Announced by President Park

Alumnae Day on campus this Saturday, October 4, will hold this Saturday, October 4. After the alumnae register in the Office of Miss Elizabeth Babbott '51, Dean of Sophomores and comes to us from Wesley College where she taught English from 1955 to 1958. She received her Bachelor of Arts from Boston University in 1945, and her Master's Degree from Western Michigan University in 1953 to 1954, and a Teaching Assistant at the University of Wisconsin in 1953 to 1954. In addition to being named Baccalaureate, Baccalaurate Professor of English, she was a Governor of the Admissions Office. She left Wesley to teach at Brown and served last year as dramatic as that of Niagara Falls or the Grand Canyon, and as awe-inspiring as that of any other landscape. But here is far more in it of strongly human interest than there is in the most vast geological museums.

Miss Thompson incorporated a dry sense of humor into her writing which makes it not otherwise a bit scientifically-developed. Travelogue. Since publication of "The Changing Face of New England" by the MacMillan Company on September ninth, although she has previously collaborated on a book and a botanical text, this book was Miss Thompson's first lone literary attempt. The book was written with the main purpose of making the observer aware of the natural phenomena. Miss Thompson rarely let the idle time fly, and through this awareness, to increase appreciation of the named New England landscapes.

The members of the Class of 1961 in Group I of the Dean's List are Nancy Deon, Cynthia J. Robb, and Margaretrah. This list is composed of students who are making the best of their abilities and who are contributing to the overall success of the college.

Miss Betty Thompson

Miss Betty Flanders Thompson, Associate Professor of English, was honored at the presentation of her book, "The Changing Face of New England" by the Publishers Weekly."This book might be subtitled 'How to see what you can't see.' It is to us from Lyons & bosses, the most difficult to sell. It is a challenging task to make the observer aware of the natural phenomena. Miss Thompson's book is a handy and entertaining guide to the natural beauty of New England. Although Miss Thompson has concentrated on New England, she is not only a New Englander by adoption, having originated in the United States. She spent her childhood in South Africa, she was the daughter of a British Medical officer, and she earned her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Oxford. She received a Ph.D. in Botany at Columbia University.

African Missionary Leader To Speak at Vesper Service

On Sunday, October 6, Rev. Philipines, Moderator of the Congregational Churches, will speak at Vesper Service. On this same day, Dr. Phillips will also preach at the morning service of the First Congregational Church in New Haven.

Dr. Phillips, who was recently chosen moderator, now holds the highest elective office in the General Council of Congregational churches. Prior to his election, Dr. Phillips spent forty years in South Africa, working to improve the position of the African. His greatest contribution to the underprivileged peoples of South Africa was his development of the Jan. H. Hofmeyer School of Social Work at Johannesburg. Dr. Phillips also founded the Pathfinder movement in South Africa which grew into an African Boy Scout Council of 16,000 members. Another contribution to South African life was his establishment of a Baptist Medical center that the city would have a meeting place for non-European men. Dr. Phillips is a native of Wisconsin. He was educated at the Dalhousie, Minn. high school, Carleton Coll. at Northfield, Minn., and the Yale University Divinity School. He began his missionary work in South Africa under the auspices of the American Board of Foreign Missions and through his own efforts, has brought the light of Christianity to many of the people. His efforts have been directed to the advancement of the educational and spiritual life of the African.

Dr. Phillips will initiate the new Religious Fellowship policy of the University, and he will work with a showing of slides of the work of the African Boy Scout Council. This plan is intended to give students an opportunity to meet speakers on an informal basis. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the gathering.

State Dignitaries To Speak Saturday Widely Acclaimed in Reviews

About "The Changing Face of New England," Miss Thompson commented that it should be subtitled 'How to see what you are looking at in New England.' It is a book that invites the reader to consider that people miss a great deal of pleasure who look at a situation without taking the trouble to tell the initiated what is going on. The book contains a wealth of information gathered from specialized literature, and restated in layman's language... New England's history is fully as dramatic as that of Niagara Falls or the Grand Canyon, and as awe-inspiring as that of any other landscape. But there is far more in it of strongly human interest than there is in these vast geological museums.

