Professor’s Pursuits Land Her On Conch’s Shores

By Lauren Motley

Sitting in her office, University Professor of Gender Women’s Studies Mab Segreti plainspoken and crystal clear. Dr. Segreti is an intriguing figure and has an ability to connect with her students, her voice is often heard echoing through the hallways of the library. The day begins with a lecture, and the students are transfixed by her words and knowledge.

Segreti grew up in Tuscaloosa, Alabama during the civil rights movement, surrounded by the activism and justice of her parents. Seeing the inequality around her, her childhood experience gave Segreti a sense of duty and a determination to fight against racism and oppression.

In 1983, Segreti founded the University’s Program for Theatre and Performance Studies, which has since grown to become one of the largest and most respected programs in the country. The program is dedicated to providing a skills-based, immersive educational experience that prepares students for success in a variety of fields.

Segreti encourages her students to be engaged citizens and to use their voices to make a difference in the world. She frequently invites guest speakers and experts to her classes and encourages her students to participate in community service and activism.

Segreti is an active member of the University’s faculty and is known for her dedication to her students and her passion for teaching. She is a beloved figure on campus and is admired for her knowledge and expertise.

Segreti continued on page 8

Peer Educator Program Shows Potential

By Janna Baranow

Peer: a person who is equal to another in abilities, social status, etc. Educator: a person who provides training, knowledge, or information.

It can be deduced from the intersection of these two definitions that a Peer Educator would be a fellow student who serves to supply student body with information about a subject that he/she has previously been informed.

The Peer Educator program began when the Connecticut College received National Institute of Justice grant in August of 2002. The Peer Educator program is to promote awareness of the homeland. Flynn informed his students that the plan of the program was to enhance the quality of the program and the plans and bills of the Bush Administration. According to Flynn, many serious security issues are emerging from the homeland. Flynn also discussed the need for security and focus primarily on the homeland and a great deal of writing; three autobiographical books and several essays. Segreti still finds it difficult to understand the hatred and prejudice that persists in our society. Segreti also expressed her desire to return to the classroom and is enthusiastic about teaching at the college.

Segreti continued on page 8

Final 9/11 Discussion Held at Coast Guard

By Emily Goldberg

A panel discussion, entitled “A Year at War: The Domestic Front,” was held at the Coast Guard Academy on Tuesday evening. The event was hosted by the Connecticut College and the Coast Guard Academy, commemorating the tragedy of September 11th.

The panelists discussed the audience of Academic faculty, staff, and modern political issues related to the provisions of the domestic front. Keynote speaker Dr. Stephen E. Flynn and James J. Kirzinger, a former member of the National Security Studies Council on Foreign Relations, served as the panel’s moderator. Dr. Flynn’s areas of expertise include homeland security, border control, global logistics, and maritime and transportation security.

A panel discussion is held at the annual conference, “Perspective,” Flynn commented that the plans and bills of the Bush Administration may “enhance the quality of the program and the plans and bills of the Bush Administration.” Flynn also discussed the need for security and focus primarily on the homeland, according to Flynn, many serious security issues are emerging from the homeland. Flynn also discussed the need for security and focus primarily on the homeland, according to Flynn, many serious security issues are emerging from the homeland.

Levy discussed how the government should not give too much information to the public. Levy also emphasized another policy of the Bush Administration that most-concerned the security of the homeland. Flynn informed his students that the plans and bills of the Bush Administration may “enhance the quality of the program and the plans and bills of the Bush Administration.” Flynn also discussed the need for security and focus primarily on the homeland.

Levy continued on page 8

False Alarms

Rash of Fire Alarms Plagues South Campus

By Rachel Casin-Ash

Recently, the sight of green-eyed, banana-clad Coast students wandering outside of Ja and Freeman at 3:00 AM has become routine. This past weekend, two South Campus dorms experienced approximately fifteen false alarms between Friday night and Saturday morning.

According to the official count, there have been 23 alarms in dormitories since the beginning of school. Some students dispute this claim, citing two instances of false alarms in their dorms last weekend.

Pepper spray was the usual先锋 among the false alarms. Students have reported seeing firefighters in action and hearing the siren from the Coast Guard Academy.

According to Coast Guard Academy spokesperson, there have been approximately fifteen false alarms in the past couple of weekends.

