Third Convocation Lecture, by Ching, To Be on Industry

Noted Lecturer Elects Future of Industrial Relations as Subject

Mr. Cyrus S. Ching will speak at the third convocation of this school year on the subject of the Future of Industrial Relations. The lecture will be given in Palmer Auditorium, on Thursday, January 15, at 8:00 p.m.

Born on Prince Edward Island, Canada, Mr. Ching graduated from Prince of Wales College and obtained his Masters degree from the Charlotetown Business College.

Industrial Positions

Mr. Ching's first job after coming to the United States in 1900 was motorman for the Boston Elevated Railroad. He rose to become superintendent of equipment and finally assistant to the president.

Mr. Ching later acted as supervisor of industrial relations for the US Rubber Company, and then as director of industrial and public relations, a capacity in which he served until 1947.

Public Service Career

His public service career has been both long and impressive. His appointments include memberships on the National Regional Labor Board as a representative of industry; the council on industrial relations of the National Industrial Conference Board; the National Defense Mediation Board; and the National War Relations Board.

He has also served on the Business Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce and acted as chairman of the China-American Council of Commerce and Industry. His most recent appointment has been the directorship of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Board, a position which he first held in 1947.

Connecticut's Colleges Hold Mock Session of Legislature

Connecticut's Intercollegiate Student Legislature will hold its fifth legislative week end in Hartford, March 4-8. Eighteen colleges in the state of Connecticut, including CC, are entitled to send 17 delegates each.

During this week end, the collegiate legislative group introduces and votes upon bills which have been drawn up during the year. Procedure closely parallels that of the state legislature.

CC Girls Attend

This year two major honors have been conferred upon members of CC's Political Forum. Frances Wilcox '53, who is director of rules for the CISL Executive Council, has been nominated for the position of president of the Senate. Sue Brown '53, has been named House chairman of the Agriculture and Elections committee.

CISL publications describe its aims as twofold: "to stimulate among college students a further interest in government, and to offer the experience necessary for a practical understanding of the political activities of the General Assembly concerning contemporary State affairs.

"At this time when the basic institutions of the American form

Apply Now for Graduate Exam January 30-31

Friday, January 16, is the deadline for registration for the next series of Graduate Record Examinations. These tests will be given at Connecticut College on Friday and Saturday, January 30 and 31. These exams, required or recommended by many graduate schools, will not be given again until April.

Three sessions of testing are included in the Graduate Record Exams. Profile Tests, covering general college achievement, will be given Friday afternoon, January 30.

The Aptitude Test, Saturday morning, measures verbal and quantitative abilities for graduate work. The Advanced Test, given on Saturday afternoon, tests comprehension of concepts and methods in the field of one's intended graduate major.

Fees for Tests

Students who wish to take any of these tests should notify immediately the Graduate Record Examinations, Educational Testing Service, P.O. Box 592, Princeton, New Jersey. Fees for the tests must be included, as follows: one half-day session—$8.00; two half-day sessions—$10.00; three half-day sessions—$12.00.

The following information should be given: candidate's name and address; choice of examination center (Connecticut College); names of institutions to which reports should be sent; and tests for which the candidate wishes to register.

Amalgo

Amalgo will be held for the first time second semester on Tuesday, February 17, at 7:00 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium.

Cantelli to Direct Boston Symphony's February Program

Third in the Connecticut College Concert Series will be the Boston Symphony Orchestra concert on February 10, at 8:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium.

The orchestra will play Haydn's Symphony No. 93 in D Major, Stravinsky's Card Game, a ballet suite, Rossini's Overture to La Gazzaladra, and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5 in E Minor.

Cantelli, Guest Conductor

Guido Cantelli will be the guest conductor here instead of Charles Munch, the regular conductor. Mr. Cantelli, a trained conductor from Italy, is now marking his fourth season as guest conductor in the United States. He came to the United States in 1948 upon the invitation of Toscanini.

A music student from early life, Mr. Cantelli studied at the Milan Conservatory. In 1945 he made his first appearance as conductor of La Scala orchestra in Milan and has since toured with this orchestra.

Conducted Many Orchestras

In the United States Mr. Cantelli has conducted, among other major orchestras, the NBC Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Symphony, and San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

His first recording for RCA Victor was the Haydn Symphony that he will conduct here. This occurred during the fifth season with the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

Van Zanten to Be Vespers Speaker

Speaking at the vesper service on Sunday, January 18, at 7:00 p.m. in Harkness Chapel, will be The Reverend John W. Van Zanten, minister of the Roslyn Presbyterian Church of Roslyn, Long Island, New York.

