, NY 10004

60

Yes Virginia, there is a spirit of the class of 60. Forty alumnae appeared for our 20th reunion, eight squirmed their husbands. Betty Moss Burr came in from San Francisco: Sally Glanville Train, our new class agent, came up from Atlanta.

Mary Ann Fuller Young, class pres., Dorothy Ot- tis Dabney, v.p. and reunion chairman; and Marion Fitz-Randolph Coat made the reunion a great success. Sat. night at the rec center was lighted 'tea' and the Friday night party at Nan's Bald Ripley's home were the social highlights of the weekend.

We discovered, and were reminded by Britta Schein McNemar, pres. of the Alumni Ass'n, that we "had not changed at all" since graduation. We were fascinated by our many new careers, hobbies and variety of life-styles. We found ourselves sitting in dorm rooms till 2 A.M. sharing memorabilia, old letters, scraps and family pictures.

During the weekend we were well represented in alumni events by two of our classmates. Cynthia Elias, professor of government and international rela-tions at Clark U., gave a brilliant lecture entitled "America's World Power: A Non-Renewable Resource," and Frances Gillmore Pratt was part of a spirited panel discussion on careers.

Co-correspondents: Deborah Stern Persels, 10140 Colebrook Ave., Potomac, MD 20854; Edith Chase Fentom, 1206 Glenside Ave., Wilmington, DE 19803

MARRIED: Barbara Platz to David G. Wil- liams 1/3/76; Susan Rosenberg Weiner to Allen Ghlitterman 12/22/79.

BORN: to Ephraim and Barbara Edwin Weinstein, a daughter 1/12; to David and Carla Persets Elyes, David Per Emanuel 10/25/77 and Linnea Anne 8/22/79; to David and Barbara Platz Williams, Ben- jamin Rigg 1/14/79.

Ruth Adess Grossman is teaching a Great Books class and has enjoyed interviewing prospective C.C.ers. Irene Alexander Lutz has taught history and English for five years in a private school. She traveled to Eng- land last summer.

Ruth Andrettler Yatzlrests Western MI U. School of Social Work.

Mary Amsell Doll will celebrate completion of her Ph.D. in history of education from Syracuse this summer with a trip to Europe. Anne Bailey Corcoran is a reading coordinator who works with both gifted and talented and remedial children in grades 6-8.

Judith Basewitz Therman is planning the curriculum for a French school in her home for young children.

Patricia Bordey Wilte works as an orthopedic RN and is trying to establish a hospice in her area of MI.

Marcia Brazenia Littenberg teaches at Empire St. Col-lege while working on her Ph.D. in English at SUNY.

Louise Blackley Phippen is head teacher at a nursery school and a sales rep. of her garden club, is responsible for a civic beautification project.

Deborah (Debbie) Brown PilloGE is a special ed teacher for retarded teenagers and in the summer lives aboard her family sailboat on a Mexican adventure.

Barbara Burris is a special assistant to Rep. Fassell of FL and travels often to Europe and the Middle East on vacations.
Carolyn Carey Malone substitute teaches and is founding editor of a monthly newsletter for talented and gifted children at the School of Allied Health at Hartford Hospital in preparation for taking the ASCP national board courses and renewed studies in biology while working in civil service.

Ann Morris Loring is teacher and receptionist for the DE Nature Education Society.

Linda Morris Toomey, a weaver, recently toured Japan and Korea displaying the crafts and folk art.

Carla Peterson Eyler travels extensively with her rector husband as a clergy representing team for Episcopal Marriage Encounter.

Judith G. Loper recently moved to Edina, MN, near Minneapolis. Before leaving the East, Beob visited Suzanne (Suz) Rich Beatty who is pres. of Junior League of Northern Westchester.

Barbara Platou Williams traveled around the world before the birth of her son.

Dale Pollock Cozzad, who is pres. of the Corning branch AAWU, has been instrumental in starting a gifted children group in the public schools.

Anne Pope Stone teaches at L.A. city college and serves on the civic ballet company board.

Pamela Poppe Good does publicity and public relations for the Princeton Ballet when not fixing up a second Victorian house.

Sally Raymond Locke completed a master's degree in occupational therapy at B.U., and was affiliated with a V.A. hospital in Boston.

Elizabeth Richards Mundel has a landscape design business, Private Gardens, and is on the garden committee at the National Cathedral in D.C. Dixie is a docent at the National Gallery of Art.

Susan Schenker Weisbrod Ph.D. in 1976 and most recently worked as an administrative officer in financial management in Santa Barbara.

Bonnie Ross Fine is the project director of REP, a federal project dealing with special needs children in NYC.

Dara Zelier Perfli enjoy get-togethers with their children.

Cynthia Sacknow Gould has learned a high-level computer language and is a seniors sales representative with Xerox.

Lule (Gay) Salmon Laaback enjoys living in a high-level Creek, CA. and hiking in the environs.

Seyril Siegel has just returned from a recent trip to China by studying Chinese for the past two years. She is moving back to Latin America as Deputy Representative for Ecuador.

"All62's welcome in quioto." Seyril had a New Year's day reunion lunch with Susan (Susie) Robertson Richards in Lake George.

Marion Stafford Robinson works in real estate and as a counselor of her country women's political causes strives for hospital in the ERA.

Kathryn Stewart Ferris and her family have a happy, new outlook on life since becoming Mormons.

Susana Strickland Roark is taking courses to return to nursing.

Dorothy Swahn Williams is adapting to a small Southeast GA town after spending an idyllic year in Spain. She attended the world premiere of "Teresa Murugue's opera.

Ruth (Debbie) Swift Zike enjoys the SC low country where she is active with the USMCS Officers' Club.

Ellen Watson Payant was recently appointed to the Governor's Commission for Children, Youth and Families in Oklahoma City where she also is a zoocenter. Summer finds her paddle rafting and river running in Utah.

Sonja Solveig Weiland Stetson is in charge of public relations for the world press of the world was invited. This event was worked into a splendid family trip to London via the US. They've bought an old Beacon Hill property in Boston and are converting into condominiums. They plan to move to the country in the summer of 1983.

Dianne Hyde Williams dropped in last month with baby Peter and his two older brothers, Mike 5 and David 5, and moved to the Orient in Sept.

Pamela Goodman Blinks is still living and loving life in Brighton, So. Australia, with shipbuilding husband David, Alison 7 and Kathy 3. The Blakemore's sponsor a foster child in their home.

Sue Knowles Parker is a part-time gift shop bridal consultant and had the year's best Christmas tree in her house.

Joyce Heal Payer has been traveling all over the US, Europe and the Orient and is an expert in art history.

Anne Macdonald Hackett, who has been transferred to the Bank of Boston branch in Westwood Marquis Hotel and this summer will open a new radio program.

