Stu-Faculty Forum Discusses Time of Decision on Major

Student Faculty Forum held its first meeting Wednesday evening, December 10, to discuss the question: "When should students choose their major field?"

The representatives of the faculty, including Miss Holborn of the Government Department, and Department Heads, Mr. Haines, Mr. Schneider, and Dr. Applewhite, Psychology, were present.

The students were Hildie Drexl, who as Vice-President of Student Government, said there was no need of the Forum, and two representatives of the upper classes, Constance Demarest '54 and Jane Grosfeld '54, said that the Forum was needed.

The problem presented was that many girls felt that the end of freshmen year was too early to determine what the major field should be. It was also felt that some girls needed the extra push to make their decision, while others, it was thought, was being done prematurely. Another problem brought up concerned the fact that some girls found it hard to switch majors once they were forced into it.

No Decision Reached

The Forum discussed the issues from several view points, and the general feeling was reached was that this is mainly an individual problem and hard to have a general rule which would suit everyone. It was felt also that some girls needed the extra push to make their decision, while others, it was thought, was being done prematurely. Another problem brought up concerned the fact that some girls found it hard to switch majors once they were forced into it.

Smith College Poll on Cutting Classes Reveals Three Main Reasons — Exams, Dull Classes, Out-Of-Town Weeks

A poll at Smith College, Mass., shows that sophomores do more class cutting than other students. Fifty-six per cent of the class cut at least once a week.

Three main reasons for cutting were given: 'Exams' for 50% of the class, "Dull classes" and "Of course the story was a satire and on the one hand', "In a recent speech she charged the Daily had been used against the Russian Soviet Republic of building submarine bases at Minas. But Minak, she pointed out angrily, is far inland.

The article was intended as a satire on the many magazine, cloak and dagger stories which have been appearing of late. An editor's note was run along with it saying that the story was a satire and not true.

But someone from Ann Arbor submitted the story minus the editor's note—and sent it off to the Michigan Daily. The Gazette apparently took it seriously.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE NEWS

Wednesday, December 17, 1952

New York Sun and countless reprints of its now-classic editorial, we’d like to add our present-day notions about Santa Claus to the constantly accruing amount of lore about that gentleman.

When we were children, a long time ago, we knew that Santa Claus really existed, completely equipped with sleigh and reindeer and a fabulously grand toy shop. It was one of the facts of our existence that Santa himself slid down our chimney on Christmas Eve, after we had fallen asleep. In honor of his coming a lovingly decorated evergreen tree stood at one side of the living room, and stockings were hung from the mantel as soon as school vacations began. A festal dinner was also marked this occasion, and noisy but fervent carol singing around the piano.

With bitter disillusionment we were eventually confronted with the reality that one personification of Santa Claus could not possibly visit every child in the world simultaneously, could not be so completely selfish as to present every child in the world with the fruits of his abundant creativity, was, in short, incapable of being both a self-forgetful spirit and an earthly embodiment of that spirit.

Our disappointment came in regard to the magnanimity of one individual, despite the prominent place this particular embodiment of the Christmas spirit had held in our hearts. That blow was soon superseded by an intense appreciation of one individual, despite the prominent place this particular embodiment of the Christmas spirit had held in our hearts. Frosh President Brimful of Talent; Has Many Interests

Newly elected freshman class president, Roberta Isaacs, comes from Louisville, Kentucky. She worked to high school, however, in Clayton, Missouri, where she was very active in student activities.

Roberta showed her versatility by serving as vice-president of her high school student council, treasurer of the dramatic guild, Latin club, and business manager of the talent show, and staff writer on the newspaper.

Many other interests for Roberta were science and current events clubs. In volunteer work, she is a Red Cross nurse and has served as a guest of New Story era for the occasion was com-

Plants Housed Over Vacation

Miss Thompson of the Botany department reports that many of the department's housesplants again over Christmas vacation. Plants may be brought to the botany greenhouses for safekeeping here at the college. These places offer protection for many of the more delicate houseplants that need extra care while they are not being looked after by their owners.

Christmas Opera Performance Pleases New London Children

On Saturday, December 6, members of the Opera department of the College of Music presented a Christmas opera, Amahl and the Night Visitors. The performance was the result of a request by the Music for Children Committee of the New London Civic Orchestr.

Experiment Gives Unique Opportunity For Knowledge of Countries, People

Acquaintance with not only a country, but also its people, is desired for the summer of 1953 by the Experiment in International Living.

Normally, Experiment groups of five boys and five girls live in the same town for the first four weeks of the summer and members of separate families, where there are young people of their own age. In this unique way each Experimenter is confronted with the challenge of turning "foreigners" into friends.

Practice Teaching Attracts Seniors
During the past weeks, several seniors have been gaining practical experience in the teaching field by working in the junior or senior high school of New London.

In order to fulfills the requirements of this state, ninety clock hours, thirty of observation and sixty of actual teaching, are needed. Most of the girls will complete their work before Christmas.

Students are given complete charge of the class; they give their original tests; they correct papers; they fulfill the regular teaching duties. Once a week the girls meet with Miss Butler to discuss various problems and to learn new techniques. After graduation they will be eligible for teaching positions.

Those girls teaching in the high school are: Loretta Berry, Spanish; Alice Dreschm, history; Virginia Menghi, Spanish; Mae Reynolds, English Frances Toro and Joyce Weller, math. Elinor Noble and Jean Leister are teaching history and science respectively in the junior high school.

During the second half of the summer, the American invites his European friends to visit him in his country and frequently leads to renewed interest in that language; good academic record; participation in extra-curricular activities; experience in outdoor living; and other constructive interests.

Applications for the Experiment itself may be secured from the Admissions Department. The Experiment in International Living, Putney, Vermont. Each application must be accompanied by a $25 fee inorder to be processed.

Candidates for the Experiment program must be between 16 and 30 years of age and should have made that summer limited to the span of four weeks of the summer, as summer leads to new directions in a college major or career.

Candidates should submit applications before February 1, 1953, to insure placement in the group of their choice.

New Psych Faculty Plans to Build and Reorganize Dept.

Headed by Mr. Mortimer Appleweig, CC's psychology department has an entirely new staff this year. Other members of the department are Mrs. Dee G. Appleweig, Mr. George Moeller, Miss Marion Winterbottom, and Mrs. Margaret Scales. Besides teaching, Mr. Appleweig is also doing research for the Navy. His study includes investigations of the role of anxiety in learning, a sideline of which is the role of hormones in learning. Before coming to Connecticut College, Miss Winterbottom was associated with the University of Michigan. Mr. Moeller was formerly at the State University of Iowa. Mrs. Scales is a clinical psychologist at the Norwich State Hospital.

Plans are now under way to build and to reorganize the psychology department. The staff hopes to increase the number of laboratory courses and also to offer a more varied program. The graduate program will be continued, begun this year with one graduate assistant. Miss Laura Warther, now housefellow in Vinal, and a graduate of the University of Connecticut.

The staff of the department holds twice weekly seminars, in which they discuss theoretical problems of psychology to augment their knowledge of current developments in this field. In this way, the psychology department attempts to keep abreast of current theory and research in an area of knowledge in which new discoveries are constantly being made.
