Professor Nicoll Compares Theatre, Film, In Lecture

Portrays Requirements Of Both, Commenting Upon Their Past And Futures

That the film is as distinct an art from the theatre as poetry is distinct from painting, was the feeling expressed by Professor Allardyce Nicoll in his convocation lecture on Oct. 18.

The pessimists have made their attack on the theatre and the films alike. However, pointed out Professor Nicoll, there has always been pessimism as far as drama is concerned. It is unfair to criticize moving pictures, as it is a young industry. "One cannot say that the theatre is doomed, because the lure in seeing flesh and blood actors is very strong, and although there may be Claire Hughes, screen have their following, there will always be footlight lovers."

Although the pessimists say the theatre is commercial, it has always been commercial. To say that New York is the only center of drama is overlooking the fact that the theatre of each age has always been centered in one spot.

To do its best, the theatre must devote itself to conventional and objective portrayals. The realm of the film, on the other hand, is that of subjectivism and realism. Both mediums will fail, however, if they are carried too far. The theatre should develop and the cinema, the realm of the latter. It is important to understand that each age has its own limitations and will only succeed when it learns to work within its own sphere.

House Librarians Named For Year

The Committee Advisory to Dormitory Librarians announces the appointment of librarians for 1938-39, as follows:

Blackstone - Margaret JaddenBrantford - Sally KinstonConnecticut Commissar's Room - Thelma GilkesAddams House - Jane AddamsClarinda Burr '39, chair of the senior class, has been named to serve as the chair of the committee. The committee is responsible for the supervision of the various dormitories' libraries, and for the selection and acquisition of materials for use in the college's libraries. The committee also recommends the appointment of librarians for each dormitory, and assists in the development of the college's library resources. The committee is composed of student representatives, and meets regularly to discuss library matters. The committee is an important part of the college's library system, and is responsible for ensuring that the library resources are adequately supported and utilized by the students.

Dean Charles Brown To Speak Sunday At Vespers

The speaker at the vesper service Sunday will be Charles Reynolds Brown, dean emeritus of Yale dean, who was a graduate of the university of Indiana. Brown has been a professor at Yale, and has been appointed to other foundations as well. Among his notable works is the "Fondren Lectures," which have been published as "The Master's Influence." At one time he was moderator of the National Council of the Congregational Church. He is the author of a book on religious subjects.

In 1935 he conducted the annual midwinter retreat at the college on "Things That Matter." Dean Brown is well known to the New London audience, and in 1936 he preached the bacalaureate sermon to the graduating class. For many years his visits to colleges and universities have been counted as something of an event, and his coming has been eagerly awaited by large audiences. The service is at 4:30 p.m.

Fritz Reiner, famed orchestra leader, is conducting a music appreciation course at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Laying Cornerstone For Harkness Chapel

The limestone cornerstone for Harkness chapel at Connecticut college is placed in position over a metal box containing a number of records, including two issues of the "New London College News" last Friday. The chapel is the gift of Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, and is being erected on the left.

President Blunt Announces 91 Scholarships

President Blunt in her regular Tuesday Chapel announcement announced that there are ninety-one girls with scholarships this year. This is approximately twelve percent of the student body.

The average amount of each scholarship is about two hundred dollars; they range from one hundred dollars to a number of one hundred dollars. A committee which meets just after Commencement every year chooses the upperclassmen who will receive scholarships. They are judged on their grades, the amount of money they earn, their citizenship, and family need. Freshmen are given scholarships in May, "I cannot think we make no errors, but my hope is that there are very few. We are proud of this group. Many leaders in the student body, both in scholarship and other fields, are members of this group."

The College provides money for scholarships through endowed scholarships, current gifts, and the college budget. The ultimate aim is to be able to answer scholarship requirements without the aid of the college budget. The College has been able to provide the necessary funds to support the students.

The college is grateful to the donors who have made these scholarships possible. The College is grateful to the donors who have made these scholarships possible. The College is grateful to the donors who have made these scholarships possible.

