MSSC executive board resigns

by Selin Ma
The College Voice

The resignation of three executive board members of the Minority Students Steering Committee has cast shadows over the future of the political voice for Unity clubs and students of color on campus.

Chair Ernest Montgomery, assistant to the chair Julia Rae, and Jose Pena, public relations director, all resigned from their posts. Montgomery decided to attend another school this semester, and Pena said, "It was just too much responsibility... very stressful." Further complicating the issue is the pending resignation of Secretary Yuka Nakajima, who will hold the fort while the search for replacement goes on. Nakajima said she has not fully recovered from an illness that forced her to take time off in November.

Baez said the executive board resigned for personal reasons and, "It didn't really come because there was no need for MSSC or because they didn't believe in MSSC." MSSC is currently seeking applicants to fill all four executive positions. In the last Unity Report, Montgomery said, "If those four positions are not filled, there will be no MSSC.

Colleen Shanky, SG president, said there is a "state of emergency with no MSSC... with the dissatisfaction students of color feel." When asked to comment on MSSC's predicament, Pena said, "We haven't fallen apart. It's just that we need more leaders... we are dormant right now.

Applicants currently seeking to fill the positions are first year students. Baez, Pena, and Nakajima all agreed that there would be training and that they will be on hand to offer assistance to the new board.

Pena said, "New executive board members will be looking at everything in a different perspective... we will have fresh minds there."

Stanley said that first year students with no experience "would warrant really thorough training but you have that enthusiasm and feel." See MSSC p. 9

Connecticut College's attorney general candidate withdraws, citing illegal nanny

by April Ondis
Associate News Editor

Reverberations from Capital Hill struck to the heart of Connecticut College recently as Kimba Wood, a 1966 graduate of Connecticut College, became the second of Bill Clinton's most likely nominees to withdraw her application for attorney general.

Wood was one of three Connecticut College graduates to have a prominent place in the selection process for President Bill Clinton's new administration.

Patricia Wahl, an alum, was the first candidate considered for the position. Wahl, however, declined.

The New York Times reported she wanted to spend more time with her family.

Susan Thomas, also a graduate of the college, has been cited as a "close advisor" to Hillary Clinton. Clinton's first nominee, Zoe Baird, withdrew her nomination when the Senate Confirmation hearings revealed that she had hired two illegal aliens.

By April Ondis
Associate News Editor

The Priorities, Planning and Budget Committee and the administration are gearing up for a week-long brainstorming process to target the institution's "core" programs and recommend anticipated eliminations in programs, departments, and services.

PPBC plans to use the Mission Statement and Strategic Plan assumptions to determine which college programs are essential, Claire Matthews, vice president for planning and admissions, said Friday.

Matthews also said PPBC will forward its recommendations to Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, by the end of the afternoon for financial assessment.

The effort to redefine funding priorities comes after the announcement of a projected $1.5 million, budgetary shortfall and a realization that external pressures demand long-term solutions. The "growth by substitution" approach, said Matthews, is necessary for the college to address higher education trends nationwide, including costs associated with rising tuition, the maintenance of need-blind admissions and changing demographics.

Brooks reiterated her belief that course offerings should not just be cut but that they should be reassigned to areas of the college that carry a larger budgetary shortfall.

"We've been growing and belt-tightening, (rather than substituting new courses)," said Matthews.

According to Matthews, it was the current budgetary shortfall which caused college officials to begin restructuring in earnest.

"I think we're run out of time," said Matthews, "We've come up against this budget crunch... I'm willing to take a stand for our courses." See PPBC p. 11

Budget Committee and the administration are gearing up for a week-long brainstorming process to target the institution's "core" programs and recommend anticipated eliminations in programs, departments, and services.

PPBC plans to use the Mission Statement and Strategic Plan assumptions to determine which college programs are essential, Claire Matthews, vice president for planning and admissions, said Friday.

Matthews also said PPBC will forward its recommendations to Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, by the end of the afternoon for financial assessment.

The effort to redefine funding priorities comes after the announcement of a projected $1.5 million, budgetary shortfall and a realization that external pressures demand long-term solutions. The "growth by substitution" approach, said Matthews, is necessary for the college to address higher education trends nationwide, including costs associated with rising tuition, the maintenance of need-blind admissions and changing demographics.

Brooks reiterated her belief that course offerings should not just be cut but that they should be reassigned to areas of the college that carry a larger budgetary shortfall.

"We've been growing and belt-tightening, (rather than substituting new courses)," said Matthews.

According to Matthews, it was the current budgetary shortfall which caused college officials to begin restructuring in earnest.

"I think we're run out of time," said Matthews, "We've come up against this budget crunch... I'm willing to take a stand for our courses."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.

The case gave her a reputation for being tough on crime, after she sentenced Milken to a ten year sentence for a "white-collar crime."

The sentence was later reduced to two years of Federal District Court Judge in the Southern District of New York in 1988 by former president Ronald Reagan.

In this position she became known as the judge who presided over the securities fraud case of Michael Milken.
Making up for lost time

The time has come. For years now - at least four - we've been warned it would. Higher education experts call it "growth by substitution." Connecticut College students have heard it on our campus and off. "Growth by substitution" means that the college is growing through the addition of more students, not through the addition of more faculty. It means that the college must increase its student-faculty ratio or reduce the size of classes. Growth by substitution means that faculty, staff, and students must work harder to meet the needs of an increasing student body.

Opinions expressed in this paper are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Board of Editors of the College Voice.

This semester, Connecticut College will go on to determine a new plan for General Education. The Education Committee (EPC) has come up with model plans that are going to be presented to the faculty, and, after a series of discussions, we will be working out a plan that will be implemented within a couple of years. Therefore, it is crucial that all of us who are involved in the revision process as the new plan will inevitably affect incoming students.

It is very important for students to voice their opinions, whether they be positive or negative and offer suggestions to the student members of EPC. We are here to represent you and we need to know how you feel about the idea of General Education that students should be required to attend courses in a series of activities that are organized in order to get student input upon the issues surrounding General Education.

There will be an Informational Session held on Feb. 10 at 4 p.m. in Becker House living room. This is our chance, as students, to express our opinions, and to let our voices be heard as we move into account when deciding what type of General Education plan should be implemented.

devant Dhill
Chair of Academic Affairs
The College Voice
February 8, 1993 Page 2
A call for rednecks of the world to unite

As a conservative, the next four years will be bothexciting for me in many ways as President Clinton enacts his programs. I will have to accept higher taxes, I will have to accept socialized medicine. However, I believe that my view of a Clinton presidency will not accept and pledge to fight belligerently against those things that I believe are the greatest threats of the word "Bubba" and the media characterizing him in a colorful good ol' boy redneck as well as being the 90's intellectual. Now, I can deal with reactionary, big government, leftist programs, but having the definition of a redneck become so skewed that it became something politically correct entity do-able by all is more than I can stomach. Many rednecks are friends of mine and Bill Clinton, you're no redneck, just the honor code?

Rednecks run when their truck has broken down and the package store closed in five minutes. The Rednecks run when their wives catch them in bed with their sisters. Rednecks do not run for pleasure. If a redneck wants to lose weight he will switch to light beer for a week and stop at three helpings of chili. Other than acrobics and maybe the buns of steel no exercise or hobby is more inspiring to rednecks than joggery.

2) Clinton's cat, Dog people don't trust cat people and rednecks are dog people. Sticks belongs tied to the bumper of a moving car and not practiced around the White House lawn.

3) Clinton's pledge to end the ban on gays in the military. Rednecks would rather see Mt. Rushmore defaced with lip gloss on Washington, earrings dangling from Abe's ears at the Lincoln memorial, and Robert E Lee himself exhumed from the grave and fitted with a pink bonnet than our military personnel allowed to be openly gay.

4) Clinton's past. Rather than going to the University of Arkansas he decided to go to the Georgetown Yale route and rub elbows with those snooty-nosed, prep school snobs. No redneck would ever consider demonstrating on Russian soil alongside the U.S. while his country was at war. A real honest to goodness redneck would have been at Little Rock doing his patriotic duty by throwing rocks at those flag burning, yellow-bellied, communist loving hippies. And if a redneck got stoned, his response to inquiry would not be, "I didn't inhale." It would be more like: "Says, right after I drank that pint of Jack Daniels."

5) Hillary. Does this really require any explanation? A redneck would rather run naked in the woods with Donahue chained to his wrist than spend five minutes married to Hillary. For rednecks Hillary is the loud-mouthed wench you pelled with spit balls in the 8th grade from the back of the classroom and not the woman you give your sacred vows to.

