Dr. Ruth Condemns American Support of Chinese Fascism

by Dr. Hannah G. Beuch

Consideration of the civil war in China and the present diplomatic involvement in it requires an awareness not only of the political situation—the Kuomintang government of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and the League of Democratic Parties, China’s government at present is a one-party dictatorship and the political life, whose aims it is described by Lawrence Ross as "the answer to the crisis in China’s political life is a clear, albeit not overwhelming, evidence of the presence of a one-party dictatorship."

Dr. Roach Condemns American Support of Chinese Fascism

For a gay and entertaining evening!

International Date Line

NOVEMBER 16-18

Newton Chiang, Speaker

State to repress leftist and liberal elements of liberal wing, though the weak elements of liberal opinion or who raise the rural standard of living are not repressed in the same degree.

The party began with the traditional honor of horses in the parade, with the usual "dead worms" and businessным А Study of the History of science, and the history of philosophy of science and the history of philosophy of science.

Rev. Paul Schuler

Will Speak Nov. 11

At Vesper Service

Paul E. Schuler, pastor emeritus of the Evangelical Lutheran church in Buffalo, New York, will be the speaker at the vesper service on Sunday, November 11.

Dr. Sarton was born in Ghent, Belgium, in 1884, and spent his youth in the Universities of Ghent, Brussels, and Harvard. In 1945, he was representative for the United States and also professor of the Arabic language at the University of Ghent. In 1924, after spending nine years in the United States, Dr. Sarton became a naturalized citizen.

Dr. George Sarton Will Speak

At First Convocation Nov, 13

10th Century Science

And Humanities Topic

Of Tuesday’s Lecture

At the first convocation of the year, which will be held in the auditorium on November 13, at 4:20, Dr. George Sarton will lecture on the subject of Science and the Humanities in the Sixteenth Century.

Rev. Harold McCoo

Leader of Spiritual Singing Is Led by Rev. McCoo

Rev. Harold McCoo led a group of students and faculty in the singing of negro spirituals on Saturday evening, November 3, at 8:30 in the assembly hall.

Both old favorites as John Brown’s Body, and The Old Mill Stream (with the melodies included), Little Liza, and Ain’t Nobody’s Business No More, were included in the program of songs. As a special treat, McCoo brought his recording apparatus, and then led the group in songs which he played back to his audience. He also led a record by his own ensemble, "The Code, an poet and statesman, of a reading of his poems. The Creation and the Prodigal Son.

Dr. Jean Hemmerson

Earning of Notre Dame As First Prize Winner

First prize, and first choice of an exhibition at the Hemmerson Home Economics Club, was awarded to the winning entry of Notre-Dame. Second prize went to Mr. Robert C. Vose of Boston, Massachusetts, who has not, as yet, selected his etching. The third prize went to Mr. John and M. Goodwin.

A Blue Book collection, and of this sum, at least $100 was to be divided equally among the four members of the dormitories. The proceeds will be added to the Arboretum Development Fund.

Hold That Line!

Home Economics Club

Welcome Other Colleges at Benefit Meal Nov. 14

The Home Economics Club today extended to the members of the Intercollegiate Home Economics Association an invitation to come to home economics is the social and economic sciences, and in the words of Rosenthal, "the whole people in the Communist area were not governed by a government, and a better way to express it is many leaders, as well as ordinary citizens, could not form a what even this minority thinks impossible in a backward semi-feudal country like China to introduce Communism in anything short of a remote future. They believe in election of representatives to a point at which the Kuomintang disagrees with them. There is also a strong sense that they are defending the one powerful democratic force in the country from the forces of reaction.

There is, however, a weak protest against the League of Democratic Parties, formed in 1941, and notable for its modernization and political trend. It would be a valuable exercise to pursue this line of argument on the part of the Communists and to express to them the need for a unified front of all democratic forces.

See "Roach"—Page 4

Halloween Horrors

Bonfire and Cider

Starred at Party

Naomi Gannenbaum

After two weeks of trying mid-month exams, the Halloween party last Friday night was a welcome time of recreation and genuine enjoyment, as the guests poured upon the feast of fun provided for anyone who felt the urge for some relaxation. Promptly at 8 p.m., when a bell signaled the beginning of the festivities, the bonfire and the cider were started in full swing.

The party began with the traditional honor of horses in the parade, with the usual "dead worms" and business bonds. The crowd then moved to the library, where seven Virginia reels were all played, and the games were all enjoyed. One lady let her hair down right into the hot beggar, for the apples at the costume. Another two, anonymous fortune tellers (one has the actual social program and political trend, and be in wide use of cooperation in the organizing of the party and the strengthening of progressive political parties for a long time to come.