Dale Pollock Cozzad was recently appointed to the Bank of Boston branch in Westwood Marquis Hotel and this summer will open a new radio program.

Eleanor (Lee) Jones Wendell's husband Barry has been transferred to the Bank of Boston branch in Tokyo. They're packing up the gang. Ted 10, Sally 8, and Gus 4, and moving to the Orient in Sept.

Barbara Gristede Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group.

Barbara Greenfield is an MBA student at Pace U. and active with her local Democratic party.

Barbara Griselda Whipple teaches in a co-op nursery school and volunteers for AFS. She sees Maryann Donington Weyman often.

Betty Grossman got her Ph.D. in education from B.U. in 1979. She has a high school counselor and an elected town meeting member.

Sarah Gunn Flanagan is manager for an interior designer and does book layout and design for Dushkin Publishing Group. and mother career—redoing her J2-room house. filling it with affordable (!) antiques. growing vegetables and making down film and TV work and left NYC with a legacy of commercials and WNET news broadcasts to her credit. While living in NY, Carla saw Jane Ranallo Burton and Helen Epps.

Beatriz Outcalt lothrop is V.p. of J. Walter Thompson Co. in Maynard, MA. She finds it quite a change from

31

BORN: to Bob and Barbara Wooding Bose, Susan Ann 6/24/79; to Robert J. and Patricia Edwards Anderson, class VI' and reunion planning our Sweet Sixteen reunion to cover the secrets of the French approach to teaching elementary and H.S. biology. Running a Russian ballet classes. daily gym workouts (at lunch) and other activities.

The Unsinkable Molly Brown, The King of the Baskervilles, Paris Wav of Beauty

Diane (Chickie) Littlefield Berry lives in Lexington and is enrolled in an M.S. program at Smith.

Priscilla Stone Cutler, husband Buzz, Elizabeth 5½ and Jeffrey 6 mos. are heading back to MA after 18 enjoyable months in the Chicago area.

Susan Sharkey Hofmann is taking her NY real estate exam last May and worked until Catherine's birth in Nov. Husband Tom works at Oak Ridge Nat'l Lab and has developed a growing interest in home computers. David 10 and Joey 7 are avid basketball, soccer and track participants.

Judith Greenberg received her M.D. this June from SUNY Downstate Medical Center. This summer Judy will begin her residency in pediatrics at Children's Memorial Hospital, Northwestern U.

Mary Elizabeth (Molly) Walker Jackson lives with husband Walt, Tom 4 and Dave 7 in Columbus, SC.

Gail Weintraub Stern teaches fine arts in the local schools and does consulting work for a foundation in SF. Husband Robert is an independent book designer and producer who has his own graphics art business. Gail's son Gabriel 9 keeps her busy with his love for soccer, baseball, and gymnastics.

Susan Rankin Davis moved recently to HI where husband Jon is stationed as a dentist with the Navy. The Davises are enjoying travel in the Islands.

Paula Werblin Willcox lives in Cherington, Warwickshire, England, where husband Ray, an Air Force captain, flies F-111 fighter aircraft. David 9 and Daniel 6 attend the village school. The Willcoxes love country living in the hills of the Cotswold and have extended their stay through June 81.

Barbara Wooding Bose and her husband Bob own and run two hobby shops with Barbara's sister, Elizabeth Wooding Kontue 7½ and her husband Rich. The businesses are located in Burlington and Swanton, VT, where the Boses have built a house on Lake Champlain.

Terry Reimers Byrnes works at Manufacturers Hanover Trust in NYC. Terry's corporate planning position requires long hours but she loves it and claims that these are interesting times to be a banker. Husband Jim is also a banker, working for the Bank of Montreal in NYC. Though Terry and Jim live in the city, their small home in rural CT affords rest, relaxation and a change. Cathy Meyer is working for Bob Cohen at UC-Irvine. Carla spends her spare time tracking down film and TV work and left NYC with a legacy of commercials and WNET news broadcasts to her credit. While living in NY, Carla saw Jane Ranallo Burton and Helen Epps.
Lynn Miles owns and manages a craft shop called Samara and a hotel boutique, both in Stowe, VT. Ten years ago Lynn left her portfolio analyst position at Merrill Lynch to trade art and leave New York for the first two years there. She loved NY but also loves the country lifestyle and the beauty of VT.

Barbara Di Trollo Mannino, Ross, Keith 7 and Meredith 3 ran into Charles and Susan Cryst Scholhammer and their daughters 8 and 4 at Peter Pan in NYC. The Scholhammers live in Madison, CT, where Charles is a doctor.

Correspondent: Mrs. Ross J. Mannino (Barbara Di Trollo), 4 Old Smalleytown Road, Warren, NJ 07050

70 MARRIED: Janice Foster to J. Michael Gilmer 3/30/79; Elizabeth Bacchiocchi Landsman to Randi Lively 2/16/80; Suzanne Ruckman to Edward R. McBride 8/3/74; Suzanne Steenburg to Crawford Hill III 11/24/79; Chris Kozimor to Arna Davis 8/29/70.

BORN: to Thomas and Nancy Accola Ballantyne, Nina Mills, 11/20/78; to Walter and Mary-Jane Atwater Diercks, Emily Jane, 6/2/78; to Tom and Margaret Barnes-Nessa, Alanya Hope, 9/15/79; to Brock and Virginia Bergquist Landry, Clark Williams, 10/2/77; to Robert and Janice Blankstein Atkin, Nicol Tamar, 2/23/79; to Robert and Lynda Brackman Cooper, Abigail, 8/4/74; to David and Judith Bricker Selbert, Andrew Davud, 9/18/79; to Toby and Diane Cappoldi Iupo Taylor, Adam, 1/31/79; to Richard and Karen Chintz Cohen, Elizabeth, 9/5/78; to Richard and Margaret Larkins Sweeting, Elizabeth Hall, 4/28/80; to Stephen and Barbara Dion Buchner, Jennifer Lynn, 7/9/79; to Robert and Emily Eisenberg Karelitz, Jonathan, 1/17/80; to J. Michael and Janice Foster Gilmer, Nicole Maya, 2/22/80; to John and Christine Heilmann Rakalar, Luke Heilmann, 8/5/76; to Chris Kozimor and Arna Davis, Melissa Marie, 12/21/77 and Sara Christine, 1/7/80; to Edward and Suzanne Ruckman McBride, Brett Edward, 4/6/78; to David and Nancy Simon Fulton, Julie Anna, 5/23/77; to Donald and Sharon Sweet DeLucas, Peter, 6/9/79.

