CAMPUS GROUPS WELCOME CLASS OF 1956

Dual Faceted Code Presents Challenge To Every Student

Honor System May Be New Experience; Adjustment Important

The "student is in honor bound to report herself to the proper official who should remove her from any association in case of her violation of either phase of Honor System."

"A student who is aware that a fellow-student has violated the Honor Code in any way should report her to the proper official."

This is the Honor Code under which the student at Connecticut operates. For many, as they arrive at the college, an honor system may be new as well as new as college life itself. Perhaps adjusting any magazine can be much more important for herself, and also, the need for herself. and also, the need to bring you this issue, in extending you a hearty welcome, and in wishing you a very successful college career.

Delt Stone, Chief Justice of Honor Court

Quarterly Provides Student Creativity With Campus Outlet

Quarterly, like any college magazine, can be much more than an experiment, really by a collection of student writing, it can also be an opportunity of expression. It is the purpose of all programs, whether in the college or the community, that the student who is produced in the community standards to the wish to become the continuation of the college's honor system, will be a force even if strong enough to enable each student to become an active part of the community's standards.

Admiration Important

Both parts of the Honor Code are equally important and necessary, but it is possible that the one part is more difficult to achieve. The requirement of the honor system is that students must report themselves to the proper official, if they know that any student has violated the Honor Code, and also, in part, if one's fellow students is not the honest student.

And yet, this is certainly not considered as an impossible task for every student, for the upperclassman. It is expected that the student will be required to contribute to the community standards to the wish to become the continuation of the college's honor system, will be a force even if strong enough to enable each student to become an active part of the community's standards.

Honor Court meetings are open to the student body, and a specific invitation is extended to the freshmen to come to observe as the case may be.

Honor Court meetings are open to the student body, and a specific invitation is extended to the freshmen to come to observe as the case may be.

New London, Connecticut, Wednesday, September 24, 1952 10c per copy

ONNECTICUTLLEGE

CAMPUS GROUPS WELCOME CLASS OF 1956

Varied Duties Sponsored by Service Club

Every girl at Connecticut College belongs to Service League. This is the organization through which all the service activities, and many of the social functions of the college are carried out.

Girls on campus take part in many of the welfare activities which are sponsored by the campus committees under Service League. Students have always enjoyed working an hour or an afternoon a week at Learned House, which is the settlement house in New London. There they work with the children, either instructing them, or engaging in play activities.

Freshman Receptions

One of Service League's important functions is to take charge of the freshman receptions. Student organizations have given the freshmen during the fall as a means of introducing them to other colleges.

The reception with the10:30 p.m. will be held in Knollwood Salon on Thursday, October 2. Admissions to this house are given. September 27. Receptions have been canceled for freshmen from both Yale and Wesleyan, and there will also be held early in the fall.

Tryouts for Choir Thurs., Sept. 25

At the moment, there are six groups that freshmen are trying to join. The Student Government is based on representation, and the ultimate purpose of the Honor Code is naturally to make sure that students should act according to their wishes. The freshman who receives the attention of the Honor Code is naturally to be given the opportunity to act according to her wishes. The freshman who receives the attention of the Honor Code is naturally to be given the opportunity to act according to her wishes.

The freshmen, in turn, are expected to bring you this issue, in extending you a hearty welcome, and in wishing you a very successful college career.

Dell Stone, Chief Justice of Honor Court

College Government Stresses Unity of Campus Interests

Barbara Paulson, President of Student Government

Connchords, Shwiffs Sing for Pleasure

Among the things of interest to freshmen and upperclassmen during the first weeks of school will be the tryouts for membership in Connchords of Shwiffs.

Connchords and Shwiffs are two informal groups of Connecticut College students who sing for fun and relaxation. The groups appear at club meetings, dances, and song fests in New London and at other colleges throughout the year.

First and foremost, however, these groups gather to enjoy the satisfaction of informal and spontaneous group singing. If you like music, if you enjoy singing, be sure to come and try out. Date, time, and place of tryouts for either group will be announced, and freshmen are especially welcome.

Radio Club To Give WLNC, WCNL Programs

Radio Club sponsors programs over WLNC, a new college station, as well as over WCNL, the college radio station.

The club needs announcers, disc jockeys, writers and publicists. Everyone is invited to attend Radio Club's open meeting on Thursday, October 2 at 6:45 p.m. In Room 203 of Palmer Auditorium.

