New Guard House Will Be Completed
Within Two Weeks

Mr. Corbin Lyman, College business manager, announced last week construction of several new additions to the campus.

Mr. Lyman said construction of the building to house the college guards is expected to be completed within the next two weeks. He said the new building will house the campus telephone and security radio.

Mr. Lyman also revealed that construction of a new parking lot south of Williams School will begin soon. He noted that the lot, which will accommodate 350 cars, will replace the present parking lot which will be the site of the Music and Art Building.

He continued that in conjunction with the new parking lot, a new road will be built between the main campus and Lyman Allyn Museum. According to Mr. Lyman, the new road will have a sidewalk and will be well lighted.

Mr. Lyman also said that the college anticipates constructing a central service building south of the south tennis courts this spring. This building will house maintenance equipment, the car-peters, painters and gardeners.

Academic Calendar Revised: Reading Period Lengthened

A revised calendar for the 1967-1968 academic year, with no change in the Christmas vacation, has been approved, reading week, was approved by the faculty at their meeting last Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Under the new calendar, reading period is extended from
Wednesday, Jan. 3, to Saturday, Jan. 13, with papers due Saturday, Jan. 6 and 4 are to be introductory days for reading period.

No details were available regarding the character of the introduction days or the in-class requirements.

The revised academic calendar, 1967-68 is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Classes begin</th>
<th>Thanksgiving</th>
<th>Christmas</th>
<th>First Day of Reading Period</th>
<th>Reading Period</th>
<th>End of Reading Period</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Monday, Sept. 18</td>
<td>Nov. 23</td>
<td>Dec. 25</td>
<td>Jan. 3</td>
<td>Jan. 3 to Jan. 13</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fathers Of Students To Speak
At Soph. Symposium Sessions

Miss M. Gertrude McKeon, dean of sophomores, announced last week that Dr. Donald F. Lehniger, Professor Albert Lehniger, and Dean Howard Boatwright will speak at sessions of the second annual Sophomore Symposium. Sophomore Symposium, begun in 1969, is chairman of the Department of Economics at Colgate University.

He will speak Thursday, February 2, at 7:30 p.m. in Palmer Audition.

Professor Lehniger, father of Erik '69, leads the Department of Psychological Chemistry at Johns Hopkins Medical School. Professor
Lehniger will give his address Wednesday, February 8, at 8 p.m. in Palmer.

Dean Bournsford, professor of music at the University of Minnesota, will speak Wednesday, February 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Palmer.

According to Dean McKeon, "These guests will again represent the general area of the social sciences, the natural sciences, and the humanities." While the talks are sponsored by student members of the College are invited to attend.

PIZZA SALE AND MOVIES NET $262.90 FOR CRIA

A pizza and champagne bottle sale sponsored by the Italian Club and twice a month newspaper "To-Days That Shock the World", sponsored by art history students, netted $262.90 for CRIA.

PIZZA FOR CHRIA is purchased by Jo Romano, left, from Charlotte
West and Linda Barker.

Photo by Dressler.

Academic Calendar Revised: Reading Period Lengthened

A revised calendar for the 1967-1968 academic year, with no change in the Christmas vacation, has been approved, reading week, was approved by the faculty at their meeting last Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Under the new calendar, reading period is extended from
Wednesday, Jan. 3, to Saturday, Jan. 13, with papers due Saturday, Jan. 6 and 4 are to be introductory days for reading period.

No details were available regarding the character of the introduction days or the in-class requirements.

The revised academic calendar, 1967-68 is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Classes begin</th>
<th>Thanksgiving</th>
<th>Christmas</th>
<th>First Day of Reading Period</th>
<th>Reading Period</th>
<th>End of Reading Period</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Monday, Sept. 18</td>
<td>Nov. 23</td>
<td>Dec. 25</td>
<td>Jan. 3</td>
<td>Jan. 3 to Jan. 13</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fathers Of Students To Speak
At Soph. Symposium Sessions

Miss M. Gertrude McKeon, dean of sophomores, announced last week that Dr. Donald F. Lehniger, Professor Albert Lehniger, and Dean Howard Boatwright will speak at sessions of the second annual Sophomore Symposium. Sophomore Symposium, begun in 1969, is chairman of the Department of Economics at Colgate University.

He will speak Thursday, February 2, at 7:30 p.m. in Palmer Audition.

Professor Lehniger, father of Erik '69, leads the Department of Psychological Chemistry at Johns Hopkins Medical School. Professor
Lehniger will give his address Wednesday, February 8, at 8 p.m. in Palmer.

Dean Bournsford, professor of music at the University of Minnesota, will speak Wednesday, February 22, at 7:30 p.m. in Palmer.

According to Dean McKeon, "These guests will again represent the general area of the social sciences, the natural sciences, and the humanities." While the talks are sponsored by student members of the College are invited to attend.