The Coast Guard Academy has implemented a new protocol for false alarms. The protocol involves sending officers to the dorms and ensuring that the alarm is real before declaring it a false alarm.

This past weekend, false alarms in the dorms led to a decrease in school spirit. Students have been seen walking around the campus, looking for a way to vent their anger.

The Coast Guard Academy has decided to implement a new protocol for false alarms. The protocol involves sending officers to the dorms and ensuring that the alarm is real before declaring it a false alarm.

The Coast Guard Academy has decided to implement a new protocol for false alarms. The protocol involves sending officers to the dorms and ensuring that the alarm is real before declaring it a false alarm.

Continued on page 8
EDITORIAL & OPINION

Fostering Presidential Relationship the Right Way

Street to street, room to room. With his new initiatives, we must prove through our actions that we are truly invested. Every time the alarm rings, the student’s sense of immediacy of evacuation is tested.

With the President just beginning his tenure it is now that the structure of a healthy Student-President relationship can most effectively be formed.

Campus Watch’s Call to “Monitor” is Unacceptable

To the editors:

On September 10, the Connecticut College Alumni Office (TCT) distributed to the MidEast Filing (TCT) distributed a website called Campus Watch (http://campus-watch.org). This website alleges that “American scholars (of the Middle East, and potentially other regions) who teach courses on the Middle East are monitored by a network of so-called ‘officials’ that list and quite probably the published research of eight Middle Eastern scholars (all of whom work in critical research on Israel. In response to public outcry, the ‘debatable’ cases were reconfigured on Sept. 30.) The site’s implied call to arms is hard to miss. In no way does this reflect the views expressed by individual Distinguished Speakers Series. Despite the fact that most people contacted by Campus Watch do not list the names and addresses of abortion doctors, Campus Watch is a threat to freedom of expression. The quandary students face is whether it is safe to speak here. Connecticut College was implicitly and publicly signaling that it supports his views and tactics—let alone in regards to Let “Hedda Gabler Does Not Equal Courtney Love” print runs again.

Is it really so much more humid in JA than the rest of the campus? The problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Every time the alarm rings, the student’s sense of immediacy of evacuation is tested. One student in JA stated, “I’m never leaving my bed for another fire alarm.” Another said, “I’d rather burn in hell than . . . .”

To the editors:

While these remarks are realistic, there is an element of dangerious truth in them. Few students are cut off from the influence of the Web.

This situation needs to be handled with the seriousness it deserves both for health and safety reasons. The issue could end up harming a student’s or the school’s reputation in the eyes of prospective students, then they might as well be on the inside. It matters that the structure of a healthy Student-President relationship can most effectively be formed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Campus Watch’s Call to “Monitor” is Unacceptable

To the editors:

On September 10, the Connecticut College Alumni Office (TCT) distributed a new website called Campus Watch (http://campus-watch.org). This website alleges that “American scholars (of the Middle East, and potentially other regions) who teach courses on the Middle East are monitored by a network of so-called ‘officials’ that list the names and addresses of abortion doctors, com- pared to Niamh Sinéad andפעיל letters, and other similar efforts.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.

To the editors:

This month’s event was last Friday night, or Saturday morning around 4:30 AM, only an hour before Crew practice and 4 hours before the academic day begins.

Students have been told by a variety of sources that the causes of these false alarms range from spurious ones to those that are quite legitimate.

If the problem is not unknown to the residents of South Campus. Last year JAlFreeman experienced similar alarms.

Second, while the Campus Watch site does not explicitly call for action to be taken against the scholars or their works, nor does it actively encourage violence, or personally damaging. Ad rates are available on request by calling 860-439-2813.
Opinion

Parents Come to Conn for Harvesting of Their 'Crop': Us

By DAN CAYER, VIEWPOINT

When President Taha Yassin Ramadan decided to make the issue impossible held onto by the United Nations, Utopia would be inevitable. All brought to p~;s. atdawn and all that. Not just asingle duel, but rather adouble feature. Pakistan vs. try can re-challenge the winner.

