Astronomer Tells of Cosmic Evolution.

Harlow Shapley, Professor of Astronomy at Harvard University, was the speaker at Convocation on Tuesday, February 23rd. His subject, "Rocking the Limits of the Universe," proved very interesting through the use of his liquidized mercury. His keynote seemed to be the vastness of this universe and the exceedingly small part that we have in it. His lecture was illustrated by photographs, some of which he had taken himself. He made the interesting statement that the mere existence of life is almost impossible, though gradually, are always changing, and proves the evolution theory.

To show the nature of how the milky way is made up of many, many stars, nebulae, groups of stars called clusters, and planets. Not only is there organization among animals, for the stars are in a gas-like condition, caused by the law of gravitation. Several planets of the solar system are in which could be distinguished craters and deep valleys. Astronomers consider the possibility of if its light is apt to spell pictures of stars which they are trying to obtain. As there is thought to be no life on it, the moon is considered a dead world.

We have always thought our solar system to be a very important part of the universe, but recent discoveries have proved that it is but the tiniest part of it. The universe is governed by laws existing as a body to move according to rule. "Mercury, one of the planets of this system, does not rotate while it revolves around the sun. There is no sunlight on it and, on one side of it is too hot for life and the other side that gets no light at all, is too cold for life. They are among astronomers because it is apt to be a more lively place by these instances, but which imposed a severe hardship upon both soldier and accordionist. In spite of this, however, the recital was in every respect a master-performance, and proved Thibaud to be all that had been claimed for him. Thibaud is one of the most artistic people on earth, the French excel in finesse and precision. But, impossible to apply to the universe. Therefore, as it can be all that had been claimed for him. He pays his audience the highest respects for such a combination. He is naturally different racially and in some important respects, temperamentally. His fine diction and activeness won him the respect and admiration of the audience from the first. All news worthy.

The training enables each girl to manage her own garden from various private estates, andecn. Mrs. Merrell described some of the different problems which the students have given them to work out, and how successfully Lowthorpe graduates compete with individuals of similar training. At the present time, Mrs. Merrell claims that there is not one Lowthorpe graduate unemployed. All have responsible, remunerative positions, The universal interest in the type of work which these students do is ever increasing. Mrs. Merrell believes that landscape architecture furnishes one of the widest ranges of employment for girls that there is in the world to-day.

Following Mrs. Merrell's lecture came colored views of Lowthorpe School, with its beautiful grounds. These pictures, together with glimpses of gardens from various private estates, served to show the artistic results of landscape gardening and landscape architecture on a large scale.

OPEN LETTERS.

Dear Editor:

As we have been urged to discuss the proposed reorganization plan for Student Government, the columns of the "Vox" form a fitting place to do so. We feel that Student Government does need reorganization, as it is evidently inadequate to fulfill the present demands made upon it. We are inclined to agree with the writer of last week's open letter on this subject. A much fairer distribution of duties must necessarily follow such a plan.

However, the writer mentions the proposed assembly of students and believes in giving us an opportunity to vote on more student affairs. Our opinion has been that the regular Student Government meetings are sufficient to give us the opportunity. The trouble seems to be that we do not make enough use of it. There is lacking in our meetings the spirit of willingness to understand and discuss matters. Too much is discussed after the meetings on the way home. People lack the initiative to speak up when their criticism would be most valuable.

There is another point upon which I do not agree with last week's writer. She said that because class presidents are not included in the new plan, less responsible girls will be elected to that position. Rather than the most responsible students for Student Government, the columns of the "Vox" would be a better place to discuss their duties. Students of lower executive ability for class presidents, it is true, will still require a person of ability to be a good leader. It will still require a person of ability to be a good leader. It will require the cooperation of many to show their ability, in the increased number of positions. It is the responsibility of all of us to work together to show our worth.

Sincerely,

letters of criticism and little if any opportunity will add much incentive. However, in hopes that some of these views will stop and think whether it may not be applied in no small degree to Student Government. I refer to the current "Our last harpoon-driven question, "Quiet Hours."" An example of which has been unjustly blamed on the Student Government, and not upon the students. Since the meetings concerning the proposed change in Student Government, I have heard many complaints from the students which were aimed at the idea of faculty government and more rigorous rules. These girls prefer Student Government, a government based on honor and fairness, rather than strict obedience to a set of rules. But when one fails to live up to this code, Student Government is a failure and something more drastic must be done. There are few nights in which quiet reigns for more than an hour during the so-called Quiet Hours. It is far too honorable, for instance, to suddenly decide to scram from first to third floor, or vice versa, for a friends to be absent from class? Or, is it really a game to give a Glee Club Concert in the corridors at 11:00 or play the harmonium down the corridors after 10:30? Do we step critically on the turn of light of blame where it rightfully belongs, and with Student Government, and not against it? There will be no question as to whether it will be Faculty or Student Government.

On Individual Responsibility.

To the Student Body:

When the clockwork glances at the title she will undoubtedly groan, shrug her shoulders, and turn away to a light story ofقلقلات, or "quiet" in the corridors. But, in reality, Hux put it on, and, then obviously, it may be necessary to have a rest of the wornout shoes. I can see them now: tan shoes, black shoes, a slipper with a button without a pump, a pump without a buckle—a strange lot; but perhaps not so useless as they appear on the surface.

The shoe, or I should say, sermon, has to do with individual responsibility. A student who has charge of what is our hall, is an extraordinarily popular size for the college girl. But here I am, getting my sermon ready to deliver. What is the thing that we are to talk about? Let us try to resume, as we are all talkers in the proposed reorganization of Student Government. We grasp the idea of something new with avidity, but the thing worst can be the solution to campus problems; and from the point of view of a student that we understand the characters in the story.

But do you really think so? Is reorganization going to accomplish anything? In the first place, it does not do her part to make it a success. This is a time to reorganize ourselves as well as the mechanics of government.

Those of who destroy, who pick at the bone from what we eat, is an extraordinary popular student for the college girl. But here I am, getting my sermon ready to deliver. PROPOSED ORDER OF ELECTIONS.

One important change involved in the Reorganization plan for Student Government is that of the order of elections. All elections, save for freshmen, class president and house presidents who will be elected in the fall, will have to occur either directly before or after spring vacation, so that the official year will run from April to April.

Because of the increased number of officers to be filled under the new system, the order of elections is a matter to be settled by a consideration of the type of girl necessary to fulfill the duties of each office.

The following order is proposed by the committee concerned with the question of the order of elections:

- Office
- Class
- Senior
- Junior
- Sophomore

Music Professors Give Concert.

Malnacht, and "Eignenlerit." Opus 103, number 5, MacDowell's, "The Sea," "Sweet Blue-Eyed Maid," and Chadb.'s, "The Dana." The concert was a most enjoyable one, with the numbers pleasingly arranged, the vocal selections alternating with the piano.-forte ones. "La Campanella" and "The Dannya" were particularly well received. Mr. Welch sang most of his songs in German, French, or Italian. Miss Margaret Howard accompanied him at the piano.

Fellowship Offered.

The Department of English of Mills College is offering two or more teaching fellowships for women interested in working for the Master's degree or the teacher's certificate. In exchange for twenty-four hours of assistance in the department with freshmen and sophomores, the fellowship offers full graduate tuition and either board and room on campus or a cash stipend of five hundred dollars for the year. Applications should be sent to Professor E. O. James, Chairman of the Department, Mills College Post Office, California.