The Connecticut College Student Honor Hour is a weekly program broadcast over WLNC at 11:00 on your dial. This program is written and produced by the students. The program features a variety of music from the beginning of the year to the current time.

The campus radio station, WCNL, on your dial, features music, along with miscellaneous other programs. These include special programs such as the "Jazzman" and other programs.

Radio Club's open meeting is an opportunity to meet new people and to have fun.

III!

This issue of News is strictly for freshmen and transfers, and is distributed only to you. It's purpose is that you have undoubtedly discovered, is to introduce you to the various clubs and organizations on campus.

By the tone of the articles, which were written by the heads of these organizations, it is plain that all clubs are eager to get the most of our college. It is necessary not only to pursue one's studies diligently, but also to participate in campus activities. It is difficult, of course, to get the most of these activities can be engaged in, without taking too much away from academic pursuits.

The freshmen, in turn, are expected to bring you this issue, in extending you a hearty welcome, and in wishing you a very successful college career.

Students' Help Needed To Propose Solutions For Common Problems

Student Government at Connecticut College is in the process of determining the group, which the student body can learn to live together in a meaningful way.

Because every student is a member of a house, a class, and an organization, the House of Representatives is composed of members from each of these groups, and the Student Government is elected by the students, and presides over the Student Government.

The organization of Student Government is the determination of the group, which the student body can learn to live together in a meaningful way. Because every student is a member of a house, a class, and an organization.

The House of Representatives is composed of members from each of these groups, and the Student Government is elected by the students, and presides over the Student Government.

Let us take a hypothetical bill, and turn it through the stages of its development. The freshmen in turn, are expected to bring you this issue, in extending you a hearty welcome, and in wishing you a very successful college career.

Relative Active

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.

The president of Knollwood brings the house, in the form of an informal group, to propose solutions for common problems. This is not a meeting, but a discussion and action.
Proposed Rec Hall
Will Include Gym,
Alumnae Offices
In 1959, two students of the class of '52 had the dream of a recreation building which would provide a center outside of academic work. During the fall and winter months, they organized a Recreation Hall Committee, a group of about five, and they were interested in working to raise money for this building.

Have a place and proper facilities for recreation, which the "temporary structure," called the gymnasium, does not afford.

As interest grew, so did ideas of what should be included in the building. Student government and alumnae offices and lounges were put on the drawing board. Student government and alumnae offices and lounges were put on the drawing board.

Member

The committee's projects to raise money have included fund-raisers, an annual alumni scholarship drive, kettles at games, and a student-faculty basketball game.

Money was also received from the proceeds of last year's faculty.scotch, and proceeds from the building. Student government and alumnae offices and lounges were put on the drawing board.

A pledge system has been set up, which by every student in the college who makes a certain amount of money to give to the Student Alumnae Fund while she is at college.

The important basic foundation of the drive has been worked out by a relative low. Now it is up to the students, the alumnae, and the administration to work together, and support the projects planned to raise money for the building.

Press Board Sends
News of CC Events
To Local Papers
Press Board sends the student organization assisting the head of the college and other departments. The aim of this group is to spread news of Connecticut College as far as possible.

To accomplish this, members of the board gather news of all student activities, and present it to the doings of the United Nations. But the biggest event for the club this year will be the Open House at the college dining hall.

A.A. Sponsors Many
Clubs, Activities; Meets Thursdays
One of the questions most frequently asked by newcomers to college is, "What are the various clubs?" The Athletic Association is an answer to that question. Every student at Connecticut is automatically a member of AA, but there is no requirement to be one, it is simply the type of individual. The AA sponsors many clubs, and the majority of them are under the sponsorship of AA.

For example, there is the O'Malley Club, which sponsors numerous events during the year in conjunction with the other clubs. In addition, there is the Colonnade, the college dining hall, which is the O'Malley Club, and the college dining hall, which is the O'Malley Club. The AA also sponsors a number of other organizations, such as the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, and the Intercollegiate Basketball Association. The AA also sponsors a number of other organizations, such as the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, and the Intercollegiate Basketball Association. The AA also sponsors a number of other organizations, such as the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, and the Intercollegiate Basketball Association. The AA also sponsors a number of other organizations, such as the Intercollegiate Tennis Association, and the Intercollegiate Basketball Association.