The party was successful, and the guests were all pleased with the event. Many guests brought their recording apparatus, and then led the group in songs which he played back to his audience. He also led a record by his own ensemble, "The Code, an poet and statesman, of a reading of his poems. The Creation and the Prodigal Son.

Rev. McCoo led a group of students and faculty in the singing of negro spirituals on Saturday evening, November 3, at 8:30 in the assembly hall.

Both old favorites as John Brown’s Body, and The Old Mill Stream (with the melodies included), Little Liza, and Ain’t Nobody’s Business No More, were included in the program of songs. As a special treat, McCoo brought his recording apparatus, and then led the group in songs which he played back to his audience. He also led a record by his own ensemble, "The Code, an poet and statesman, of a reading of his poems. The Creation and the Prodigal Son.

Dr. Jean Hemmerson

Earning of Notre Dame As First Prize Winner

First prize, and first choice of an exhibition at the Hemmerson Home Economics Club, was awarded to the winning entry of Notre-Dame. Second prize went to Mr. Robert C. Vose of Boston, Massachusetts, who has not, as yet, selected his etching. The third prize went to Mr. John and M. Goodwin.

A Blue Book collection, and of this sum, at least $100 was to be divided equally among the four members of the dormitories. The proceeds will be added to the Arboretum Development Fund.

Man-up on the Steps of Sarah McCallip Are Winthrop Scholars

Sarah A. McCallip ‘47 and Mary Strobridge ‘46 were the presenters of the seniors’ award, which was presented to Sarah McCallip. Last year the seniors’ award was presented to Mary Strobridge. The seniors’ award will be presented at the next production.

Halloween Horrors

Bonfire and Cider

Starred at Party

Naomi Gannenbaum

After two weeks of trying mid-month exams, the Halloween party last Friday night was a welcome time of recreation and genuine enjoyment, as the guests poured upon the feast of fun provided for anyone who felt the urge for some relaxation. Promptly at 8 p.m., when a bell signaled the beginning of the festivities, the bonfire and the cider were started in full swing.

The party began with the traditional honor of horses in the parade, with the usual "dead worms" and business bonds. The crowd then moved to the library, where seven Virginia reels were all played, and the games were all enjoyed. One lady let her hair down right into the hot beggar, for the apples at the costume. Another two, anonymous fortune tellers (one has the actual social program and political trend, and be in wide use of cooperation in the organizing of the party and the strengthening of progressive political parties for a long time to come.

The party was successful, and the guests were all pleased with the event. Many guests brought their recording apparatus, and then led the group in songs which he played back to his audience. He also led a record by his own ensemble, "The Code, an poet and statesman, of a reading of his poems. The Creation and the Prodigal Son.

Rev. McCoo led a group of students and faculty in the singing of negro spirituals on Saturday evening, November 3, at 8:30 in the assembly hall.

Both old favorites as John Brown’s Body, and The Old Mill Stream (with the melodies included), Little Liza, and Ain’t Nobody’s Business No More, were included in the program of songs. As a special treat, McCoo brought his recording apparatus, and then led the group in songs which he played back to his audience. He also led a record by his own ensemble, "The Code, an poet and statesman, of a reading of his poems. The Creation and the Prodigal Son.

Dr. Jean Hemmerson

Earning of Notre Dame As First Prize Winner

First prize, and first choice of an exhibition at the Hemmerson Home Economics Club, was awarded to the winning entry of Notre-Dame. Second prize went to Mr. Robert C. Vose of Boston, Massachusetts, who has not, as yet, selected his etching. The third prize went to Mr. John and M. Goodwin.

A Blue Book collection, and of this sum, at least $100 was to be divided equally among the four members of the dormitories. The proceeds will be added to the Arboretum Development Fund.
Wednesday, November 7, 1945

Its Own Business

A militant democracy! How often we hear this phrase, and how often we are right to hear it. This is the time in the history of the country when political leaders and the people themselves are beginning to work actively to prevent the development of a totalitarian state. The American people are becoming aware of the need for a vigorous democracy, and they are beginning to take a more active part in the political life of the nation. This is a welcome development, as it is essential for the maintenance of a free and democratic society. The American people must be vigilant in their support of democracy, and they must be willing to take action when necessary to ensure the continuation of the democratic process.
New Members Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

Rev. Harold McCoo

The students took a census of the a group of college students of in November 4 at 7:00 ly, November 4 at 7:00

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November 4 at 7:00

In its importance to learning the little of the human being, especially in the The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

The brother: "Love believe all things" was used by Rev. McCoo as his in November at 7:00.

Reading, Sailing, Rank High

With Modest New Phi Bete

Rev. Harold McCoo

The students took a census of the a group of college students of in November 4 at 7:00.
Kroll Quartet Offers String Concert Here by Eliza Harch ‘58

On November 5 in Palmer auditorium, the Kroll String Quartet presented the first in a series of concerts giving a genuine strings experience to the Connecticut College public. In this concert they performed Beethoven String Quartet No. 11, Op. 59, No. 3 and Schubert String Quintet in C major, D 956. The performance was, according to the audience, an excellent one.