Iraq IS PLAYING GAMES

IRAQ IS PLAYING GAMES

IRD SCHOOL OF FOREIGN RELATIONS COME TO CONN FOR HARVESTING OF THEIR 'CROP': US

DUEL SCHOOL OF FOREIGN RELATIONSPARENTS COME TO CONN FOR HARVESTING OF THEIR 'CROP': US

Note: I would just like to make an addition to my last column. The picture of the weapons was a pre-arranged photo to capture the process in Stein's caption."
Fluffy Buoyed By Excellent Witherspoon

SWEET HOME ALABAMA

Rating: PG-13

Length: 105 mins

Starring: Reese Witherspoon, Josh Lucas, Gwyneth Paltrow, Brenda Blethyn, Emily Park, Fred Ward

Directed by: Andrew Davis

Summary: Predictable piece of fluff, with sugary dialogue and sticky humor, yet Witherspoon is unexpectedly the cherry on top.

---

Punk, Silliness, and Alt-Pop

By shredded soybeans

Forget the real place to be last Friday night was the Hoyts Waterford theater, as any good flip phone fan should know.

"You can buy a premium ticket to ‘Sweet Home Alabama’ at the Waterford or you can head to the Hoyts Waterford to see the movie. But Mel has a couple of skeletons tucked away in that director closet of hers, and we are sure to get a trip down South to Alabama with diverse papers in hand, only to find herself stuck in that dress box (Lucas)." We should be content to accept the film for what it is. The film is a romantic comedy, and we should understand that it is not going to be a perfect film. But it is still enjoyable to watch.

The new two-disc CD is quite good, and a little je ne sais quai and created the best of Sunny Day Real Estate. So what good could possibly come from something so audacious? The answer is, nothing. But it's still enjoyable to watch.

"It's hard to find anything that's a perfect medium. Even without a plot or lead character, there's always something to be found in these novels. The sense of the novel is, after all, a small pleasure."

"It's difficult to be exact on what to say about this album. The sense of the novel is, after all, a small pleasure."

"One might think that the novel is, after all, a small pleasure."

"It's hard to find anything that's a perfect medium. Even without a plot or lead character, there's always something to be found in these novels. The sense of the novel is, after all, a small pleasure."

"Don't worry, every day is a new story."
Rhett Miller
“The Instigator” 4 1/2 stars
Most likely, none of you have heard of Rhett Miller. Well, I am here to enlighten you. Much like fellow “alt-country” wunderkind Ryan Adams, Mr. Miller formed a much-acclaimed band (Old 97’s) and released his first solo album to much anticipation from fans. If you enjoy delicately-crafted pop songs that make you weep, this is the album for you. “The Instigator” is a full of high-energy, self-deprecating love songs. Produced by Jon Brion (who has also worked with Fiona Apple and Aimee Mann), Miller’s album proves he’s not just some boy in a band.

Among the many standouts are “Point Shirley” (inspired by a Sylvia Plath poem), “This Is What I Do,” “The EP” (a homage to Chicago) and the rocking opener “Our Love” (which drops the names of Prince Kafka and composer Richard Wagner). When Miller asks if he’s “gonna be lonely for the rest of my life” in “Come Around,” you can’t stop listening because it just sounds so good. A simple lyric is, “I try to make your world a better place/ I’ll another you in your nervous heart” (from “Your Nervous Heart”).

This fall, Miller is touring with “dashboard Confusion,” but don’t pinhole him as “emo” or “alt-country.” This guy is very talented and transcends genres. Remember, a year ago no one knew who John Mayer was, and two years ago no one knew who Pete Townshend was. Be on the lookout for “The Instigator.” You will not be disappointed.

SPORTS TEAMS
Clubs: Student Groups
Earn $1,000-2,000 this semester with our proven CampusFundraiser 3-hour fundraising event. Our programs Make fundraising easy with no risks. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so get in touch with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888) 923-3258, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com.

PARENTS: SUBSCRIBE TO THE COLLEGE VOICE!

ATTACK OF THE SINGER-SONGWRITERS

Rhett Miller
“The Instigator” 4 1/2 stars
Most likely, none of you have heard of Rhett Miller. Well, I am here to enlighten you. Much like fellow “alt-country” wunderkind Ryan Adams, Mr. Miller formed a much-acclaimed band (Old 97’s) and released his first solo album to much anticipation from fans. If you enjoy delicately-crafted pop songs that make you weep, this is the album for you. “The Instigator” is a full of high-energy, self-deprecating love songs. Produced by Jon Brion (who has also worked with Fiona Apple and Aimee Mann), Miller’s album proves he’s not just some boy in a band.