The qualifications for being a redneck are more than a southern born, a good hogg call, and a Fixed capon your head. It is something in the heart, mind, and soul. It is the way of life. So rednecks of the world unite! Let's not let Bill Clinton disgrace the Bubbas that are the true backbone of this nation. I am not sure if the press is attempting to help Clinton's image with the common people by calling him a Bubba or simply blind to the nature of true redneckism. They are either deceitful or ignorant. Take your pick.

Mike Sneedman
Chen 1993

Just the honor code?

It's in the Honor Code, Money, gentlemen. You should read the in the sudden preponderance of Connecticut College women from the last days of COE's to Anti sexual assault enforcement of a Federal Circuit Court Judge Patricia Wald was made. Most newspapers mentioned her Harvard law degree. The only time in recent memory Bill's been turned down by a woman ... Sorry. Couldn't resist the opening ...

Of course, buck then, before men arrived ... back when the plex was a new and exciting place to live: when Claire still took classes here and when we are told that students not only said they believed in the honor code but actually followed it; back then this was quite a different place.

Then again, neither could he.) She politely declined, hopefully holding out for Harry Blackman's soon-to-be-occupied Supreme Court seat.

In the wake of Zogota, Susan Thomas, Hillary's close friend and former "personal advisor" (now just "New York lawyer") was one of the early face-saving candidates mentioned — along with her J.D. from Yale. Assuming her background check was clean, Bill was planning on going to Kimba, London School of Economics. Harvard Law, Youngest member of a Federal District Court in New York when appointed. Foundry removed and praised for her handling of the Michael Milken case. Described in Friday's New York Times by fellow judge as "wonderful," "extremely smart," "wonderful," (again) and "almost aristocratic." Unfortunately, like most aristocratic women these days, Kimba had an illegal alien in the house.

The Times also quoted Thomas, saying she "knew Judge Wood in college...Col- lege? College? Connecticut College? Yeah, Con- necticut College. It's gotta be the Honor Code.

Of course, buck then, back before men ar- rived (at least for more than one night at a time); back before Mike Shimmel wrote his dubious place in the history books by saddling future generations of Coon students with the canet; back when the Plex was a new and exciting place to live; when Claire still took classes here and when we are told that students not only said they believed in the Honor Code, but actually followed it; back then this was quite a different place. Back then we were probably a little less concerned with marketing than improving the quality of educa- tion inside and outside the classroom or, unbelievably, maybe we even adhered to the anti-quotations that achieving the latter goal might be the best possible way to serve the former. But that's another story for another time.

Now we are rightly celebrating the arrival of Connecticut College on the national scene. We are sorry for Kimba that the "political cli- matic" was too hot for her nomination and happy for Tim Weidmann that Bill Clinton has made his new job as vice president for development that much easier. Chances are we'll have the chance to cheer when Kimba addresses the Class of '93 and friends on May 29th.

One of the neat things about higher education is you (as a college) do not reap the benefits of good work until twenty or thirty years later. A little later tell and tell people with a little more pride that, yes, we go to Connecticut College (not UConn), that school whose alumni roll is suddenly the richest repository of highly qualified women in law, maybe we should be thinking about what this school provided to help them achieve so much. Then maybe we should ask whether the Class of 2017 will be reading about high-flying alumni from the good old days in the then-on-line, hourly-updated, New York Times. Maybe we should be asking if it's really just the Honor Code?

Correction:
In "Mid-year Review," Chad Marlow, house senator of Wright, opened discussion for SGA's mid-year review by stating that four proposals, including one of his on textbook sales had made an immediate difference. Marlow called for improvement in the number of quality programs in the College Voice, Feb. 3, 1993.

The article, "Scarcasm and Parody show deal administrative pique," (The College Voice, Feb. 3, 1993), should have referred to Joan Hunter as the director of Human Resources.

Graphic by Kathy Burdelle

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 3
Delattre to explore new concepts for general education

by Susan Foner Features Editor

In the midst of the college's general education reforms, Edwin Delattre, Dean of the School of Education at Boston University and the vice-chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, will address the issues involved in constructing a liberal arts education in a lecture titled, "Generous Understanding, Toleration and the Liberal Arts," on Tuesday at Delattre said, "What you want is the acquisition of intellectual power. You acquire this through a very great concentration in the study of mathematics and natural science, through study in the liberal arts of verbal and mathematical symbols, in philosophy, history, literature, and so on."

Another goal is "The acquisition of the right kind of habit: listening well, reading well, clear expression, rigorous thought, and habits of thoughtful and patient discourse."

"The local arts are about discernment and judgment. They are also about hard listening, paying attention and generous understanding," said Delattre.

"Generous understanding means developing the habit of seeing things from the point of view of others. Toleration involves the judgment of which kinds of conduct are worthy; it is also judgment of what is intolerable, the need to know how things look to the serial killer or the wailing killer, the need to understand what that looks like even though conduct of that kind is intolerable," said Delattre.

Alan Bradford, chair of the Educational Planning Committee said, "The faculty and students of the college have been working on general education reform. Mr. Delattre knows we're doing that. His remarks will be addressed to some of our problems. One problem we have to think about is, is it possible to find a common purpose in requirements with pluralism and diversity. As the president emeritus of St. John's college he may make a case for a core curriculum."

Under a core curriculum of general education requirements would have to take the same courses. Said Bradford, "The whole faculty has to agree on what students need to know. We'll hear what he has to say about that."

Robert Proctor, director of the Center for International Studies and Liberal Arts said a member of EPC, said, "Mr. Delattre has rich experience in higher education; He is also very committed to the liberal arts tradition. We have much to gain from getting the opinion of people outside the college who teaches at objectively. The goal of his visit is to help us to come up with the best plan of general education for Connecticut College."

THE ACQUISITION OF THE RIGHT KIND OF HABITS: LISTENING WELL, READING WELL, CLEAR EXPRESSION, RIGOROUS THOUGHT, AND HABITS OF THOUGHTFUL AND PATIENT DISCOURSE, THESE OUGHT TO BE EMBRACED. - Edwin Delattre, dean of Boston University's School of Education

Profile: Olga Tolscik
Student volunteers with Mother Teresa in Calcutta

by Kathy O'Connell
The College Voice

Olga Tolscik spent January in Bengal, Calcutta, where she met and worked with Mother Teresa while volunteering at a children's hospital. Tolscik cared for sick and orphaned Indian children at Mother Teresa's House of Charity.

Tolscik has always been interested in the medical field and volunteering. However, she said she was never really interested in working with children until she went to Calcutta. She worked in a children's hospital because the adult care positions were all occupied.

Tolscik said this experience "turned my life around by bringing out things in myself that I never knew were there." She said that the children in India were "sincere, open, loving," and their "innocence really affected me." She now "loves kids" and intends to work with Camp Harkness this semester, teaching children horseshoe riding.

There were six other people in the program along with Tolscik, and each person worked in a different location. Tolscik described the participants as "a very diverse group whose desire to serve and do something humanitarian linked them together."

The volunteers stayed with an Indian family who fed and took care of them. Tolscik said that through these living arrangements they were able to experience "the culture, including the traditional food."

Tolscik described the poverty ridden streets of Calcutta as having "whole families4 came out of sidewalk4 beggars, and people worried about where their next meal would come from."

A professor traveled with the participants to give lectures about the Indian culture every other day.

Tolscik's plans were almost postponed on account of religious events while they were in India, "but never felt in danger."

Tolscik worked from 8 am to 6 pm caring for the sick and orphaned children. She administered medication and played with the children.

Tolscik described the experience as "emotionally difficult", yet rewarding because "everything I did was appreciated."

In fact, her job could be so emotionally draining that Tolscik said she often "come home from work and cry." However, she said that, although she couldn't change the situation of the whole country, "every little bit helps." Tolscik explained how "each parentless child cherished the few minutes I spent with him sitting on my lap."

Tolscik stressed how "torn" the Indian people are. She said, "They are sincerely interested in why the Americans would go to Calcutta," and "are very happy when people come to do service work."

Tolscik not only met Mother Teresa, but she saw her every day. She described Mother Teresa as "spunky, charismatic, with a great sense of humor."

"Mother Teresa runs houses of charity all over the world," said Tolscik, "and was very grateful to have people like us come to help."

Tolscik expressed her sadness in having to leave the children whom she grew "so close to" during her month-long stay. She said her "heart was breaking when she had to leave," and that she would "love to have stayed for six months."

Tolscik plans to go on a similar program in Ecuador this summer. She hopes to attend graduate school for public health in developing nations, specialize in maternal and child health, and possibly enroll in medical school.

The program Tolscik chose, Partnership for Service Learning, offers programs in other countries, including Ecuador and France. Students in this program may receive academic credit, the opportunities are offered during semesters, summers, and occasionally in January.

Tolscik encourages students to participate in this worthwhile program, and would be happy to provide further information for any interested students.

