A THREE HUNDRED dollar FINE FOR DRINKING

UNH Brings Law to Campus with Arrests and Fines

By ROB KNAKE

Managing editor

While Currier Students and Dorm residents are [], the administration is trying to contain the spread of alcohol on campus. At this point students are being arrested for drinking underage and for having an open container. If they are caught drinking on the public roads, they are likely to be arrested. All the while, alcohol is pouring into the dorms with little or no control.

The problem is getting worse, and the administration is trying to contain it with new policies. Until now, alcohol was simply a matter of concern to the students and their friends. Now, it is a serious issue that the administration is trying to address.

Kristine Cyr Goodwin, Dean of Student Life at the university, said, "The administration is taking this issue seriously. We have implemented new policies, and we are taking action to ensure that alcohol is not a problem on campus."

The new policies include a $250 fine for anyone caught drinking on campus. Students who violate the policy will be suspended for a year. The new policy is effective immediately, and it is expected to have a significant impact on alcohol consumption on campus.

The administration is also working with local law enforcement to ensure that students are not violating the new policy. They have set up a hotline where students can report violations. The hotline is staffed 24 hours a day, and officers are on duty at all times.

The administration is also working with the local community to ensure that alcohol is not being sold to underage students. They have set up a task force to investigate the sale of alcohol to students.

The administration is also working with the local community to ensure that alcohol is not being sold to underage students. They have set up a task force to investigate the sale of alcohol to students.

The administration is also working with the local community to ensure that alcohol is not being sold to underage students. They have set up a task force to investigate the sale of alcohol to students.

The administration is also working with the local community to ensure that alcohol is not being sold to underage students. They have set up a task force to investigate the sale of alcohol to students.
Let Them Continue Their Work

In the upcoming New London elections, the choice is clear. The Voice endorses seven incumbent candidates for re-election to the New London City Council.

More has happened in New London in the last 24 months than in the past 50 years. Among other signs of gain, signs of growth are everywhere: Pilgrim buildings, piles of dirt being driven for the waterfront park, and developers have just been handed the keys to build a new campus center and park at Fort Trumbull and to renovate these historic buildings downtown.

New London is on the rise and the numbers show it. Housing prices have gone up 20 percent over the last year and office space is rating for 20 to 25 percent more than it was a year ago. Unemployment has dropped from six and a half percent to less than three percent.

This did not happen overnight. Two years ago, under the direction of President Gaudiani '66, the New London Development Corporation was restructured and has been driving the force behind the reinterpretation redevelopment. The NLC, however, does not do all of the work. Seven intelligent, articulate, and dedicated city council members have been working in cooperation with the NLD and supporting the redevelopment, but have been crucial participants.

The incumbent candidates are a motley crew--a city that has traditionally been a Democratic town (with registered Democrats outnumbering Republicans three to one). Four candidates in particular have been endorsed by the pre-development political action committee, "Keep New London Moving Forward," including Republicans Bob Burdick and Bob Perp., and two Democrats, Eric Hewett and Peg Curtin.

These four have been unwavering in their support of President Gaudiani and the NLC, voting as a block on crucial New London initiatives.

In addition to these four, Mayor Tim West, Lieutenant Governor Roger Enos, all native New Londoners, have been instrumental in redeveloping the city. They are, however, not always as enthusiastic about the NLC and are often at odds with President Gaudiani.

We think that this is a good thing. Divorce and compromise are two very necessary elements of any functioning democracy. Tim West, Lieutenant Governor David Govad at the ceremonial driving of the first pilings for the new waterfront park. Yet, he is not afraid to stand up to NLD and "laureate Dr. Gaudiani" until he is "blue in the face" on the necessity of her staying out of New London politics.

Lloyd Beachy has also been active in keeping the Council from becoming a puppet of NLD and protecting the City from losing control. Beachy believes he may be inacquately seen by the "Keep New London Moving Forward," the Council. Grouped with staunch supporters of President Gaudiani like Burdick, Hewett, Perp, and Curtin, Lloyd Beachy, Tim West and Ronald Noussek represent a three-party challenge to NLD and ensure that the redevelopment of New London remains checked by the citizens. Only through this struggle that continues, can Council will the best compromise between President Gaudiani and a version of "top little city" and the New London of old be reached.

Letter to the Editor

Lack of Suitable Homoecoming Activities Leads to Crowding and Chaos

Chaos. That is how I would describe this past Saturday night at homecoming weekend. I was extremely disappointed with the absence of the campus functions besides two bands in the Coo's Nest. How is the campus supposed to socialize with so many shows on campus?

