Cabinet
Cabinet Discusses Campus Committee, New Edition of "C"
The meeting was called to order by Barbara Faisten at 5:15 p.m. on Wednesday, October 22, 1952.
The following announcements were made:

A letter from the American Friends Service Committee announcing a conference entitled The Struggle and Strategy of Social Justice to be held at Harvard, October 23-Nov. 2 was read. The letter will be posted in Panning for the benefit of interested students.

Cabinet was informed that, in general, chapel attendance has been much better this year than it was last year.

Political Forum plans to take a poll of student opinion in the near future.

Students should be aware of the fact that they are continually re-garated by others as being representatives of the college.

Cabinet discussed the Campus Committee and decided that the committee should be continued, that it fulfilled an important function on campus not so much by outlining new activities but rather by creating conditions for interesting opportunities. It was suggested that the committee be composed of a few members of Cabinet and representatives from each class.

The suggestion was made to the effect that more centralized means of posting announcements could be found. Cabinet, however, was of the opinion that the Pantry should be the depository, since numerous, were yet as centralized as possible.

The reorganization of the "C" book was discussed. The task will probably be performed by Members of Representatives and a committee composed of students for each "C" end editor and members from each class.

The meeting was adjourned at 5:45.

Acquisitions Do Not Abridge, But Overextend, Free Speech.
"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech.

The above quotation is taken from the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It has been misinterpreted by numerous people to mean that any and everything we please. Senator Joseph McCarthy of Minnesota seems to be one of those people.

What so many of us, and most of all Mr. McCarthy, forget is that the rights guaranteed us by the Constitution carry with them the responsibility of going to the polls on election day, so the right to free speech carries with it the responsibility of its judicious use.

We are uncertain, after the Senator's most recent defama-tion of character, whether he has ever heard of the phrase, "judicious use."

We would like to point out the meaning of this phrase, which is that free speech should be used in a positive sense rather than in a negative one. In other words, speeches should be made that stimulate thought and activity, rather than mere rabble-rousing, with the responsibility of going to the polls on election day, so the right to free speech carries with it the responsibility of its judicious use.

In our opinion, Senator McCarthy is a rabble-rouser who cannot possibly be concerned with the welfare of the country as a whole, since he has done nothing other than to stir up a frantic, paralyzing fear of Communism, which threatens, in our opinion, the safety of the country itself, to destroy all the democratic values we cherish.

Perhaps Mr. McCarthy sincerely wants to see the Republic party in power, but we, as Americans, have never be-lieved that the end justifies the means. Though many of us believe that McCarthy is a worthy man, we cannot sanction the means by which he has obtained his position.

A. A. Plans Include Interclass Games, Annual Fun Party

by Midge Briggs and Ann Matthews

Interclass games are just getting under way this week so now news from the sports front is pretty scarce. As far as we know, the only form of athletic activity that is enjoying our time at the moment.

The problem of getting the leaership, that started earlier this term, has, however, finally been solved by A. A. From now on, the sports teams will be elected earlier at the same time that the class will be elected. More to the point, the leadership will be elected by the sports community.

Spoons and waffles will invade the gym tomorrow night for the annual Halloween party sponsored by A A for students, faculty, and staff.

There will be many different games and prizes, including a horror chamber, a couples contest, booths, a dance, a craft show, and a costume contest. The costumes will probably be the most original costumes. Everyone is urged to attend this week-end and come join the fun.

Students, Faculty Give 138 Pints of Blood in RC Drive

In rewarding contrast to previous years, when the Red Cross Bloodmobile went to the campus, more than 100 persons donated 138 pints of blood when the Bloodmobile was stationed here on Tuesday, October 21.

Previously donations, for last year and the year before, were 28 pints and 87 pints, respectively. This past week, the number of people who volunteered to give blood, including 153 faculty, students, and staff.

The visit of the Bloodmobile was arranged under the auspices of the Post War Servicemen's Club, Miss Mildred Burdett of the College of Education department chairman in charge of organization, and local recruitment, was assisted by Ed Harris, director of the college's College Nursing School. Member of the service will be any student who with added with publicity and cooperation of Betty Johnson, Lydia Rich-tons, all members of the senior class.

Because of the large turn-out of students, the Post War Servicemen are keeping the individual schedules of those individuals who have been given to this problem so that in another year the full operation of blood donation will proceed more smoothly.

Do Students Think in Classroom?

A survey of students actually think about in class, conducted by Benjamin S. Bloom, associate professor of education and examiner in the College of the University of Chicago, reveals wide variations in thinking that takes place.

The survey taken of students in five lecture classes and in thirty discussion groups showed that students spent almost two-thirds of their time thinking about the topic discussed or being lectured on. In the remaining third of the time their thoughts were irrelevant to the classwork.

In discussion classes, one-third of the thinking is made up of trying to solve problems that come out in the discussion. About a quarter of the time is spent in thinking about people, including oneself and the danger of being called upon. In lectures, students spend forty per cent of the time merely following the lecture, a different kind of thinking from the problem solving involved in discussion classes.

Various psychological tests were applied to students reporting on what they thought in class. Those whose personalities were considered negative had two different kinds of thoughts. The bright students with negative thinking criticized what was being said in class. Less bright students mentally criticized other people in class, including their clothes, appearance, and conduct; persons suffering from anxiety, according to the tests, tended to think more about themselves than about what was going on in class.

The studies were made possible because of a new technique, called stimulated recall, developed at the university within the last two years. By playing tape recordings of classroom events within two days after class, students were able to recall 95 per cent of what went on. The recordings served as an assist to recalling their thoughts as well.

Tips for instructors also come from the study. One suggests that a wisecrack attracts too much attention itself. Another instructs the student from the remainder of the lecture. The instructor regained as antagonistic by the students, the one who disciplines the class into line gets more attention from the students than do the ideas he presents.