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 4

Introducing This Area's Largest Supplier of GRUNGE... THEREAZZ

NOW ACROSS FROM CHARLIE'S IN THE CRYSTAL MALL

Featuring:

MANIC PANIC

Scented Oils • Incense
Wallets • T-Shirts • Hats
Handmade Jewelry
Overdyed & Recycled
Clothing
Chinese Shoes • Do-Rags
Freedom Rings

Specializing In The Area's LARGEST Selection of Dr. Marten's Boots, Shoes, T-Shirts, and Accessories

CALL 447-3925 OR STOP BY

CAU .... 1-1925 STOBY
FEATURES

Volunteer fair links students with agencies that need their help

by Greg Haley
The College Voice

The volunteer fair on Wednesday brought together students interested in sharing their time and talents with dozens of local organiizations who seek their help.

Traci Reiser, director of the Office of Volunteers for Commu-ny Service, said, "It's a great way to strengthen the relationship between Conn and the community. OVCS works with community leaders to develop opportunities for Connecticut College students."

One fair participant was Joe Grinniman, the executive director of B.P. Learned Mission, an after-school program that has been in New London for 134 years. B.P. Learned House offers volleyball, basketball, fitness, a photo lab, a woodworking lab and a new one-on-one tutoring program.

Program directors visit area schools to find students who would benefit from the program, and then campaign for each student. Last semester its Connecticut College students volunteered at B.P. Learned House, and Grinniman is hoping for more tutoring this semester, especially in math and English.

Last semester 17 Connecticut College students worked one to two hours a week at classroom assistants at The Regional Multicultural Magnet School. Sally Myers, a teacher, and Lynn Mariani, who described herself as "parent of one of the children in the program and volunteer," said after school activity is "a fun way to work with the kids in the classrooms. They come calling their first names and yank them into the room."

This keeps the emphasis on skills for the multicultural environment, like dealing with issues like racism. The kids bring their own concepts back to their communities. Also, the school encourages teachers to come on a two-year residency to learn and then take the concepts back to their schools," said Myers.

Les Berendzen is the designer and coordinator of a new music program. The program's aim is to "expose young children to a variety of musical styles through lessons with integrated listening, activities, and discussion topics," said Berendzen. Berendzen's musical training is that Berendzen intends to explore include classical, blues, opera, salsa, rock, jazz, African drum beat, electronic, African American music, and Celtic tunes.

The lessons involve listening to two pieces and discussing them. Said Berendzen, "It's very interesting to see the children's attention. So I design those programs in an effort to make them as interesting as possible."

The program's success is represented in its numbers. In participating in the program can be a unique educational experience for middle school students. The kids are allowing them to say something you taught them last week; they're really absorbing and impressive.

Institute for Urban Education seeks students to teach middle school

by Susan Finzer
Feature Editor

Connecticut College has been selected as one of sixteen colleges to participate in the Institute for Urban Education, a program designed to bring together undergraduates and faculty from colleges and universities with teachers and students from five Minnesota public schools. Students will teach in urban schools and develop new curriculums for middle schools.

The Institute, just founded this winter, is based at Barnard College. Barnard College recently recived a $3 million grant from the Dowell Wallace Reader's Digest Fund to help finance the institute. Dr. Susan Sacks, director of the Barnard College education program, will lead the Institute of Urban Education.

Sacks, an Columbia Spectator, said, "This is not geared to any special group. It is not geared to gifted and talented students, because they already have programs available to them."

The program will start May 1 and last 10 weeks. Participants will review the summer program. Undergraduate participants will receive credit for the program. They will receive credit for an urban education course and for a curriculum development course.

Students interested in urban education are encouraged to apply to the Institute. Students who are interested in participating in the program can pick up an application in the Office of Admissions.

For more information, contact Michael James, professor of education, at extension 2762.
Employment of illegal aliens plagues Clinton administration picks

Continued from p. 1

It was expected until late last week that President Clinton would announces his nomination of Wood early this week after FBI background checks had been completed.

Last Friday, almost two weeks to the day after Baird’s withdrawal, White House officials had further questioned Wood and reached for comment by

It was expected until late last week that President Clinton would announce his nomination of Wood early this week after FBI background checks had been completed.

Last Friday, almost two weeks to the day after Baird’s withdrawal, White House officials had further questioned Wood and reached for comment by

Continued from p. 1

It was expected until late last week that President Clinton would announce his nomination of Wood early this week after FBI background checks had been completed.

Last Friday, almost two weeks to the day after Baird’s withdrawal, White House officials had further questioned Wood and reached for comment by

"In the course of a wide-ranging discussion of policy issues, I was asked if I had a “Zoe Baird” problem, I said I did not. And I do not.”

Kimba M. Wood, Federal District Court Judge

"In the course of a wide-ranging discussion of policy issues, I was asked if I had a “Zoe Baird” problem, I said I did not. And I do not.”

Kimba M. Wood, Federal District Court Judge

Student Financial Aid Workshop
February 12
3 p.m.
Ernst Common Room

Call the Financial Aid Office x 2057
if you plan to attend

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 7
Campus mourns loss of alumn and staff member

by Jennifer LeVan

"A light went out on the Connecticut College campus when Fran died," said Marilyn Dunphy, assistant director of career services, of her colleague Frances Koopean Kercher, former assistant director of admissions, who passed away Thursday at her home in Quaker Hill. Dunphy used to walk three miles through campus with Kercher every day at lunch.

Born May 25, 1925, in Class City, Michigan, Kercher was the wife of retired Merrill Lynch broker Gerald Kercher.

Kercher attended Connecticut College as a return to college student since 1974, and received a bachelor's degree in English in 1967. She has been a member of the staff since 1972. "She lived and breathed Connecticut College," said Kris Lambert, executive director of the alumni association.

Said Lambert, "Because she earned her degree as a return to college student, she felt like she owned the college for her success."

Two weeks before receiving her diploma Kercher was hired by the college's office of public relations as a writer, but devoted most of her career to admissions office programs.

Kercher directed the transfer student admissions program and the alumni admissions program in which Kercher conducted interviews with high school students all around the country.

Dorris Mugge, one of Kercher's co-workers in the admissions office, said her loss will be felt throughout the entire college community, and will have a tremendous impact within the Horizon Admissions Program.

Said Mugge, "Fran was the type of person who you can always count on. She never looked at her job description before offering to lend a hand."

Mugge said Kercher's long tenure on the staff made her the office historian, and she always had amusing stories about members of the college community.

"Fear of Kercher's six children are graduates of Connecticut College. She was also a leader in the Connecticut College Alumni Club of Southeastern Connecticut."

"After her family, her biggest interest was Connecticut College," said Dunphy. "She was a tremendous fun and advocate of the college, especially to alums."

In her spare time Kercher enjoyed cooking, reading, politics, and trips to Boston, according to Dunphy.

"She could cook just about anything, and was always on the cutting edge of the newest kitchen fixes," Kercher read the New York Times, listened to books on tape, and "always had a book going" according to Dunphy.

She served as president of the League of Women Voters of New London-Waterford from 1984-89.

Kercher had also driven the American Red Cross and was a Literacy Volunteer for America tutor.

"Fran always said she never wanted to retire, and she never really did," Dunphy said. "I will miss her spirit the most. She was the most positive, up-beat person I ever met. She was a joy to be with."

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 8 •

Department heads to rehire work study students

by Jennifer LeVan

Some students returned from break to find their college jobs either gone or their hours limited as a result of the college trying to cut students' wages works against federal aid. "We cannot cut student wages for either work study students or 'A' students. Cutting these students' wages works against 76 percent of their compensation comes from the federal government."

-Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, sent out a memo to all department heads last week calling for departments to cut their operating budgets by five percent. The implementation of cost-cutting initiatives limited hiring of students to meet budgetary standards. Working towards reducing their budgets, many department heads cut student workers from their payroll.

Elaine Solinga, director of student financial aid, said, "There was a request for all department heads to cut their budgets, but unfortunately they cut student workers." College Stanley, SGA president, said at Assembly two weeks ago that workers had been cut and that the finance department was working towards re-instating these workers.

These workers would be rehired, because, according to Claire Matthews, vice president of planning, the cutting of student workers actually works against the college.

In his memo, Brooks said, "We cannot cut student wages for either work-study students or 'A' students. Cutting these students' wages works against 76 percent of their compensation comes from the federal government."

A budget team has been created, consisting of Brooks, Rayanne Chambers, associate treasurer of financial affairs, and Sam Stewart, controller of accounting, and is working towards reducing the budget shortfall and achieving the five percent cuts in the administrative budget, and the two percent cuts in the academic budget.

"If we do not qualify for this federal aid [provided by student financial aid], we would make up the difference from our own money," said Brooks.

Chambers said for work study students, "This [cutting of jobs] is not an option, it is part of their financial aid package."

