Strange figures masked by scarves and stocking bun- dled in raincoats were seen crawling out of bushes, climbing out of windows, and piling into dorms. The occasion was mascot hunt, which took place Monday through Wednesday of this week.

As is traditional, mascot hunt was culminated last night when the entire Sophomore and Junior classes met in Knowlton salon to trade secrets. The Sophomores had the upper hand in the guessing game this year, since they were able to identify one runner correctly. The Juniors were utter failures in this respect, and they were so sure of themselves.

Blood, drip, drip! This sound CAN BE an annoying one. But it is not. This sound is just one of the many advances in the quest of exploring the continent in reality. For example, the people are the factors which determine our governmental structure of a balance between the executive, legislative, and judicial branches. In order to maintain the powers of government we, as a society, must be able to respect and abide by the rules of our country.

In addition to the above, the White Citizen's Council pledge upholds racial segregation, which is a violation of the United States Constitution. The peace of mind and well-being of all people is the key to a successful functioning society.

Expressionist Artist Holds Campus Exhibit

by Katherine Lindsay '59

Expressions of young talented American artist, Conrad Woods, will be on view in Fanning Hall until October 28. Woods, born here at home, has been painting for the past few years, and has been developing his art. Much of the painting is exploratory in form, with the analytical and creative process left clearly evident, evoking both the joy and the subject of the painting. It is easy to see why he is considered a fine artist.

Tennis Champ!

The twenty-four year old Woods hails from California where, for twenty years, he was a top tennis player. This year, Woods won two regional tournaments in Los Angeles as well as a YMCA tournament. In 1960, he entered the national tournament in San Diego, where he won the men's singles and doubles. This year, Woods also won the National Singles and Doubles Tournament.

Wilbur '58, Joan Michaels '58, Liz Woods, is on view in Fanning Hall until October 28. Woods' works include four paintings, four sculptures, and three drawings. The sculptures fall into the general classification of expressionism. In particular, some form is more clearly defined than others. For example, one sculptural piece represents a hand, a foot, and a face. The hand is open, the foot is closed, and the face is turned away.

The annual Freshman Recital, presented by Music Club, took place Thursday, October 4th, in the Citizens for Eisenhower Bandwagon. The Bandwagon is one of six political organizations on campus, and is composed of a ten-ton diesel truck painted in red, white, and blue. The truck is decorated with red, white, and blue flags and signs for Eisenhower, as well as a large inflatable Joe Gailey painted with red and blue campaign slogans. Approximately ten girls are recruited from each area as “like girls” and are dressed in white dresses with red, white, and blue sashes. They carry parades of the truck down the street, with the truckers on the back of the truck. The parade ends with the inauguration of the truckers as the new student body president, and the truck is parked in the middle of campus. The parade is a tradition at the University of Illinois, and is held every year.

This week in sports, we had a thrilling game against the University of Illinois. The score was 42-14, making it our fourth straight victory. We now have a record of 4-2, which is our highest in years.

"I Like Ike" Spikes Campus

by Katherine Lindsay '59

Best Bet! We Like Ike! This is the welcome response given to the Citizens for Eisenhower Bandwagon which stopped near Fanning Monday afternoon as part of its ten-day tour of Connecticut.

The Bandwagon was well-received by the students and faculty. About one hundred "I Like Ike" pins were distributed to the crowd.

Six Bandwagons Tour

The Bandwagon is one of six touring the nation under the sponsorship of the National Citizens for Eisenhower group. The Bandwagon is staffed by General John Reed Kilpatrick of New York, who is in charge of the entire tour. The Bandwagon consists of a ten-ton diesel truck which pulls forth Eisenhower campaign songs and cheers. The truck is decorated with red and blue flags and signs for Eisenhower.

Freshmen Exhibit Promising Talent in Music Recital

by Anne Delaroso '57

The annual Freshman Recital, sponsored by Music Club, took place Wednesday evening, September 26th, in the auditorium. The first musical event of the college year was a success on all counts. Both the audience and the performers were impressed with the talent and dedication of the new musicians, who showed promise for the future.

Opening the program with Schubert's Impromptu Opus 90, the performers played with poise and ease. The first section of the piece showed good technical and musical interpretation, while the second period showed promise for the future.

Jean Chappell, flutist, playing Schubert's Impromptu, was well-received by the audience. The performer showed promise for the future, and her playing was well-received by the crowd.

Concluding the program, Gail Poggio, pianist, played Chopin's Impromptu Opus 43. The pianist showed promise for the future, and her playing was well-received by the audience.