Our 10th reunion had one theme running through it, everyone's reaction to everyone else: "You look just the same!", in spite of shorter haircuts and trimmed pounds. There were 57 in attendance, the most representation of any class, thanks to the efforts of Barbara Hermann and Susan Lee, our co-chairmen of reunion. Class activities included a wine and cheese party in Marshall Dining Hall and a class dinner at Anthony's Steam Carriage, the restaurant inside the newly remodeled train station. What a metamorphosis! We enjoyed the weekend, and the new campus additions, but missed those who weren't there.

Our new class officers are: Gwendolyn Goffe, Pres.; Mary-Jane Atwater, v.p. and reunion chairman; Karen Blackwede Knowlton, class correspondent; Susan Lee, treas.

Nancy Accola Ballantyne does volunteer conservation work in Concord, MA. She and Tom raise all their vegetables and a few animals.

Janet Allen is a Spanish lecturer at Blackpool College in England and recently had a visit from Valerie DeVuyyst.

Mary-Jane Atwater is working on her MBA at George Washington U.

Deborah Beumont Schmidt, living in Helens, MT, is a senior research analyst in land use planning for the Montana Legislative Council and busy with civic and political organizations and her 4-year-old son Carey.

Pamela (P.J.) Knapp, in Santa Monica, is a self-employed planning and grants consultant.

Chris Kozimor Davis is a contract programmer-analyst in OR.

Susan Kruger studies ballet and mime, and is the art and entertainment editor of a MI weekly newspaper serving four colleges.

Karen Kuskin is a guidance counselor at Brookline H.S. and maintains close ties with the Conn. admissions office.

Katharine Ludd Smith teaches 6th grade at a girls' school in Melbourne, Australia. Husband Ian is a linguistics lecturer at Monash U.

Elizabeth Bacchiocchi Landsman-Libby is the coordinator of an outreach program for pre-school handicapped children, and does volunteer work with retarded adults.

Nancy Laun Perez teaches learning-disabled junior high students and is active in sports.

Susan Lee, with an MBA from Wharton, is in renovating an old apartment building which they bought and live in.

Sally Liebig (now legally that name) is the director of housing at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical U. in Prescott, AZ. She is working on her M.A. in management and enjoys hiking, country riding, and developing skills necessary for self-sufficient living.

Susan Locke Soffer is the supervisor of the Social Services Planning Unit for the city of Austin, while her husband completes his Ph.D. She enjoys ballet, jogging and travel.

Linda Manning Kennedy lives in rural ME with her husband and 6-year-old daughter and directs the Kennebec County Youth Employment Program. She still enjoys sports, especially mountain hiking and volleyball.

Barbara Boles is director of student employment at Gordon College and active in church work and the Castle Hill Music Festival.

Lynda Brackman Cooper does social work in the pediatrics dept. of a hospital. She is on the board of directors of two local social agencies and has done volunteer work with community youth services.

Carol Brennan Stephens and Richard live in Herley-Thames, England, with their three children. She is a childbirth education teacher and runs her own small company making embroidery kits.

Amelia (Lee) Marks in NYC is part owner of a private fine arts company that deals with 19th and 20th century photography.

Louise (Weslee) McClure Mackay and James live in Atlanta. She is an attorney and has two children, Med and Jamie.

Helen Turner Means taught math for four years after graduation, a welcome change from substituting. When her husband retired from the Navy, she retired also and now keeps busy with occasional substitute teaching, traveling, doll collecting and the garden club and her grandchildren. Her daughter recently got an M.S. in computer science with a 4.0 average.

Dianne Zwicker Edwards works for the Customs Service in DC in trade agreements, while Dick is an environmental and energy consultant. She is pursuing a DBA in international business at George Washington and keeps busy gardening and raising animals on their 20 acres.

Martha Young Hasselbacher is a self-employed professional artist of limited edition prints and director of education for the Leaguette of NH Craftsmen. She, Peter, David 6½ and Matthew 5 live in Hanover.

Judith Bricker Selbert is a systems engineer at IBM in Atlanta. She enjoys sports cars rallies and races and restoring old houses.

Carol Campbell is special assistant to the principal deputy director of the HEW Office for Civil Rights in Washington.

Frances Cary Lukens teaches nursery school part-time and is a full-time homemaker and mother of two boys. She works with a food coop and enjoys aerobic dancing and boating.

Martha Beh Berardino is a senior research ass't at Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. Living close to the city, she can attend concerts and ballet.

Lynne Melville is an environmental scientist at American Cyanamid in Wayne, NJ. She keeps in touch with Lisa Rowe who works in chemical marketing research, water pollution control and hazardous waste management.

Suzanne Ruckman McBride, working for her Ph.D. in learning and cognition at U. of DE, is a research assistant in the Educational Psychology Dep't. Her son Brett helps with her special interest in the relationship of play and learning. She and Ed just had a Beck House built, which they are finishing themselves.

Barbara Boles, marketing coordinator for the Boston Gas Co., spends volunteer hours as a Boston tour guide.

Melissa Ryan Groence does volunteer work at Lake Forest Hospital and for various Chicago children's organizations.

Patricia Salmons, living in Cambridge, is an industrial hygienist for G.E.

Dav Merritt is assistant director of admissions and advising at NVU. Graduate School of Business, and in her spare time enjoys running, yoga, dance and the human potential movement.

Mary Clarity is librarian in the Justice Dept. against division.

Karen Chintz Cohen started her own business called BERMUDA IN MAY

May 21-26. Six days, five nights at the oceanfront Ariel Sands Beach Club. Airfare from Boston, Hartford or New York; transfers; breakfast and dinner daily, hotel taxes and gratuities are included. Projected cost: $599 per person (double occupancy limited). 50 participants. The Ariel is in Devonshire Parish, a cottage colony on the south shore. Private beach, air-conditioned guest rooms, breakwater with salt-water pool. Most delightful! Deposit $50 by Oct. 15. Payments refundable until March 15.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>First</th>
<th>Maiden</th>
<th>Married</th>
<th>Class</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Address</td>
<td>Zip</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Please reserve</td>
<td>spaces</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Name of guest(s)</td>
<td>Make check payable to: Connecticut College Alumni Association Box 1624, Connecticut College New London, Conn. 06320 (203) 443-4513</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
"In the Beginning," which makes hors d'oeuvres. She also runs the stationery and papers business at home.

Priscilla Christian Newbury works at the Scientists Inst. for Public Information in NYC. She and Bill enjoy tennis, gardening and fine cuisine. Leslie B. Booth and David live in Boston. She is resident in radiology at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, and describes her interests as tennis and "finding time to sleep."

Sarah Hunter Clash returned from England in time for reunion and will continue work on her Ph.D. from Berkeley. She plans to spend the summer in the South. Virginia Nelson is a management consultant planning new organizational and industrial psychology at the U. of New Haven this summer.