Said Chambers, "Pretentially the departments have taken the students back, or attempted to place them somewhere else."

Solinga preferred not to call the cutting of the students "firing," but merely cutting back on the help. Roughly 30 students were cut from their jobs, according to Solinga, but she has not heard from all the department heads yet.

Said Solinga, "For those students, whose budgets have affected them, they should get in contact with us." Solinga said work-study students will be rehired, and should call the financial aid office.

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 8 •

Husband of Bloomsburg University police chief arrested for rape

Last week, Michael R. Boykin, the husband of the police chief at Bloomsburg University, Pa. Margaret L. Boykin, was arrested and charged with raping a university employee. Boykin was being held in a county jail, in lieu of $15,000 bail for the rape of December, Boykin, a grounds worker at the University, was suspended without pay pending the outcome of his case. State and local police are investigating Boykin's attachment to four sexual assault cases since December 1991.

Ancient animal bones found by Duke researchers

Ancient animal bones from Egypt which have been collected by Duke University paleontologists may indicate that ancestors of apes and humans emerged approximately five million years earlier than previously thought. The discovery of the bones of mammalian-like creatures would help scientists better understand the path of evolution according to Elwyn Simons, director of the Duke University Primate Center.

Texas University students reinstated

Texas University has reinstated 12 students who were suspended after stealing $22,000 worth of electronics during a trip to Tokyo. The students were placed on probation and are reportedly being required to take an ethics class.

Student expelled for refusing to wear clothing

Andrew Martinez, a junior at the University of California at Berkeley was expelled last week after Berkeley adopted a policy banning nudity. In a letter Berkeley officials told him that his refusal to wear clothing would continue to disrupt essential university function. Martinez, who could not be reached, but said he will appeal or sue.

LOW AIRFARES TO EUROPE & ASIA

Special Student and Faculty Airfares

- Scheduled Major Airlines - No Cancellation Fees

- 50 U.S. Departure Cities

- 75 Foreign Destinations

- International Student Exchange 10 Cards

- Faculty & Group Fares

- International Youth Hostels

- First and Second Class

- Let's Go Europe Guides

- American Express Travelers Checks

- American Express

- Individually

ASK ABOUT OUR EXPRESS ID CARD SERVICE

"Celebrating our 34th Year in Student Travel"
NEWS

MSSC executive board collapses

Students reevaluate structure of minority advocacy group

continued from p.1

MSSC executive board collapses

By Carl Lewis

The process of finding a speaker for this year’s commencement continued as the college awaits a response from the first-choice speaker.

On November 28, the college sent an invitation to Hillary Clinton. Since then, no response has been received. As the May 29 graduation date draws closer, the need for a response is becoming critical. If the delay continues, the college will have little time to invite an alternative speaker, should Clinton turn down the invitation.

According to Marisa Farina, senior class president, the college has one parent and two alumni who have been in contact with Clinton. Judith Kirmmse, executive assistant to the president of the college, is presently working through these contacts to obtain a response.

Kirmmse said, “We are starting to put more pressure on her for an answer.”

Kirmmse is also looking for further contacts with Clinton which might facilitate communication.

“If anyone on campus knows how to increase the networking we have with Hillary Clinton, they should contact me,” she said.

If Clinton does not accept the invitation to speak, the college will immediately invite another speaker candidate chosen by the senior class.

According to Farina, the next potential speakers on the list include Tom Brokaw, Billy Clinton, Bill Morrisett and Mikhail Gorbachov.

On a recent survey of the class, the names received the highest number of votes, following Hillary Clinton.

Farina said the names on the list accurately reflect the wishes of the class. This year, the senior class was able to participate in the selection process through a series of surveys.

The most recent survey had 186 responses. In previous years, the choice of a commencement speaker was made by a smaller portion of the senior class.

“I think we have a really good representative group,” said Farina.

While the college has received no indication about whether Hillary Clinton will come to campus, there is some speculation that presidents Bill Clinton will speak at the Coast Guard Academy commencement this year.

This may interest the Connecticut College’s chances of having Hillary Clinton speak.

Traditionally, the president of the United States speaks at one of the four service academies during each year of his term.

In the past, presidents have spoken at the Coast Guard Academy during the first year of a term in office.

“We were the first service acad-

Serving Connecticut College students since 1980

Only 15 minutes from campus.

A Space Station

Low-cost storage units, close to campus. Clean, protected facilities available.

MYSTIC

536-2424

886 Flanders Road
(Off Rt. 184, 4 Miles East of N. London Bridge)

Other locations in Milledgeville and South Windsor

February 8, 1993 Page 9

ny to have president Reagan speak during his second term,” said Lieutenant Dan Boswell, public affairs director for the Coast Guard Academy.

In addition, George Bush spoke at the Coast Guard commencement during his first year in office. If president Clinton continues this cycle, he will speak at the Coast Guard Academy this year.

“That is up to president Clinton” and his staff,” he said. Bush, “There is no real rule about it.”

According to Boswell, it is too early to predict what will happen.

“I will be quite a long time before we hear anything,” he added. “The year Ronald Reagan came, we had less than two weeks notice.”

Boswell believes the Academy will finalize its plans for a speaker in early spring. “Things usually settle in at mid-March,” she said.

The College Voice

If anyone knows how to increase the networking we have with Hillary Clinton, they should contact me.

— Judith Kirmmse, executive assistant to the president

Self Storage

[Box: NEWS
MSSC executive board collapses

Students reevaluate structure of minority advocacy group

continued from p.1]

[Box: NEWS
MSSC executive board collapses

Students reevaluate structure of minority advocacy group

continued from p.1]

[Box: NEWS
MSSC executive board collapses

Students reevaluate structure of minority advocacy group

continued from p.1]
The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 10

NEWS

Surplus could make clubs’ wish lists a reality

A proposal sponsored by Penny Leisy, house senator of Kr, recommends that Strickland House and Nichols House be reserved for student housing following the conclusion of the current housing crunch. The deadline for all new budget requests would be passed by a roll call vote.

According to Swimmer, SGA vice president, and also stressed the importance of researching the status of the houses and what renovations would be necessary. For example, Strickland does not have a shower, and other renovations may need to be completed on the houses in order to accommodate students.

Said Swimmer, “For our proposal to have more weight it needs to be more researched.”

Marlow said the idea of housing students in Strickland and Nichols had already been voiced to the Land Use and Space Committee which is addressing that request.

Said Marlow, “I’ve always believed it’s important for SGA to take an active stance on issues, we’ve been cut in the past for being proactive, but it’s far better to be well informed and reactive than to be uninformed and redundant.”

Marlow pointed out that he was not necessarily saying the proposed letter was a bad idea, but that, as a member of the Land Use and Space Committee, he was relaying that committee’s concerns to the Association’s Committee.

Marlow also mentioned the possibility of an enrollment increase to 1725 instead of 1640 and the resultant need for more student housing.

Colleen Shanley, SGA president, said that, to her knowledge, the committee has not yet researched the question of Strickland and Nichols housing.

Catherine Woodbrooks, dean of student life, said, “It is important that you voice your opinion that you want this space.” Woodbrooks has previously addressed the need for student housing, and Leisring said that her attitude towards the proposal was positive.

Marisa Farinha, senior class president, said, “I really think there would be no harm, only good in sending this letter.”

The proposal was passed by a roll call vote.

SGA proposed reserving Nichols nd Strickland houses for student housing as one possible solution to the current housing crunch.

Assembly recommends Strickland and Nichols for student housing

by Jennifer LeVan

Acting News Editor

With student housing at the forefront of campus discussion in the face of a recent housing crunch, the SGA passed a proposal sponsored by Penny Leisy, house senator of Kr, which recommends that Strickland House and Nichols House be reserved for student housing when clubs and offices are moved to Collier-Wilkins in the spring.

Leising stressed the fact that the proposal is a recommendation “just to get our feet in the door.”

According to Leising, student housing is needed on campus, and seven to eight students could move to each of the next spring if renovations take place in the summer and fall.

Leising said the renovations would practically pay for themselves because students could then move out of faculty housing and save the school money in this way.

According to the proposal, SGA will send a letter requesting the reservation of these buildings to Danell Giff, associate director of residential life, and Catherine Woodbrooks, dean of student life.

A copy of this letter will also be sent to Claire Gaudiani, president of the college, and Robert Hampton, dean of the college, because of an amendment proposed by Sean Spicer, house senator of IA.

Gerard Choncour, SAC chair, also made an amendment to send a copy to Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance.

Debate centered on whether or not the letter had been adequately researched, and if such a move would be feasible. “Timing is appropriate and we have every right to put in a request,” said Colleen Shanley, SGA president.

Chad Marlow, house senator of Wright and member of the Land Use and Space Committee, said that there has been a comprehensive analysis of all space on campus, and recommended that SGA should not send the letter until extensive inventory is done. Marlow brought up the concern that several departments need space for offices and classrooms.

