Miss F. M. Warner, Former Professor Of Economics, Dies

Miss Florence M. Warner, professor emeritus of economics, died Wednesday morning at her home on Grove Avenue in New London. Miss Warner, an 1898 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, joined the faculty of the College in 1909. She was selected as the head secretary in 1918, and in 1919, she was made chairman of the new department of social work. In 1921, she held until her retirement in 1961.

Born in Rahinam, Ontario, Miss Warner earned a master degree with honors in economics from Oberlin College in Ohio and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She received her Ph.D. degree in 1933 from the University of Chicago where she studied under the late social scientist Jane Addams.

In 1917, she was a secretary in the School of Commerce and Administration at the University of Chicago during World War I. Miss Warner served as a secretary in the Emergency Fleet Corporation in Washington, D.C., and as an assistant statistician for the Allan, Hume & Company, which performed the work which took her to London by passenger ship.

From 1921 to 1922, Miss Warner worked in the international department of the National Industrial Conference in New York. She then returned to the public health center of New London.

Fighting to correct the examination in psychology, Dr. Marlon Doro, associate professor of psychology, will undergo the examination on Wednesday, December 9th in the main lounge of Crozier-Wright.

Dr. Marlon Doro holding a replica of a coffee maker from Zambia, with other African artifacts on the bookshelf, including a cluster of hand-carved giraffes and a ball of ostrich feathers.

Sears-Roebuck Donates $1000 To Connecticut

Sears-Roebuck Foundation, represented by John R. Schofer, manager of the Eastern regional sales office, presented the Connecticut College a completely unrestricted grant of $1000 to Connecticut.

In presenting the check to President Charles E. Shain, Mr. Schofer explained that Connecticut College was one of seven colleges in the state chosen to receive this grant. The Sears-Roebuck Foundation distributes approximately $700,000 in unrestricted grants to more than 400 privately supported colleges and universities across the country.

According to its grant program, the Sears-Roebuck Foundation will give approximately $600,000 this academic year in scholarships and other educational aids, as well as total educational grants to almost $1,500,000.

All requests from Insight considered.

SPANISH CLUB MEETING

Christmas Party

7:30 p.m.
Main Dining Room, Williams Christmas Party

6'8 Elects Officers For Coming Year

With their newly-elected officers, the freshman class is poised to embark upon a year of growth and change. The freshman class president is David Schipke, who will be joined by two Honor Court Judges in the coming year.

Dr. James Shain, chairman of the Behavioral Research Committee, was pleased to announce that a new laboratory for research in the social sciences has been completed.

Of the most memorable impression of my fifteen months at Maseno University College was the instantaneous reaction of great excitement and grief on the part of the President of Kenya's death. Miss Warner, dazed as it was by the news, returned home as the discussion of the words was only the beginning. The following day, the expression of pain and grief was not the same.

Professor Doro, whose name was called in Afrikaans add up to 200 full years, recently returned, when Beulah Bright's voicing of the student protest leveled at the administration by the faculty was directed to the student body. The administration was then informed of the problem and an investigation was conducted.

Miss Florence M. Warner, professor emeritus of economics, died Wednesday morning at her home on Grove Avenue in New London. Miss Warner, an 1898 graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, joined the faculty of the College in 1909. She was selected as the head secretary in 1918, and in 1919, she was made chairman of the new department of social work. In 1921, she held until her retirement in 1961.

Born in Rahinam, Ontario, Miss Warner earned a master degree with honors in economics from Oberlin College in Ohio and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She received her Ph.D. degree in 1933 from the University of Chicago where she studied under the late social scientist Jane Addams.

In 1917, she was a secretary in the School of Commerce and Administration at the University of Chicago during World War I. Miss Warner served as a secretary in the Emergency Fleet Corporation in Washington, D.C., and as an assistant statistician for the Allan, Hume & Company, which performed the work which took her to London by passenger ship.

From 1921 to 1922, Miss Warner worked in the international department of the National Industrial Conference in New York. She then returned to the public health center of New London.

Fighting to correct the examination in psychology, Dr. Marlon Doro, associate professor of psychology, will undergo the examination on Wednesday, December 9th in the main lounge of Crozier-Wright.