Dr. Laubenheim At Morning Vespers

"Alma Mater Ecclesia is Christianity and serves as a guide to civilization," said Dr. Paul Laubenheim, the college preacher, in his address at Vespers on Sunday morning, October 16. The service was held in the Outdoor Theatre as a part of Alumnae school by the surplus Blanket Tax of 1939. The large audience included women in the midwestern states, who were interested in the college's development and increase in the character of the spiritual force affecting the student here.

An Open Letter to the C.C. News

Foreword: I am a prospective candidate for the job of reporter on your paper. This piece may or may not get me the job. Nevertheless, I do keep from you that I still don't know the inner workings—the excitements, and trials and rewards—of the newspaper business. But, in other words, as long as I am still an outsider, you might appreciate the outsider's point of view in this matter, may I feel entitled to offer you this letter. I am not the typewriter for the C.C. News, but here is something to think about:

"Be specific" is the song we've been hearing at college since Freshman year. It seems to me that this formulation could be applied more usefully if we could ask you why we believe very nicely what we are doing and why. But I want to know, from the very beginning on, how to make a person this way is. It is the personalities in the news that interests us; in other words, we like the personal angle.

What is the section, last year, which most of you turned to first? The Scandal Sheet, of course, politely called the Gossip Column, or "Caught on Campus." Your most serious writing, I believe, was that the news was too localized; that is, the class came mainly from one or two houses. But we weren't any less interested, were we? You are the only people that the C.C. News. Your paper will be much more interesting if you use smart Freshman writing as a lead into Fanning for all of us to contribute our pet anedoctes.

The Gossip Column is fine in its place, but it certainly is not a shining example of what journalism should be. I believe a good way of introducing fine writing to the Freshman is to write a gossip column, to write every week, along with the feature story, a short sketch. There are so many interesting personalities on the campus, not necessarily the girls in school and class and school politics. When you write a Urela, I think, you should put yourself in the place of that person and I'll wager that more people read those articles than any of the gossip columns. You don't think you should confine it to the campus.

Where is the Mayor of New London, (if there is one), or the man who runs Starr's drugstore, or the Swiss priest, not to mention Harry, who works in Emma Jane's shoe store. Henry (whose last name is unpronounceable Polish) is in the shoe business just as a side-line. In the summer he does some swimming; a few New Londoners know him as the boy who swam the Hudson River with his hands and feet bound in chains. There are really infinite possibilities.

My last criticism is destructive, rather than constructive, the overabundance of column. "Columns," "Stuffs." Mary Elizabeth Baldwin does a fine job of book-reviewing, but I think she should not play-reviewing, perhaps the best of all because there is no one less interested in all the many of you read the bits Mary E. has gathered from various sources. I find her particularly valuable for her column. As her photographic and radio departments, they're not about a painting and sculpture department department. That is to say, we would like to see more in the paper. We are not the ones who read the textbooks or to write about the newspapers, or to make political statements. We are trying to cut down your newspaper to the essentials. We are the people who are interested in the news, and we would like you to understand us. We want the news that is the personalities in the news that interests us; in other words, we like the personal angle.

What do you think about the new political editors? We are trying to cut down your newspaper to the essentials.

Science Meeting

Deals With Work

Of Past Summer

The Science Club held its first meeting last Wednesday evening in the Commuters' Room. Polly Salmon, president, read the Club's constitution for the benefit of those who had not heard it before. It was announced that to be an active member, one must attend at least five meetings and take active part in one, while an associate member is privileged to attend all open meetings.

The business meeting was followed by four short topics in which the students told of their summer work. Mildred Lingard gave an account of the work that she and Polly Salmon did in Zoology at the Mount Desert Biological Institute in Maine, where they spent six weeks. Ilse Wragg was in the Passaic General Hospital, Pomona, N. J., doing laboratory work for her second year. Cynthia Maddon taught Nutrition and organized a picnic for a group of young children at the North End District of Hartford, sponsored by the North End Federated Clubs of Hartford. Eunice Sutcher spent her summer at the Ceylon Institute, Department of G,netics, on Long Island, studying the nature of inheritance in plants, with a view to application in human life.