Among the many standouts are “Point Shirley” (inspired by a Sylvia Plath poem), “This Is What I Do,” “The EP” (a homage to Chicago) and the rocking opener “Our Love” (which drops the names of Prince Kafka and composer Richard Wagner). When Miller asks if he’s “gonna be lonely for the rest of my life” in “Come Around,” you can’t stop listening because it just sounds so good. A simple lyric is, “I try to make your world a better place/ I’ll another you in your nervous heart” (from “Your Nervous Heart”).

This fall, Miller is touring with “dashboard Confusion,” but don’t pinhole him as “emo” or “alt-country.” This guy is very talented and transcends genres. Remember, a year ago no one knew who John Mayer was, and two years ago no one knew who Pete Townshend was. Be on the lookout for “The Instigator.” You will not be disappointed.

SPORTS TEAMS
Clubs: Student Groups
Earn $1,000-2,000 this semester with our proven CampusFundraiser 3-hour fundraising event. Our programs Make fundraising easy with no risks. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so get in touch with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888) 923-3258, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com.

PARENTS: SUBSCRIBE TO THE COLLEGE VOICE!

ATTACK OF THE SINGER-SONGWRITERS

Rhett Miller
“The Instigator” 4 1/2 stars
Most likely, none of you have heard of Rhett Miller. Well, I am here to enlighten you. Much like fellow “alt-country” wunderkind Ryan Adams, Mr. Miller formed a much-acclaimed band (Old 97’s) and released his first solo album to much anticipation from fans. If you enjoy delicately-crafted pop songs that make you weep, this is the album for you. “The Instigator” is a full of high-energy, self-deprecating love songs. Produced by Jon Brion (who has also worked with Fiona Apple and Aimee Mann), Miller’s album proves he’s not just some boy in a band.

Among the many standouts are “Point Shirley” (inspired by a Sylvia Plath poem), “This Is What I Do,” “The EP” (a homage to Chicago) and the rocking opener “Our Love” (which drops the names of Prince Kafka and composer Richard Wagner). When Miller asks if he’s “gonna be lonely for the rest of my life” in “Come Around,” you can’t stop listening because it just sounds so good. A simple lyric is, “I try to make your world a better place/ I’ll another you in your nervous heart” (from “Your Nervous Heart”).

This fall, Miller is touring with “dashboard Confusion,” but don’t pinhole him as “emo” or “alt-country.” This guy is very talented and transcends genres. Remember, a year ago no one knew who John Mayer was, and two years ago no one knew who Pete Townshend was. Be on the lookout for “The Instigator.” You will not be disappointed.

SPORTS TEAMS
Clubs: Student Groups
Earn $1,000-2,000 this semester with our proven CampusFundraiser 3-hour fundraising event. Our programs Make fundraising easy with no risks. Fundraising dates are filling quickly, so get in touch with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888) 923-3258, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com.
Bush Prods U.N. on Iraq Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Republican leadership is expected Wednesday to introduce a resolution that would allow U.S. forces to go to war with Iraq, and that gets close to the White House position. The House Republican leadership is expected Wednesday to introduce a resolution that would allow U.S. forces to go to war with Iraq, and that gets close to the White House position.

GOP Tries to Stop N.J. Ballot Switch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Republican leadership is expected Wednesday to introduce a resolution that would allow U.S. forces to go to war with Iraq, and that gets close to the White House position.

The president was having less success, however, in shoring up the troops of the U.N. Security Council behind a strong resolution to disarm Saddam Hussein, as Russia criticized the plan. Speaker Dennis Hastert said that momentum behind the resolution, also is taking up the Senate, while still wrestling over the language of that resolution, also is taking up the House.

Bush said Thursday he would not accept a Senate proposal that would limit his authority to exempt the country's weapons of mass destruction. Democratic John Breaux of Louisiana and Ben Nelson of Nebraska, joined by Republican Lincoln Chafee of Rhode Island, could cast an agreement Wednesday on their latest attempt at compromise, which moved closer to the White House position.

In Wednesday's vote, Iraq "will know that full compliance with all U.S. security demands is the only choice, and the final remaining for that choice is limited," Bush said.