The first floor of Coo was packed with people that you could not move. A brawl almost broke out at the entrance to the bar because no one else could get inside. Since there was nowhere else to go, students searched the bar area and 'flooded' it. I felt bad for the people that were threatened. As it got more rowdy, the bar had to be closed.

Poor Plenty are illegal, but that was the only thing they could do. No one was dancing in a party where everyone was put in a difficult position, especially bondholders. The flip side of this is not everyone wants to be part of the College community that is being lost. This is the true community pluralism that is being lost. While the college possesses the ambition to position itself for the next millennium, does it mean we must follow every presidential wish? Could we step back for a second and examine what we have done because there are quite a few hindering us.

Minor, I don't think your opinion wasn't about Monica Lewinsky. In the contrary, your ann around his favors rather than intelligence. Minor, I don't think your opinion wasn't about Monica Lewinsky. In the contrary, your ann around his favors rather than intelligence.

Since I can not congregate or answer as I do during my free time at this college, the information has kindly provided me for the time to comment. It is my opinion that women should be valued for their accomplishments without the impulse of the individual, the impulse of the community. Usually this impulse is used to advocate the spirit of the individual, but in the case of the College and its highly esteemed president, this is the true community pluralism that is being lost.

Minor, I don't think your opinion wasn't about Monica Lewinsky. In the contrary, your ann around his favors rather than intelligence. Minor, I don't think your opinion wasn't about Monica Lewinsky. In the contrary, your ann around his favors rather than intelligence.

Women work hard for their positions, and his posters are objects for sex. Women work hard for their positions, and his posters are objects for sex. Women work hard for their positions, and his posters are objects for sex. Women work hard for their positions, and his posters are objects for sex. Women work hard for their positions, and his posters are objects for sex.
What's Next? Tougher Hook-Up Standards?

As I sat and stared at the screen in the darkened theater, I began to wonder what the world was happening to the world.

I was going to dye my black hair pink and have a wild party to celebrate.

But that, naturally, never happened. Besides, whatever makes you happy, that makes what really matters is how far we can go.

The Camelot Club is not as strong as we made it, but we will still have better. The Honor Code truly is as strong as the campus safety officer on duty. Now in the case of the one they call "Crazy Love," that's pretty messed up.

But sometimes there's room to negotiate. The boys in blue are human, too. They respond to the same type of pressure and needs as you and I. Okay, so they let you know if your nearest neighbor's advisor and his or her last one just fell out of the closet and do a little old paint job.

Furthermore, because of nonsense complaints from certain residents of Franklin that annual activity will only be allowed Saturday mornings on Blackstock Green.

The truth is that the Camelot Club is just a method of physical enjoyment and escape that can lead to a relaxed and well-timed activity description to the registrar's office before 5 p.m. on Friday.

Anyone caught violating this policy will be hung by their genitals from the tallest tree in the Arboretum. Thank you, and have a good life.

The Poisen Pen

As I sat and stared at the screen in the darkened theater, I began to wonder what the world was happening to the world.

I was going to dye my black hair pink and have a wild party to celebrate.

But that, naturally, never happened. Besides, whatever makes you happy, that makes what really matters is how far we can go.

The Camelot Club is not as strong as we made it, but we will still have better. The Honor Code truly is as strong as the campus safety officer on duty. Now in the case of the one they call "Crazy Love," that's pretty messed up.

But sometimes there's room to negotiate. The boys in blue are human, too. They respond to the same type of pressure and needs as you and I. Okay, so they let you know if your nearest neighbor's advisor and his or her last one just fell out of the closet and do a little old paint job.

Furthermore, because of nonsense complaints from certain residents of Franklin that annual activity will only be allowed Saturday mornings on Blackstock Green.

The truth is that the Camelot Club is just a method of physical enjoyment and escape that can lead to a relaxed and well-timed activity description to the registrar's office before 5 p.m. on Friday.

Anyone caught violating this policy will be hung by their genitals from the tallest tree in the Arboretum. Thank you, and have a good life. The Camelot Club is not as strong as we made it, but we will still have better. The Honor Code truly is as strong as the campus safety officer on duty. Now in the case of the one they call "Crazy Love," that's pretty messed up.

But sometimes there's room to negotiate. The boys in blue are human, too. They respond to the same type of pressure and needs as you and I. Okay, so they let you know if your nearest neighbor's advisor and his or her last one just fell out of the closet and do a little old paint job.