Mike DellMora, house senator of Hamilton, said that departmenrs looking for space should occupy Winthrop and Hillier Hall when the Olin Science Center is finished, leaving Nichols and Strickland available for housing.

Robin Swimmer, SGA vice president, also stressed the importance of researching the status of the houses and what renovations would be necessary.

For example, Strickland does not have a shower, and other renovations may need to be completed on the houses in order to accommodate students.

Said Swimmer, “For our proposal to have more weight it needs to be more researched.”

Marlow said the idea of housing students in Strickland and Nichols had already been voiced to the Land Use and Space Committee which is addressing that request.

Said Marlow, “I’ve always believed it’s important for SGA to take an active stance on issues, we’ve been cut in the past for being proactive, but it’s far better to be well informed and reactive than to be uninformed and redundant.”

Marlow pointed out that he was not necessarily saying the proposed letter was a bad idea, but that, as a member of the Land Use and Space Committee, he was relaying that committee’s concerns to the Association’s Committee.

Marlow also mentioned the possibility of an enrollment increase to 1725 instead of 1640 and the resultant need for more student housing.

Colleen Shanley, SGA president, said that, to her knowledge, the committee has not yet researched the question of Strickland and Nichols housing.

Catherine Woodbrooks, dean of student life, said, “It is important that you voice your opinion that you want this space.” Woodbrooks has previously addressed the need for student housing, and Leisring said that her attitude towards the proposal was positive.

Marisa Farinha, senior class president, said, “I really think there would be no harm, only good in sending this letter.”

The proposal was passed by a roll call vote.

Said Marlow, “Among all options I’ve heard for use of that space, it is my opinion that student housing would be the best, but I understand that at this point my opinion is an uninformed one. And in the final analysis, the persons or group who are allowed to use that space will be the ones with the greatest need, not the greatest letter.”

SGA proposed reserving Nichols nd Strickland houses for student housing as one possible solution to the current housing crunch.

Assembly recommends Strickland and Nichols for student housing

by Jennifer LeVan

Acting News Editor

With student housing at the forefront of campus discussion in the face of a recent housing crunch, the SGA passed a proposal sponsored by Penny Leisy, house senator of Kr, recommending that Strickland House and Nichols House be reserved for student housing following the completion of the current housing crunch. The deadline for all new budget requests would be passed by a roll call vote.

Esther Potter, house senator of IA, presented a proposal from a Financial Aid Liaison Committee to serve as a link between the Financial Aid Office and the SGA. The proposal passed 28-0.

Mike DellMora, house senator of Hamilton, called for the limitation of a committee which would narrow the quality of life gap between the Plaza and other domes, and also create a sense of community within the Plaza.

Adam Green, public relations director, announced that Young Alumni Trustee elections will be held in the near future, and seniors should come to him with any questions.

Colleen Shanley, SGA president, announced that two housefellow and two student positions are open on the search committee to fill the position of associate director of a residence life.

Chad Marlow, house senator of Wright, presented two action items. One specified why driver training cannot be raised back up to 65 degrees to 68 degrees, and the other called for taking into the nutritional value of the milk served in the dining hall.

Sean Spicer, house senator of IA, presented an action item that the kit of the meals be changed. The request pertained to the President’s Committee, which defined political lobbying as “To persuade people by means other than education that an organization or club’s beliefs are correct.” Swimmer added that when clubs ask for funding, the Finance Committee must use their discretion in defining political lobbying.

Savannah Dell, chair of academic affairs, announced that student representation on the Academic Standing Committee is not feasible as it would allow students to have access to other student’s personal information.

Chad Marlow, house senator of Wright, presented two action items. One specified why driver training cannot be raised back up to 65 degrees to 68 degrees, and the other called for taking into the nutritional value of the milk served in the dining hall.

Sean Spicer, house senator of IA, presented an action item that the kit of the meals be changed. The request pertained to the President’s Committee, which defined political lobbying as “To persuade people by means other than education that an organization or club’s beliefs are correct.” Swimmer added that when clubs ask for funding, the Finance Committee must use their discretion in defining political lobbying.

Savannah Dell, chair of academic affairs, announced that student representation on the Academic Standing Committee is not feasible as it would allow students to have access to other student’s personal information.

Chad Marlow, house senator of Wright, presented two action items. One specified why driver training cannot be raised back up to 65 degrees to 68 degrees, and the other called for taking into the nutritional value of the milk served in the dining hall.

Sean Spicer, house senator of IA, presented an action item that the kit of the meals be changed. The request pertained to the President’s Committee, which defined political lobbying as “To persuade people by means other than education that an organization or club’s beliefs are correct.” Swimmer added that when clubs ask for funding, the Finance Committee must use their discretion in defining political lobbying.

Savannah Dell, chair of academic affairs, announced that student representation on the Academic Standing Committee is not feasible as it would allow students to have access to other student’s personal information.
Budgret woes prompt substitution drive

Continued from p. J

very excited about this because it feels like we've...

NEWS

Continued from p. J

very excited about this because it feels like we've... to address health care costs by increasing employee contributions.

The College Voice February 8, 1993 Page 11

Budgret woes prompt substitution drive

PPBC, working with our idea of what we see as the college's philosophies, will recommend..." stated Faribay. While acknowledging the need for immediate cost-cutting to offset deeper cuts in the coming months, said, "For me, the issue is less the balanced budget at the end of this year. I am concerned with how the college will look in five years." Matthews said the college must develop its core, its specialty, in order to survive in a shifting higher education environment.

"Liberal arts colleges have attempted in the past to be all things to all people. This cannot continue. Public policy will not sustain a costly program anymore," she said. A smaller, more specialized focus at Connecticut College, said Matthews, will allow for increased excellence.

Speaking from her perspective in the admissions office, Matthews said, "I would still rather do what we do that is first-rate, than what we do that may be mediocre." PPBC plan to gather suggestions from campus and off-campus segments of the community in meetings this week. Claire Guarnashe, president of the college, is expected to distribute a letter Monday urging immediate input.

PPBC, working with our idea of what we see as... The basic premise of TQM is to involve everyone in the campus in improving their ability to make responsible choices. Some of the basic rules of TQM include participation from every corner, equal treatment and sensitivity for all ideas, "100 percent" responsibility and group decision-making.

Claire Matthews, vice president of planning and a task force member, said, "Total Quality Management is what we mean by getting an increased productivity of U.S. businesses today. My feeling is that there are a lot of efficiencies we can gain at the college by more creative thinking and implementing them.

Some of the basic rules of TQM include participation from every corner, equal treatment and sensitivity for all ideas, "100 percent" responsibility and group decision-making.

Continuing from p. J

Other measures include across-the-board cuts in administrative and academic budgets

by April Ondis

Associate News Editor

In keeping with the college's... on campus, such as dining services, the faculty, and departments are to have a balanced budget by the end of next year.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, said the college expects the new policy to create a savings for the college of approximately $100,000 this fiscal year.

Connecticut College, a self-sustained institution, has been plagued by health care costs. Claire Matthews, vice president for planning, said previously that the college had "miscalculated by $1.2 million in health care costs." Other measures will be used in place of health care costs that was projected for the five year Strategic Plan drafted in 1989-1990.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget.

At the time the buy-out option went into effect, 49 individuals chose to drop out of Connecticut College's health plan, said Brooks. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.

Lynn Brooks, vice president for finance, has called this miscalculation the "greatest stress" on the college's operating budget. The option to buy out of the plan has been extended again on April 1 this year, the beginning of the last quarter of the fiscal year. According to Brooks, the college expects employees to drop out of the college's health plan in exchange for a $250 quarterly incentive.
PITA POKKETS & SUBMARINES

Enjoy fresh, sliced tomato, onion, pickle, hot peppers, or mustard, ketchup or mayonnaise on any of our sandwiches at no extra charge!

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>ITEM</th>
<th>SMALL</th>
<th>MEDIUM</th>
<th>LARGE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>BEEF</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steak &amp; Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Steak &amp; Onions</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vegetable &amp; Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheeseburger</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meatball</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meatball &amp; Melon Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Parmesan</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>POULTRY</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey D'Lite</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey Salad</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicken Salad</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicken D'Lite</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicken Salad D'Lite</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuna Fish Salad</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuna Fish Salad D'Lite</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seafood Salad</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>VEGETARIAN</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vegetarian Classic</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vegetarian D'Lite Pokket</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Greek Pokket</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COLD CUTS</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Italian</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Capicola &amp; Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ham &amp; Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ham &amp; Cheese &amp; Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FISH</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BACON</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>BLT &amp; Melon Cheese</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SPECIALS

- Italian: $2.50
- BLT: $2.75
- Tuna: $2.50

DATE SPECIAL SANDWICH

- Feb 6 - Feb 12: Italian
- Feb 13 - Feb 19: BLT
- Feb 20 - Feb 26: Tuna
- Feb 27 - Mar 5 #10 Vegetarian

ICE CREAM & FROZEN YOGURT

Turn any day into a special day with your own ice cream party! Whether it’s for two or twenty, for the kids or the office, you can make your own party anywhere in just a matter of minutes!

