Campus Security

From Mr. O'Grady...

Dispelling Rumors

Francis P. O'Grady, Chief of College Security, has revealed that most of the rumors circulating among students and faculty concerning crime on campus have little or no basis in truth.

"There are no foundations to the rumor at all" that an armed robbery occurred outside of Marshall House on February first, O'Grady said. The incident that resulted in the rumors did not involve students at Connecticut College. The case is being investigated by the New London police department, and will be explained in full next week, when more details will be available.

Furthermore, O'Grady stated that "There have been no assaults on campus at all" this semester. One student was assaulted, but on the grounds of the Coast Guard Academy. Since the assault occurred on a government reservation, the incident is handled by the government.

Fewer reports of theft and pilferage have been received in the past two weeks than earlier. O'Grady added, although a vending machine in Palmer House was broken into on Monday night.

A painting by Richard Lukowicz was stolen from Cunningham Arts Center on February 10th. The painting was recovered when two security guards observed a man leaving the building with the painting. The New London police were notified, and an arrest was made.

"An extra man has been put on at night," O'Grady said, and "Fred Freeman and the complex dorms are being locked up early as extra security precautions. "We ask that students cooperate more in keeping their doors locked," he stated.

President Shain observed with regret that the increase of crime on campus is not unique to Connecticut College. "College Wesleyan's president has called the Middletown campus "Hot-spot" because of the increased incidence of theft."

"The security budget is one of the fastest growing of all," Shain said. He added that a lighting company is still doing a study of ways to improve the lighting on campus. He felt that in spite of these measures, "there's nothing you can do." It is really effective, except to convince students to "act prudently" by locking rooms and, when walking alone at night staying away from potentially dangerous areas.

Budget to be Reviewed By Board of Trustees

On Saturday, February 12, the Budget Review Committee of the Board of Trustees met with the Student-Faculty Development Committee to discuss the budget for the 1972-73 school year. Five trustees on the Budget Committee met in an all-morning session, and were joined by the Development Committee at 11:30. The Development Committee recently completed its work on next year's budget, and discussed its recommendations with the trustee committee.

The trustee Budget Review Committee, chaired by Mr. James English, Chairman of the board of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Company, will go over the recommendations of the Development Committee and present it with their modifications to the full Board of Trustees at meetings on February 24th and 25th. The board will then approve, disapprove, or alter the budget, and return the final version to the administration, which will prepare a presentation of the budget.

President Shain stated that an all-college meeting will be scheduled for the presentation and discussion of the final budget. Questions will be answered at the meeting. Assistant Development John Detmold said that the all-college meeting will be held sometime early in March, to allow time for the preparation of charts and graphs for the presentation.

This is the first time that the Development Committee has met with the trustees' Budget Committee to discuss the budget. Detmold stated that if gave both committees a valuable opportunity to "talk to each other, and ask and answer questions concerning the budget.

The provisions of the budget will not be available to the public until the final version is approved by the Board of Trustees. The student members of the Development Committee submitted a minority report to the trustee committee. The minority report, which concerned one of the points of Development Committee's recommendations, was accepted for consideration by the trustee review committee.

The Development Committee and the Library Committee will meet with the Board of Trustees on February 26th to discuss plans for the new library and various proposals for parking and the perimeter drive.

Results of SGA Poll On Academic Reform

The results of the recent Student Government poll of student opinions of the Student Senate Academic Change Report on Academic Change show that 53.1 per cent of the return was in complete agreement with the general concepts of the report. Since the total return represented 615 students, 323 of whom had read the report, the 33.1 per cent represented 202 students. 413 per cent of those who had read the report were in total disagreement with the report. A total of 239 students had some comment, or suggestion to make, but these have not yet been compiled.

Jay Lewis, President of Student Government, felt that "the report was a success because it has provided a catalyst for change and a basis for faculty-student discussion." He also said, "I think it is that general that the dormitory meetings of students and faculty for discussion of the Report were a success. Of course some meetings had a greater degree of success than others, and I think that the faculty is impressed with the student interest in the report."

Comments by house presidents on the meetings in their dorms ranged from the most to the least encouraging. Connie Vignetti, house president of Windham, commented, "I was sorry that more students and students didn't go to the meeting. There were moments when individuals dwelled upon their private gripes and situations, but I think the general concept that evolved was that the present situation is quite flexible and that the report only seeks to structure (Continued on Page 8)

From Dr. Hall...

Further Precautions

Over the weekend of February 11, 12, 13 the nurses of the Infirmary received some obscene and threatening telephone calls. A nurse is here alone in the Infirmary from 9 a.m. to 7 a.m., and such incidents can be the basis for considerable anxiety. Our policy in the Student Health Service has always been an open-door policy, ready and unquestioningly admitting any student at any time. Now, however, due to circumstances in general and these incidents in particular, it seems impossible to continue with this relaxed and comfortable policy. The new policy will probably be a nuisance for everyone, and we regret its necessity, but it does seem to be a realistic one for everyone's protection.