Miss Thompson incorporated a dry sense of humor into her writing which makes it not otherwise a bit scientifically-developed. Travelogue. Junior Students Present Views on Quemoy; Consider Situation in Far East Strategic

One of the most important of our current problems is the situation in the United States in the Persian situation. If we do not know what we are doing, we will not be able to force a situation where we have the upper hand. This can only be accomplished by getting the support of the United Nations, which is our only hope to solve this problem. We must be able to show the world that we are not afraid to face the challenge.

We are not alone, but we must be prepared to stand alone, unsupported by any other allies. Now, we find that we have to make our policies in the United States.

Russia's role in this situation is to be well aware that we cannot affording the risk of a third World War. We must be prepared to face the challenge and to stand alone, unsupported by our other allies. Now, we find that we have to make our policies in the United States.

There's a man in her life

She's no Marilyn Monroe or Brigitte Bardot—but HE's proud of her. He likes the way she walks and dresses—he likes the way she talks, too.

What's her secret? No one thing, of course, but will she's an every-day reader of The New York Times.

She knows that The New York Times is a smart, interesting way to keep up to date on the off-campus world. And not only for social reasons.

She knows The New York Times is a profitable habit. It fits in with her studies of government, politics, business and world affairs. It gives her timely facts for class discussions and campus gal sessions.

And it supplies her with lively food for thought on her favorite interests—new styles, new recipes, new books, plays and movies.

Freshmen Perform In Musical Review

Last Wednesday evening Harriet Kaufman, president of the Music Club, introduced the Annual Freshman Recital at Holbrooke Hall. Six students performed indicating new and enjoyable talent that will contribute to student music on campus. The two vocalists, Patricia Bordley and Christyana Bodnar were the most successful as performers. Patricia for singing with very impressive phrasing and grasp of her still young voice, and Christyana for presenting a marked potential for vocal development. The oboist, Phyllis Brown, displayed a good command of a difficult instrument and the violinist, Carol Martin, played pretty tunes though not consistently. Two pianists also performed, Sandra Barthel and Irene Alexander, the former with more feeling than the latter, the latter with more technique than the former. It should be interesting and wonderful to these girls to see how their musicianship will develop during the coming year.

Brigette Bardot Scrutinized

By Carol Plants ’60

B. B.’s back in town! The Night Heaven Fell is the pulsing title of her latest romp through the cinema-colored fields. Brigette has deserted her French playgrounds for the exotic coast of Spain, and turns up as a quasiequorphan in the home of her uncle Don Miguel. Once again she displays her abilities at riding donkeys, driving convertibles, tormenting women, and intoxicating men. It is not until she fights a bull in the town arena, that Ursula (B.B.), is able to capture the man of her heart—an unpainted Spaniard of humble origins who proves his prowess by disabling her uncle to death. Ursula, the actress who has been absent from the screen for a number of years, appears as Brigette’s aunt, an unfathomable character apparently capable of great ability.

Leakiness over innocent Brigette, time there is for B.B. to uncover her dramatic talents and while she is foundering around in an attempt to make heroic gestures of unyielding love, the English dialogue seeps into her liaisons.

The Connecticut College Orchestra began its second year under the direction of Mrs. Gordon P. Wilis in Monday evening in Holliws Hall. A short organizational meeting was held before the rehearsing began.

The Orchestra has grown considerably during its first year of revival after about ten years of silence. This year Mrs. Wilis and the Connecticut College Or- chestra, and that anyone in the Orchestra is welcome. No ex- perience in orchestra playing is required. This year the Orchestra hopes to have the following various repertoire under its fingertips and lips before Christmas: Corelli’s Christ- mas Concerto for Strings; Corelli’s La Follia, a violin solo with Orchestra, accompanied—July Eugenie as concertante; Holst’s Fugue Concertino with oboe and flute solos; Benjamies’s Jamaican Rumba; and others by Tchaikovsky, Elgar, Mozart and Handel.