PIZZA SALE AND MOVIES NET $262.90 FOR CRIA

A pizza and champagne bottle sale sponsored by the Italian Club and twice a month newspaper "To-
Days That Shock the World", sponsored by art history students, netted $262.90 for CRIA.

PIZZA FOR CHRIA is purchased by Jo Romano, left, from Charlotte
West and Linda Barker.

Photo by Dressler.
Editorial...

DIVIDED WE FAIL

The revised constitution of the Student Government Association has completed its tumultuous emergence from Cabinet and will soon be voted on by the House of Representatives.

The most controversial aspect of the constitution is the issue of the vote.热度, decided by Cabinet and A-list precedence writing of the old CONN CENSUS editor and student chairman of the Student-Faculty Academic Committee as members.

The prevailing argument against letting the CONN CENSUS editor and Academic Committee chairman vote is that they are not popularly elected. It has been argued that allowing them to vote undermines Cabinet's function as a "representative" body.

It is necessary to consider the significance of the term "representative" in defining the issue.

The purpose of the Student Government Association, as given in the revised constitution, is to serve as a channel for student opinion. The Association does not possess the power to legislate by itself. All proposals passed by the House of Representatives and Cabinet may be debated by a faculty-student committee before they are presented to the body. In addition, Cabinet and House of Representatives serve as executive branches to deal with major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

In view of the above, it is necessary to ask if popular election should be the sole determinant of eligibility to represent student opinion in the executive branch of student government. We think it should. Cabinet should be "representative" in the sense of representing major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

A case in point is the class president. She is elected by one fourth of the students. We think we can safely say that the voter in class elections has decided more on the candidate's potential efficiency as a class officer than as a cabinet member. The class president is entitled to a vote on Cabinet because she represents a major interest class.

It seems to be only logical, then, that a student government which seeks to be representative would want the editor of its weekly newspaper to have a vote. If the Maltese Falcon is the head of a project which involves every student on campus... The editor is also a member of the student activity fund, and obtains the activity fund money by selling copies of CONN CENSUS.

The student members of the Academic Committee represent student opinion in committee matters concerning the academic life of the College. While we agree that the student members should have a vote on their classes and the chairman for the following year chosen by the membership, the student chairman certainly should have a vote on Cabinet.

It is only by bringing together the heads of the most powerful interest groups on campus that Student Government can accomplish its purpose as a "representative body." Separation of Cabinet from the other student groups is certain to undermine student voting membership from twelve to eight can serve only to reduce the effectiveness and representational nature of Student Government.

A MAN'S OPINION

By Michael Lawry

"Last week's Conn Censu was just laced with a bit of support material for this column." That there was on all which says, "BOOKS MERRY CHRISTMAS BEST." This was an unfortunate reminder of the bale of books I have to take this vacation to write not one but three term papers. It has been a long time since I had a real vaca- tion at Christmas time. It was had enough to be reminded of this fact on page three but to be reminded again on page four was just too much.

There was a story about a Cabinet Straw-Ballot in which the vote was 6-5 against giving the Conn Census editor a vote. This was an unfortunate decision. There is one problem with Cabinet, which seeks to be representative, in the executive branch of student government. We think it is necessary, however, to consider the significance of the term "representative" in defining the issue.

In view of the above, it is necessary to ask if popular election should be the sole determinant of eligibility to represent student opinion in the executive branch of student government. We think it should. Cabinet should be "representative" in the sense of representing major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

The purpose of the Student Government Association, as given in the revised constitution, is to serve as a channel for student opinion. The Association does not possess the power to legislate by itself. All proposals passed by the House of Representatives and Cabinet may be debated by a faculty-student committee before they are presented to the body. In addition, Cabinet and House of Representatives serve as executive branches to deal with major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

In view of the above, it is necessary to ask if popular election should be the sole determinant of eligibility to represent student opinion in the executive branch of student government. We think it should. Cabinet should be "representative" in the sense of representing major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

A case in point is the class president. She is elected by one fourth of the students. We think we can safely say that the voter in class elections has decided more on the candidate's potential efficiency as a class officer than as a cabinet member. The class president is entitled to a vote on Cabinet because she represents a major interest class.

It seems to be only logical, then, that a student government which seeks to be representative would want the editor of its weekly newspaper to have a vote. If the Maltese Falcon is the head of a project which involves every student on campus... The editor is also a member of the student activity fund, and obtains the activity fund money by selling copies of CONN CENSUS. There can be no doubt that CONN CENSUS is the most in- formative source of potential material for regular physical education is such a logical progression when a student can make up a midterm exam during the year in a different form of physical activity, where there is the "logical progression" when a student can make up a midterm exam during the year.