Proclamation of Senior Ideals

Read by Senior President

The Senior proclamation was delivered at Chapel last Thursday morn- ing by Elizabeth Patron, the class president. After the closing hymn the Senior class, attired in caps and gowns, marched out to the gymnasium steps. There the declaration was read to the other members of the student body standing below the Seniors. The declaration enumerating the ideals for which all Connecticut College students should strive, as was said, is:

Seniors are supposed to know something about germs, for four years of college. In this Senior Proclama- tion we'd like to say something that would be of help to you in college.

We'd thought of telling you all the rules of life which you have heard about, or which we know, that apply here as well as anywhere. We'd thought of reminding you to do your work be- cause it's easier in the end, to be pa- tient and persistent because the world needs patience and requires persist- ence, to be kind because kindness makes a little less angular, to be thought- ful because thoughtfulness is a social consideration, because no community can exist peacefully and pleasantly without co-opera- tion, to be honest because life has a bitter taste when people do not trust you, and to be cheerful, willing and enthusiastic because these qualities contribute to a fuller life. We've thought of pointing out to you the balance and a good sense of propor- tion which is a mark of the health of life. We've thought of reminding you that one must be gracious without being stiff, modest without being timid, sociable without being fussy, happy without being silly, smart without be- ing smart, good without being good and confident without being con- cieted. The balance is difficult to maintain. No one ever was ready for trying.

You know these things and we know them. We thought we'd re- member them because they embody a creed we all believe in. We want you to remember them because in the end every- thing you do will be remembered. You'll find that something will be remembered in the end.

University of Georgia fact-finder has estimated that students spend 21,000 hours a year standing in lines during registration periods.

Two Pieces of Fine Art on Display

"L'Etang du Beurre" a painting by Mr. Robert Logan of the Fine Arts Department, was exhibited in President Blunt's office last Monday. The painting, which was done in four meetings, showed the town of Motel which was the stronghold of the Ancient Order of the Knights of Malta. Today it is a quiet fishing village where the sur- rounding peasants cultivate the olive tree. The painting has been exhibited in the Paris Salon, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, at the Biennal Exhibition of Art of Washington, and other places.

There is also a dry point print, an industrial one, of freight sheds, in President Blunt's office done by Mr. Logan. A dry point print is one made by cutting a line by hand instead of through a needle as an etching. Duplicates of this print have been bought for the Luxembourg Gallery, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Detroit Art Museum, the Brooklyn Museum, and other collections.

President Blunt invites all students to visit her office and view these pieces.

Palmer Library Adds To Collection of New Books

A library is an arranged collection of books. And this collection is constantly changing. Would you like to hear about some of the new books which are now in the Library?

Mr. Louis Adamiec meets a man on the street in the French Quarter of New Orleans. While they are chatting Mr. Adamiec gets this man's opinions about Amer- ines. Mr. Adamiec, who is a Frenchman, is full of charity little inci- dents in his life. Mr. Adamiec in- terests more confidence when he writes for his own experiences than when he trusts the evidence of others. One review had but one criticism of it: 'The only place where Mr. Adamiec seems a little unfair is in his treatment of Mr. Adamiec. Mr. Adamiec re- members that there are many Ameri- cans but forgets that there are also many New Yorkers.'

The whole book is written with tolerance, balance and patience. Even then, one can find something that will please him in this book. The book is titled "Tirer A Strangeer by Vera Brittain" which is another book which will be of in- terest to everyone. It gives her in- terviews to the United States. The book is published by The World's Work and was not too favorably impressed the first few times. This book tells how she came about her views on entertain- ing and interesting.

Science and Music by James Jeans is a book very well worth reading. It presents the subject in a new and different manner and the author gives his facts and theories in a clear and entertaining manner.