A graduate of Williams College, Mr. Van Zanten spent a brief interlude as an actor with Walter Hampden in Cyrano de Bergerac, before taking up his theological work in Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Pastorate in New York

Since his graduation from that institution, he has served pastorates in Deansboro and Sherburne, New York, and for the past seven years has been in his present parish in Roslyn. Mr. Van Zanten is president of the Nassau County Christian Council of Churches.

A year ago the American Christian Palestine Committee sent him on a study tour of Lebanon, Jordan, and Israel. For his leadership in fostering harmonious human relations in the Greater Roslyn community, Mr. Van Zanten was recently the recipient of the first annual Roslyn Citizen of the Year award.

Next Communion Service Will Take Place Feb. 18

Ash Wednesday, February 18, will be the date of the next celebration of Holy Communion on campus. The interdenominational service will take place at 7:00 p.m. in Harkness Chapel.

Faculty to Lead Discussions Of Freshman-Sophomore Week

Registration

All students must register for the second semester before 4:00 p.m., Friday, January 16, in the Registrar's Office, regardless of whether or not changes will be made in schedules.

Failure to register by Friday will entail a late registration fee of $5.00 (see page 34 of the current catalogue.)

Destler to Assume Teaching Tasks at Cornell Next Term

Mr. Chester Destler, chairman of CC's History Department, has been granted a leave of absence for the second semester of the 1952-53 academic year.

During that time he will be Visiting Professor of History and Visiting Professor of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University. He will teach a course entitled Development of American Ideals; and also a seminar for graduates and advanced undergraduates upon the Re-orientation of American Democratic Thought, 1880-1950.

Professor Hannah Roach will be Acting Chairman of the Department of History during Mr. Destler's absence.

Courses in American History will be taught by Dr. Irene Neu, a Ph.D. in History at Cornell University. She has taught at Rockford College, and has received advanced training in the Research Center in Entrepreneurial History at Harvard University.

Help for Graduate Work Is Available

Seniors who wish to do graduate work are urged to obtain information from Miss MacBain, in Fanning 202, on scholarships, and fellowships available at many colleges and universities, for study both in this country and abroad. Many of these must be applied for in the near future.

Research and Teaching Programs

Other financial aid offered to graduate students is in the form of assistantships, about which Miss Ramsay, in the Personnel Bureau, has a great deal of information. Both research and teaching assistantships are available in a variety of fields of study.

Scholarships aid generally consists of partial or complete payment of tuition; fellowships often pay tuition plus a stipend, depending on the applicant's financial need. Assistantships which also cover tuition plus other expenses, usually permit a half-time graduate program.

Graduate Record Exams

Since records on the Graduate Record Examinations may be used to determine recipients of graduate assistance, students who wish to apply for such aid are asked to apply immediately for the Graduate Record exams if their prospective graduate school requires them.

Program Will Include Talks on Curriculum; Honors List Reading

Freshman-sophomore week will be held at the beginning of the second semester. The theme of this year's program will be the new curriculum recently approved by the faculty, which will go into effect next fall.

During the week, explanations of the curriculum will be given by President Park and members of the faculty, and there will be opportunity for questions and discussions.

An all-college assembly on Monday, February 9, at 8:30 a.m. in Palmer Auditorium, will be the official beginning of freshman-sophomore week. At this time the first semester honors list will be read.

Other events later in the week will include a talk by President Park, and discussions with various faculty members. Times of these parts of the freshman-sophomore week program will be announced later. Despite the title, these events are open to members of all classes.

Employers to Visit Campus, Interview

Seniors are asked to notify the Personnel Bureau if they wish to be interviewed for jobs by employers visiting campus on these dates:

Thursday, Jan. 15 — Lieut. F. E. Clark, Department of Defense, National Security Agency. Interviews for confidential government work. Friday, Jan. 16 — Miss Nancy Clapp, and Miss Patricia Reeve, New York Life Insurance Company. Interviews for statistical research work.

Wednesday, Jan. 21, Thursday January 22 — Mr. Harold Russell, Central Intelligence Agency Interviews for confidential work in Washington and overseas.

Wig and Candle Selects Hedda Gabler by Ibsen As Spring Production

Auditorium 202, at 8:00 p.m. Sunday, February 15, is the place for try outs for Wig and Candle's spring production, Hedda Gabler, a drama by Henrik Ibsen.

There are four women's parts. Hedda Gabler is twenty-nine years old; Miss Tesman, the aunt, is sixty-five; Mrs. Elvsted, twenty-eight; and Berta, the maid, forty-five. The men are, George Tesman, Hedda's husband, thirty-three years old; Eilert Lovberg, thirty-three; and Judge Brack, forty-five.