The whole letter sounds like something out of the book "The Theory of Physical Education" used by the Michigan State Foot- ball team physical education majors.

If physical education is such a science the next thing you know there will be a physical education major at Conn. If it doesn't bring a good body 50 to 60 minutes a week...I am all for it. It sure would put the Infirmary out of business. I am all for it. It sure would put the Infirmary out of business. But...I am all for it. If physical education isn't going to really keep me from getting sick then I am going to give up that "logical progression".

Today's hand was played in the University Bridge Club at the American Contract Bridge League Fall Nationals played in Pittsburgh this year.

[Card game results are listed here.]

A MEMBER AT A GLANCE

Mary Beth Anderson, a junior at Conn, was one of the players at the Malta- }

Newtown Rotary Club at the Mohican Hotel on Thursday, Dec.

in the middle of the text, the text needs to be corrected.

The Supreme Court ruled last year that there was on all which says, "BOOKS MERRY CHRISTMAS BEST." This was an unfortunate reminder of the bale of books I have to take this vacation to write not one but three term papers. It has been a long time since I had a real vaca- tion at Christmas time. It was had enough to be reminded of this fact on page three but to be reminded again on page four was just too much.

There was a story about a Cabinet Straw-Ballot in which the vote was 6-5 against giving the Conn Census editor a vote. This was an unfortunate decision. There is one problem with Cabinet, which seeks to be representative, in the executive branch of student government. We think it is necessary, however, to consider the significance of the term "representative" in defining the issue.

In view of the above, it is necessary to ask if popular election should be the sole determinant of eligibility to represent student opinion in the executive branch of student government. We think it should. Cabinet should be "representative" in the sense of representing major campus interests which do in fact register student opinion.

A case in point is the class president. She is elected by one fourth of the students. We think we can safely say that the voter in class elections has decided more on the candidate's potential efficiency as a class officer than as a cabinet member. The class president is entitled to a vote on Cabinet because she represents a major interest class.

It seems to be only logical, then, that a student government which seeks to be representative would want the editor of its weekly newspaper to have a vote. If the Maltese Falcon is the head of a project which involves every student on campus... The editor is also a member of the student activity fund, and obtains the activity fund money by selling copies of CONN CENSUS. There can be no doubt that CONN CENSUS is the most in- formative source of potential material for regular physical education is such a logical progression when a student can make up a midterm exam during the year in a different form of physical activity, where there is the "logical progression" when a student can make up a midterm exam during the year.

The whole letter sounds like something out of the book "The Theory of Physical Education" used by the Michigan State Foot- ball team physical education majors.

If physical education is such a science the next thing you know there will be a physical education major at Conn. If it doesn't bring a good body 50 to 60 minutes a week...I am all for it. It sure would put the Infirmary out of business. I am all for it. It sure would put the Infirmary out of business. But...I am all for it. If physical education isn't going to really keep me from getting sick then I am going to give up that "logical progression".

Today's hand was played in the University Bridge Club at the American Contract Bridge League Fall Nationals played in Pittsburgh this year.

[Card game results are listed here.]

A MEMBER AT A GLANCE

Mary Beth Anderson, a junior at Conn, was one of the players at the Malta-
RTC Mothers Find Courses Valuable Break in Routine

by Anne Palmer

To gain insight into what the Return to College Program means to a faculty wife, we motivated them to choose Conn College, recently interviewed four participants.

At a faculty wife, an RTC participant, a former student at New York University, Mrs. George Willmott, she views Conn from several perspectives. Mrs. Willmott, who last worked, traveled or lived in Spain, Paris, and the United States, is working to complete her Yale B.A. in French literature. Contrasting her academic situation at N.U. and Conn, Mrs. Willmott noted the huge size of N.Y.U. and its non-academic orientation, as opposed to the strong academic emphasis that she noted in the smaller campus atmosphere.

Students Too Polite

"It's a little difficult to get organized for writing papers," she said. She also noted that at N.Y.U. students challenged and heckled the professor, while at Conn the professors must humble the girls to get them to produce something meaningful.

"The girls are too polite," she commented.

Mrs. Sheila Lamb was a Conn student until she left in 1957 to marry "a Codee." While a student at Conn, Mrs. Lamb was president of the Commuter's Club and member of Religious Fellowship. In her absence from Conn, Mrs. Lamb has worked while her husband earned his P.H.D. and is now the mother of three children, ages 3, 4, and 6.

Now that her husband has completed his Ph.D., Mrs. Lamb feels free to return to her studies and complete the degree in psychology, "If I'm a lot more serious about my work now," she said, "she enjoys taking just one course. Psychology of Personality, because she can devote more time to it and become more involved in it than if she had to divide her time among several courses.