Cynthia Conrad, also in New Haven, is a psychiatrist resident in neurobiology. Regina O'Brien Thomas is a partner in a legal firm in Philadelphia and has two children, Rebecca 4 and Sarah 1.

Heidi Schiff Toby writes a children's art column in the Boca Raton News. Husband Peter is a newly practicing orthopedic surgeon. Her children, Kimberly 5 and Jennifer 1, keep her busy, along with lots of swimming, cooking and coursework in FL Atlantic U.

Pauline Schwede Assenza is an administrative services head for shipping and receiving at Nat'l Semiconductor. She owns and shows her horse in dressage.

Nina Simon Pulitzer is marketing services manager at a savings bank in Boston.

Mary Dick Bole, now head of the Cleveland Zoo Benefits, was formerly the head tennis pro at the Hall of Fame Tennis Center in Canton, OHI, and owned four tennis shops.

Linda Wilkins Carbone is treasurer and director of budget for Our School, Inc. in CO, as well as doing freelance art work.

Leslie Dahn Sundberg, pres. of the C.C. Club of Chicago, is on the board of directors of St. David's Nursery School and was nominated in 1975 for Outstanding Young Women of America. She swims and does catering.

Susan Derman Epstein is program director for implementation for the N.H. United Health Systems Agency.

Valerie Devaux is an independent potter, editor and freelance artist.

Barbara Dian Buchner is data processing consultant for Bradford Trust Co. in Boston.

Doris D'Orazio Hosie is full-time homemaker and mother of a daughter.

Emily Eisenberg Karelitz is an art consultant and Wellesley coordinator for "Hatch for Governor" campaign before Jonathon's birth. She is a member of the Inst. of Contemporary Art and is active in politics.

Gwendolyn O'Flaherty is a new prep. class pres., director of finance and planning for the Corcoran Gallery and School of Art in D.C. She received her MBA at Wharton in 1977.

Sue N. Ferguson Fuller teaches nursery school part-time and enjoys tennis, camping, crafts and her children.

Alana Flamer Fodeman is a legal administrator in her husband's legal office and program chairman for Brith Sholom sisterhood in Bridgeport. She keeps active in fitness classes and with gourmet cooking.

Janice Foster Gilmer took leave from her job as manager of the 1978 N.E. Telephone Co. in Nicolai's birthday. Janice is halfway to her MBA and enjoys gardening, weaving and quilting.

Elaine Frey Hester does fund raising and patient testing for eye disease research, plays tennis, cross-country ski and enjoys antique hunting. Husband John has an MBA from the U. of WI and is sales manager for a division of American Hospital Supply. They are busy with Bruce and plan to explore the Adirondacks region.

Jean Clancy Vaughn lives in MA and works for Ernst and Whitney in management consulting.

Mary Alice and Andrew recently moved to Ithaca where Andre teaches music at Cornell. Mary was part-time consultant in pre-school mental health and Headstart and continues to work for an "elusive M.A." Jane and James Stamford Merrill teaches chemistry lab at Mitchell College and is treasurer of the East Lynne Art League. Her paintings were exhibited at the Slater Museum in Southbury last several years. Husband John is assistant director of admissions at Conn., and daughter Jan is a senior.

Suzanne Steenburg Hill teaches at the Academy of Holy Names in Boston. She received her Ph.D. from Syracuse University in mathematics and is a research associate in medical biochemistry. having received his Ph.D. from Upstate Medical Center last May.

Janice Blankstein Atkin, living in London, is a part-time graphic designer.

Karin Lerner Lechner does fund-raising and planning with her sons' private school, while Bruce is v.p. in consulting firm.

Susanna Lewis Ferry is a self-employed stained glass artisan and waits tables in a French restaurant.

Joanne Branigan Orych-McKee teaches English in NJ and enjoys sports, photography and travel.

Mary Liebman Wolcott is an advertising executive with Young & Rubicam and enjoys cooking and travel.

Diane Lopes is government documents librarian at U. Mass.

Pamela Bliss, homed in Denver, is now Colorado Intertrade's Specialty Traders and travels abroad.

Margaret (Mardie) McCray is a feminist lawyer and has her own practice.

Margaret (Meg) Larkin's Sweeting and Richard enjoy their new daughter Elizabeth. They have been moving around the country for the last several years and are preparing to move again from New Haven to Wellesley where Meg hopes to settle down for a while. Current Address: Kentland 5, 5405 Ridge Ave., Bethesda, MD 20810.

BORN: to Roger and Barbara Camp Gatewood, Elizabeth Ann 2/21/80; to Carl and Nancy Hewes Tommaso, Laura 11/7/79.

Lisa Richter is a research associate for Opinion Research in St. Louis. Joh, home and her two-year-old daughter keep her busy.

Andrea Tencel is a recruiter for the American Red Cross in Rochester.

Katherine Thompson Otto teaches 2nd grade in Houston. They are busy redecorating their home for the second time. It was hit by a tornado three months after they moved in.

Lucy Thomson is trial attorney in the Civil Rights Div. of the Justice Dept., in cases involving persons in mental and physical disabilities, against minority and handicapped students. She belongs to the Women's Bar Ass'n of DC and has a graphics and interior design business.

Joanne Ward McCay is a campus volunteer with InterVarsity Christian Fellowship. She has two children, Todd 3 and Gwyneth Anne 1.

Margaret Welt is a fund-raising consultant to a children's hospital and does social work for the alcoholism field in NY.

Annette Whitney Rahn is senior market research analyst for Allstate in Palo Alto.

Randall Robinson, spotting a new short eulogy hasn't (she says it's natural that way), brought her daughter Casey to reunion. She does crisis work as a psychologist for the Fresno County (CA) Health Dept.

Judith Rogers Hatch works in marketing with Citibank and does volunteer work for the Wilton (CT) Historical Society and American Museum of Folk Art.

Janet Rome George directs a treatment program for disturbed boys at the George Royal School in St. Louis. Job, home and her two-year-old daughter keep her busy.

Karen Heilman Benazzo teaches Spanish in Montville and an ESL class to adults at Nuestra Casa in New London.

Tracy Reuben Walklet is resource analyst at the Stanford Research Inst. and does volunteer work with the elderly and environmental causes.

Christine Heilman Benazzo teaches Lamaze classes and is on the board of directors of Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind. She designs and makes patchwork quilts.

Barbara Rosens Liebenstock is an architect who works in firms and freelance. She is also program co-director of Alliance of Woman in Architecture.

Dale Ross Wang is a career counselor with the Westchester Educational Brokering Service and fills her off hours volunteering and raising four children.