Furthermore, because of nonsense complaints from certain residents of Franklin that annual activity will only be allowed Saturday mornings on Blackstock Green.

The truth is that the Camelot Club is just a method of physical enjoyment and escape that can lead to a relaxed and well-timed activity description to the registrar's office before 5 p.m. on Friday.

Anyone caught violating this policy will be hung by their genitals from the tallest tree in the Arboretum. Thank you, and have a good life.

The Poisen Pen

As I sat and stared at the screen in the darkened theater, I began to wonder what the world was happening to the world.

I was going to dye my black hair pink and have a wild party to celebrate.

But that, naturally, never happened. Besides, whatever makes you happy, that makes what really matters is how far we can go.

The Camelot Club is not as strong as we made it, but we will still have better. The Honor Code truly is as strong as the campus safety officer on duty. Now in the case of the one they call "Crazy Love," that's pretty messed up.

But sometimes there's room to negotiate. The boys in blue are human, too. They respond to the same type of pressure and needs as you and I. Okay, so they let you know if your nearest neighbor's advisor and his or her last one just fell out of the closet and do a little old paint job.

Furthermore, because of nonsense complaints from certain residents of Franklin that annual activity will only be allowed Saturday mornings on Blackstock Green.

The truth is that the Camelot Club is just a method of physical enjoyment and escape that can lead to a relaxed and well-timed...
A BACKSTAGE LOOK:
New Developments Enliven Theater Department

By BETH VOGAN

Warren Channels Arctic Observations into Art

By GRACE ALBINSON

Warren Channels Arctic Observations into Art

by DIANA MARNER

There's More to Than Margaritas

by CARA CUTLER

Our Lady Peace's Happiness Brings Bliss; but Dope's Felons Bring a Miss

by JEFF STODDARD

REAL JOBS

Council Travel from A to Z

London 13

Student Travel

Paris 14

New York 14

Amsterdam 154

Barcelona 154

Vienna 154

From a hand at a pa

to a hand in a

1-800-2COUNCIL
UAL Uncks Cracks Down on Alcohol Abuse

continued from page 1

A young student in his wild blue eyeshirt, Goodwin said that this was “an important moment in my career” and that she was “very pleased” with the outcome.

Goodwin pointed out that she was not censureing students for getting drunk, but that she was concerned about the legal implications of underage drinking.

“Today’s young people are much more conscious of the consequences of their actions,” Goodwin said. “They are more aware of the dangers associated with underage drinking.”

She also emphasized the importance of parental involvement in alcohol issues.

“Parents need to be involved in their children’s lives and make sure they are not drinking alcohol when they are away from home,” Goodwin said.

An anonymous source within the University said that the decision was not surprising, given the recent increase in alcohol-related incidents on campus.

The source said that the University had been working on implementing stricter policies for some time, and that the decision was a step in the right direction.

The University has also been working with local law enforcement to combat underage drinking.

UNH officials have been working with the local police department to improve communication and cooperation on alcohol-related issues.

The University has also been conducting surveys to determine the level of violence and alcohol abuse on campus.

The data collected from these surveys will be used to develop new policies and strategies to address the problem.

The University is committed to creating a safe and healthy environment for all students, and it is working hard to achieve this goal.

SeaPony LLC

Fall foliage cruise on Thames River this Sat and Sun. Space is limited on each cruise so reservations are recommended $15/person for a 1.5 hour cruise. Dress Warmly

SeePony Fall Foliage Cruises

Sat: 11:00 am, 1:30 pm, 4:00 pm
Sun: 12:00 noon, 2:00 pm, 4:00 pm
Weather Permitting
Board SeePony at City Pier, New London
Tel: 860-444-0585
Campus Mourns Loss of Hillary Fein '03

continued from page 1

...Raymond Amonte's journalistic outlet "The Voice" marks the end of the year..."

...New London's Drive Alive..."

...LEADERSHIP FOR NEW LONDON..."

...Rise to Promote Campus Trips..."

...CLASSIFIED ADS..."

...CLASSIFIED ADS..."

...PULL LEVER 7B..."
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1999

NEWS

Speaker Emphasizes Role of Environment in the Future Of Cities

By STEVE REYNOLDS

Staff Writer

Before Geddes began speaking, Ralph P. Lucas, director of Urban Affairs at Connecticut College, an organization which sponsors a wide range of environmental activities, gave a few brief remarks concerning the negative effects cities have on both our health and the environment.