Work Welcome Break

She finds her current position at Conn as a welcome break from her home-oriented life. After hearing babbling chatter all day, it's refreshing to hear intelligent, interesting conversation. "I am a lot more serious about my work now," she said, "she enjoys taking just one course. Psychology of Personality, because she can devote more time to it and become more involved in it than if she had to divide her time among several courses.

College Will Sponsor

Staff Christmas Party

Connecticut College Chorus, directed by John F. Hooker, director of Choral Activities, to perform at Yale Glee Club Club will perform in Montreal, Toronto and possibly Kingston, Canada, during Spring Vacations 1967.

Coincidentally, forty-five chorus members will participate in the tour. Funds for the trip will be provided through Student Account. The Yale Glee Club made a midnight bus ride to Montreal, and will set up a table on the return tour, and will make the tour arrangements. The chorus and glee club will perform at Dartmouth College.

The chorus plans to leave on tour Tuesday, March 22, and return possibly for concert in New York City on Easter Sunday.

DAVID SMALLEY SCULPTURE NOW ON EXHIBIT AT LYMAN ALLYN MUSEUM

by Naomi Fatt

The recent sculpture of Mr. David Allan Smalley, instructor in art, is on display at the Lyman Allyn Museum in a one-man show which will run until December 30. Mr. Smalley said he was first interested in industrial design rather than sculpture. His pieces, he likes, those of the late David Smith, are mostly of steel. The exhibition is in part dedicated to Mr. Smith.

The sculpture is abstract and extremely geometric. The massive feeling conveyed by the boxlike shapes is combined with hollow-circular shapes which seem to compress or engulf the surrounding space.

Painted Steel

Mr. Smalley's pieces are painted. The casting of the semi-circular shapes as, for example, in "Army H" are often accented with lighter or brighter shades. Although most of his pieces, small and large, give the impression of heavy, strong solidity, Mr. Smalley has made delicate use of the negative spaces. This especially is evident in the "Shadows" cast by his "Bulleth".

Of all the pieces, Mr. Smalley noted that "Bulleth" represented the "idea he is most interested in at present." It is his latest work, and he comments that "the last thing [you make] you like the best," "Bulleth" is unique in that it has as its "base" both the wall and the floor.

Rolling Power

Several of the pieces represent continuing ideas or modes of expression. Both "Small Buttress" and "Army H" seem to be almost smaller versions of the later "Bulleths" and "Army H" respectively. The ideas in their powerful, massive shapes. How- ever, Mr. Smalley warned, "Don't get trapped by titles." For example, "Army H" was named after it was made.

This does not mean, he stated, that the title was purely arbitrary, but that the observer should not "look at the object merely as an illustration of the title." Sculpture Vital Art

About sculpture in general Mr. Smalley stated that in the past sculpture was always a follower of the other types of art. Today he said sculpture can be created, thanks to technical improvements, as rapidly as a painting. He also believes that it is now equally vital as an art.

Of his own sculpture he says it would seem, he has "some kind of commitment on my part" to reflect in his creations the things that most greatly affect him. He spends thirty hours a week on his own sculpture. There is, he pointed out, "no instant way of making a piece of sculpture."

There are nine pieces of sculpture, three drawings, and one re- point in the show; representing three years work. Thirteen, would seem, is Mr. Smalley's number.

The sculptures are accompanied by M. Andrew Johnston '88 and Walter R. Buhl '39.

In 1953 Fenno Heath was chosen Director of the Yale Glee Club. As an undergraduate at Yale, Heath was a member of the glee club and the Whiffenpoofs. While in the army he conducted three Army choruses and was a member of the Lincoln in Washington and the Bachelor of Arts degree.

During his sabbatical leave in Holland in 1966, he wrote music for three poems by A. E. Housman, and arranged the two up-tempo and the "Es Ist Ein Kindes" all of which will be sung in the concert.

The concert will include the first performance on the NEW Harlech, a concert instrument made in Germany and purchased by the college to make possible the authentic performance of early music.
ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES COMPILE CONN’S PUBLIC RELATIONS MATERIAL

by Nancy R. Fina

Have you ever wondered how the various College course catalogues come into existence each April, or who compiles all the names and addresses of the College Directory?

These, and many other College publications, are the product of one, or a combination of administrative departments, including the President’s Office, News Office, offices of Admissions and Development and Photographic Services.

Miss Wither E. Eastburn, secretary to the President and assistant to the President, explained that these offices cooperate to create the wide range of publications that form a vital link between Connecticut and its public-faculty, students, parents, alumnae and friends.

Prime Example

A prime example of this concept of cooperation is the new book printed last summer, “Connecticut College: A Community of Inquiry.” A viewbook, Explained Miss Eastburn, is created “for the serious prospective student who is interested in knowing what Conn’s philosophy is.”