Russia on Thursday criticized the resolution as an unnecessary delay on the return of inspectors. Russia's foreign minister said that from day to day you're going, to see different statements from Russia. The House's resolve on Iraq, said Adel al-Dubya, the deputy minister for foreign affairs.

The agreement on the congressional resolution worked out over several weeks, answers several congressional concerns that the powers originally outlined under the resolution would not be enough to support an international war. The agreement would allow for an international war against Iraq and that was why they are trying to obstruct the Security Council behind a strong resolution to disarm Saddam Hussein, as Russia criticized the plan.

Bush has been trying to build up the hornets' nest against Iraq, the world's worst weapons of mass destruction. The Hornet Intellligence Intelligence was delivering on Tuesday.

The classified National Intelligence Estimate delivered on Tuesday and intelligence officials are preparing a second estimate examining Iraq's capabilities in the area of weapons of mass destruction.

The House Republican leadership is expected Wednesday to introduce a resolution that would allow U.S. forces to go to war with Iraq, and that gets close to the White House position. In the House, Speaker Dennis Hastert said that momentum behind the resolution, also is taking up the Senate, while still wrestling over the language of that resolution, also is taking up the House.

Bush said Thursday he would not accept a Senate proposal that would limit his authority to exempt the country's weapons of mass destruction. Democratic John Breaux of Louisiana and Ben Nelson of Nebraska, joined by Republican Lincoln Chafee of Rhode Island, could cast an agreement Wednesday on their latest attempt at compromise, which moved closer to the White House position.

In Wednesday's vote, Iraq "will know that full compliance with all U.S. security demands is the only choice, and the final remaining for that choice is limited," Bush said.

Russia on Thursday criticized the resolution as an unnecessary delay on the return of inspectors. Russia's foreign minister said that from day to day you're going, to see different statements from Russia. The House's resolve on Iraq, said Adel al-Dubya, the deputy minister for foreign affairs.

The agreement on the congressional resolution worked out over several weeks, answers several congressional concerns that the powers originally outlined under the resolution would not be enough to support an international war. The agreement would allow for an international war against Iraq and that was why they are trying to obstruct the Security Council behind a strong resolution to disarm Saddam Hussein, as Russia criticized the plan.

Bush has been trying to build up the hornets' nest against Iraq, the world's worst weapons of mass destruction. The Hornet Intellligence Intelligence was delivering on Tuesday.

The classified National Intelligence Estimate delivered on Tuesday and intelligence officials are preparing a second estimate examining Iraq's capabilities in the area of weapons of mass destruction.

Homeland Security Bill at Logjam

GOP Tries to Stop N.J. Ballot Switch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Republican leadership is expected Wednesday to introduce a resolution that would allow U.S. forces to go to war with Iraq, and that gets close to the White House position.

The president was having less success, however, in shoring up the troops of the U.N. Security Council behind a strong resolution to disarm Saddam Hussein, as Russia criticized the plan. Speaker Dennis Hastert said that momentum behind the resolution, also is taking up the Senate, while still wrestling over the language of that resolution, also is taking up the House.

Bush said Thursday he would not accept a Senate proposal that would limit his authority to exempt the country's weapons of mass destruction. Democratic John Breaux of Louisiana and Ben Nelson of Nebraska, joined by Republican Lincoln Chafee of Rhode Island, could cast an agreement Wednesday on their latest attempt at compromise, which moved closer to the White House position. In Wednesday's vote, Iraq "will know that full compliance with all U.S. security demands is the only choice, and the final remaining for that choice is limited," Bush said.

Russia on Thursday criticized the resolution as an unnecessary delay on the return of inspectors. Russia's foreign minister said that from day to day you're going, to see different statements from Russia. The House's resolve on Iraq, said Adel al-Dubya, the deputy minister for foreign affairs.

The agreement on the congressional resolution worked out over several weeks, answers several congressional concerns that the powers originally outlined under the resolution would not be enough to support an international war. The agreement would allow for an international war against Iraq and that was why they are trying to obstruct the Security Council behind a strong resolution to disarm Saddam Hussein, as Russia criticized the plan.

Bush has been trying to build up the hornets' nest against Iraq, the world's worst weapons of mass destruction. The Hornet Intellligence Intelligence was delivering on Tuesday.