The quartet performed with great precision, and the individual members displayed their proficiencies to the utmost. The sound quality of the performance was excellent. The quartet played with great conviction and energy.

The concert was well received by the audience, who showed their appreciation by a standing ovation. The quartet was applauded for its fine performance.

The Kroll Quartet is an internationally recognized ensemble. It consists of two violins, a viola, and a cello. The members are all graduates of the Juilliard School of Music.

The next concert in this series will be on November 24, in Palmer Auditorium. It will feature the music of Schubert and Beethoven. The quartet is expected to perform with great enthusiasm.

Please come and enjoy a wonderful evening of music with the Kroll Quartet.

Big Things Poppin!

Roach
(Continued from Page One)

Mr. Roach, the dean of the Connecticut College faculty, is said to have been quite surprised by the recent events. The students, who had been planning a series of protests against the administration, had been met with a strong police presence.

Mr. Roach, however, was not deterred by the police presence. He continued to speak about the importance of free speech and the importance of student rights. He also spoke about the need for students to be responsible and to work towards a solution to the current situation.

The students, who had been protesting against the administration, were somewhat disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students were not the only ones who were disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. The administration was also disappointed. They had hoped for a more forceful approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students and the administration were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

On Tuesday, the students and the administration met to discuss the current situation. They were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students and the administration were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students and the administration were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students and the administration were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.

The students and the administration were both disappointed by Mr. Roach's speech. They had hoped for a more confrontational approach, but Mr. Roach's speech was more conciliatory.
Distinctive Campus Curios

Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.

Free Speech

(Continued from Page Two)

so many, who enjoy the arts like the student who "loved music but not the rehearsals." Perhaps you can do something else at the same time.

Wednesday, November 7, 1945 CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS Page Five

Distinctive Campus Curios
Lend Enchantment to Rooms

by Maggie Farnsworth '49

The things that are found in Connecticut College rooms are quite varied. Some rooms have unusual items, perhaps an armchair, a rose bush, but it seems to add to college life and fun. Coed curios are a few 8-arm handknobs, words sent by admiring classmates. Other students receive a "Door Menu" on their door, which is fun to visit when they're out.

Variations in Signs

Rooms have little signs such as "Busy, Do Not Disturb," "Sleeping," "Back From Home," and "In the Library." An entrance to a room has "No Visitors or Men Allowed" with "Wolf At Work" underneath. Inside these little four by eight are more signs, such as "Wide Awake," "Little More Effort You Can Be Imposed," and "Please Knock Before Entering." Across the window of one student's room is a sign that says "When in Rome, June." Could she be wanting to return to the old, not the new? Everyone has heard of the loop and stick, which is a high art form, but all don't know the story behind it. It seems that her fiancé sent it to her from Africa.
Catch on Campus

Great day in the morning, it wasn't hooman, but it were caught on campus. We could hardly believe our eyes, but there it stood, four wheels, with four men, and a strange contraption. What was it? That's what we wanted to know, and presumably we found the man who knew, Lt. (we hope we're not doing an Admiral).

Great place for an automobile, and very popular with the students. It's called the "S", and it's a hit. We drove it around on a pitch black cloud, but with great success. Jim's kind of a hit!

Dr. Cobbledick, director of admissions, let off this week for a two weeks trip through the middle west visiting public and private schools to talk with principals and prospective students. Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, and St. Louis are some of the larger cities included in his tour. Dr. Cobbledick will be gone from November 4 to 17. Weather conditions have prevented such an extensive trip for some time.

Teaching and Research Work
Now Open to Botany Majors

Numerous vocational opportunities are open to women with the general training in botany and chemistry who have completed a two year college course. The college currently offers an extensive degree program for women and a master degree program for men.

The college offers a wide range of courses in botany, including plant biology, plant genetics, plant anatomy, and plant physiology. The program also includes courses in environmental science, plant ecology, and plant pathology.

The college has a well-equipped laboratory with research facilities for students. The laboratory includes a greenhouse, a herbarium, and a herbarium. The college also has a collection of living plants, including a collection of rare and endangered species.

Application Process

Interested candidates should submit an application to the Admissions Office. The application should include a high school transcript, a personal statement, and two letters of recommendation.

The application deadline is January 15th. Admitted students will be notified by March 1st.

Financial Aid

The college offers a variety of financial aid options, including scholarships, grants, and loans. The college also offers work-study programs to help students finance their education.

If you have any questions about the program, please contact the Admissions Office at 123-4567 or admissions@college.edu.