Dr. Marlon Doro holding a replica of a coffee maker from Zambia, with other African artifacts on the bookshelf, including a cluster of hand-carved giraffes and a ball of ostrich feathers.
Editorial

A Meeting of Minds

Connecticut's unexpected growth, while having some ex citing possibilities for the future, has also called into question the future. We have always prided ourselves on being a small college, small in size and small in spirit. The fear that this college will grow there is a very real danger that we might lose this sense of unity.

In fact, fragmentation exists now, and under present circu mstances it may increase. Socially, Freeman and Hamilton just don't seem to be on the same campus. Academically, Friedrich Nietzsche had a few things to say about psychology and government, and even so-called "philosophy." The Egyptians and Mesopotamians developed their own beliefs and ideas, and lost their identity.

Connecticut is growing and very apt to come apart at the seams, is apt to turn into a federation of independent depart- ment-states; much valuable interchange will be lost. Much is being lost right now.

Thus we are delighted with and very hopeful about the plans which are going forward for the new student-faculty "Committee on Curriculum." This committee, while still in the planning stages, promises to be one of the best innovations to come along with our expansion. The committee will probably consist of six students and five faculty members, though this composition is not yet definite. The committee will have legitimate powers but will set as its goal the formal curriculum and be in a position to make recommendations. Its job will be to bring together the student representatives and reflect the wishes of the possible distribution.

Bobby Morse, President of Student Government, and Mr. Kent, Dean of Students, had high hopes that the composition of the committee to a faculty meeting before December 9. It is hoped that the committee will be set before Christmas vacation, and that it will hold its first meeting in January before the semester breaks.

To facilitate the channeling of student suggestions to the committee a system of "sub-heads" may be devised; persons chosen as sub-heads will serve as links between students with ideas; the committee. Thus students with suggestions and ideas will be able to bring them to a sub-head who will then relay them to the committee. This system will save the com mittee from being besieged directly, while assuring that stu- dents will be heard.

We have heard two suggestions already: first, that there be a committee to direct and contemporary depart- ment-states from English to Philosophy. There are some additional courses available in several departments and they have met with enthusiasm.

The second suggestion is more general: that there be increased interchange between departments based on inter-departmental lectures, seminars, and speakers.

This committee could begin to provide the academic unity which we are in danger of losing. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm.

Editorial

Gym Subs Revisited

Two weeks ago we ran an editorial which we considered to be right on the money. We were discussing the feeling of a few students about the gym requirement. Student response has convinced us that perhaps we, as a committee, would like to suggest a reply to our own negative stand. Various suggestions for a gym for girls or for boys, or for a gym completely separate have been made. However, the attitude was not interference, for we were aware that the gym is an integral part of the university and that we might lose this sense of unity.

Thus we are delighted with and very hopeful about the plans which are going forward for the new student-faculty "Committee on Curriculum." This committee, while still in the planning stages, promises to be one of the best innovations to come along with our expansion. The committee will probably consist of six students and five faculty members, though this composition is not yet definite. The committee will have legitimate powers but will set as its goal the formal curriculum and be in a position to make recommendations. Its job will be to bring together the student representatives and reflect the wishes of the possible distribution.

Bobby Morse, President of Student Government, and Mr. Kent, Dean of Students, had high hopes that the composition of the committee to a faculty meeting before December 9. It is hoped that the committee will be set before Christmas vacation, and that it will hold its first meeting in January before the semester breaks.

To facilitate the channeling of student suggestions to the committee a system of "sub-heads" may be devised; persons chosen as sub-heads will serve as links between students with ideas; the committee. Thus students with suggestions and ideas will be able to bring them to a sub-head who will then relay them to the committee. This system will save the com mittee from being besieged directly, while assuring that stu- dents will be heard.

We have heard two suggestions already: first, that there be a committee to direct and contemporary depart- ment-states from English to Philosophy. There are some additional courses available in several departments and they have met with enthusiasm.

The second suggestion is more general: that there be increased interchange between departments based on inter-departmental lectures, seminars, and speakers.

This committee could begin to provide the academic unity which we are in danger of losing. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm.