Choose any of Chip’s rich, delicious flavors of premium ice cream or frozen yogurt. Add your choice of wet and/or dry toppings like hot fudge, caramel, pineapple, strawberries, crushed Heath bar, M&M’s, roasted almonds, or walnuts. And that’s not all!

LET US BRING IT TO YOU DELIVERY

Mon. thru Sat. 11AM- 9PM
Sunday 11AM- 8PM

WINTER SPECIALS

- $1.75*: Small Sub or Pita Pokket
- $2.75*: Med Sub / $3.75*: Lge. Sub

*With the purchase of any drink of your choice

D’Angelo Sandwich Shop
721 Bank Street
New London
443-0021

OPEN: 10:00am - 10:00pm Mon-Sat
11:00am - 9:00pm Sunday
Footlights glow brightly at the Garde Arts Center

by James Stautengel, Acting A&E Editor

February 11 - Spike Lee - The director of Do The Right Thing, and Malcolm X will take the field at Palmer auditorium at 8 pm. He is the keynote speaker for Black History Month. Tickets are 10.

February 11 - Poetry Reading - Lawrence Fahy, Manchester Community College; Elizabeth Joh, Yale; Raphael Osay, Hartford Art School; Becky Rodia, Fairfield University; Patricia Sullivan, Southern Connecticut State University, Harkness Chapel library at 8 pm.

February 11 - Connecticut Film Society - BYE, with John Hurt and Michael Burtin, Olivia Hall, 52.50. February 12 - Connecticut College Film Society - Brazil, with Jonathan Pico and Robert DeNiro, Olivia Hall, 7 pm, 9.90 pm and midnight. Tickets are 5.25.

February 13 - African Dance Workshop - with dance instructor, Kelly Ann Anthony. Creative dance studios. 2 pm.

February 14, 21 & March 7 - The Connecticut College Arborium - The Golden Age of American Gardens - The Art of Landscape, 1880-1910 will be a Sunday Afternoon Lecture Series in Bluestone 9:30 am to 11 am. There are 12 lectures. Each lecture will explore the history, art, literature, and culture of this fascinating era in our history. Tickets are $15 for all three lectures or 6 individual.

February 19 - 21 - Lyman Allyn Art Museum - Tables for Two is an exhibition of artistic table top expressions designed by members of the community. 11 am to 5 pm. Tickets are 3.

February 27 - Broadway at the Garde - The Garde Arts Center is presenting the Tony award winning Fiddler On The Roof. 3 pm & 8 pm. Tickets are 16, 20, 22.

March 3 - 9 - Arts & Technology Symposium - A cross between a fair and a symposium, this year through the Connecticut Arts & Technology Symposium of the Center for Arts & Technology at Connecticut College consists of 75 presenters. There will be many applications to come for four days of presentations from various companies, exhibitions of everything from sculpture to medical or "medical" imaging techniques. March 13 - 15 - Craftsmen at the Garde - Tanya Tucker will perform two shows, 7 & 9:30 pm. Tickets are $22.50, $19.50.

March 19 - Lynn Redgrave at the Garde - Shakespeare for My Father: Tales of an Assistant Daughter: a woman tour-de-force tells the story of "the life and times of an ace daughter" and of her father. Sir Michael Redgrave through personal reminiscence and monologues written by William Shakespeare. There will be one performance at 8 pm. Tickets are $16, $20, $22.

April 1 - Off-Broadway at the Garde - The Order of the Little Sisters of Hoboken are back in the Off-Broadway musical Nunsense. There will be one performance at 4 pm. Tickets are $16, $20, $22.

April 16 - Off-Broadway at the Garde - Promises, Promises: the musical from the film that was from the musical Promises, Promises. Tickets are $16, $20, $22.

April 22 - Broadway at the Garde - The King of Scots: the musical hit from the film of the same name. Tickets are $16, $20, $22.

Spring Disney's AIDS benefit concert is For Our Children

Walt Disney's AIDS benefit concert is For Our Children

by Shantall Rajal

Associate A&E Editor

Next Tuesday Walt Disney Records will put on a new album benefiting the Pediatric AIDS Foundation, called For Our Children: The Concert. The release of the album is in conjunction with a star-studded concert on the Disney Channel as well as the release on home video.

The album features Paul Abdul, Kris Kristal, Salt-n-Pepa, Michael Bolton and many of today's best artists performing classic and original children's songs recorded live in L.A., before a capacity audience. All profits from the album and video will benefit the Pediatric AIDS Foundation.

Musical selections include the following new interpretations of traditional children's songs: "You Are My Sunshine" by Michael Bolton, "This Old Man" by Hall & Oates, "The Railway Workin' on the Railroad" by Randy Newman, "Mary Had a Little Lamb" by Shelia E., "My Little Lamb" by Bobby McFerrin. Paul Abdul sings "Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah" on the album and says of her choice, "Zip-A-Dee-Doo-Dah" is one of the songs that just sticks in your mind. I remember humming it on the school way when I was very little. I think every kid knows that song and has hummed it at one time or another. The melody is infectious, the lyrics are simple and catchy, and it seemed like a perfect February 16. It has a catchy, and it seemed like a perfect February 16. It has a catchy, and it seemed like a perfect February 16. It has a catchy...

Produced by Dawn Steel, For Our Children: The Concert was recorded live at Los Angeles' Universal Amphitheater on September 26, 1992. This album was inspired by Walt Disney's first Pediatric AIDS Foundation benefit album in 1991 entitled For Our Children, which raised three million dollars. This album featured studio recordings of original and traditional children's songs performed by such legendary artists as Bob Dylan, Bruce Springsteen, Barbra Streisand and Little Richard. With the combination of The Disney Channel and Walt Disney Home Video, The Walt Disney company hopes to surpass the nearly three million dollars raised by For Our Children. The Disney Channel's worldwide

Paula Abdul adds some zip to Disney's For our children concert.

For more information send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Travel INC., P.O. Box 359, Miami, FL 33101.

Spring Break

Cancun, Bahamas, Jamaica from only $399!

Days and from $149!

Organise a small group and legendary hits! Call New England's Largest Spring Break Company! Need a Break? For Our Children: The Concert to the Pediatric AIDS Foundation.

"EXTRA INCOME 1993"

Earn $200-$500 weekly mailing

nosis. Please call Tam

Nicholas 303-372-0483 at the

Lanier's Pink Inn, 214 Lakeshore

Ladybird CT (6039).

Rooms for Rent Quiet choice of rooms-female-private entrance-outside smoking. Please call Tam

Nicholas 303-372-0483 at the

Lanier's Pink Inn, 214 Lakeshore

Ladybird CT (6039).
Vladimir Spivakov conducts the Moscow Virtuosi Palmer

by Ann Zachary
College Voice

The Russian chamber ensemble Moscow Virtuosi, under the direction of Vladimir Spivakov, lived up to its reputation as one of the world’s foremost chamber orchestras Friday night in Palmer auditorium.

The ensemble performed a variety of chamber music pieces ranging from Edward Elgar’s Introduction and Allegro for Strings (which seemed to be the favorite piece of many of those who attended the concert) to Mozart’s 29th Symphony to American composer Leroy Anderson’s Syncopated Clock. One soloist, however, was Mstislav Rostropovich and Leonard Bernstein. He has also performed and conducted with the orchestras of several American cities, including Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Boston and a host of others. As anticipated, Spivakov’s conducting and violin playing were the highlights of the evening. It is rare that you see a musician take on the roles of conductor and soloist within a single concert, but it was immediately obvious that Spivakov has cultivated neither his conducting nor his violin playing talent to the detriment of the other. My companion at the performance remarked that he had never seen anyone put so much emotion into conducting. This analysis of Spivakov’s connection and commitment to his music carried over into his violin playing. Spivakov did indeed seem to become one with the piece, even keeping time to the music with his head when not playing. Spivakov did indeed seem to become one with the piece, even keeping time to the music with his head when not playing. Spivakov did indeed seem to become one with the piece, even keeping time to the music with his head when not playing.

The Moscow Virtuosi is currently on their sixth tour of North America. For those who would like to hear more, the orchestra’s first twelve albums have been released on the BMG/RCA Victor Red Seal label.