Except for two pages of information about the school, the book consists entirely of candid photos of college members, accompanied, according to the author, by quotations and introductions, by professors and lecturers by members of the College community. Miss Eastburn pointed out that no quotation was written specifically for the book, but each was used with consent of the author.

To Lee For Competition

In its publication come too late for this year’s American College Public Relations Association competition, in which annual awards are presented for outstanding publications in various categories. This viewpoint will be published next year.

Miss Eastburn noted that Conn has won several first prizes and honor prizes in past ACPRC competitions.

Another Example of Inter-departmental cooperation is a brochure issued this year explaining the Return To College program. Its copy and format were prepared by Mrs. Margaret Thompson, director of the News Office, in cooperation with Mrs. Maxine Ford, student financial aid officer, and director of RTC, and Philip Buzin, school photographer, who took pictures.

Other publications are prepared with the help of Mrs. Margaret F. Hartman, assistant in publications. They include brochures on departments. They include the President’s Report, which keeps the public up to date on the state of the College and large and long ranges, special bulletins on College affairs, and pieces to be used by alumnae groups in talking to prospective students.

Academic departments also cooperate in the preparation of brochures concerned with special events, such as recitals in the music department.

In the News Office, Miss Thompson and Mrs. Dorothy Eastland, assistant to the director, prepare such items as the monthly calendar, listing events to be held at the College; CC News, printed four times a week, which, Miss Eastburn said, “is sent to our entire constituency—20,000 people—and tells you everything important or interesting.”

Collection of Victorian Toys

On Display At Lyman-Allyn

by Ann Milley

The Barns Emporium has opened at the Lyman-Allyn Museum. Donated by Mrs. Moss Baritz, the collection consists of Victorian toys as they would have been presented in a toy store of the period.

At the entrance is a wicker miniature Christmas tree and a converted whale oil lamp hung from the New London streets of the 1890’s contribute a spirit of Christmas to the display.

The interior is filled with every Victorian child’s delight; Marbles, lead soldiers, banks and mechanical toys in their original boxes would interest the boys. For the girls there are tea sets, a large assortment of dolls, miniature furniture, doll carriages and doll sized cooking and cleaning utensils. The collection also includes a miniature piano and an old Franklin stove.

Mrs. Baritz has collected the toys over the past 35 years, buying old toys from toy stores when they went out of business and storing them in her home. She agreed to donate the toys to the museum if the museum would display them in the setting of a Victorian toy store.

The exhibit will be on display until the end of the month, at which time the toys will be added to the collection of dolls and doll furniture in the museum’s permanent doll house display. This display contains two large doll houses, one in the style of 1800 and the other a Victorian brownstone, which house a complete family of dolls and interior furnishings.

The larger doll house is about two feet high and has three floors and ten rooms. It is complete to a miniature sewing machine, silver and crystal services, and a small Christmas tree decorated with doll dolls and ornaments. Though the Victorian brownstone is on a somewhat smaller scale, the furnishings in its seven rooms are every bit as complete.
Pastry Chef Observes Girls From Other Side of Counter

By Patti Bernstein

One of the most unassuming heroes on campus is probably Arthur Babson, College pastry cook, who practices his culinary art in Harris Refectory. Originally from Brookton, Maine, Babson has been working at Conn since 1937.

Babson has been busy since he arrived on campus. He said he began baking as a boy and switched to pastry cook two years ago. Nevertheless, he said, "I enjoy baking on a small scale." Providing dessert for 1,500 girls, however, is hardly "small scale." In addition, he noted that we do not have particularly small appetites. Reminiscing about his experiences as chef at Amherst many years ago, he said, "the girls there definitely eat as much as they do here."

One example of his artistry is a gingerbread house which he bakes each year at Christmas for one of the local hospitals. Although Mr. Babson noted "work is work," he admitted that he has his job many good points. When asked for his opinion of Conn girls, as seen from the other side of the counter, he quipped, "You don't really want my observations on that!" However, he quickly added that although he has to gaze on multitudes of ravenous girls three times a day, "they're a bunch of dolls."

STUDENT GOVT.

(Cont. from page 1) name and composition of the Faculty-Student Committee on Student Organization. Now called the Student-Faculty Committee, its composition is increased from three student members to four with the addition of the vice-president of Student Government. Formerly the student members of the Committee were the President of Student Government, Speaker of the House, and President of the Sophomore class. If passed, this action would make the Committee composed of four student and four faculty voting members.

Change in Worthing

Other changes include the wording of the purpose of the Student Government. Previously the purpose was to "control all appropriate matters of the individual and social conduct in the student body which do not fall under the jurisdiction of the faculty." Now the Student Government "provides a channel of student opinion regarding matters of general interest to the College."

Compulsory Amalgos meetings will now be held whenever necessary instead of every month. Joint meetings of the Student-Faculty Committee on Student Organizations and Cabinet have been deleted from the Constitution.

