Dear Editor and Students,

As one of the few students on campus who know Dr. Henry Wells Lawrence, although only slightly, I wish to urge everyone to attend the lecture being given by his personal acquaintance, Dr. Charles Seymour.

As the opening lecture in the annual series to be given in the spirit of the liberal tradition to which Dr. Lawrence... was devoted, I am certain that the address will be more than worth our time next Tuesday, February 27. The question, "The Problem of International Security," is of vital importance to all of us who wish to live in the new world which will become a reality at the close of this war. An able opportunity of indirectly feeling his influence, Dr. Seymour might be forced to pledge cooperation against the Nazis. As a representative of the same name by Ernest Hemingway, is questionable that Russia's be the main attraction playing right now. It is well timed and well acted and very interesting.

For Whom the Bell Tolls

For Whom the Bell Tolls will be the main attraction playing at the Capitol Theater over this week-end. Although this is an old film that is being brought back for its second showing, it is well worth seeing again. The film is based upon the book of the same name by Ernest Hemingway. For Whom the Bell Tolls stars Gary Cooper and Ingrid Bergman. It is filmed in technicolor, is one of the leading pictures of the year, and a modern picture that everyone should see.

President Fraises
Red Cross Workers
In Tuesday Chapel

The presentation of the Red Cross service pin to Miss Von Elsner by President Ben E. Mead was an occasion of much more than ninety minutes in the chapel on Tuesday afternoon. The Combined President of Dorothy Schaeffer's chapel talk on Tuesday, February 19th and in the chapel has also the distinction of being the first president of a Combined chapel to present a Red Cross pin.

Miss Schaeffer said, "I wish to express the appreciation of the Combined on behalf of all the work of the Red Cross rather than on the work of one organization, the Red Cross, since they are so interwoven with the activities of all the organizations of the faculty and the students." The president said that Miss Elsner is doing the work of the Red Cross and that she is the chairman of the War Fund Drive. Many faculty members and students were also named for their work in various fields of the Red Cross, including nutrition, dental, and health aspects.

Student contributions to the Red Cross also cited by Miss Schaeffer. These include blood donations, avoiding a home service, nurses aides, first aid, and nursing.

The alumnus were also recipient in this report. The number of alumnus working for the Red Cross was not specified.

Miss Schaeffer also urged student to join the Longest War Fund campaign.

Praise Open House

Held by Commuters

By Bryna Samuels '16

"That was the best double gymnasium game I've ever seen," said one commuter.

"This was the one day we really got to see the gals at the commuters' open house," said another.

The commuter community showed its strength of patriotism that followed from her companions came as a surprise to many. At the beginning of the day students really put on a party instead of a meeting. The evening stretched into a long, long time. In the words of many, it was a success.

About a month ago, Cabinet invited four-day students to write a letter to the commuter. One of the writers, the president of the commuters, was able to get the off-campus students way that would cement day/resident student relations, and the debut of an open-house event.

400 Cokes Served

The commuters expected about three hundred people at the open house over that number showed up. In fact, there were so many that the neighbors disappeared, and the peanuts and potato chips tables were empty by the end of the afternoon. As for the cigarettes, they were gone in an hour.

The hostesses from the class of '45 included: Nancy Lebby, Euclid; Shirley Fink, Lorraine Hill and Ilene Wally, and Miss Schaeffer. Bernie Raymond, and Barbara Thomaugh also served as hostesses.

The junior class hostesses were Helen Allen, Betty Barach, Alice Biever, and Margaret Commons.

From the class of '39 were Mary Boll, Mary Cady, Mary Culler, Helen Dickey, and Muriel miesz, Jeanette Starck, Elise Tyte, Kittie Velma, and Charlotte Winn.

The freshman hostesses were Florence Ander, Grace Aron, Barbara Berge, Ruth Bursch, Charlotte Gready, Ruth Conklin, Mary Carter, Vivienne Shaffer, and Beverly Ves-

Waldo Frank To Speak On American Feb. 23
Waldo Frank, an author of books dealing with North and South America, will speak on the subject of "Why We Must Know the New World" on Friday, February 23, at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of the Coast Guard academy. All students and faculty members of the college have been invited. Guests may enter through the Nantucket gate.

their preferences and aptitudes. Their jobs range from running or helping to run experiments to doing technical editorial work in the preparation of the weekly tech-ical review, and from making the rival calculations to doing covenants and working on engines. Some have assisted with the study of captured German or Japanese planes, while others have worked with problems in aircraft yet to be built, such as will be governed by jet propulsion.

For the position of engineering aide in the research division it is required that the student have at least one year of college mathematics or its equivalent. A year of college physics will be found very helpful, but not necessary. Students will be chosen not only on their scholastic record, but on such general intellectual interest and potential as was evident in the interview.

Opportunity for Career
For those girls who wish to make a career of engineering work, the research division of Engineering Aides is an unusually attractive opportunity. It will give the girls an experience of working with important problems under the guidance of competent engineers. Upon completion of the year, girls who find engineering work a good lifetime job will have the opportunity to continue in college or postgraduate work with a background of invaluable practical experience. On the other hand, girls who wish to contribute to the war, but do not desire to make a career of engineering, are under no obligation, moral or otherwise, to stay on after the resumption of hostilities.

Invitations have been sent to all seniors who have had one or more courses in mathematics to attend a tea in the faculty room in the morning at 10 o'clock on Monday, Feb-uary 18, at which time Mr. John Lee of the research division will outline the program. Mr. Lee will hold individual interviews both before and after the tea.

Due to the urgent need of the armed forces, girls who wish to do work in the war effort are urged to make appointments at once in the personnel bureau.

Future Peace Will Take Re-education Says Dr. W. C. Ryan

Dr. W. Carson Ryan, president of the Progressive Education association, spoke at a special conference opening the second semi-

Dr. Ryan opened his talk with the statement that the main task of education for today and tomorrow is that of human relations. Schools, he said, must teach human behavior and the understanding of it. "Through human understanding," he explained, "we must build better human beings." Dr. Ryan observed that Navigation is so far failed in human understanding in our handling of the racial minorities in the United States, such as the Indians, Alaskan natives, and negroes.

Behavior Is Caused

"The discussions on vocational versus general education," he said, "Dr. Ryan, are stupid." The fact that teachers have been waiting so long for the education of human relations, they have been waiting for the education of human relations the whole nation. "In spite of all the activity of the Societies, he said, must teach human relations, and the understanding of it. "Through human understanding," he explained, "we must build better human beings." The teaching of human relations and the understanding of it. "Through human understanding," he explained, "we must build better human beings."

Dr. Ryan concluded by saying that education extends the vision of courtesy and conduct books. Dr. Ryan concluded by saying that education extends the vision that the college accepts the moral character of the best of the rings, and that education extends the vision that the college accepts the moral character of the best of the rings, and that education extends the vision that the college accepts the moral character of the best of the rings, and that education extends the vision that the college accepts the moral character of the best of the rings.

No good times end, but there are always memories. Memories made clear in this instance by a ring carved into the top of the ring. The fact that present-day blue green stones are of inferior quality and are apt to chip has made it necessary to offer simultaneously a plain gold ring with the tree and bow cut into the metal. The first five classes had gold rings of this general design. The ring may be an excuse for not wearing your payroll savings.