Hedda Gabler will go into rehearsal on March 1. Two competitive plays will have been given by then, and on March 6 the others will be given. Many girls may wish to be in both plays, in which case arrangements will be made for overlapping rehearsals. The performances will be April 17 and 18.

Copies of Hedda Gabler are on reserve in the library.

Research on Women's Education Lists Top Colleges; Connecticut By-passed

Elsewhere on this page there is a news item about a Made-moiselle story on women scholars. Readers will note that Connecticut College is not mentioned as one of the top six women's colleges in the production of scholars. Nor, according to an article on this subject in the January 4 issue of the New York Herald Tribune, is CC even among the top seventeen.

Our first reaction to this article is—so what? It seems to us that this is but one method of ranking colleges, and perhaps not of primary importance. College students intend to become valuable members of their community, and not necessarily scholars.

We won't deny the importance of scholars in discovering the facts that our children will someday learn; knowledge that will enable them in turn to become capable and informed citizens. The more than five out of every thousand women college graduates who become scholars are thus serving a necessary role in the community.

Education is not, however, confined to the classroom. Post-college education has people as its broadly-defined subject matter. It also includes the learning of skills for a specific task—whether that task is paid employment or a volunteer job as a Sunday School teacher or a Girl Scout leader.

Salary and the approbation of associates will replace grades in this broader education. You may also find that one recompense for doing a job capably is an increased demand for your services.

Although you have left the college environment, you can continue to encounter other people as individuals who have not lost the capacity to think. Intellectual conversation takes more effort, of course, than does trivial dormitory and neighborhood chatter, but shows that you can think for yourself, a privilege not solely reserved for scholars. Dinner-table arguments about absolute truth need not be confined to intercollegiate conferences.

Since there was a ranking, we're personally glad that women's colleges made a good showing. It justifies the faith that pioneers in education for women had in our sex. It is not particularly important that Connecticut College failed to head the list. Read again the last line of the story on women scholars. Do you have an "eternal obligation to ask questions and find out"?—SWW

Music Society Plans Vesper Song Program

Vespers on Sunday, January 25, will take place at 5:00 p.m. and will consist of music by the Palestrina Society.

The program includes two numbers: Missa Quaternis Vocibus by Philippus de Monte, and Salve Regina by Joslyn Des Prez.

De Monte, a Belgian, was a contemporary of Palestrina. Although he was appreciated by his generation, his work has lost much of its popularity. Recently, however, the composer has been rediscovered.

The Palestrina Society is one of few groups in the United States that presents works of de Monte. The Missa Quaternis Vocibus is a rare work which is seldom performed.

Wihtol Plays Trombone

Salve Regina is a five-part motet. The work requires a trombone, which will be played by Peter J. Wihtol, organist at the Coast Guard Academy and member of the band.

The Palestrina Society, headed by Dr. Laubenstein, includes members of the college staff, students, and people of New London. The Society, which usually sings twice a year, is devoted to devoted to the study of 16th and 17th century polyphonic music.

Study of Scholars And Their Schools Appears in Mlle

Which are the scholars' colleges? MADEMOISELLE (in its January issue) is the first publication of any kind to cull the findings of a recently completed study as they relate to the education of women.

Research on Scholars

The complete study (due for publication this spring) is The Younger American Scholar: His Collegiate Origins, by Robert H. Knapp and Joseph J. Greenbaum, both of Wesleyan University.

As reported in MADEMOISELLE, the top six women's colleges in the production of scholars are Bryn Mawr, Barnard, Radcliffe, Vassar, MacMurray College for Women, and Mount Holyoke. Scholars are defined as women who go on to graduate study.

"All but one are small liberal arts colleges, all are privately controlled and non-denominational. All choose students not only for scholastic aptitude and what they can learn from this college, but also for what they can teach each other . . . All are interracial and non segregated."

Women's Colleges Ahead

The fifty-three women's colleges as a group averaged 5.6 women scholars per thousand graduates—a good length ahead of all the co-ed liberal arts colleges and universities. Perhaps it is that women's colleges are more selective and more effective.

Seventeen of the sizable women's colleges sent women into intellectual exploration at the rate of five or more to a thousand graduates. And, as MADEMOISELLE points out, "a college that turns out five scholars is certain to turn out a hundred other graduates convinced of their eternal obligation to ask questions and find out."

3 Maugham Stories Portrayed in Film

The movie which is scheduled for this Saturday night is Encore. Like the well-known Quartet, Encore is based upon three short stories by the British author, W. Somerset Maugham.