Article VI on Amendograms and Article VII on Parliametary Authority have been taken out of the Constitution. Also, amendments to be voted on at Amalgos can be posted any time prior to the meeting instead of the four weeks required before the meeting.

If the revised Constitution is passed by the House of Representatives next Wednesday, it will go back to Cabinet, then to "Student Org." If passed by that committee, the constitution will be voted on at the January Amalgos.

GARDE THEATRE

Starts Dec., Dec. 15

ALVAREZ KELLY

W. Holden & R. Widmark

A STUDY IN TERROR

John Neville

Donaldi Houston

See Dream Diamond Rings only at those Authorized ArtCarved Jewelers

Bridgewater - Reid & Todd

Glastonbury - Charlip Jewelers

Glastonbury - Bailey's Jewelers

Glastonbury - Wilson Co., Inc.

Derby Sprecher Jewelry Store

Hamden - Fowler Jewelers

Hartford - Lux Bond & Green

Meriden - Clements Jewelers

Milford - Sprecher Jewelry Store

New Haven - Savitt P. O. M. G. Jewelers

New London - Mallever's, Inc.

Norwalk - Pachas Jewelers

Ridgefield - Craig's Jewelry Store

Rockville - C. Murray Jewelers

Stamford - E. J. Lucas

Stamford - Zanton-Ferguson, Inc.

Seymour - Vincent Jewelers

Torrington - Hubert's Jewelers

Wallingford - Charnely Jewelers

Waterbury - Samuel's Jewelers

Wilton - Wilmarick Art's Jewelers

Winchester - Swade's Jewelers

---

_Tie the Season to Be SECT-L INE_

_FAR EAST HOUSE_

ORIENTAL GIFTS

15 Green Street

New London, Conn.

NINTH ANNUAL COLLEGE STUDENT TOUR

TRAVEL IN EUROPE

SUMMER '67

TEN EXCITING "HEART OF EUROPE" TOURS...

Enjoy night life, sightseeing, art, culture, and recreation in romantic Europe - each tour limited to 24 college girls - tours from $1899

* each directed by young men - all experienced world travelers
* finest hotels and restaurants
* fun in out-of-the-way spots barred to others - exclusive Orient Visit also available - require new reservations limited.

For full information, send me the free brochure.

Name
Address
City
OSBORNE TRAVEL SERVICE, INC.
1279 Peabody Road, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

"Ask the man who's been there.

---

_ARE YOU SURE YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING?_

People in love have a f r e s h way of getting wrapped up in each other and forgetting about everything else. So, unless you want to make a mistake, forget about love when you're buying a diamond ring.

If you'd like some expert help, in fact, go see your ArtCarved jeweler. He has beautiful diamond rings from $150 to over $1000. Every one has a gemologist's evaluation inscribed on the inner band. Everyone is guaranteed.

So don't get emotional at a time like this. Get careful. If you don't know anything about diamonds, see your ArtCarved jeweler. He does.
NOTES (Cont. from page 2) week that the Georgia House of Representatives vacated its seat, next legislator, Julian Bond. Before deciding his seat in the Georgia House, spoke last month at the College under the auspices of the Civil Rights Club. Chief Justice Earl Warren said concerning the ruling, "This Amendment requires that legis- lators be given the warning in advance to express their views on issues of policy.

Applications for the 1967 Mor- rison Internship open to students in the class of 1968 must be turned in to Miss Winifred Eastburn, assistant to the president, by January 9. Applicants will be inter- viewed by a committee on Jan. 23 and the intern will be an- nounced by Feb. 12.

The internship, established by the League of Women Voters as a tribute to Mrs. Mary Patrice Mor- rison, honorary secretary of the Board of Trustees, is designed to provide a student with insight into the inner opportunities offered by a voluntary association concerned with public affairs.

The intern will spend two weeks working for a local League and six weeks working in New York City February through the League's national office next summer.

The Morrison intern last year was E. Anne Fox '67.

Members of the class of 1967 may apply for a one-year appoint- ment as assistant to the Leadership Institute of the Over- seas Education Fund of the League of Women Voters. Applications are due in Miss Eastburn's office by Jan. 9, and applicants will be in- terviewed by representatives from the League on Jan. 23. The Institute will be held dur- ing the first academic year at Pembroke College. Women volun- teer interns from Latin America will attend. Facility in Spanish is almost a necessity for the job. Asia Rail '66 holds the position this year.

Mather's Les Femmes Savantes will be presented under the sup- port of the French Government at the Pershing-Plaza Theatre, Ninth Ave. and 53rd Street, New York City February 4-15. Further information may be obtained by contacting the College French de- partment.