French Club Holds Opening Tonight; Mary Jane Sings

The French Club will hold its first meeting of the season tonight in the Recreation Room of Katharine Blunt House. The program will be several French selections sung and played on the guitar by Mary Jane Sargent.

Elections will be held for vice-president and publicity chairman of the group. The present officers are Sue Adams '57, president, and Ronnie Illiaschenko '59, secretary-treasurer.

Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to attend.

The students will be handling.

Library Exhibits
Prints For Sale

A select group of prints of famous paintings will be on exhibit in Palmer Library until Saturday, October 13. The samples, now in the library, have been loaned to the college by the New York Graphic Society. Orders can be placed at the main desk in the library and Miss Hazel Johnson, head librarian, has announced that all members of the college community will receive a twenty-five cent discount from the price appearing on each picture.

College Chorus To Rehearse for Xmas Debut

The Connecticut College Chorus, under the direction of Nancy Kushlan '59, is composed of thirty Sophomores and twenty-five Freshmen, admitted recently after tryouts were held. The Chorus will shortly begin preparing a program for the Christmas Veteran Service, at which time they hope to make their first appearance before the Faculty and the student body.

A project, such as the one undertaken by Nancy when she accepted the leadership of the chorus last year, requires the full cooperation of each member. Assisting Nancy with the operational aspects are Sue Liefer, Acting Secretary; Margaret Good, Temporary Business Manager; and Jill Davidson, Librarian. The three, all members of the Class of '59, have been asked to assume the responsibility temporarily until the group elects its offices in November.

In future years, Nancy hopes to realize the aims of the chorus by opening membership to students of all four classes. To accomplish this, provisions will be made to admit a certain number of incoming freshmen each year until the Chorus has reached the status of an all-college organization.

Helen Boatwright, Dale
Heard in Joint Concert
by Anne DeTomaso '57

A truly enjoyable program was presented by Helen Boatwright, soprano, and William Dale, pianist. In Palmer Auditorium last night, Mrs. Boatwright captivated her audience with her lovely lyric soprano voice and offered a varied and interesting program.

Beginning with three selections by Handel, Mrs. Boatwright sang Following dolce mio tesoro (Rodellnda). Mrs. Boatwright's graciousness in commenting on many of her program selections contributed to the interest further increased recognition of her voice and charm as a performer.

The second group on the program consisted of German songs by Schubert, Brahms, and Hugo Wolf. Mrs. Boatwright has a commendable ability to project herself into the part she is singing. Her very expressive voice which can portray grief and sadness, can also become a vehicle for joy and wit. Pleasure, pleasure men yeux from Le Cid by Zdenek Masarik exhibited the fullness of Mrs. Boatwright's voice.

Following with a group of songs by contemporary composers, the program took a somewhat lighter turn. Especially effective were two folk songs of the British Isles. The Trees Grow so High and Oliver Cromwell, arranged by Benjamin Britten. The latter, which ends with the quip "If you want any more, you can sing it yourself," thoroughly amused the audience.

The last group of songs was written by Charles Ives. The program "Boatwright" -- Page 1.

Is your roommate smarter than you?

Not a chance. Even if she happens to get better grades in a couple of subjects. But what does she know about the election campaign? About the Mid-East crisis? About fashions or football? About movie ratings or careers for women?

When it comes to knowing about the world around you, you really have to read The New York Times. And only The New York Times brings you such clear, colorful, complete reports on world events and all your interests. It helps you be a more interesting person, helps you get better grades.

You do read The New York Times, don't you?
If not, get hopping. Contact your campus representative and she'll deliver The New York Times right at your room every morning.

This past week, end a mystifying Institute known as co-chairmen appeared in all the freshman dormitories, much to the surprise of the co-chairmen. Since both the freshman dorms and the co-chairmen themselves have by now had at least a week or two of explanation, another word might help the upperclassmen.

Last year the problem of electing freshman House Presidents was elected in the middle of October in order to relieve the House Secretaries of some of their strenuous cross campus legwork. Never have students been so eager to become a vehicle for joy. Powerful rich tone of his instrument.

Especially beautiful in its quiet Tổmracht will speak on the influence of Italian Democracy Against Fascism and Communism in Dale Auditorium this Wednesday, October 19, at 8:00 p.m. This event will mark the opening of events this year for the Connecticut College International Relations Club.

Mrs. Boatwright’s lovely lyric voice was a successful vehicle for the typical Schubertian melody, with its classical beauty, yet romantic mood.

Equal praise goes to Mr. Dale who performed ably throughout the program. He has a sensitive awareness of musical interpretation and, at all times, displays a complete command of the keyboard. In November, he will appear at Carnegie Hall where he will give his second New York recital.