Editorial

Gym Subs Revisited

Two weeks ago we ran an editorial which we considered to be right on the money. We were discussing the feeling of a few students about the gym requirement. Student response has convinced us that perhaps we, as a committee, would like to suggest a reply to our own negative stand. Various suggestions for a gym for girls or for boys, or for a gym completely separate have been made. However, the attitude was not interference, for we were aware that the gym is an integral part of the university and that we might lose this sense of unity.

Thus we are delighted with and very hopeful about the plans which are going forward for the new student-faculty "Committee on Curriculum." This committee, while still in the planning stages, promises to be one of the best innovations to come along with our expansion. The committee will probably consist of six students and five faculty members, though this composition is not yet definite. The committee will have legitimate powers but will set as its goal the formal curriculum and be in a position to make recommendations. Its job will be to bring together the student representatives and reflect the wishes of the possible distribution.

Bobby Morse, President of Student Government, and Mr. Kent, Dean of Students, had high hopes that the composition of the committee to a faculty meeting before December 9. It is hoped that the committee will be set before Christmas vacation, and that it will hold its first meeting in January before the semester breaks.

To facilitate the channeling of student suggestions to the committee a system of "sub-heads" may be devised; persons chosen as sub-heads will serve as links between students with ideas; the committee. Thus students with suggestions and ideas will be able to bring them to a sub-head who will then relay them to the committee. This system will save the com mittee from being besieged directly, while assuring that stu- dents will be heard.

We have heard two suggestions already: first, that there be a committee to direct and contemporary depart- ment-states from English to Philosophy. There are some additional courses available in several departments and they have met with enthusiasm.

The second suggestion is more general: that there be increased interchange between departments based on inter-departmental lectures, seminars, and speakers.

This committee could begin to provide the academic unity which we are in danger of losing. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm. New and exciting courses are available in a number of departments and they have been met with enthusiasm.
Calender

Continued from Page One

How many times has the movie goer, disgusted at the director's adaptation of a favorite play, walked out of the theater?

She finds suspicious scenes of decay and murder, changed until they are unrecognizable, sometimes before the first frame is shown, sometimes even before the plot for purposes of higher entertainment. How many times has she walked out of the theater?

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.

The Ides of March, April, and May calendar for the travel industry suggests that movie travel can cause more reasons for the movie goer to walk out of the theater. This reviewer, expecting the expected, was surprised.
Tunner Examines Ayn Rand

Mrs. Susan Ayn Rand, author of "We the Living," on whose book Ayn Rand based her novel, "The Fountainhead," and Mr. Wesley Ayn Rand, a Justice of the Supreme Court of Idaho, met with students at the college. Mrs. Rand examined Ayn Rand's novel, "Ayn Rand Students" and "We the Living." Upon the completion of the meeting, Mrs. Rand related her own experiences with students at the college. She expressed her views on modern education and the need for a more meaningful approach to learning. She also discussed her work and the philosophy behind her novels, emphasizing the importance of individualism and the pursuit of personal freedom. The meeting was well-attended by students who were interested in philosophy and the works of Ayn Rand.

Large Endowments Aid Negro Schools

Ayn Rand Students

Ayn Rand Students, the nation's largest group of students, has contributed a generous donation to the college to aid Negro schools. The donation is part of a larger campaign to raise funds for educational institutions that serve minority students. Ayn Rand Students has been at the forefront of this campaign, and their contribution is a significant step towards achieving the goal of equal educational opportunities for all students.

Students Tutor Negro Children In Three R's

Students Tutor Negro Children In Three R's

Every week, while most of Connecticut's students go to school, 120 students are tutoring Negro children in the Three R's. The students, who are volunteers, are from all academic levels and are dedicated to helping the children improve their reading, writing, and arithmetic skills. They work in small groups with a tutor who has been trained in this method. The program has been very successful, and there is a waiting list of students who want to participate. The students feel that they are making a real difference in the lives of these children.

Castle in Old Norwich Towne

Castle in Old Norwich Towne

The Castle, a historic building located in Old Norwich, has been transformed into a vibrant community center. The building, which was once abandoned, has been restored and repurposed to serve the community. It now houses a variety of programs and events, including concerts, art exhibitions, and community meetings. The Castle provides a space for residents to come together and engage in cultural activities.

Functions as Gathering Place

Functions as Gathering Place

The Castle serves as a gathering place for the community, providing a space for residents to come together and participate in cultural activities. The building is open to the public and is used for a variety of events, including concerts, art exhibitions, and community meetings. The Castle is a vital part of the community and plays an important role in fostering social connections and cultural exchange.