PENNELLAS'S
RESTAURANT AND BAKERY
Decorated Cakes for Birthday Parties and Other Festivities
CALMONT JEWELERS
WATCH REPAIRING ON THE PREMISES
114 State St. 443-7792
DIRECT LIMOUSINE
NEW YORK AIRPORTS
l.v. N.Y. 1v JFK 1v LGA
6:00 P.M. 1:30 P.M. 2:00 P.M.
8:00 P.M. CALL 887-2525 FOR RESERVATIONS
Charters Tours
FOR THE NICEST SEE
FASHION FABRIC CENTER
255 State Street
442-3597 442-7018

CLASSICAL ROMAN SUMMER for Mrs. Mary Louise Lord, associate professor of classics at Connecticut, was partially supported by funds from Texaco, Inc. Here, she indicates for Pres. Charles E. Shain, left, and Treasurer William C. Pomeroy the site of the American Academy at Rome where she attended the 1968 summer session of the School of Classical Studies.

Photo by Biscuit

Beyond the Wall

by Kathy Deane
BELLOIT COLLEGE, Beloit, Wis- conso: Under a new policy, fresh- men may spend the first year at the College without fear of being put on academic probation. Furthermore, students may now drop their two lowest grades in figuring a cumulative grade average. To graduate, a student must have at least a C average in the major field and in the final two terms senior year. HAYEFORD: Due to the emphasis on class rank by the selective Service, Haverford no longer maintains lists of rank. The administration has long felt that grades are an unsafe measure of one's abilities. According to Pres- ident Hugh Burton, the decision was made clearly, and only for academic reasons." STANFORD U.: In five academic departments, students have joined faculty mem-

CLOTHES AND GIFTS
THAT ARE NON-Cliche

19 WATER STREET, MYSTIC
(Next to the Emporium)

Reading Week, Acad. Comm. Issues Head Cabinet Docket

by Jane M. Callon
Requests for reading week sign- out privilege and popular election of members of the Academic Com- mittee were channeled through Cabinet at their meeting last Thursday.

A Uniform Guide for House Elections was presented by Gia McFarland, speaker of the House and approved by Cabinet.

A petition suggesting that the editor of Conn Census and chair- man of the Academic Committee might fulfill the popular election requirement for Cabinet voting power by submitting their names to the entire student body for a vote of confidence was presented for discussion by Ray Dowsing, editor-in-chief of Conn Census.

The request for reading week oversight signs-out, drawn up and presented by Ellen Leader and Shaeley Carpenter, will be taken to the Academic Committee next week for discussion. The request suggests that the lack of oversight sign-out privilege is inconsistent with the purpose of reading week stated in the G-book as "a period during which they (students) are free to organize their own time in- dependently."

The tempos and pressure which the situation of 1400 women liv- ing together for six consecutive days creates, was also emphasized in the request.

The proposal suggesting that the members of the Academic Commit- tee be elected at the time of class elections under the Uniform Guide to Class Elections was made by brilli Schen and JoAnn Hess.

Cabinet voted last year to give Academic Committee the power to decide its own membership.

The Uniform Guide for House Elections provides for the election of a permanent house president in the spring. Candidates will file their intentions with the House of Representatives and introduce themselves to students at campus- wide house meetings for the gift of next year's dorm. Balloting will take place during the signing into rooms.

The discussion concerning the petition for the vote of confidence for Academic Committee Chair- man and Conn Census editor re- vealed opposition which expressed the viewpoint that these offices should still not be receiving popu- lar election because a choice of two candidates was not made available.

Oh-oh, better check the punch bowl.
Student Cuts Two Records; Plans Tour, Singing Career

by Dilys Blum

Connecticut's folk-singer-in-residence, Jackie Follett, 22, last month cut several records for MCM-Verve/Folkways, two of which will be released Dec. 8. The first tune, "Moments," she composed herself.

"Moments," she composed herself. Jackie explained that a friend who attends Antioch College invited her to record a "demo-rec- tract with any specific recording plans, she added, include a possible tour this summer, and, hopefully, a successful singing career.

Moreover, she has been a member of Conn Chords since her freshman year, and last year she sang several times at The Barn with a local band from Waterford, "The Wind- "singers. The group is affiliated with the Hraboshals Club and was featured in Life Magazine last summer.

by Lynn Kinsell Rainey

The constantly growing Connecticut College graduate program has enrolled for the 1966-67 academic year 56 students from 40 colleges and universities in the United States and abroad.

Twenty-nine of the grad students are women, and 27 are under the jurisdiction of Connecticut College for Men, established in 1909.

Twenty-seven students are new to Conn this year. They are enrolled in nine departments: Psychology, English, history, zoology, music, fine arts, classics, and philosophy-

Several of the grad students partially defray their tuition expenses with research grants and part-time jobs.

