Thought Before Action

Now that other colleges of women are making public their plans for acceleration, it is high time that we at Connecticut College consider if we have not already done so, whether or not we students intend to take part in the acceleration program offered by our own college. We shall all agree that we have accelerated our individual lives to the utmost and for specific reasons. Are there not courses that we can do in order that more liberal arts stu-dents may be able to take an active part in the life of the whole group, community, nation, where understanding, tolerance are necessary for harmonious and profitable exis-tence. This armor of understanding is essential, for facing the post-war world. For the post-war world will not only be composed of nations, each with their political, economic, and so-cial variances, but the post-war world will also have in it peoples of different faiths. And what better place to begin to learn where on campus where speakers have been thrown in our laps?

Speaking of Subversive Activities

The Dies Committee, more formally known as the Committee to Investigate Un-American Activities, has been given another two-year lease on life by a vote of 302 to 94 in the House of Representa-tives. At the same time the House voted to create another special committee to investigate charges that Federal employees, discharged by one agency as a re-sult of Dies Committee oppos-ites, have been rehired by other agencies, as well as to investigate the underlying charges of the Dies Committee. Since its creation in 1938, the Dies Committee has received ap-proximately $45,000 and in the last half year alone has been given over $100,000. This is more than sufficient to pay the expenses of the committee. The Dies Committee has not merely the power to make public the names of persons accused of subversive activities, but also if we are to be citizens and partners in the life of the whole group, community, nation, where understanding, tolerance are necessary for harmonious and profitable exis-tence. This armor of understanding is essential, for facing the post-war world. For the post-war world will not only be composed of nations, each with their political, economic, and so-cial variances, but the post-war world will also have in it peoples of different faiths. President Reveals Varied Curriculum Of Summer Session

Presidential Report

Mr. Barrie leaned an elbow on his desk and put his head to one side, as though the twentieth century were just starting and he seemed to be thinking back over a long period. "When I started up there in 1920 most of the girls wore petticoats," he said. Later they went on to talk about some of the high points in the history of the college. How it was that the girls had won the right to vote. "I doubt if I'd vote if I had a chance," he said. "I'm going to miss it a lot. I'm glad we're doing it."

Mr. Barrie also discussed the history of the college and gave some of the events that had made it what it was today. He talked about the move to New London and the new buildings that had been built. He also spoke about the future of the college and the plans for expansion.

"I think the college is on the right track," he said. "We have a lot of good teachers and a lot of good students. We're going to keep on growing."
Date Changed; Povla Frijth to Sing Apr. 8
The date of Povla Frijth's concert, which had been previously set for Feb. 22, has been changed to Apr. 8, when Miss Frijth will appear at the college in company with the college orchestra. The program will be sponsored by the Fine Arts Club.

C.C. Rejoins Drive For Good Books For Armed Forces

"This is the spirit that service men in all over the country as well as overseas are hop- ing will guide the selections of donors as the Victory Book Campaign begins here on campus. The books that they enjoy are the books that we enjoy.

The books which are collected in the campaign on this campus will be gathered, packed and distributed to USO clubs and Victory Book Centers in the United States and on ships and submarines, and will be distributed by being read and re-read by the men as they go on being read and re-read. By the time they cross five oceans, the books will need to be repackaged and re-read by the remaining crew. The American hero will have read the books before he is turned over to the hands of the Japanese.

So you have finished that best-seller that 25 cents pocket change will not buy. You think the hour of your life. You think the hour that you have taken to read this book is valuable. You think the hour that you have taken to read this book will not be spent in vain. You want to be able to do what you can to help. The books that you have chosen, the books you have selected, the books that you have thus far been isolated, deterrined, and personally

Many a rustled fe- ture, and I do not need to worry about the evening. If in the evening, I think of the people who have to follow me, and I think of the people who are taking care of the people who have to make decisions, I have to think of the people who are making decisions, and I have to think of the people who are making decisions, and I have to think of the people who are making decisions.

So, you will not be afraid. Here is the idea of the college, our work, and our efforts. One of Connecticut's for- mer students, who has this right been considered ab- solutely necessary.

Life in the WAAC

Some questions and answers of interest to every patriotic college woman

The drilling sounds so strenuous—!

Nonsense! The most beautiful women in America today are the girls in khaki! Some calisthenics and drilling are vital to general good health, discipline and tuned-up reflexes. After a few weeks at Fort Des Moines, Daytona Beach or the new Fort Oglethorpe training center you'll feel better than ever in your life.