The three stories are The Ant and the Grasshopper, The Winter Cruise, and Gigolo and Gigolette. Each of these stories is very different in tone and mood, but all display the fine writing ability of Maugham, the excellent acting of the British film stars, and the unsurpassable direction and production of J. Arthur Rank.

The Ant and the Grasshopper is a satire with an ironical ending. It is the story of a rich playboy and his hard-working, virtuous brother. Winter Cruise tells the tale of a talkative, but sensitive spinster who takes a cruise to gain experience. Both she and her traveling companion achieve their aim. Gigolo and Gigolette is a short novel of love; the love of a high diver and his wife, which is shattered by lack of mutual faith, and by the jadedness of thrill-seekers.

ever, find chapel time advantageous as a break between classes or studying, their only free time in an otherwise full morning. Several students believe that their religious needs are not filled by the services now offered on campus. Some of this group regularly attend church downtown; others lose contact with formal religion during the school year.

Roman Catholic and Jewish students in particular decry the nature of campus worship services, which follow college policy that "the College is Christian, but has no denominational affiliation" (Catalog, p. 125).

Proposed changes in the present religious program, according to results of the Religious Fellowship poll, include more interfaith talks and discussions.

An alternative to such a unified program is separate denominational programs, including religious services on campus and denominational clubs.

Undergraduate Work Valuable For Clapp '51, Interviewer

According to Miss Alice Ramsay, the Personnel Director of Connecticut College, a planned program of work and study paid off in the case of a recent graduate, Nancy Clapp, CC '51, of 1621 Boulevard, West Hartford. Nancy came to Connecticut from the Oxford School in Hartford.

NANCY CLAPP

Early in her college career, she came to the attention of the Personnel Bureau since she was interested in earning a part of her college expenses, both during term time and in her summer vacations. For three years she was awarded scholarships and was selected as one of the student guides working in the Admissions Office for four years.

During 1949 and 1950 her work record showed that she had made the fifth highest earnings in her class. Part of each summer found her on a job: first, as a waitress; second, on an assembly line in a factory; and last, as a camp counselor.

Her college major was Mathematics and she was active in the Math Club as well as being an honor court judge, treasurer of her class and on the commencement committee.

When Mr. James T. Phillips,

Vice-President of the New York Life Insurance Company, telephoned Miss Ramsay from New York and asked her to select two seniors who would be qualified to do statistical research for his company, she consulted with Dr. Julia Bower, and Nancy Clapp was chosen to go to New York for interviews.

This week Nancy Clapp returns to Connecticut College as the personnel representative of the New York Life Insurance Company to interview seniors for jobs similar to her own. She and Miss Patricia Reeve are being sent to a number of New England colleges for this purpose, and Connecticut is very happy to welcome back its own graduate in this capacity.

Campus Blue Jeans Vie With Diamonds For Style Honors

The bare-finger club is, alas!, losing membership with great alacrity, its charter members complain. Christmas vacation marked the greatest drop in membership since the Connecticut College chapter of this organization was established.

Jean Ann Hallows

Jean Ann Hallows '53, has planned her marriage to Wendell Driggers, a first classman at the Coast Guard Academy, for early June. Wendell met Jean Ann freshman year through a mutual friend. They hope to make their home in Honolulu.

Sheila Horton

A September wedding is planned by Sheila Horton '53, and Bill Kennedy, a '52 graduate of Yale, who comes from Haverford, Pennsylvania. Bill, who served with the Army in Europe during World War II, now works for the Carnation Milk Company in Boston.

Barbara Perdun

Barbara Perdun '53, and Kent Robinson have been acquainted since June, 1950, when they both spent the summer in Nantucket. Kent is a fourth-year student in a five-year course at the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth. The wedding is planned for June 27.

Good Luck on Exams!

NEWS will be published again on Wednesday, February 18. Until publication of the newspaper is resumed, the NEWS staff wishes everyone the best of luck on her exams.

Organized Sports Offered to Girls In Reading Period

During Reading Period, a young girl's mind turns to thoughts of a dismal nature—studying. Endless streams of words, thirty hours worth to be exact, pass before her bewildered and watering eyes.

To provide healthful diversion during this period, sports have been organized to help students concentrate on other things besides books. Badminton and volleyball are the two sports that are being offered to all Connecticut students. Check the AA bulletin board for the time of the games.

Mr. Holyoke Playday

On February 14, Mt. Holyoke, Wellesley, and Connecticut are participating in a playday at Mt. Holyoke. A chartered bus will take Connecticut students up and back the same day.

