Honor Code Commits Students To Adapt to College Society

by Cynthia Enbody '60

Why does the Honor System exist at Connecticut? What does it mean to you? How does the Honor System fit into your student Government?

The Honor System is no doubt a term with which you are now familiar. The Honor System, however, is not a new phrase or a new term; it is important to you personally. It is not your responsibility for doing wrong, but for doing right. Moreover, you are not at College, you are at Connecticut. You must totally understand the Honor System and the Honor Court, if you will, function as an integral part of your personal and social development.

As Liz Hood has said, and I'll reiterate, the Honor System is an extension of your personal development. This is no less true of the Honor Court. When you elect its members and give it the power, another girl is also doing it as a police force to watch out for herself, in order to help Connecticut to be what you want it to be.

The leadership and most challenging assignments in college is to assert your independence, individually and collectively, in the belief that all your actions will affect the world in which you are living. To live by the Honor System, you must give up the right of relying on virtue of matriculating. It is a central part of our challenge you must make the decision whether you will live by this System, or not, the same as you are or is an individual quality; honor is a personal decision. But, you can never forget, the way you observe it will determine your personal reputation. The accepted privilege of the Honor System does not come with the inherent obligation that you are held accountable to the regulations in both your academic and social pursuits.

The Honor System here at Connecticut places the utmost faith in your personal—integrity. The Code holds that you will, of your own accord, respect the rights of others, your classmates, yourself and your peers, and accept your obligations to the college. It is not the Honor Court that is to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

You will note that there is no specific code of anyone reporting another person. Such a code is not required, and would be contrary to the idea I mentioned earlier—that the Honor Court expects each girl to have enough respect for herself and for her classmates in order to have enough respect for herself and accept her obligations to the college, and not to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

Your personal and collective development are inseparable to the community in which she is living. Who established those academic and social standards? Who sees that the "keep up with the Joneses" spirit is not only enjoyed. The president or Court fit into your student Government?

Your personal and collective development are inseparable to the community in which she is living. Who established those academic and social standards? Who sees that the "keep up with the Joneses" spirit is not only enjoyed. The president or Court fit into your student Government?

The person of the spirit, which you have accepted that pledge you have made. Honest to God, I know that you are concrete life at Connecticut. So... by Martha Simonson '60 until you exert your own will to be your own policeman. Active participation, a unified student body would be contrary to the being itself and to accept her obligations to the college. It is not the Honor Court that is to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

You will note that there is no specific code of anyone reporting another person. Such a code is not required, and would be contrary to the idea I mentioned earlier—that the Honor Court expects each girl to have enough respect for herself and for her classmates in order to have enough respect for herself and accept her obligations to the college, and not to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

The person of the spirit, which you have accepted that pledge you have made. Honest to God, I know that you are concrete life at Connecticut. So... by Martha Simonson '60 until you exert your own will to be your own policeman. Active participation, a unified student body would be contrary to the being itself and to accept her obligations to the college. It is not the Honor Court that is to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

You will note that there is no specific code of anyone reporting another person. Such a code is not required, and would be contrary to the idea I mentioned earlier—that the Honor Court expects each girl to have enough respect for herself and for her classmates in order to have enough respect for herself and accept her obligations to the college, and not to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

You will note that there is no specific code of anyone reporting another person. Such a code is not required, and would be contrary to the idea I mentioned earlier—that the Honor Court expects each girl to have enough respect for herself and for her classmates in order to have enough respect for herself and accept her obligations to the college, and not to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.

You will note that there is no specific code of anyone reporting another person. Such a code is not required, and would be contrary to the idea I mentioned earlier—that the Honor Court expects each girl to have enough respect for herself and for her classmates in order to have enough respect for herself and accept her obligations to the college, and not to report her. By urging a girl to take responsibility for herself, and to hold herself accountable, you are not totally doing it to another girl, but to yourself as well. The Honor System is an integral part of your personal and social development.
Radio Club Offers Chance to Appear On Local Airways by Blandie Whitman '61

Have you ever been to a college radio station? Would you like to? Well, you can! The Radio Club at Conn offers you the chance to appear on local airways.

The Radio Club has two programs on campus radio. The Candle is a program which features student art and culture. The other program is a music show called the Hour. Both programs are broadcast on WNAC, the campus radio station.

The Radio Club is open to all students and meets weekly to plan and prepare for upcoming shows. If you're interested in getting involved, the club meets every Thursday at 3:00 PM in room 102 of the Whitney Center.

Government

(Continued from Page One)

been admissible, you are responsible for reporting yourself to Honor Court; but the Court will consider your cooperation in any investigation conducted by the Honor Court. The Court may order you to appear before it, or it may direct the president of the college or any other college official to do so.

If you are summoned to appear before the Honor Court, you should prepare to answer the questions that will be asked of you. The Honor Court will consider your cooperation in any investigation conducted by the Honor Court. The Court may order you to appear before it, or it may direct the president of the college or any other college official to do so.

Religious Fellowship wants you! The Religious Fellowship opens their doors to all students and is open to all faiths. They meet every Wednesday at 8:00 PM in the Student Center.

Chapel Activities

Vary to Fulfill Individual Quest by Edie Chase '60

President of Religious Fellowship

Although you may have heard of the Religious Fellowship, you may not know much about it. It is a group of students who meet to discuss religious and spiritual matters. They meet every Wednesday at 8:00 PM in the Student Center.

The Religious Fellowship is open to all students and is non-denominational. They discuss a variety of religious topics, including faith, spirituality, and ethics.

Chapel services are open to all students and are held every Sunday at 11:00 AM in the Chapel of the America.

The Chapel offers a variety of services, including a Sunday morning service, a Wednesday evening service, and a Thursday evening service.

Don't forget the Coast Guard will be on campus Saturday night at 8:00 PM in the Dining Hall on the 2nd floor. Bring your friends and family to enjoy the music and meet new people.

Candle

(Continued from Page One)

welcome you personally that we have scheduled a special meeting for you to meet our costume designer, see our set designs, and try on some of our costumes. This meeting will be held on Thursday evening at 7:00 PM in the Whitney Center.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me at 555-1234, or stop by the Whitney Center during business hours. I'm looking forward to meeting you.

Calendar of Events

September 25—Room Furnishings sale in Freshman Quad sponsored by SABE (Student-Alumni Building Fund). 5-7 PM.

September 27—Rev. William Blaine Coffin, chaplain of the University, will speak at 7 PM in Harkness Chapel. The Freshman Choir will sing.