The college’s own Lyman Allyn “sets-up” for Tables For Two

by Jimbo Santangelo
Acting A&E Editor

On February 19-21 the Lyman Allyn Art Museum will host a weekend of fun at their special benefit Tables For Two. Community groups, individuals, and local celebrations will design table themes and vignettes relating to their organization, business or interests. Participants include the Mystic Seaport, Quimper Faience, Stonington High School, Mystic Seaport, Quimper Faience, Goodspeed Opera House, the William limas School and the Coast Guard Academy, among many others.

Christopher, CEO of Lawrence and Memorial Hospital will create “Dad, Daughter and Dinner” based on a Sunday family tradition. The Daughters of Four Winds Girls Scout Troop from Old Mystic will create “A Native American Lunch for Two.”

Morgan McGinley, editorial page editor of The News-Ledger, has designed “Fishing for Trout: A Salmon-side Lunch.” Other themes include “A Mad Hatter’s Tea Party,” and “Breakfast for Two With the Norwich Butcher.”

The attendance fee of $3 for adults and $2 for children includes the special event scheduled each day. On Friday at 1 p.m. designer Joyce Page will present “Penny-Wise Table Design,” with assistance from House- hold Treasures. On Saturday at 1 p.m., Jimmy Booth, owner of The Golden Lamb held the Residence will create “Creative Cooking For Two with Herbs and Garlic.” At 3 p.m., Linda Sample, owner of A Thyme to Cook, will demonstrate “Creating a Sumptuous Buffet Table.”

A lecture/demonstration on Sunday brunch “The Gentle Art of Living Well in the Nineties,” will be presented by Sandra Simile-Kehn, on Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

At 2:30 p.m., Cynthia Palter, owner of Symmetry, a party planning service, will present “Entertaining Suggestions For Tables for Two or Twenty Two.”

You are invited to Space Your Life at the gala premier party on Saturday at 7 p.m. Come and bid on a cache of magical, fanciful, romantic and whimsical delights. The auction will include a Day of Beauty, Celebs tickets, backstage tours of the popular daytime soap opera "Dallas," fireworks, a wine tasting for twenty, lunches, brunches and dinners at area restaurants, antique jewelry, sculpture, and more.

Artist Louis Bonaventure will create a watercolor of your home, and photographer Paul Horton will take a portrait of up to four family members. Tickets to the party are $30 per person, and includes cocktails and light buffet.

Movies to get you in the proper spirit for St. Valentine’s Day

by Jimbo Santangelo
Acting A&E Editor

O.K., it’s Valentine’s Day again, and you know that this means, yes, you guys have to go out and impress the person you love with flowers, chocolate, dinner, and the movies. Well, if your wallet is a bit shallow these days, you can still impress your date with a movie that doesn’t come around too often. It doesn’t have to be the movie you wish to impress her or go see Summertime. Now there’s a story that doesn’t come around too often.

This heart-warming story stars Richard Gere and Academy Award winner Jodie Foster. I guarantee that this is a snuggly kind of film. But I understand that times are tough, and not every shoestring is kind enough to fork out fifty bucks for dinner at Don Juan’s and then pay fourteen for a movie. So I have a solution.

Here is a list of movies that you can rent and watch in the privacy of your own room. This probably will only cost you $2: two for the movie and eight to get your roommate to leave. So here it is:

When Harry Met Sally - This movie question is whether men and women can be "friends." Let’s face it, women love this stuff. That’s all that matters. Starring Billy Crystal and Meg Ryan, this is one of those few films where you will actually feel the movie is over. And even if you aren’t, you still get a chance to snuggle.

Ghost - This story, starring Patrick Swayze and Demi Moore, is one of a few that surpasses death. This is one of those movies where your loved one cries and you get to console her and tell her that you will come back and love her for you.

Say Anything - I guarantee that this movie will make you cry, but it will be back that filling feeling before you know it. Starring John Cusak and I保证 this movie will make you cry, but it will be back that filling feeling before you know it.
Undermanned Camels drop to 6-10 after 107-54 blowout loss to Ephemn

By Noah Goldner
The College Voice

After earning one of their most impressive victories of the season last Thursday, a 101-71 triumph on the road under those circumstances, it was nearly impossible for us to face them on the road under those circumstances.

The seven-man rotation presented an ankle injury. They are an excellent, impatient game, and it required players to adapt to positions they play infrequently.

There's a rhythm to how you substitute and last night we had to change it. We also had virtually no inside game without Bob and Mark, said Schoepfer.

Freshman Andre Wright led the Camels with a career high 18 points. 'The one bright light was Andre Wright,' Schoepfer reflected. "Andre plays great in the open floor and he was able to get out on the transition."

The MIT game was a completely different story, as Conn exploded in the second half, outscoring the Engineers 68-47. "We wanted to open up the floor," said Schoepfer. "The quicker the tempo of the game, the more you accentuate the other team's weaknesses, and that's what we did."

Ted Frischling led the way with 23 points on 10-17 shooting, nine rebounds, three steals, three assists, but that was overshadowed by the fact that fourteen Conn players scored in the game, including six freshmen.

Conn, whose record now stands at 6-10, next faces Western New England on Tuesday at home.

Camel swimmers left in Trinity's wake, but no brawls

By Matt Burstein
Associate Sports Editor

Back in the old days, oh, about a year ago, there used to be a student center on campus. Freshmen may be shocked to hear this, but the enormous perpetual construction site next to the library once contained, among other things, a snack shop and a swimming pool.

Today, there is a new pool in the Athletic Center, where the men's swim team lost to Trinity on Saturday, 115-81. However, with the new facility comes hope for a team with a winning future.

The squad has been much stronger than their two wins (against Bridgewater State and WPI) and four losses (Clark, Wesleyan, Brandeis, and Trinity) indicates.

Coach Doug Hagen said, "We've been in a lot of close meets and a lot of races within the meets have been close. Individually, we've had some pretty good swimmers."

Included among those swimmers are senior co-captains Mike Anderson and Greg Rose, junior Toby Effelen, and sophomore Ned Owen and Jim McLaughlin. In addition, there are two promising freshmen, Justin Daniels and Mike D'Amour.

Even with a new pool, the move from Cro to the new Natatorium has not been completely without choppy water.

"Today, we had less lanes, and a smaller team," said Hagan. "Now, we have six places, and often must leave lanes open."

That problem was evidenced in the loss to Trinity. In the 1000 meter freestyle race, the Camels only put two swimmers in the pool compared to three for the Bantams. They were forced to do the same in the 200 meter freestyle, and only had two out of Trinity's four in the 200 IM. Effelen swam alone in the 500 meter freestyle.

Despite the lack of numbers, there were some good performances from they swimmers that were present.

The team of Owens, Rose, Andersen and Bill Yates finished second in the 200 meter relay with a time of 1:44.48. Effelen completed the 1000 meter free in 11:44.48, good enough for second place. Andersen picked up second place in the 200 meter free with a timed of 1:56.77, and also finished in the top two in the 100 meter free style.

The Camels swim team is on its way to becoming a winning squad. Now if they can just finish Conn, whose record now stands at 6-10, next faces Western New England on Tuesday at home.

Sailing reigns supreme down South

By Julie Graef Sports Editor

With one of its deepest squads in years, the Connecticut College sail-dominates both the Louisiana Sugar Bowl and the Orange Bowl in Florida regattas and returned from winter vacation with the consideration of the team that ranked fourth and the women's team ranked fifth nationally.

The women annihilated the competition at the Sugar Bowl, easily winning second of the 24 races in the nation, downed the Camels by a score 107-54.

In addition to having face one of the toughest Division III teams in the country on the road, the Camels were forced to play without regulars Will Betts, Jason Betts, Mark Lacey, and Bob Turner. The Betts brothers did not attend the game for personal reasons, and although it is unknown how long they will be out, they could be back by early this week.

Lacey and Turner, the team's outgoing match at center, were not because of injuries. Lacey, who has been plagued with back problems throughout the season, is being listed as day to day. Turner, who sprained an ankle during the beginning of the MIT game, could be back by this weekend if it heals tempered a win-50 game, 2:56.50, and also won the 100 meter backstroke, finishing in 56.16.

Rockey Barbank finished second in both diving events, the 1 meter and 3 meter, with scores of 144.375 and 158.775.

With Anderson and Rose having completed their final home meet, the swimming team will be even stronger next season. But with their new Natatorium and talented young swimmers returning, the men's swim team is on its way to becoming a winning squad. Now if they can just finish Conn.

Sailors reign supreme down South

With one of its deepest squads in years, the Connecticut College sail-
Senior diver Gretchen Lech splits the water in recent action at the AC.

Women's swimming edged out by Trinity in three point loss

By Jolie Granot
Sports Editor

Despite strong performances by most of their swimmers, the women's swim team could not compete with Trinity's depth, and suffered a disappointing loss when they were edged out by the Bantu ans 116-113 last Saturday at home.