Following this introduction, Geddes made his way to the podium and delivered an interesting, informative lecture concerning the role the environment has played in the development of America's urban centers.

According to a sense of order depicting images of nature and cities, Geddes told the audience, "Nature is the place in which buildings, landscapes, and cities originate."

Geddes then went on to discuss the wilderness, pastoral, and urban types of landscapes. Although each is supposed to remain separate, in practice, they are often coexisting, creating conflicting, distorted landscapes. Geddes continued speaking of the wilderness, inviting quotations from Thomas Jefferson and even the Declaration of Independence.

As Geddes explained, the wilderness and the wildernesses into which the modern cities have incorporated the wildernesses into their own work, effectively juxtaposing the wilderness and man-made structures into dynamic fashion. It was stressed that the wildernesses were admired in the development of both modern and ancient societies.

Geddes ended his talk by showing a series of slides portraying the same location of the wilderness, the wildernesses, and the wildernesses. The constant theme was that of the challenge of the wilderness to the wildernesses and the wildernesses.

Michael Richards '78

Liberal Arts Essential to Foreign Service Career

By JEANNE MILLARD

Staff Writer

As part of the Distinguished Alumni Speaker Series, Michael Richards, '78 related how the education he received at Conn. aided him during his career in the Foreign Service.

Richards graduated from Conn. with a bachelor of science and from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a master of science. He is currently enrolled in an intensive, foreign language. Richards explained that his work in the Foreign Service is "unusually demanding and challenging."

For Richards' next assignment, he will serve as the Director for the American Center in Jerusalem. He

Believe Politics Has Nothing to Do with Your Life?

Skeptical About Government? [DOES THE TRUE FACTS]

INTERN AT THE CONNECTICUT STATE CAPITAL

Learn about state government and earn academic credit this spring semester as a legislative intern at the State Capitol. Work with a state senator or representative and develop first-hand knowledge of the real world of politics.

Both part-time and full-time internships are available. A major in political science and prior politics courses are not required. Academic credit is granted by most colleges and universities. All interested persons, however, are strongly encouraged to attend a briefing, a disadvantaged student who was interested in working for the Foreign Service, decided to prepare for the Foreign Service. Richards was accepted into the Foreign Service program.

Richards was accepted into the Foreign Service program. He

Interested in Writing Features for The College Voice?

Contact us at 23281

---

offerred by Health Services:

FLU PREVENTION WEEK

NOVEMBER 15-19

NO APPOINTMENT NECESSARY

NOV. 15 MONDAY: WALK-IN-Clinic© CRO-WMS 8:30-4:00PM

NOV. 16 TUESDAY: WALK-IN-Clinic© ATHLETIC CENTER 1:00-4:00PM meeting room #15

NOV. 17 WEDNESDAY: Walk Into Health Services 1:00-4:00PM

NOV. 19 FRIDAY:

COST: $8.00 Cash or Chg. Student's Account

---

---
Offensive Frustration Continues in Homecoming Defeat

Women's Soccer Falls to Bates, 0-1

By MATTHEW B. KESSELL

Assistant Sports Editor

Prior to the women's soccer team's Homecoming showdown against Bates College, NESCAC Defensive Player of the Year Kate O'Malley professed: "The last game against Bates was an embarrassment. We just couldn't seem to put it together. What we've got to do is just to play better and try to win." Suspended last time out, O'Malley proved her presence felt early in this game.

The atmosphere clearly indicated something different. The huge crowd to attend Homecoming Games was an event in itself and not just some sport. It was more a family affair than anything else. The fans appeared to be more a part of the Homecoming celebration than anything else. It was a fun game with good sportsmanship and character.

Coach Kline and the rest of the Camel faithful rely heavily on O'Malley. She is the team's leader and has been for some time. She has always been one of the team's most consistent players, but she has also been a leader on and off the court.

This season, however, has been a struggle for O'Malley. She has struggled with her consistency and has not been able to put together a season like she has had in the past. She has been inconsistent in her game and has not been able to lead the team like she has in the past.

O'Malley's assist in the 38th minute when she set up her teammate, Meghan Welch, for her fifth goal of the season, was key in helping the Camel offense find its rhythm. O'Malley has been the team's go-to player this season and has been a huge asset to the team.

The atmosphere clearly indicated something different. The huge crowd to attend Homecoming Games was an event in itself and not just some sport. It was more a family affair than anything else. The fans appeared to be more a part of the Homecoming celebration than anything else. It was a fun game with good sportsmanship and character.