Seniors Defeat Faculty In Soccer, 2-1.

All the student-body, especially the President, were over the faculty's gallant but unsuccessful attempt to out-kick the Seniors in the annual soccer game.

It was a great game. The zealous faculty—not satisfied with the job of defending their individual positions—placed anywhere on the field, helping out their fellow players. Dr. Leib's red cap was seen on the ring as often as inside, and Dr. Lawrence's yellow scarf was dipped gaily in the teason in exactly the opposite place on the field from where that gentleman had been stationed.

The Senior team was composed of well over two dozen of '25. The spectators knew their playing so well that the '24 team was merely a convenient wall for the '25s to shoot at. As the unexpected happened, and Lorraine Ferris missed her next against Miss Williams, or when Dorothy Roy was somewhat halting, the Senior team was allowing itself to be out-kicked.

The following changes have been made in the "C": Page 28, section 4, away in the New Lebanon, and promise to notify the Faculty, giving the statement of the girls who have left camps overnight, to be omitted. Page 44, part 5, change of "c." to "q." Page 44, section 2, line 1, "when returning on tennis courts rather than arriving later than 7:30.

Additions,

The following modifications in regards to the "Week-end" regulations have been made:

A regular week-end may start on Friday at 10:00 o'clock instead of at 9:00.

A girl may take a "Prom Leave" beginning Friday morning and ending Sunday night at 9:00 o'clock, having it count as two week-ends. It is necessary to have special permission from Dean Benedict to take a "Prom Leave." No girl may take more than two "Prom Leaves" a semester.

An extension of time by leaving before the stated time or returning later than 9:00 p.m. on Sunday, is to be counted as a week-end. Any increase in the number of days of the rule will be treated as a serious offense; and any week-end so extended shall not be counted as one or more weeks.

Missing a train is not to be considered an adequate excuse for arriving later than 9:00 o'clock Sunday night.

Any one returning to college late should notify his House President, rather than the Student Government Secretary.

Those girls living on campus with homes in New London, may take their allotted number of week-ends, according to academic standing, not being under college jurisdiction, but if they take additional week-ends at home, they will be under college jurisdiction. A girl visiting in New London will be under college jurisdiction, and it would not be considered acceptable to arrive at home at any time in New London is not considered a week-end. Any night spent in New London, the week, during the week, requires special permission, but will not be addressed as a week-end.

Interpretations.

Interpretations of old rules are as follows:

If a girl returns to her house between 11:30 and 10:30, she reports to the House Committee.

Girls "competed" may go to church on Sunday, coming and going directly. All requests for special permission continued on page 3, column 2.
THE PACE THAT KILLS.

The activity bound is a familiar figure on every campus. He is a joiner. He must join everything, and account of the theoretical influence he is supposed to have with various organizations is his business. He must be in on the latest campus currents. He says in "The Loiterer" that he neglects his studies in order to keep up with activities of this college life that I neglect. I must follow his example.

I don’t disappoint my parents or my organization. They, too seem to believe that if you are not in on the pace or else be an utter failure. I want a certain per cent. of everything, but I am not satisfied to get a few crumbs of such a mixture. If I give too much attention to a certain organization, I am not interested in the activities of another. I have recoiled from the idea of becoming a continuous collegiate pessimist, he promises that he will be in on time. Dates and appointments must be kept. It seems no way out. The pace is set for me and I must follow.

THE LOITERER.

In the Nature of a Few Miscellaneous Words.

Because the Loiterer feels that when the present vague and unhooped for re- moteness of Saturday was replaced by the day exposed and real, there will be no genuine urge for uplift such as she annually radiates from this column; she has decided to fill her inches with matteriness which may deal with any and every subject. The Loiterer hopes that she understands the use of the word.

Anyway, in the November number of this magazine a guest of the great Jesse Lynch Williams, entitled "I think of him anyway?" His story sentence possesses a peculiar charm—and even a mild form of special fascination. It reads, "If a young man really wants an education he can usually get one anywhere, even at a college that he has only heard of from his correspondent. Such delightfully cynical! It is a wonderful experience—and we hope not an unappreciated one. Mr. Williams, who seems to be an alumnus of Princeton, has retired his undergraduate pessimism with unusual ardor. He admits candidly that he only worked for two professors, one of whom happened to be Dean Wilson. Hereupon he drops his diploma in his hand be openly scoffs at the college country clubs, and says that their impeding downfall will bring with it the downfall of our only hope. And he thinks that the process of change has already begun to be self inventive. Any number of young people are lured to college by the social reputation of the institution to which they have to work to stay there. Mr. Williams enjoys their dis- may, of course, he is to be fair to himself, he does admit that the ability he acquired as a member of the rifle team shooting at clay pigeons, has stood him in good stead while duck hunting.

What do you think of him anyway?

If a continuous collegiate pessimist, he has been unable to keep his attitude from assuming the inevitable paternal, petrifying manner, which the youth of the country is so often allowed, or forced to observe. The Loiterer hopes for the sake that she and her com- patriots will be saved from complete despair. And yet, why do he get paternal? why couldn’t he be on being a proverb? It would have been much more interesting.

And now to be miscellaneous: All the turkeys which were consumed during mid-year and vacations. The Assembly and the Coun- sel of Arbitration, has stood him in good stead while duck hunting.

Senior-Faculty Banquet. Eonds Fall Athletics. Continued from page 1, column 1. Teninn tournament was not given, for the game have not yet been played off. However, Dr. Bates was present and read a short sketch of Eliza Lark- ner's on the subject of playing off tennis sets by telegraph. Elizabeth Damerel, as president of A. A., introduced the speakers, flew, and presented the cup to Margery Thompson, captain of the victorious Senior Slocker team. Miss Thompson spoke in behalf of her team and class and said that she felt that this game was the best ever played at C. C. Dr. Leb, as captain of the faculty team gave a humorous speech, noting that according to statistics, C. C. was the only college where the faculty team was ever beaten by a girls' team in soccer. President Marshall spoke of this banquet as the one occasion that brought the faculty and students of C. C. into close touch and comradeship. He gave the Physical Education Department much praise for their work in helping forward the spirit of sportsmanship and teamwork in the college. Two new members of the Faculty were given their numerals for playing on the team—they were: Miss Fisher and Emily Warner. The whole affair was most enjoyable and the lovely spirit of the comradeship developed at C. C.'s faculty and students made the banquet even an enormous success. The banquet ended with the singing of the "Abba Mater".

EXCAVATIONS IN EGYPT REVEAL PAST.
Concluded from page 1, column 1, did not build it, for they did not have architecture at this time.

Another recent discovery, that has not been made public yet, is that of a tomb in the Valley of Kings. The tomb room is covered with rock and debris because of an earthquake. The interesting object in the tomb is a mummy which was accidentally left on top of one of the boxes. On it is the name Meryre, the name of the builder of the first pyramid. This tomb has not been carefully examined yet.

PROTECTING YOUR HEALTH.
Concluded from page 1, column 1, service. Men and women have been fighting the battle for our health in our laboratories, in the lecture room, in the schools, on the street corners, in the homes, hospitals and in the ways that the average person little dreams of. Such ancient plagues as those of leprosy, smallpox and yellow fever, have gradually disappeared. Tuberculosis is going along with them and in another twenty-five years will probably be entirely eliminated.

Last year many thousands of people were spared at Christmas time in providing the sins of war to protect their health by the health dealers in buying Christmas seals. This year for the eighteenth time the national, state and local tuberculosis associations are asking you to help again. The tuberculosis seals you purchase will help provide some of the funds that will enable the invisible and unknown protectors of your health to do better service for you and the country.