Patricia Kerwin, a graduate of the College of New Rochelle, is housefellow in Marshall House. She said she enjoyed the "relaxed atmosphere and friendliness of the girls." Miss Kerwin and two other MA candidate housefellows receive financial aid for their duties.

Six MA candidates and 12 full-time students have been in- vested in the process of writing a thesis which will be submitted to the President, have been in- vested in the process of writing a thesis which will be submitted to the President.

The two tracts were then mixed and printed and expressed their appreciation for the encouragement which she has received from her instructors. Her interests are Renaissance and Restoration literature.
DEFEATED INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE ADDRESSES PEACE CLUB AT CONN

by Ellen McCulloch

“I appeal, not to your prejudices, but to your ideals; not to your fears, but to your hopes,” stated Robert Cook, Independent candidate in the recent campaign for Congress in Connecticut’s third district. Mr. Cook reiterated his views in a discussion of his campaign at a meeting of the Peace Club, Dec. 7.

Mr. Cook first spoke about his basic platform as a candidate running on the American Independent Movement (AIM) ticket. He said he firmly believes that “non-partisan” government does not mean non-political.

Summarizing Issues

He summarized his most important issue as “the war in Vietnam and the direction of American society.” Cook challenged the Administration’s position, stating that the war in Vietnam is a “civil war against the South.”

Mr. Cook thinks that, given the truth about the war, the American people could at least make a real choice. He views the unequal concentration of power in American society as a basic political problem. He believes that the power must be everywhere, in the cities and the suburbs. To achieve this goal, he calls for an all-over project of state-wide political reform. “If you can change these rules you can change the shape of power,” he said.

Success Not Expected

Mr. Cook did not anticipate success in this year’s campaign against Democratic incumbent Rubert Claeys and Republican challenger Stuio Salmons. Cook said he was encouraged, however, by election results.

He received 5,346 of the vote (8,500), the highest of any independent candidate in the country. In 19 wards in New Haven, he gained from 10% to 25% of the vote.

He noted that in the predominant white working class towns of East Haven and West Haven, the vote ran low. “We had the least success in these districts,” he said.

Cook continued, “We exposed Claeys as a basically liberal, prejudiced man who will use liberal language when it suits his purpose, but who will not stand by his words.”

In 10 wards in New Haven, he gained from 10% to 25% of the vote.

The annual survey also showed that the enrollment of education was the most popular among those earning bachelor’s degrees. The 43,700 master’s degrees, totalling 101,200, up 11 per cent, and doctorates reached 16,500, a 14 per cent increase.

Plans Unsure

The future plans of the Yale professor are unsure, but he said his plan to learn from past failures and to continue to work on the political contact built up.

“A campaign can’t be too intellectual,” Cook commented. “You have to work with actual problems. A political organization should actually help people and change their lives.”

Mr. Cook said his independent campaign was not interested mere- ly in opposition politics. Although he did not gain representation in Congress, Mr. Cook could cite several goals which he believes the IPAC can achieve.

“We reshaped the politics of the Third District,” he said. “We raised the level of political debate to a large extent, the issues discussed were our issues.”

Cook continued, “We exposed Claeys as a basically liberal, prejudiced man who will use liberal language when it suits his purpose, but who will not stand by his words.”

Cook concluded, “We not only participated in things, but actually demonstrated what a different style of politics might look like.”

GOVERNMENT CONFERENCES PANEL: from left, Mr. Romoser, Dean Harvey Brooks, Mr. Bruce Smith and Dr. Sanford Lakoff. Photo by Olson.

Government Data Discloses Increase in Graduate Study

WASHINGTON (CP) - A higher percentage of today’s college graduates is going on to receive post-graduate and professional degrees, according to data released recently by the U.S. Office of Education.

During the academic year ending June 1965 when Americans won more college and university degrees than ever before—master's degrees showed a greater rate of increase than bachelor’s degrees. Doctorates had the greatest percentage increase of all, the Office reported.

As in previous years, the field of education was the most popular among those earning bachelor’s and master’s degrees. Among those receiving doctorates, education was second to physical sciences by a small margin.

The annual survey also showed that:

- In all, 667,502 degrees were earned by 410,573 men and 257,039 women. The total is 6 per cent more than in the 1963-64 academic year.

- Bachelor’s degrees, totalling 493,000, were up 7 per cent from the previous year. Master’s degrees totalled 112,200, up 11 per cent, and doctorates reached 16,500, a 14 per cent increase.

- First-professional degrees, granted chiefly in medicine, law, and religion and requiring more than four years of study, went up 10 per cent to 46,000.

The 112,200 bachelor’s degrees in education accounted for nearly one-fourth of all bachelor’s degrees. The 43,700 master’s degrees in education represented about two-fifths of the degrees in this category.

The physical sciences led in doc- torates, with 2,800. Education was second with 2,700 and engineering third with 2,100.