Barbara Hermann works in the international finance division of Baxter-Travenol Laboratories. She is her condominium association secretary and spends her free hours running, painting and cross-country skiing.

Cynthia Howard Harvell is part-time administrative consultant to a child health clinic. Her interests are theatre and women's groups and studies pattern making and tailoring at the French Fashion Academy.

Barbara Keshen is assistant district attorney in Essex County, MA.

Margaret Bergquist Landry volunteers at a hospital and plays tennis and bridge. She is an officer of her neighborhood homeowners' ass'n and describes her #1 interest and time-consumer as her 2-year-old.

Margaret (Marcie) McCray is a feminist lawyer and has her own practice.

Margaret (Meg) Larkin's Sweeting and Richard enjoy their new daughter Elizabeth. They have been moving around the country for the last several years and are preparing to move again from New Haven to Wellesley where Meg hopes to settle down for a while. Current Address: Kentland 5, 5405 Ridge Ave., Bethesda, MD 20810.
Michael Ridgway and Mark Warren '75 organized the Fourth Annual Season Opener baseball game at Arboretum Field in Waterford in April.

David and Shannon Stock Shuman are living in the DC area. David is a consultant for R.E. Books & Associates, a firm specializing in transportation issues. Shannon is an international economist in the import administration area with the Commerce Dept. Their daughter is a constant delight.

Sandra Shahnin received her M.A. in international affairs from Columbia. She has worked at the United Nations and in public relations for the Armenian Church of America and most recently for a corporate art gallery. Husband James Leitner trades Euros元左右 by day and studies law by night. They have traveled to West Africa, Baja and the Canadian Rockies.

Richard Dvriste Blanchard taught music in the Weymouth public schools and traveled cross country one summer. She and her husband bought a house in Hanover (MA) and are happily raising son David.

Kevin and Lynee Rieger Mattern are well settled in Greensboro, NC, where Kevin is a systems manager for Kayser Roth. Lynee has become involved with weaving and teaching at the local arts center.

Carol Ramsey is Associate Director of Admissions at Vassar. She returns periodically to Conn to visit old friends in the Botany Dept.

Ann Taback Fairman is teaching 4th grade at North School in Groton. She is completing her M.A. at Conn. with a focus on the arts.

Mark Wasley received his J.D. from the U. of GA., practiced employment discrimination law in Atlanta and is now working in NYC. He sometimes sees Karen Davidson and George Atkinson.

Edward Polegan is a struggling writer in NYC. David Saniei is a graduate student at Washington U., specializing in American literature and teaching freshman composition. His outside interests include cooking, cross-country skiing and jogging.

Susan Sawtelle is a law student at U. of VA. She made law review and has had a note published. She plans to work in DC after graduation.

Helen Rowe is working at a travel agency in Cincinnati.

Jim Wiesenberg and wife Josie Curran '75 live in a small town south of Albuquerque. Their daughter Rose is a constant delight.

Jean Woodbridge Ward is working on a research project for the hematology division of Conn. U. Medical School. She loves living in NYC.

Joanne Wyss Gallagher received her Ph.D. in clinical psychology from the U. of AZ in 8/79. She is working in a group private practice in Phoenix. Husband John is an emergency room physician.

Susan Shane is a biologist in FL with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, studying manatees. She has bought a house in Titusville and is involved with running, surfing, and animal welfare.

Kathy Powell Cohn is communications manager with the Union Trust Bank in Baltimore, responsible for the annual report and various internal publications plus press relations and recreational activities for bank personnel.

Londe Richardson graduated from Yale Medical School in 1976 and is a resident in medicine at the U. of Washington. He and his wife Jamie Norris bought a house in Seattle and enjoy skiing at Banff.

Julia Bruning-Johns has recently moved to Kirkwood, MO, where she is busy remodeling their house and chasing after their toddler.

Faith Spence received her M.Ed. from Lesley College and taught in private schools in Boston for four years. She now teaches in a elementary public school in New Orleans.

Barbara Smith Noyes is minister of youth at the First Church of Christ in Westerfield, CT. She received an M.Div. from Yale.

Stephen Regev graduated from UConn Law School and is practicing general law in South Windsor, CT. He is local chairperson of the 1979-80 Heart Fund Drive.

Susan Lastar Rubenstein received the 1979 Mitath Award of the Jewish Family Service for her work on behalf of Russian Jewish Refugees. She has been elected for her leadership in organizing and administering JFS Russian Resettlement Program in the Stanford area.

Jeanne Stevens is organizer and director of music at the Hingham Baptist Church as well as a full-time member of the staff of Gray Library at Harvard. She has an M.A. from the New England Conservatory of Music. Jeanne gave the inaugural recital on the rebuilt organ at the New Castle Congregational Church in Darien, CT.

Cornelia Gilbert Zevros and husband Gary live in Athens, Greece, where Gary is in medical school.

Sharon Greene Cole received an M.S. from the U. of VA in 8/76. Husband Jim will soon finish his Ph.D. in biology. The Coles live in Woods Hole.

Kate Godfrey Weymouth received her B.A. and M.A. from Yale University, is working as a graphic designer for the RI Governor's Energy Office in Providence. Husband Scott is also a RISD graduate.

Jim Harliss is working for Digital Equipment in Meriden, running for the school board, a member of Rotary Intern and the “Meeting House Players,” a local theatre group started by his wife, Nina David Harliss.

Jim, Nina, daughter Meg and dog live in an old farmhouse in Chestertown.

Karlin Hemmingsen and husband Louis are busy renovating a house in Medford, MA. Karin is coordinator of a nutrition program for the elderly in a home care corporation in suburban Boston. Louis is a postdoctoral research fellow in biochemistry at MIT.

Sara Hutchinson lives in a small town south of Albuquerque, after having received a degree in anthropology from UNM. She spends most of her time dancing (modern and flamenco) at UNM. Other priorities are singing and sunshine.

Ann Carol Jacobs has taught high school English in NH. studied contemporary drama at the U. of London, and traveled in Europe. She has also been a newspaper reporter in a Boston suburb. worked in the social work field in NY, she has a degree in social work.

She is now teaching in an elementary public school in New Orleans.

June Slottger graduated from Lafayette College and is now a graduate student in psychology. She has held several offices in the Chapel Hill-Durham AAUW.

 deborah Pope-Lance received her M.Div. from Andover Newton Theological School in 1978 and was ordained to the Unitarian Universalist ministry. She is now minister at the First Unitarian Church of Trenton, N.J. She is a photographer for a commercial studio and does some free lance work.

Judith Viadela is pursuing a ma's degree in psychiatric social work at Smith after having worked for four years in London, hispano community in counseling and social services administration. She has recently seen Dora DeBlasi, Susan Majekia, Jo-Anne Bryant, A. Holmes, Cheryl Freedman and Sue Berge. Husband Louis is director of financial aid at Assumption Community College.

