College Delegates to Attend Conference on Human Rights

Fundamental education, a UNESCO coined phrase implying education for better daily living, means more than a fight against illiteracy. The principal features of the delegates to the Con-cference on the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural organization to take place in Geneva from February 27 and 28 are: the rights of children, the rights of groups, the rights of people of all ages.

Music Society

Open Twelfth Season

January 25 marked the opening of the Twelfth Season of the Palestrina Society. The society is made up of students, faculty members and local people who gather every week to study music by the various composers of the Age of Sacred polyphony art, under the direction of Dr. Paul F. Laubenthal.

Unique Society

The Palestrina Society is unique, both in view of the few groups in the country devoted exclusively to the study of music. The end of the 16th century marked the culmination and perfection of sacred polyphonic composition in the world of Vittoria, Laubenthal, and all of whom the Society is named.

Polyphony is, as its name im-ples, many-instrumented music. Each voice is independent and of equal importance with every other voice in the development of the musical ideas, yet all blend in a balanced, proportioned whole.

NEW YORK NIA has adopted the Palestrina Society as its Latin American center, and will in turn train American students to study abroad.

This year, in continuation of its previous successful work, the Institute of International Education is issuing a pamphlet listing nearly 200 general and specific Fellowships for 1953-54. The Institute of International Ed-

Jean Fairfax Will Represent Service Committee in Speech

Miss Jean Fairfax will speak to chapel on Wednesday, February 25, during chapel period as a representative of the American Friends Service Committee. She will speak also to the open meeting of Religious Fellowship at 5:00 p.m. that afternoon in the chapel library.

The American Friends Service Committee tries to bring social and technical aid to underdeveloped areas. The Committee now works in Europe, Asia, the Middle East, Central America and the United States on projects that will reduce tensions and build understanding. Approximately a thousand and school and college students participate each year in work camps in areas of tension in internecine programs, in industry, or on farms and as members of units working in mental and correctional institutions.

Annette Studzinski ’54 learned about the American Friends Service Committee through reading a bulletin sent to the psychology department at Connecticut. This bulletin interested her so that she applied for a summer job at the Fairchild Mental Hospital in New Haven, Connecticut.

Before she began her work in a mental institution, Annette went through a weekend of orientation when the students were acquainted with the hospital. She was introduced to the men at her group and to the hospital staff. Annette was assigned to work on the women’s admission board. It was her task to interview the patients. The patients were washed and dressed properly and that they were taken to the cafeteria. She was responsible for keeping the ward in order. Annette also helped her with the housekeeping involved in this duty. Annette assisted the doctors in the examinations and in the electroconvulsive treatments.

Recreation was provided for the patients by playing with them, talking to them, taking them to balls, and taking them to band concerts and dances. The patients were able to play softball and tennis. There was a tennis tournament which included the doctors, nurses, aides, and patients.

Annette felt that the college spirit of the students helped the patients in many ways. For example when the patients were worried that the students would often sing some favorite old songs to relax the patients. During the students’ spare time the seven boys and seven girls in their unit got together for recreational diversion. Outside, speakers increased their knowledge and enriched their background of the work they were doing.

A social anthropologist from Wesleyan spoke to them, a labor union lawyer from Hartford talked on the political situation, and one of the doctors at the hospital gave a lecture on different diseases and the treatments offered at the hospital. Hospital, Not Asylum.

Annette wanted especially to dispel any false ideas about mental institutions. Clear as the patients were usually not kept in isolation; there was no new inner, no strik, no straight jackets, and no electro conversion. Annette told the patients the truth. She said, “If it wasn’t the snake pit I was a mental hospital.”

The students were asked to treat the patients as though they were their own relatives. They were also to act as objectively as possible, with the patients’ own. As therapy for the patients were interested in dealing with “their problems.”

Test for Pre-Meds

Test for Pre-Meds

For Graduate Work Scheduled for May

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1954 must apply by May 1 for the College Admission Test in May. It is announced today by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

In May, candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 9, 1954, or on Monday, November 9, 1954, at administrative centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges requires that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1954 take the May test.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary to score the Medical Objective Type test.

Tentative dates and forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and admission, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisors or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 602, New York 10, N.Y. Applications must reach the ETS office before May 1.

The Association of American Medical Colleges also sponsored the American Medical College Admissions Test, which will be held in May.