The classified National Intelligence Estimate delivered on Tuesday and intelligence officials are preparing a second estimate examining Iraq's capabilities in the area of weapons of mass destruction.
Iraqi Official Suggests a Duel

BY DAVID S. RASMUSSEN

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Iraqi vice president said Thursday that the current U.N. weapons inspections are a "duel" between George W. Bush and Saddam Hussein.

Taha Yousif Ramadani said the duel could be held at a neutral site like New Iberia, Louisiana, near where Hurricane Lili made landfall.

Bush said yesterday he would not consider a cease-fire and would keep U.N. weapons inspectors out of Iraq. It was the first time in 41 years of manned space flights that a mission had to be delayed a day because of weather.

"I'm the happiest person on the face of the earth," said Bush.

"They (the Americans) were surprised," he said.

"It would be Atlantis."
Faulty Fire Alarms

Attributed to Humidity

The alarms have provoked many students, who have early morning classes, from their rooms. One student gave the drastic slur: “If the next fire alarm we have in our dorm is not caused by humidity again, I’ll know that I’m hallucinating.” According to Mr. Miner, Director of Campus Safety, that was what many students were thinking as well.

The official reason for the large number of alarms, according to Mr. Miner, Director of Campus Safety, was that they were not properly silenced. He said that the students who had silenced the alarms did not understand that doing so would make the problem worse.

Mr. Miner also pointed out that the humidity in the college can vary greatly, and that the fire alarms are set to go off when the humidity reaches a certain level. He added that the fire department is working on a solution to the problem, but that it may take some time to implement.

Mr. Miner also clarified that the alarms are not a false alarm, and that they are designed to protect the students in case of an actual fire. He emphasized that the students should not take the alarms lightly, as they are an important safety measure.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the average humidity in Connecticut is 50%, but it can vary greatly depending on the time of year and the location. This variation in humidity can cause the fire alarms to go off, even when there is no actual fire.

Panel at USCG Concludes Debate on Terrorism

Mr. Miner reviewed the history of the fire alarm system, and noted that there have been many changes and improvements over the years. Some of the changes have been due to technological advancements, while others have been due to the needs of the students.

Mr. Miner also mentioned that the fire alarm system is constantly being monitored and tested, and that the students are encouraged to test it themselves.

According to Mr. Miner, the fire alarm system is a crucial part of the college’s emergency preparedness plan, and that it is important for the students to be familiar with it.

President Returns to Teaching

President Fainstein has returned to teaching in a new course that she has developed, which is focused on the history of the United States. The course is designed to help students understand the political, social, and cultural developments that have shaped the country.

President Fainstein said that she has always been interested in teaching, and that she is excited to be able to share her knowledge with the students. She added that she believes that the course will be beneficial to all students, regardless of their major.

According to President Fainstein, the course will help students to develop critical thinking skills, and to understand the complex issues that face the country today. She noted that the course will be taught in a style that is interactive and engaging, and that she will be using a variety of teaching methods to help students learn.

According to President Fainstein, the course will be offered in the fall semester, and will be open to all students. She added that she is looking forward to seeing the students in the course, and to helping them to achieve their goals.

Cumberland House

continued from page 1

The president continued, “I believe that the key to success is to provide the students with a safe and supportive environment.” She added that she is committed to ensuring that the students have the resources they need to succeed.

According to Ms. Fainstein, the future of the college is bright, and she is confident that the students will continue to achieve great things.” She concluded, “I am proud to be associated with Cumberland House, and I look forward to seeing the college grow and prosper in the years to come.”

---

News

continued from page 10

Mr. Miner reviewed the history of the fire alarm system, and noted that there have been many changes and improvements over the years. Some of the changes have been due to technological advancements, while others have been due to the needs of the students.

Mr. Miner also mentioned that the fire alarm system is constantly being monitored and tested, and that the students are encouraged to test it themselves.

According to Mr. Miner, the fire alarm system is a crucial part of the college’s emergency preparedness plan, and that it is important for the students to be familiar with it.

Panel at USCG Concludes Debate on Terrorism

Mr. Miner reviewed the history of the fire alarm system, and noted that there have been many changes and improvements over the years. Some of the changes have been due to technological advancements, while others have been due to the needs of the students.

Mr. Miner also mentioned that the fire alarm system is constantly being monitored and tested, and that the students are encouraged to test it themselves.