Cathy Menges Zanoun competed in the 1974 World Rowing Championships in Lucerne, Switzerland, placing 9th in the world, and rowed at Vesper Boat Club in Philadelphia with Anita DeFrantz and Becky Leiman. Cathy went to the 1975 World Championships in Nottingham, England, placing 6th, and was a member of the 1976 U.S. Olympic Team placing 6th in Montreal in the Women’s Four. In 1979 Cathy received her B.S. in nursing from U. Penn and moved to Portland. OR.

Janet Morse, Pam Stawbridge and Anita DeFrantz all participated in her wedding in 4/78. Cathy went to Oregon Historical Society in Portland, subsequently was curator of the American Collection at the Children’s Museum of Indianapolis. Carol and Jeremy returned to Stratford, CT. last August.

Douglas Milne left IBM after 53/4 years of selling computers and has joined the real estate and insurance firm of Shoff-Darby in New Canaan, CT. Doug, wife Sharon and son Jason live in a 240-year-old home in Fairfield, and plan to spend the rest of their lives restoring it. Sharon manages a restaurant in Darien. Janet Morse is marketing representative with IBM in Akron.
Jonathan Gold is Coastal Zone Management Coordinator for the U.S. Dept. of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, in DC.

James Neilen and wife Deborah Faye White '75 live in DC where he is a stockbroker with Dean Witter Reynolds.

Lorenzo Johnson is writing and doing odd jobs in Key West.

Dale Mackerras Constan-Gavarry is married and living in Paris.

Mark Grooten is co-producing On Golden Pond, a Broadway comedy, with his father. He plans to present Childe Byron this fall on Broadway. He is also working on his stone carving sculpture for an NYC exhibition at the end of the year.

Andrea Millwell studied dance at Juilliard and was with the Bat Dor Dance Co. in Israel. He married in Israel in 7/78, then returned to SF where he was with the marketing division of Standard Oil. Andrew entered Harvard Law School last fall.

Elissa Goldweitz is practicing law with Hopkins, Sutter, Mural, Davis and Cromanite in DC. She enjoys the single, young, professional life and has just purchased a condominium in Arlington.

Amy Guo Hsu is married and has two children. She is working on a M.A. in linguistics at Cal. State in Fullerton. Her husband is a real estate business.

Lori A. McCamish completed a degree in occupational therapy at U. Penn. and is now an occupational therapist in southern ME and NH.

D. Renee Michaud Fitch is completing an M.S. in nutrition at the University of Idaho in Moscow. She and husband Clair have a small farm and raise cows and chickens.

Caroline Kent received an M.S. from Simmons in 5/79 and is science reference librarian at Brandeis.

Pamela Gleason graduated from Tufts School of Medicine in 1978 and is now a pediatric resident at UConn in Farmington and Hartford. She is enjoying the program and even finds time to ski in VT on weekends.

Niki Holtzman has a master's degree in occupational therapy from B.U. and is a therapist for the Cambridge public schools. She and husband Stephen Salka, a special education teacher, live in Ayer, MA.

Diane Nettles is involved with the women's community in Berkeley and works with a Bay Area women's newspaper, Pixies. She sees Barbara Bull '73 and Patrice Duffy in Berkeley.

Nancy Hammell is doing a teaching internship at the Environmental Inst. of R.I. in Providence, R.I. The program combines environmental studies and literature activities for all age groups. In the spring of 1978 Nancy took a two-month trip around the world.

Karen Gordon is director of health education at Princeton University. Among her educational program training students as peer sex educators and dorm health aides. She also teaches two courses in health education at Teacher's College of Columbia U.

Bruce Garnant and Elizabeth live in Cleveland where they have opened a satellite office of Saturn Constitution Co. They would love to hear from any C.C. alumni in Cleveland.

Lydia Kuyser spent six months living in Brazil. She is now living in Greenwich, CT, and studying jazz piano in NYC.

Lisa Henriquez is resident manager and research assistant at the Virginia Islands Ecological Research Station at Lameshur Bay, St. John. She lives aboard her boat and spends her free time sailing.

Sherry Alpert is press sec. for the Mass. Office of Social Services. She has appeared on Good Morning America and other national TV shows discussing her experiences as a former abused wife.

Debra Stone Banerjee lives in Cambridge with husband and works in the Division for Study and Research in Education at MIT.

Carole Cook Rivlinus is teaching at the preschool level in Ipswich, MA.

Barbara footage is an associate instructor of corporate training at Travelers Insurance Co. in Hartford.

Cheryl Olsen completed her M.B.A. at Wharton last Dec.

Ellen Feldman is in her 3rd year as a financial analyst for Best Foods. She is studying for her M.B.A. at Fairleigh Dickinson in the evenings and also teaches adult education.

Sarah Deans Peck will complete her degree at North-ern Ill. U. in 7/80. Her husband received his Ph.D. in chemical engineering from Princeton.

Naomi Stein Howe is playing the violin and teaching yoga. Husband David is a supervisor at General Dynamics.

Deirdre K. Richardson is Program Director for the National Hemophilia Foundation.

Margareta Hamilton Turkevich lives within walking distance of the beach in Los Angeles. Husband Leonard is an assistant research physicist at UCLA.

The class extends its sympathy to the parents of Craig Foster Kearles whose death occurred in August 78.

Co-correspondents: Julita Brauning-Johns, 82 Heatherbrook Lane, Kirkwood, MO 63122; Carol A. Filice, 22 Benedict Ave., Eastchester, NY 10709; Margaret Hamilton Turkevich, 1908 Seventh St., Apt. 1, Santa Monica, CA 90403

75 BORN TO Howard and Sharon Gibbs Cooper, Deborah Lyn 1/15/80.

Though they hadn't seen each other for five years, it seems as if the class of '75 had never left Conn. They formed a group in December with 60 others. Rough Riders from '75 in the alumni activities so well organized by Virginia Leonhart.

Friday proved to be a quiet day with cocktail parties, dinner and a dance held in the new hockey rink. Some of the class members indulged in late night nostalgia by making the familiar drive to Mr. G's.

Saturay brought new arrivals from NY and other parts. After a relaxed lunch at the Harris Green, a softball game was organized in front of Harkness.

Nobody was sure whether the purpose was to play ball or to drink beer and catch up on five years of news.

The Sat. night dinner at Anthony's Steam Carriage included second-class food and first-class politcs.

Richard Cohn, the reigning class pres., nominated a new group of officers and the class unanimously voted them in. They include: Richard Dryfus, pres.; Benjamin Polan, treas.; Carin Gordon, class agent; Dona Wolf and Bill Thomson, class correspondents.