We are asking all night arrivals (9 p.m.-7 a.m.) to telephone the guards at 636 (or 442-6501) for pick-up and delivery. This will mean that no student (especially female) will have to walk alone on campus at night to get to the Infirmary and that the admitting night nurse will have the protection of the guards. The night nurse will not admit any unreported patients.

Sorry about this,
Mary N. Hall, M.D. Director, Student Health Service

Among the most frequently voiced complaints among students at Conn College (and everyone knows Conn students voice plenty of complaints) is that there is nothing to do in New London.

One can easily get the impression the "The Wailing City" is a cultural, recreational, and gastronomic desert, offering opportunities only for a greasy pizza, a dirty movie, and a clogging of the ears. Actually, one would be hard put to find anything farther from the truth.

With a car, a little patience, and a compass, anyone seeking excitement in New London should be able to find it in one form or another. This guide has been prepared to aid you in your search, should you become sufficiently bored with life at Connecticut College to try your luck in New London. Save this article—it may come in handy some dull Saturday evening.

The guide has been divided into two sections: one for eating and drinking, and one which contains everything else. You might be wise to stay away from a few of the establishments mentioned below, but most should provide you some sort of diversion—just be sure you are prepared for the particular diversions offered.

Several persons have helped in the preparation of this exclusive feature, but particular thanks go to Tom Fowler '74, whose intimate knowledge of New London (he is a life-long resident) has borne ample fruit on these pages. Many of the more apt descriptions are his.

Up Conn College?

B Movie Review

By Donna Cartwright

UP CONNECTICUT COLLEGE?

For those people fortunate enough to have missed PUTNEY SWOPE over Winter Weekend, I congratulate you for not wasting your time. Though the posters advertising PUTNEY SWOPE read “Up Madison Avenue”, they might well have said “up the paying audiences”, because the movie seemed to be destined to take the viewer for the price of his ticket and offered little in return but a wasted evening.

The beginning of the movie was excellent and promised more than it actually gave. The chairman of the board of an advertising agency dies a month after having a fit in a meeting with the board. The board, composed of one black man and nearly a dozen white men, must then elect a new chairman. Thinking that no one else will vote for the black man (who else but Putney Swope?), everyone cast a ballot for Swope. But as he spoke about his plans, he saw his face, and the brothers in the audience, began to say he doesn’t believe in rocking the boat, he believes in sinking it. The board is satisfied, but black. This is the first dynamic scene of the movie. This is the last dynamic scene of the movie. Putney SWOPE turned the advertising business upside down and amassed a fortune. This was accomplished, but there was nothing about the film or the character to make one cheer him on as he screwed Madison Avenue. Putney was just as corrupt as his predecessors. His ideas were not clever and his plans were not effective.

No actor was outstanding. Each rectiled his lines with either The Depression or too much expression. The photography left a great deal to be desired. The film was endless. There were a few (very few) amusing scenes in the film, but they didn’t make up for the poor quality of a film with a bad script.

Hopefully the movie selections will be made more carefully in future. It is much better to pay the dollar charged for a fine film as Z (shown in Palmer on February 4) than to pay seventy-five cents to waste an evening with PUTNEY SWOPE.

Girls’ Volleyball Beats Wesleyan

By FRANN AXELRED

Conn College’s girls’ volleyball season began with a bang as they took the victory in a four-game battle on February 14. Although Wesleyan had the advantage of playing on their home court, the Conns neslets (Camelettes? Coconuts? Bozoettes?) were victorious in both matches.

The power-packed punch of Les Revlock gave the First Team thirteen consecutive points in the opening minutes of the contest, leading them to a 15-3 shutout. Conn then proceeded to capture the match by plugging the quick 15-4 win in the next game.

After an easy 14-5 victory in the opener, Conn’s Second Team allowed the home players a 15-8 win, in an effort to live up on their one-sided contest. Through consecutive serving and combined team effort, we clinched the match for our alma mater in a 15-12 clanger.

The “spikers and setters” of Conn College have plans for continuing their winning record in matches against UConn, Mitchell, and Central Connecticut. Conn College’s girls’ volleyball team has taken the stand and is looking forward to a victory over the last game of the season.

Presidential Announcement

President Shain announced Monday that a study would be conducted of the effectiveness of the freshman year at Connecticut College.

Selected members of the class of 1975 shall be interviewed through the end of the school year. The interviews will be held during the summer and during the fall semester. The results will be analyzed after vacation, and a completed report submitted to the president before the end of the school year.

President Shain explained that the chief goal of the study is to determine what a contemporary freshman wants from their courses. Freshmen will be asked if they prefer more general courses at first, or if they wish to specialize earlier.

The amount of overlap between the senior year in high school and the freshman year will also be studied.