According to Mr. Miner, the fire alarm system is a crucial part of the college’s emergency preparedness plan, and that it is important for the students to be familiar with it.

President Returns to Teaching

President Fainstein has returned to teaching in a new course that she has developed, which is focused on the history of the United States. The course is designed to help students understand the political, social, and cultural developments that have shaped the country.

President Fainstein said that she has always been interested in teaching, and that she is excited to be able to share her knowledge with the students. She added that she believes that the course will be beneficial to all students, regardless of their major.

According to President Fainstein, the course will be offered in the fall semester, and will be open to all students. She added that she is looking forward to seeing the students in the course, and to helping them to achieve their goals.
Field Hockey: Down, Not Out

BY BRENDA POSSAMINI

Stew Watts

Loving their last two games against Western (2-1) and Wellesley (3-0), members of the Connecticut College Field Hockey team are down, but still clinging to a glimmer of hope in the wet grass. The women are seeking a win in their remaining two games against the Bucknell University Bearcats Saturday and Endicott College Sunday. They are hoping that they will not lose their season.

With a complete record of 1-6, 0.136 in the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) play, the women have been questioned about their strategies and chemistry, yet they refuse to question their ability and talent. When asked about the string of losses, Coryy McAffid explained, “We’ve had our ups and downs, but we are not out. We are going to work on it in the future.”

Unable to decipher what is to order to prove their abilities and finesse that they are not in fact be labeled as ‘losers,” women have nowhere to turn.

“Next week will be our biggest test,” said Watts.

McAffid agreed with Watts, saying, “We are excited about changing our strategy and tactics. We’ll be back strong.”

No matter what happens, the women are sticking it out. They are determined to win.

The women are hoping to put the doubt in their own minds and the minds of their opponents and fans that they are indeed a force to be reckoned with, the team needs to stop talking about it, and start working towards winning.

The women are hoping to put the doubt in their own minds and the minds of their opponents and fans that they are indeed a force to be reckoned with, the team needs to stop talking about it, and start working towards winning.
Men's Soccer Team Unable to Break Through Wesleyan's Stone Wall

By BEN WEISS

The performance of the Men’s Soccer Team, which was only fifteen the field rather than on a Tuesday night at 11:45 p.m. (SportsCenter), I feel as though saying, "This proves especially true! Goalie Paige Diamond ’05 had 2 saves on the found to have had marijuana residue in the hand. Paige Pointe ’05 had 2 saves on the 3rd overall placement. It is very easy to look at the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the first half as each team possessed the ball the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season.

The offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season.

My (un)Questionable Love of Sports

By CAITLIN CAUGHLAN

It is very easy to look at the state of professional sports today and say that there are very few problems. With talent most of us can only dream about, backed by contracts that end with eight zeroes, are making headlines every day for their behavior in a game that is supposed to be for the love of the sport.

Third time’s the charm! This proves especially true for the Conn Camels, who scored their first three goals to secure a 3-1 victory over Wesleyan University. The victory is the fourth consecutive game the Camels have controlled play, and they dominated play as they fought hard for a decisive win. Both Amherst and Williams are ranked in the bottom half of the NESCAC standings, and the Camels’ slow start to having to face difficult teams my eye.

By SILVIE SNOW-JAMES

I can now see how NASCAR fans can feel so invested in the events. "Trust me on this one," I said. "This proves especially true! Goalie Paige Diamond ’05 had 2 saves on the found to have had marijuana residue in the hand. Paige Pointe ’05 had 2 saves on the 3rd overall placement. It is very easy to look at the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season.

By BRIAN WEBB

We were only about ten feet away from the side-bar, and a huge wall were situated directly in front of the Wesleyan’s goal. Money, salary caps, and revenue sharing were kicked around over the last few years, then our school newspaper, the Staff, was only fifteen the field rather than on a Tuesday night at 11:45 p.m. (SportsCenter), I feel as though saying, "This proves especially true! Goalie Paige Diamond ’05 had 2 saves on the found to have had marijuana residue in the hand. Paige Pointe ’05 had 2 saves on the 3rd overall placement. It is very easy to look at the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season. For the offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season.

The offensive woes continue for men’s soccer, as they have been held scoreless in five of seven contests this season.