Carin Gordon organized an after-dinner party in the living room of Marshall. Little did anyone know that this party set the stage for an all-night revival from which there were few survivors. There were rumors circulating through the hallowed halls of Conn. about the strange and loud activities on the second floor of Marshall. Those in the know swear it was simply horseplay. Other persons weren't so certain and questioned what sort of horses party from sunset to sunrise.

The highlight of the weekend was an opportunity to see old friends in good health and successfully pursuing their individual work with the same spirit with which they left Conn five years earlier.

Co-correspondents: S. Thompson, 42 West 83rd St., Apt. 1B, New York, NY 10024; Donna Wolf, 300 E. 54th St., Apt. 14B, New, NY 10022

1976 MARRIED: Marc Gottesdiner to Marsha Faith; Robert (Hubby) Fuchsfeig to Sally Schneider 3/16/80; Barbara Green to Jeff Oddell 4/7; Thomas B. Chalmers to Patricia Merck 78; Marion Blatows to Richard Gilman; Katherine (Kacey) Jones to Ken Rudd 12/2/78; Nancy Wancic to Vic Romata.

Andrew Heningway is an operations manager for General Electric in San Diego, enjoying the "laid back" life of the West coast.

Sarah Burchall and Parmenter, having received an M.S. in early childhood education, is teaching at the Lesley-Ellis Preschool. She and husband Bruce live in Cambridge.

Tom Bowman Chamberlin and wife, Patience Merck Chamberlin '78, are living on a farm in Exeter, NH. Tom is in the lumber business. Patience is attending UNH.

Barbara Green is a medical social worker at UConn Health Center while husband Jeff is a medical resident at Hartford Hospital.

Lynd Cooley received an M.A. in biochemistry from U. Texas and has since worked in the initiation of a research lab at the university. In addition she is a member of a modern dance company that performs throughout Texas.

Deborah Adam Pifflner is in the consumer credit dept. at CT Bank and Trust Co.

Nancy Hershater received an M.Ed. in expressive therapies from Lesley College and is working in a group residence for retarded adolescents in E-Gardens.

Sharon M. Joyce graduated from NYU Law School and is now working for the NJ attorney general. Her husband John is in a family practice residency in Summit, NJ.

Marc Gottesdiner is a commercial manager for a Hartford real estate firm and owns three properties near the State Capitol. His wife Marsha is regional coordinator for the CT Teachers Center for Humantarian Education.

Nancy Freehette Gula is a technical writer at General Dynamics-Electric Boat Division in Groton.

Samuel Adelman is a lawyer and insurance man for Warner Penn Life Insurance Co. and legal representative for the NY Yankees.

Chandra Denenb erg is a special ed. teacher living in Cambridge.

Marc Heitner graduated from Cornell Med. School and is moving to Denver to intern in internal medicine.

Wife, Deborah Raines Heitner '74, plans to attend grad school, having served as a consultant on child abuse to both federal and state governments in Rochester.

David Alden is a trevelling sales representative for Ford in the Allentown-Bethlehem area.

Nancy Margaret Grant is dancing with the San Diego Ballet Co. Dance Theater Jazz Ensemble and a modern dance company. She received her master's in dance education in 1979 from Iowa U. and is teaching at San Diego State and U.S. International U.

Kate Ballis graduated in May from Penn. School of Medicine and has started an internship at Pennsylvania-U. Penn. Medical Center.

Elizabeth Gregory is an agent of marketing services with Heublein Inc. in Farmington and making progress towards an M.B.A. at UConn.

Jack Clarkson passed the bar last summer and was admitted into practice in CT. He is a lecturer in law at UConn.

Gloria Amodeo is psychologist in the adolescent unit at Nachaaug Psychiatric Hospital in Willimantic.

Stuart Cohen received his J.D. from NYU Law School and was admitted to the NY Bar. He is a law research ass't at the Appellate Division of the NY Supreme Court in Brooklyn.

Ann Bodurtha is working at Southern New England Telephone in the long range planning division in New Haven. She has been working part-time on an M.B.A. and expects to receive it this summer.

Robert (Hubby) Hubscher is consultant for TM Systems and plans to attend Harvard Business School in Sept. Among the guests at their wedding in Memphis were David Alden, Dana Suchacki, Scott Johnson and Peter Somnabund.

Nina George received an M.A. in philosophy from Georgetown and is teaching at Boston College where she is continuing work on her Ph.D. She keeps in touch with Donna Diamond, a certified paralegal at UConn.

Sarah (Sally) Hartigan is developing educational programs for the ME Energy Office while completing a teaching internship at the University of Maine.

CREDITS:

Drawings: Katherine Gould '81

Photographs: Joan J. Kronick '46, 3; Ed Burke '78, 14-19; Vivian Segall '73, 7, 12, 14 (bottom), 17 and 18 (top).

35
Jeffrey Lostein is working hard in the family business as he studies full-time towards his M.B.A. at Babson.
Robin Lipson works for the Dept. of Public Welfare in Boston and at night goes to BU for her M.B.A. She is living in Watertown with Marjorie Leavitt '76.
Stephen Cohan moved into the Boston area and is a sales representative for MCI, communications network.
Margaret (Maggie) Wilson, Elizabeth Payne and Eva Fellows '76 live in Enfield together. Maggie does public relations work, advertising and exhibits for the Craft Community in Sommerville, CT. She is also a photography for two Hartford papers. Liz is a reporter for the Hartford Courant.
Lisa Perrin has returned from Germany and now works in Middletown with special children as she did in Germany.
Sally Davis is the assistant manager at The Other Bookstore in Mystic. She and Andrew Halsey '76 invite friends in New London.
Faith Cheney Stabach is living in Mystic.
Peter Jarrett in Storrs is working towards a Ph.D. in polymer science at UConn. Ellen Ramsbottom Jarrett completed her graduate work at Simmons College and received her M.S.
Margery Libson is living the executive's life in Bradford. She works for Southern New England Telephone.
Kim Lewis and Catherine Tharin live together on the West side of NY. Cathy works for the Jeff Kahn championships and public relations firm and Kim is an editor with a large publishing company.
eve Helberg and Stephen James are both alive, well and working at the Bank of NY.
Ken Gardner is finishing his 2nd year at Hofstra and will work in NY this summer. He carouses with Eric Capnick '77, also at Hofstra Law.
Andrew Rawson is with a Manhattan-based real estate developer.
Winchester Hotchkiss can still be seen walking along NY sidewalks.
Robert Powell is working in a biology laboratory at the U. of Penn.
Don Capelin finished his M.B.A. at Wharton and is now employed at a small art gallery. He has been doing investigative reporting.
Gilda (Pookie) Walker is research analyst with Computer Sciences Corp. in DC. Enrolled at American U., she is pursuing a master's degree in computer applications.
Peter Taylor in Minneapolis is an assistant supervisor on the construction of a high rise building.
David Schomberg is a construction supervisor, working in NY the vicinities.
Co-correspondents: Laurie Heits, 25 Shell Ave., Milford, CT 06460; June Kappel, 115 W. 86th St., New York, NY 10024