New London Area

New London Area

The New London Area is a vibrant community with a rich history. It is home to a variety of cultural institutions, including museums, art galleries, and theaters. The area is also known for its beautiful natural surroundings, including the nearby Connecticut River. The New London Area is a popular destination for tourists and residents alike, who come to enjoy the region's cultural offerings and natural beauty.
Doro

(Continued from Page One)

asked about the powder keg the compartment at Makerere. Americans thought the problems in "South Africa are being solved by technical education. This agitation is often directed toward more technical education.

The Chinese need only supply a little money and a few people to the existing instability of many areas. The Chinese Communities are not competing with the established United States institutions; they have been serving as a stimulus for the Chinese government.

Miss Doro emphasized that her political and constitutional evolution had neither the trained personnel nor internal unity to succeed. Miss Doro encouraged the Chinese to participate in the development of their country.

Three undergraduate colleges offer students from all parts of the United States an opportunity to spend their junior year in the stimulating environment of the University's Washington Square campus. New Residence Hall-own residence halls-are available to students who are recommended by the deans of the colleges to which they will return for their senior year.
Elementary School Children Learn Economics by Practice

As a college student, you may be familiar with such abstruse terms as "marginal analysis" and "operational advantage." Both are rather sophisticalized economic concepts usually encountered by students in introductory economics courses—and often forgotten by most of them.

Oh yes, there is another group of American scholars familiar with these economic concepts. This group consists of thousands of elementary school children who are learning basic concepts taught in college courses.

It's all part of an exciting new program of instruction devised by Professor Lawrence Beneke, a Purdue University economist, and aimed at relieving what amounts to a major American affliction—economic ignorance. Its success in Elkhart, Ind.; Oberlin, Ohio; Seattle, New York City and elsewhere is described by John Kord Lagemann in a December Reader's Digest article, "How Children Learn the Economic Facts of Life."

Heart of the program is discovering economic concepts in everyday activities. For example, a group of grade-schoolers was asked to keep order in the classroom, without being given specific tasks. The result was clean—until the teacher gave individual assignments to different children: one swept the floor; another cleared the blackboards; still another was made to wash dishes. The work was thus quickly done; more important, the children learned the principle of division of labor.

Mass production is taught in similar fashion. One class made gingerbread men, with each child in one group carrying out the entire process while another group set up a production line. The youngbers saw that specialization resulted in greater production, but that it also had the disadvantage of monotony and of break-down if one member of the assembly line failed to do his job.

Field trips to local businesses supplement the school-children's economic education. Commentary. Professor Beneke said recently, "If ignorance paid dividends, most Americans could make a fortune out of what they don't know about economics." In view of this statement, it seems that more communities should be investigating Professor Beneke's program and should also be seeking ways to induce adults to follow the example of these children who are learning the economic facts of life.

Needed: a campus correspondent for Modernes—a magazine for thinking students. Qualifications: interest in journalistic writing; number of the Class of '66 or '67. Rewards: participation in a vibrant student project which has a nationwide impact; representation of the possibility for monetary reward. If interested: contact Joan Bucciarelli in Katharine Hait House or via Box 218.

New London Camera Co.
Extreme Discounts Plus
158 State Street
New London, Conn.

Unofficial Sources Confirm Prediction of Duke's Arrival

Sept 21, 1966. (A.S. Chronicle) William of Normandy landed today at Frenescus with from six to ten thousand men, unofficial sources report. Experts have predicted his arrival on these shores since last summer. Contrary winds apparently delayed the sailing from Normandy.

King Harold expressed concern, but no alarm. "It's a rather big blow at this time," he said. "But we will ride through." He does not intend to resign.

A correspondent for the Chronicle reports that the Duke is recovering from a nasty spill sustained when disembarking.

The Lord High Chamberlain and the Archbishop of Canterbury have issued a joint statement, asking the people to stay at home, keep doors and windows barred, and beware of strangers.

New London Camera
Co.
Extreme Discounts Plus
158 State Street
New London, Conn.

There are approximately

10,000 Book Titles in stock in

The Bookshop

Does this suggest something to you?

Christmas maybe?