Maybe I wouldn't like the work?

People are happiest doing what they do well. Every effort is made to place you where your service will count most toward final Victory. You may have some latent talent that will fill a particular need for work interesting and new to women—such as repairing the famous secret bombsight, rigging parachutes, operating the fascinating new electronic devices—or driving an Army jeep over foreign terrain.

Then I have a chance to learn something new?

Yes, indeed. And the list of WAAC duties grows constantly. The training and experience you get in the WAAC may equip you for many stimulating new careers opening up for women.

What are my chances of promotion?

Excellent. The Corps is expanding rapidly and needs new officers, both commissioned and noncommissioned. Those who join now have the best chances. All new officers now come up through the ranks. If qualified, you may obtain a commission in 12 weeks after beginning basic training.

What is the age range and other requirements?

Very simple. You may join if you are a U.S. citizen, aged 21 to 44, inclusive; at least 5 feet tall and not over 6 feet in good health—regardless of race, color or creed. But the Army needs you now—don't delay. Total War won't wait!

Linguists needed. If you speak and write Spanish, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Russian, French, German or Italian, see your local Army recruiting office now! You are needed for interpreting, cryptography, communications.

Paintings and New Interiors On Exhibition

by Helen Crawford '41

A wide range of interest and variety are evident in the three different exhibitions open to the public now through February 28 at the Lyman Allyn Museum. The largest exhibition includes paintings in the permanent collection of the Lyme Art Association; another room displays striking and unusual landscapes by Chinese Ting H. Chin and a third room contains three-dimensional exhibits and diagrams of modern interior decoration. Both the oils and water colors by the Lyme artists reveal a tendency toward the conventional, but a few of the interior scenes immediately distinctive—Will Howe Poole's portrait of a young woman richly clothed, arranging and self-confident; Ivan Olinsky's portrait of a girl in her piano stool, and Gertrude Nason's landscape, Stonington, is most effectively painted in a stylized muralistic technique. Thomas Nason's wood engravings are remarkable for their extraordinary detail. Ting H. Chin's one-man exhibition is especially unusual because the artist has combined oriental treatment and coloring with definitely Western subject matter. The effect is both startling and striking. Chin paints a landscape, for instance, of an American metropolis in pale pastel colors with greatly simplified forms and emphasis on line. The exhibition on Modern Interiors shows by three-dimensional wooden diagrams the relative advantages of various arrangements, endeavoring to solve the problem, "What one demands of a new house.

Large photographs illustrate the comfort of modern furnishings, the flexibility of a house which has its interior movable partitions in place of rigid walls, and the effectiveness of certain modern construction materials— a ceiling, for instance, of thin wood strips woven together.

War Sends Western Union to College to Meet Emergency

by Alice Adams '44

We finally got around to asking a few questions of Miss Sally Leafly, the telegraph operator who has adjusted herself so well to the confidential, crowds, and noise of Fanning. It seems that the telegraph office was installed as an indirect result of the war situation. The college has always had a rather large percentage of the wires coming into New London, and with the shortage of messengers which has developed since the war began, prompt delivery becomes virtually an impossibility. Thus the telegraph office was installed, and it remains open for business from 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Friday and Saturday, Miss Leafly explained, are the busiest days.

Telegrams for the Coast Guard Academy also come through this office and Miss Leafly delivers the wires to the academy in addition to delivering the wires from campus. Roughly speaking, we are informed, there is an average of thirty wires a day for the college and twenty a day for the academy.

No longer is it necessary to pay that extra nickel to call Western Union. Students may now just drop by between classes and dispense with their important business matters via Western Union.

God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

Despite this week and next, the thoughts of the citizens of this country will particularly concentrate on the ideals which Washington and Lincoln have helped to immortalize for the whole world. President Roosevelt in his address to the Joint Session of Congress this week, expressed for them their reverence for the leaders who through the grace of God did so much to advance the cause for which we are all fighting so strenuously.

It is in tribute to Washington, and Lincoln, rather than from falling back on them, that the workers of America, the fighting men of America, the students and teachers of America, all men and women in the country continue working throughout the days ordinarily dedicated to remembrance of these two men. Their names are the symbols of the earliest stages of our fight for freedom — not just for the freedom of the United States and of the negro slaves, but for the emancipation of man in every part of the world.