78 MARRIED: Peter Jarrett to Ellen Ramsbottom 9/1, 76; Faith Cheney to Michael Stiebach 6/23/79.
Wayne Hutton brings news from the far east where he visited Karen Jespersen and Dana Pierson. Karen has been teaching English and taking Chinese classes, while Dana has returned home. Wayne and Karen stayed with Dana in Hong Kong where she has also been teaching English. Back in NYC Wayne switched to a job at Manufacturers Hanover Leasing Corp.
Jay Krassner, carrying on as usual at law school, sends word of Mark Finkle who is busyly engaged as a Tal- lan scholar in Japan. Mike has been an extra in several TV and motion picture films but he still looks forward to his return to the USA.
Thomas Deedy, Judy Rubin '79 and Bobby Williams '75 foundered Tavern Players, a poetry performing group in New London based at the Dutch Tavern, entertaining monthly with historical skits, comedy, tragedy and poetry.
Bruce Colvin who works for P&G in Cincinnati formed the Committee to Award Miss Piggy the Oscar (CAMPO). Thousands of letters and petitions poured in but the academy passed her by. She was spotlighted as an announcer and good loser.

79 MARRIED: Scott Restivo to Linda Ensign 12/29/79; Deborah Anne Towne to Ensign Steven Lynn Heim of USC 5/27/79.
Deborah Towne Heim and Steven are living in Kodiak, Alaska.
Michael (Mickey) Levine continues to assist others in ambulances.
Daniel Levy is in the computer field with Arthur D. Little Systems, Burlington, MA.
Laurel MacNizam Harnett and husband are at Purdue. Laurel is enrolled in the Knaussnt School of Management.

Class notes editor
Mrs. Hrub Clark (Marion Vibert '24)
Box 578, East Main Street
Stockbridge, MA 01262

Nancy Masison will receive her B.S. in food science technology from U. of MA.
Marcia McLean loves her work as a paralegal at Mill Bank, Tweed, Hadley-Mckay in the Big Apple.
Carroll Sullivan, also in the NYC area, works with Manufacturer's Hanover Trust.
Anne McGeer, another paralegal, is with Haile & Dorr in Boston.
Carolyn (Lynn) McKelvey is working for the League of Conservation Voters in Philadelphia.
Robert Markowitz is writing and teaching in NY.
Donna Merz is enjoying life in NJ as a photographic stylist for Decorate LTD.
Dorothy Morris, in the Boston area, is employed with Enline's as a dept. manager.
Winston Murray is a sales trainer with Xerox Company.
Alexandra Natsion is enjoying life in NYC as a teacher at a Greek Cathedral school.
Martha Nelson is in the publishing field, employed with a NY law journal.
Meghan O'Connell is earning a living in Irvington, CT, as a news anchorperson and night reporter for WLEI.
Alison M. Pasco is in the NY area.
Jody Paskow in Miami is enjoying her work as a therapist at Grant Center Hospital.
Elizabeth Potier in Nagoya, Japan, is finding life challenging but interesting as an English teacher at Nagoya International College.
Candace W. Polou can be found in CT working with the mentally retarded.
Kate Boeverman and Elizabeth Rapp both continue to work hard in the field of anthropology. Kate is in the grad school at Chicago and Elizabeth at Columbia.
Joan Prescott is presently with the N.E. Telephone Co., Boston, as a market administrator.
Michael Proctor is employed in the computer field with a real estate company.
Ellen R. Pulda and Danielle Williams are both employed at Bloomingdale's as assistant buyers.
Lisa Rinaldi lives in Boston and works at Harvard Law School.
David Rosenberg is doing research titled: 1000 Bars with Character." Results indicate that the Dutch and the Birdseye, both popular among C.C. students, rank tops.
Judy Rubin, involved with theatrical activities, has made her debut at the Dutch Tavern in New London. She is also a nurse's aide at Camelot Convalescent Home in London, CT.
Nina Sadowsky is an assistant editor at Madson Ave. Magazine in NYC.
Kathryn (Kit) Schaeffer, enjoying life as a graduate law student at NYU, occasionally sneaks in some ballet and lacrosse.
Lucy Sloman is employed in the Decorate Arts Center in Boston.
Charles Sorentino continues the life of a student, working towards his M.A. in clinical psychology in Hartford.
David Stern is studying law at Columbia, traveled to London in Jan., and met up with Margaret Phinney who is doing a super job in a small art gallery.
Cynthia Stone is assistant manager in the life department of Brewer and Lord Insurance Agency in Charlestown, MA.
Diane Wexler travels back and forth to her teaching job in Hingham, MA.
Nina Weinstock is living with Terry Hazard, a C.C. roommate, in Philadelphia. Both enjoy the teaching fields.
Debra Wexler and Sarah Blake are trying to beat the cost of living in Cambridge. Debbie enjoys her work with Crimson Travel Service in Harvard Square.
Mary Wright is a researcher for the Academy for Contemporary Problems in DC and tends bar in her spare time.
Carol Van is working hard as ever on her M.S. in research measurement and evaluation at So. CT State College, New Haven.
Correspondents: Claire Quan, 31 Clifton St., Worcester, MA 01610; Allison Holland, 514 E. 82nd St. Apt. 5E, New York, NY 10028
GIVER'S PROFILE
(Pronounced "Alumni")

TONY SHERIDAN '74

HOME: Quaker Hill, Connecticut
BORN: March 1945, Oldcastle, County Meath, Ireland PROFESSION: Director of Personnel at C.C.
Former plumber/steamfitter and town planner.
VOLUNTEER: Democratic Town Committee, Thames Science Center Board, United Way campaign manager, two-term president of New London Labor Council.
HONORS: Watson Fellowship and Aspen Institute Fellowship to study worker participation in community decision-making in Norway and Sweden.
HOBBIES: Traditional Irish music, singing, bicycling, collecting hats, tennis, playing accordion.
FAMILY: Married to Margaret Keenan Sheridan '67, Associate Professor at C.C. Two children.
QUOTE: "My contribution to C.C. represents a small payment for what Connecticut College gave me: an opportunity to believe in myself and in my potential."
PROFILE: Determined, self-made man who believes in the American dream. Alternately jovial and shy.
AAGP: Acronym for Alumni Annual Giving Program. Send your contribution to C.C.'s Development Office.