For the artists and the lovers of art there is quite a selection. E. Har- ris has a book, Spanish Painters, with reproductions of paintings from the twelfth to the nineteenth century. Then, The Psy- chology of Music by Carl E. Seabrook is a very excellent book. Mr. Sea- brook is an expert in music and is writing his own way of presenting music. This is a well worth while book.

So do go to the library and browse through it. It's fun!

Committee Names
Regulations For Governing Lodge

-Buck Lodge, the construction of which was started last Fall and complete by the last of the year, is not ready to be used by student and faculty groups, chiefly due to special permission, persons not connected with the college. The Lodge was made possible through the generous gift of Mr. Buck, father of an alumna, and was augmented by money left over from Blasket Tax and the Junior Masque—fireplace for both floors.

A special committee has been appointed by President Blunt to formulate regulations for the government of the Lodge. The members of it are Dean Burdick, Chairman, Mr. Avery, Miss Denny, Mrs. Ray, Miriam Brooks, and Jane DeOlabais. They have submitted the following rules:

1. Persons or groups wishing to use the Lodge are to sign in advance with Miss Davidson, Secretary to the Dean.

2. Groups not connected with the College. In order to use the Lodge must obtain permission to do so from Miss Davidson or from the President's office. A fee of $1.00 is to be deposited by the person who signs for the use of the Lodge.

3. A key is to be made when the key is returned, at the time deposit and return of the key. If the key is lost, the individual or group must obtain permission to do so from Miss Davidson, or from the Deans.

4. Recognized student organizations and private groups of students, faculty or administration, may sign for the Lodge for daytime or evening use, provided there are at least six students for any evening use.

5. Private mixed groups may sign for the use of the Lodge for daytime use only and provided there are at least eight in the group. A fee of $2.00 is to be charged such student groups. (The fee is $1.00 for outside groups. See Rule 2.)

6. For the present no fee is to be charged student groups which include persons connected with the college.

7. The Arboretum attendant is to report to Miss Davidson through Mr. Avery any group which leaves the Lodge untidy or otherwise in bad condition.

8. Petition to the Lodge by organizations or private groups must in no way interfere with the use to which the Department of Botany and Zoology and Mr. Ray may put it for professional purposes.

Although the Lodge is not furnished yet, it will be by late fall. A committee composed of Mr. Avery, Miss Harris, Miss Potter, Janet Mead '30, Priscilla Fasse '30, and Winifred Valentine '30, are working on decorating plans. The furniture will probably be of a rustic nature, in keeping with the spirit of the Lodge. Some of the fallen hemlocks may be used to build part of the furniture.

views and of subjects for them. However, contacting outside people would be directly in keeping with the existing policies of the paper, and in its business to present news and the campus primarily. Your "destructive criticism," if you choose to call it, is a part of expressive freedom, and at odds with that of many, many people on the campus. Therefore, we feel no cause to answer it concretely, except to say that had you read the column carefully for the past year you would have found many allusions to art and sculpture as well as to dramatic productions.

You have suggested no columns which do not already exist, on which are in danger of being omitted if the material can be had. You are quite correct in believing our object to be the making of the paper more interesting and we thank you for your thought on the subject. Similar opinions are welcome at all times and from all sources.

Miss Felton Describes Jap Aggression Factors (Continued from Page 2) any similar country would be, but much of this control was premeditated and is therefore unusually severe. Press, mails, and even thought are controlled. Military training for girls as well as boys in schools is one of the methods used to stir the emotions of the people. Furthermore, for the first time in the history of the Japanese people they are forced to worship their emperor. There is very little anti-war organization, so very little has ever been done to meet the situation. The students gave up to militarism only after frequent display of their displeasure. The workers, too, objected, for the war caused much uncertainty as well as a reduction in their real wage. There is resentment in the army itself; but all these groups are closely watched and are given no chance to express their real feelings. Following the lecture, Miss Felton answered the questions of the group.
