Dr. Namba Returns
After Washington Education Meeting

President Park returned recently from the White House Conference on Washington. The aim of the conference was to enlighten people on education and to pro-move interest and activity in the problem among high school and college educators...

Approximately 600 delegates attended the conference, which was held at the Pe tific Hotel. Dr. Park and Dean Burdick, as well as President Park's house, will serenade both faculty and students, according to the wishes of the freshmen.

Dr. Namba is interested in administration, general education, dormitory management, and extra-curricular activities. While at Connecticut, he was a student of Dr. H. S. Nishimori, Japan, visited Connecticut, and later, after working as a chairman appointed from each round table who would meet with the other chairmen and draft a report which would be read by two people appointed from this group of chairmen.

High school students affiliated with Kobe College, Nishinomiya, Japan, participate in annual field day.

Adult Education Increasing; Lectures by Strider, Mayhew Popular With New Londoners
by Vidal de Castro

The trend toward adult education is growing, as exemplified by the extensive program maintained by the Connecticut College New London campus. Adult education classes, sponsored by the public schools, have been added to the college's schedule from Upholstering to Art Appreciation, and the campus is now open to all interested persons. Practically all courses are available to the public, and the college is offering non-credit courses for non-credit students.

Lectures by Strider, Mayhew

The college has been working in connection with the New London Adult Education program. Bill 100 has served as the classroom, where members of our faculty have taught evening classes.

Largely Interested Classes

For the last five years, Mr. Strider has given courses in English. He has taught courses on Shakespeare, English Literature, and the Bible. The two-week session in English is open to all interested persons. The course is divided into two semesters, most of the courses being single semester courses, given over a period of ten weeks. Last week Mr. Strider gave a course in William, and a lecture on Shakespeare. Mr. Strider says that the attendance at his classes is large, the audience ranging from a few months old to men in their fifties, who have been interested in teaching the classes, and interested in learning English.

The Ford Foundation Grant

The all-day conference began at 9:30 a.m. and in six sections consisting of about 55 students, the student body was divided into six sections, with the students, it was announced Sunday, January 10, that the Ford Foundation will enable us to continue to attract unusually distinguished and talented teaching staff. The Ford Foundation grant will enable us to continue to attract and keep such people on the campus.

Education Unlimited

Although the recent White House Conference was not intended as a solution to the problems of education, it is generally felt that it can lead to positive action toward a solution. This conference was an encouraging sign of the growing interest in the schools and colleges of this country. The White House Conference was attended by several colleges and hospitals throughout the United States. It has received a part of this Ford grant to be used for additional benefits for the teachers. The college is its faculty, and Connecticut is fortunate in having an unusually distinguished and talented teaching staff.

Opportunities to Study or Teach Abroad

The French government is offering opportunities to study or teach abroad. The program is open to American graduate students, and it was announced that the program is to be open to American graduate students. It was announced on October 14, 1955, that the program is to be open to American graduate students and that the program will be open to American graduate students.

Christian Science Monitor

The program is being sponsored by the Eastern Christian Science Monitor, which is a weekly publication of The Christian Science Monitor, and the program is open to American graduate students.

Ann Lewis
December 26 means more than the day after Christmas to Ann Lewis ’59. That is the day of her marriage to Sturrj Waterman, a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force. Ann, who lives in Freeport, Long Island, met Sturrj, a Garden City resident, the summer before his Senior year in High School when they both attended their junior prom together. They were married at the Waterman home in Brooks, Idaho, in a small ceremony.

volve a nationwide scholarship competition in which all of the approximately 25,000 secondary schools in the country, public and private, will participate on an equal basis. Mr. John Stainskler, president of the board of the corporation, explained that each scholarship granted will carry with it an annual supplemental "tuition grant" to the colleges and universities selected by the scholarship winners. The supplement is to be roughly equal to the cost of tuition. In the opinion of the fact that tuition now covers only part of the cost of enabling a student to attend any college.

Mr. Laird Bell, chairman of the board, observed that even in a period of rising college enrollments about half of the high school graduates reaching the upper quarter of their classes were not going on to college. "Without new measures to boost the best brains among us we are not going to be able to hold up our heads and encourage their further education," he said. "We are better off than we were a year ago," he said, "but all of us are also better off than we used to be."

The Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York have set up a new program to locate the best students among us, and to help them to attend college. These scholarships are to be offered on an equal basis.

Mr. Bell concluded that the new measures to locate the best students are urgently needed. A large part of the students who will be at least two hundred four-year scholarships granted will be able to afford to attend college, he said.

These scholarships are to be distributed on an equal basis among the states and will be awarded to students who are the highest in a senior class in a public high school. The scholarships will be awarded before May 1, 1956; the first winners will enter the college between semesters of this year.

In a period of rising college enrollments, 1955-56, it is estimated that there will be an entrant to any college. This is according to the fact that tuition now covers only part of the cost of enabling a student to attend any college.

Mr. Bell, who is also a member of the board of the corporation, observed that even in a period of rising college enrollments about half of the high school graduates reaching the upper quarter of their classes were not going on to college. Communists are doing their best to provide it. There is a great deal of Russian propaganda, and Soviet literature, music, and the like, are common in Japan. Some of the people respond warmly, although Dr. Namba says that they have no communist sympathizers.

School Begins in April

The school year in Japan begins in April. The main reason for this is that the government budget begins at that time and most of the schools are public institutions. Dr. Namba must be back in Kobe College in time for commencement exercises in March and, before then, he intends to visit Europe. He recently returned from five weeks in San Francisco.

Aside from being president of Kobe College, Dr. Namba teaches sociology and cultural anthropology at the school. He has studied Sociology at Harvard University. Dr. Namba has been a member of the Board of Directors of the Japanese Sociological Society and, in 1951, belonged to the Board of Directors of the Japanese National Federation of UNESCO Associations. In 1953 he was a member of the Harvard Faculty Club, in 1952 a member of the Board of Directors of the Japanese Educational Research Association, and in the same year, also became a member of L'Institut International de Sociologie.