Functioning of Council

Within recent years groups of privately supported colleges have banded together on regional bases to provide medical help from industry and corporations. Three hundred colleges in twenty states have formed cooperative projects of this kind. The new council is expected to provide leadership and encouragement for these and similar groups.

At present, Mr. Abrams explained, the council is planning to operate on a three-year basis. Funds for its operation have been provided by General Electric, Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations.

Financial Help for Colleges

Aid for colleges from business and industry is noted in an article reprinted in part from the New York Times, Sunday, February 18.

Headed by five industrialists, the Council for Financial Aid to Education has been incorporated in New York to advise business and higher education on programs for the latter’s financial support.

In a sense, it will act as a “clearing house” for efforts now being made over the country to reduce tensions and build understanding.

The new group was sponsored by Frank W. Abrams, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

In addition to Mr. Abrams, the members of the council are Irving Golds, until recently chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation; Alfred F. Sloan, Jr., chairman of the General Motors Corporation; Walter Paepcke, chairman of the Con tinental Corporation of America; and Hennin W. Prestiss, Jr., chairman of the Armstrong Cork Company.

England Offers to American Students Chance for Study

Summer schools for overseas students will be held at four British Universities next year and will open a few weeks after the Coronation, according to an announcement by the British University Summer Courses Committee. The Schools will be at Stratford, Oxford, London, and Edinburgh, and many Americans are expected to attend, as they have in past years.

College Credit

Teachers, postgraduate students, college juniors and seniors, and others with suitable qualifications are admitted. The courses may be recognized for credits at U.S. Universities and for grants under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

Those themes at the summer sessions will be those that each University is best equipped to offer. At Stratford, the University of Birmingham will present Shakespeare and Elizabethan Drama; and Oxford will give literature and politics in the Twentieth Century. The University of London will offer Britain's Economy in the Atlantic Community, at the London School of Economics and Political Science; while at the University of Edinburgh the Scottish University will present The Development of Modern Civilization. Opportunities to catch interest will be part of each course. Also special efforts will be made to help visitors meet British people and to become acquainted with their British environment.

Passage Reserved

If students are accepted for enrollment they will have ship passage reserved for them, a special advantage in 1953 when trans-Atlantic travel will be particularly heavy.

Fees:

The fees for the four schools for the six-week courses range from $176 to $202, to cover board, residence, fees, and fares and meals on organized excursions. A few scholarships are available for outstanding candidates.

Application forms for the summer programs will be sent out by those sessions in which the courses may be recognized for credits at U.S. Universities. In addition to the Auerbach Freeport City College Summer Schools, checking accounts and savings accounts are also offered.

Mid-Winter Formal

Building Fund, and by other girls on this committee.

The Willows and the Shrews will lend their talent for the amusement and pleasure of the others.

This Song Fest is presented strictly for fun, and there will be no competition between the various groups.

It is hoped that all the college will participate in this one all-college weekend of the year.

World Calendar Association Proposes Plans for Equal Division of Years; System Includes World Holiday

by James A. Coleman

If one critically examines the calendar in use at the present time, the following disadvantages are immediately seen:

The calendar is divided on the four-year cycle, and months may begin on any day of the week.

The calendar is not divided into equal half-years and half-weeks.

There is no logical reason for putting leap year at the end of February except for traditional usage.

Confusion

The effect of all this confusion is all of us are tremendously. In the business world, problems of time and money, and effort is spent every year in improving the calendar in use.

Merchanting Interviews

Mr. Maurice Bernstein, Personnel Director of G. Fox and Company in Hartford, will be on campus Wednesday, February 25, to interview all seniors interested in merchanting.

During his tour, Mr. Bernstein will see the Auerbach major who are welcome to sign for these interviews, any major is eligible and the training program is a valuable business asset.

The sixth American Dance Festival, an event of nation-wide interest, is scheduled for the week of August 17 in the college's modern Palmer Auditorium. It will feature new works and dances from the repertory of the two respective companies, that of Jose Limon, with Doris Humphrey as artistic director, and that of Jane Dudley, Sophie Maslow and William Bales. Guest artists, as yet unannounced, will also appear.
This year, for the first time, the Connecticut College School of the Dance is offering a limited number of $50 scholarships to an officially chosen representative of various college dance groups, provided each group can raise a similar amount toward the aid of its delegate. Replies to this offer show widespread interest in this cooperative plan.