Those girls who would like to participate in basketball, badminton, and fencing are urged to attend this playday, for past experiences with playdays at other colleges have proved highly successful. Remember to sign up in the gym if you are planning to make February 14 a day of athletics and fun.

Team Practices

This week has been taken up with practices in some of the winter sports in preparation for the games between the classes which will take place after the mid-semester vacation. On Wednesday night, basketball practice was held for all classes.

On Thursday night, the volleyball enthusiasts gathered in the gym. The first competition gathered in the Gym. The first competition in volleyball may take place during the coming week, in order to make the schedule after exams easier to arrange.

R. F. Poll Tabulations Reveal Trends of Religious Activity

by Sally Wing

Although there is a good deal of dissatisfaction with the religious opportunities now available on the Connecticut College campus according to results of a recent poll conducted in Amalgo by Religious Fellowship, there is also a considerable amount of participation in religious activities.

Since attendance at daily chapel is completely voluntary, it is heartening to note that over one-third of the students who answered this questionnaire attend at least part of the time.

Good Attendance Vespers

A somewhat larger proportion of students attend vespers than attend chapel, according to results of this poll. A majority of this group attends vespers only four or five times a semester, following the vote of the student body to require vespers attendance four times a semester.

Practice Differs

Other results of this poll are summarized in a table on page 3. On many issues there are differences among the major faiths, pointing up the desire for modifications in the present religious program on campus.

Roman Catholics are the only religious group which as a whole attends church regularly, that is, at least once a week. Other students seldom or never attend church.

Practice on vacation church attendance shows a similar split along religious lines. Virtually all Roman Catholics and about 90% of Protestants attend church during vacations. Less than half of the Jewish students, however, and a similar proportion of those with no church affiliation attend religious services at this time.

Results of this poll of membership in religious organizations cannot be interpreted exactly, since many of the students who replied to this questionnaire have belonged to more than one group.

The majority of affiliations have been with denominational youth groups in high school, although a number of Protestant and Jewish students and of those with no formal church affiliation have also been active in interdenominational groups.

Among the Jews and Protestants, a higher proportion of freshmen than upperclassmen attends church during vacations.

This finding suggests a break with early religious training which is not characteristic of Roman Catholics.

Answers to this questionnaire suggest that students do not take the time to attend chapel or vespers. There is the common complaint of too many demands on time, including the valid excuse of studying. Many students, however, see "Religious Fellowship—Pg 2

College Singing Groups Benefit Rec Hall Fund, Midwinter Prom Week

After its great success last year an intercollegiate song fest will be held in the auditorium the afternoon of February 22, the Sunday during the Mid-winter Formal weekend. This is the second annual presentation of this event.

The Song Fest is given to benefit the Student-Alumnae Building Fund, and to promote good relations between the colleges.

A Mason, and a member of the Republican party, Mr. Ching has also served the National Association of Manufacturers in various capacities. A speaker and a writer on industrial relations, he has lectured at Dartmouth, Yale, Harvard, Vassar and the University of Pennsylvania.

Several of these institutions have conferred upon him honorary degrees. Mr. Ching is a member of the corporation of Northeastern University. He is also a naturalized citizen of the United States and a member of the Massachusetts bar.

String Quartet to Offer Program and Workshop, Feb. 17

The New Music String Quartet will be heard in a program of Mozart, Berg and Beethoven in Palmer Auditorium on February 17. The Group appeared here earlier in the season in a varied program in which they exhibited consummate artistry. As on that occasion they will conduct a workshop at Holmes Hall the afternoon of the Concert, at which time they will play and discuss the String Quartet Opus 3 of Alban Berg (1885-1935.) This Quartet, the Quartet in D minor K. 421 of Mozart, and Beethoven's Quartet has done considerable concertizing including appearances at the Contemporary Music Festival in New York. The critics of the New York Times and New York Herald Tribune praised the fine musicianship of the Quartet in their reviews of the Festival.

The scope covered by the college bills is extremely wide. Included in the bills submitted this year was one from Hillyer College concerning "the pardoning of all persons burned at the stake during colonial witch hunts."

About one out of every thirteen persons now in the United States is 65 years or older.

NOW... Scientific Evidence on Effects of Smoking!

A MEDICAL SPECIALIST is making regular bi-monthly examinations of a group of people from various walks of life. 45 percent of this group have smoked Chesterfield for an average of over ten years.

After eight months, the medical specialist reports that he observed . . .

no adverse effects on the nose, throat and sinuses of the group from smoking Chesterfield.