The specific goals of the study are few, Shain said. What is being sought after are the ideas and opinions of the freshmen on all academic aspects of their first year at Connecticut College, and not opinions on a few specific matters.

Dean Emeritus Noyes will supervise the interviewing, which will be done by “people close to the faculty,” but not necessarily themselves, Shain stated. Among the interviewers are Mrs. Thomas Havens and Tim Napior.

Although the study is separate from the American Council of Education’s freshmen questionnaire that each freshman fill out during the fall semester, the results of the two studies will be considered in the forthcoming survey.

Study of Freshman Year Announced

By Greg Yahia

Feb. 12th — Today the Coast Guard Academy proved its superiority over the long-hairs and hippies of Connecticut College, as the CG freshmen basketball team beat the Camels 110-69.

It was a big day for the cadets, who showed their true colors and for all. Trailing 17-12 early in the first half, they put on a devastating press throughout the rest of the game and won easily. Ahead by 41 points with five seconds left, they still had the press on. The Cadets should be proud to have scored 110 points. After all, they tried awfully hard. Effort should always be rewarded.

Of course the impression one might get from the score, Conn played a good game. It was simple that the cadets were too good. Skip Lynch and Paul Lanza had 18 and 17 points respectively for the Camels. Jim Cawley, the season’s scoring leader with a 3 ppG average, was held to 11.

To be honest, Jim was suffering from a strained ankle. This is the only game Conn will play against the Coast Guard this year as they don’t want us to appear in their gym. I guess we’re just not good enough to play there.

The Camels are now 2-4 for the season, with four games remaining on the schedule. They play Mohogian on Feb. 18th and St. Joseph’s on the 19th. Both games are at home.

The following Saturday, Conn hosts Manhattanville and a week from then the team travels to Vassar for the last game of the season.

Support for the team has been disappointing. Right now, we have a good team that deserves the support of everyone. Help the Camels!

Peace Corps, VISTA to Recruit Students

Representatives of Peace Corps and VISTA will be on campus to recruit specialists and generalists who wish to devote a year or two to working with the world’s disadvantaged.

This year, for the first time, Peace Corps and VISTA recruit together. While their programs are still distinct, they now are both part of a newly created organization called ACTION.

Peace Corps volunteers serve a two-year term overseas in one of 56 underdeveloped countries. Programs in Peace Corps are set up in cooperation with the host country and according to the needs of that country. As a result, a wide range of skilled volunteers are needed.

VISTA volunteers serve one year in the United States helping to counteract poverty in rural areas, Indian reservations, and migrant camps.

The eligibility requirements for Peace Corps and VISTA are similar. Eighteen is the minimum age; however, few applicants under 20 years of age qualify for service. College graduates are preferred unless the applicant is a skilled tradesman or had lived or worked on a farm.

ACTION recruiters Mary Bowler (returned Peace Corp volunteer from Swaziland, Africa), Lloyd Lovejoy (former VISTA volunteer), and Emmanuel Apes (Host Country National from Ghana) will be on campus in the Student Government Room on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 21-22. A movie will be shown at 5 p.m. on Tuesday in the Student Lounge, Creagan-Williams.

Million
registered to vote

Approximately 3,000,000 18-20
year-olds have registered to vote at a 2.7 to 1 Democratic rate,
Robert Weiner, National Youth
Registration coordinator for the Young Democrats office at the Democratic National Committee, announced today. These are the results of a survey of secretaries of state and voter registration officials across the country by the young democrats' national headquarters in Washington, D.C.
This total represents 27 per cent of the 11½ million eligible 18-year-olds with the presidential election coming up in more than ten months. The total registered at this early time surprises many political analysts who had predicted that young persons would not register in large counts.
Results were obtained from thirty-two states, as well as a tabulation of party registration total.

The National Young Democrats, Weiner said have been carrying on an intensive registration drive in the 18-20 year old age group since June 1, 1971. They have sent teams of volunteers to assist local groups, sponsored rock concerts held statewide and local registration workshops, and utilized techniques. College, high school and non-student youth groups besides the Young Democrats which have contributed to what he termed, "an excellent beginning..."

Weiner cited the 2.7 to 1
Democratic to Republican registration ratio nationwide as proof that "the young people of America are ready for constructive, responsible change."

that flexibility. There was great interest in half-semester courses for Freshmen and a general consensus that something must be done about "Freshman Orientation Period."

Fran Wojcik, house president of June Addams remarked that she felt "the meeting was generally informative. There seemed, however, to be objections by the faculty to the idea of half semester courses, although everyone agreed that something must be done about the freshman year."

Nancy Carngilla, house president of Park also felt that the meeting was a success. She mentioned that, "Some people felt half-semester courses of special topics should be available to the upper-classmen as well as to the freshmen. It was also suggested that each department hold a discussion of the courses offered in the department before registration, and senior volunteers be trained as advisers rather than faculty. It was also pointed out that students are now allowed to see their final exams, a fact which seems not to be generally known."