Throughout the meet the score was close and going into the second-to-last event of the day the Camels were only down by one point. However, in this event Trinity was able to put the meet out of reach, placing first second and fifth in the 100 meter breaststroke. They outscored Conn 14-5 in the event and were winning by a total of 112-102. This meant that even the win in the final event, the 400 freestyle relay, swam by co-captain Liz Olbrich and sophomores Carol Clew, Amy Dunham, and Karen Grant was not enough for a victory for Conn.

According to co-captain Laura Ewing, the team swam well last Saturday, but because of its smaller numbers, Conn has trouble filling all the lanes and loses valuable points. "We don't have the depth to bring the points, and it's frustrating because everyone swims well and we still lose," she said.

An example of this was in the 1000 freestyle, when senior Nuala Thompson had an excellent race as she placed second, qualified for New England's, and cut about three seconds of her personal best time. Despite this great finish, Conn was still outscored in that event 14-4 because Thompson was the only swimmer for Conn in that event.

Ewing also pointed out that it wasn't a loss for the Camels to fill the lanes last year when they only had two to fill. However, this year, with the new pool there are eight lanes and each team is supposed to fill four of them. Conn also swam well in the 200 medley relay, in which the team of Ewing, co-captain Lara Leipertz, senior Anne Carlow and freshman Emily Anderson placed first. In the 50 meter freestyle sophomore Amy Dunham placed first with a time of 26.85. Dunham also took second in the 100 freestyle, while Leipertz placed first.

In the 100 butterfly Ewing and Olbrich placed first and third respectively and in the 100 backstroke, Clew and Carlow took first and second respectively.

With this loss, the women's team drops their record 2-4. As they prepare to close out their regular season next at Salem State, the team must also begin to think about the New England Championship meet, a mere three weeks away.

The team already has five swimmers who have already qualified for the meet.

SPORTS

Schmoozing with Dob and Pops:
Schmoozing urges Marion sisters to replace Aspen's Jane

By Dobby Gibson
and David Payadokoupos
The College Voice

Politically Correct Heckling

While we're in the midst of the winter sports season here at Conn, Schmoozing would like to present a few tips on how we can all feed a bit better about ourselves as the new global sports fans of the 90's. No longer are the crass putdowns of yesteryear acceptable in the bleachers of Dayton Arena, Luce Fieldhouse, or Hardness Green. Instead, Dob and Pops suggest you follow our guide to a kinder, gentler form of heckling.

Old heckle: "Ref, you're in—blind!
PC heckle: "Ref, you're visually impaired!"

Old heckle: "Ref, get a real job, ya mother---!!
PC heckle: "Hey ref, did ya go through Conn's Office of Career Services or something?"

Old heckle: "Coach, you've got your head up your ass!"
PC heckle: "Coach, you have your upper vertabrate extremity inserted in your rectum!"

Schmoozing suggests that "lame" Aspen be immediately replaced as the voice of the phone network here at Conn by the voices of the Marion sisters. Imagine picking up your phone and hearing, "Hiya, honey, you gotta enter your mailbox number now..." The Schmoozing All-Campus Sega Hockey Tournament is right around the corner. Details to be released soon... My, how we old-timers already miss the old Cro gym around here. The men's and women's floor hockey leagues have to be played on the rubber surface of the Luce Fieldhouse this year which is pissing two enormous problems: 1) There are no "bounds" 2) Goaters cannot slide on a rubber floor surface. We here at Schmoozing long for the days when we used to watch games from the balcony of the old Cro gym — or the days when we used to play on that gorgeous surface in the Williams' School Gym... Hat off to the women hoopers who have rolled to a sublime 14-4... Speaking of the women's b-ball team, Schmoozing has got to produlgate our affection for Bonnie "foul first, ask questions later" Silberstein, who has made it a point of pride to foul out of as many games as she can. Silberstein subscribes to the ever popular "no mopity-no food" theory, although unfortunately, the refs do not... Best IM hockey team this year? Hands down it's the team known to all as I Love the Shape of This Wing.

Top Five Things Accomplished During the Niering Administration

1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

Campus Dryer Controversy

What's up with the clothes dryers on this damn campus? It used to be a big deal to have to use six quarters to dry a load of wash. But within the past couple years they have raised the price from 75 cents to a buck and monkeyed with the machinery in such a way that it's now commonplace to use twelve quarters to dry a load of wash. Schmoozing urges all students to do what they do best (you, that's right, whine and mean about things and relatively meaningless campus controversies) by calling the Mac Gray Company who is responsible for this travesty at 1-800-842-7320.

Will your company grow as fast as you do?

Almost every company's recruiting of premium you rapid growth. But before making any decisions, ask them how fast they're growing. After all, you're going to have trouble moving up if your company isn't.

Over the last five years, while economic conditions have stagnated many organizations, Andersen Consulting grew at the average of 20% per year.

Compare that figure to any other firm you're considering. It could be the difference between getting ahead and hanging your head.

All Majors: Please join us for an Information Session regarding Careers in Management Information Systems Consulting on Tuesday, February 9, 1993 at 6:30 pm in the Office of Career Services.

By Julie Granot

WHAT'S UP WITH THE CLOTHES DRYERS ON THIS DAMN CAMPUS? IT USED TO BE A BIG DEAL TO HAVE TO USE SIX QUARTERS TO DRY A LOAD OF WASH. BUT WITHIN THE PAST COUPLE YEARS THEY HAVE RAISED THE PRICE FROM 75 CENTS TO A BUCK AND MONKEYED WITH THE MACHINERY IN SUCH A WAY THAT IT'S NOW COMMONPLACE TO USE TWELVE QUARTERS TO DRY A LOAD OF WASH. SCHMOIZING URGES ALL STUDENTS TO DO WHAT THEY DO BEST (YOU, THAT'S RIGHT, WHINE AND MEAN ABOUT THINGS AND RELATIVELY MEANINGLESS CAMPUS CONTROVERSIES) BY CALLING THE MAC GRAY COMPANY WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS TRAVESSY AT 1-800-842-7320.
Hoopsters cruise to easy victory over Skidmore

The two teams exchanged leads for the first ten minutes until the Camels grabbed hold of the advantage for good on a put-back by Wood (14 points, 14 rebounds). She then increased the lead to 14-11 by draining an open jumper on a fast-break. The Conn lead increased as their swishing defense and hot shooting took over. The Camels outscored their guests 18-6 in the final half of the half, with their largest burst occurring when C.J. Anthony (10 points, seven rebounds) hit a “3” with 2:06 left to put Conn up 30-15. At half-time the score stood at 30-17.

The closest Skidmore came to an upset occurred with 18:47 remaining. A three-pointer put them within 10, 32-22. However, a Stuart lay-up and a Sire (9 points) jumper gave Conn a 40-23 lead, a feat which was never again in doubt. The final score was 68-33, as Conn added 16 points and seven rebounds and Skidmore 10 points and five rebounds, Conn raised their record to 14-1, a record which will be tested by a tough Wednesday night game.

Montana's victory, they did. This was a tainted victory, however. Seeing that Josh Levine was a dominant goal scorer for Crashed and Burned (he scored the first goal of the game, giving Conn a 1-0 lead), the Honchos' Rick Sullivan was out to get the team's general manager to go after Levine. The result was a major high-sticking penalty assessed to Sullivan and Levine, but when the game was over, Levine was unable to keep the visibility in his eyes. "They are the best of the best," said Sullivan. "They are the best of the best," said Sullivan. "They are the best of the best," said Sullivan. "They are the best of the best," said Sullivan. "They are the best of the best," said Sullivan.
SPORTS

Hockey weekend highlighted by bench-clearing brawl vs. Trinity

By Jon Wales
The College Voice

Friday night the rivalry between the Camels of Connecticut College and the Bantams of Trinity turned bitter as a bench-clearing brawl with 34 seconds left in the game spilled over into the crowd causing numerous injuries to both players and fans. Reportedly, eight New London police enforcers had to be brought in to help Campus Safety disperse the unruly participants.

Lost in the fracas was a dramatic performance by the Camels who were outmanned and consistently beaten to the puck in all three periods by the charged up Trinity squad. On paper the two teams odds by the charged up Trinity ability. Both teams are backboned by youth and strong goallending.

Conn's sloppy power play all night. With 15:35 remaining in the first half, the Warriors held a 10-9 lead, and their tight defense looked as though it may stop the high-octane Camel scoring attack. Erika Giffis would have none of that. The senior forward scored two of her 16 points on a pair of free-throws to give Conn its first lead, 11-10. A minute later, she grabbed a teammate's miss and put it in the net to extend the lead to 13-10. By the time she converted a lay-up to give Conn a 19-10 lead, the momentum had shifted to the squad in white.

Conn's losing streak was the fact that co-captain Pat Satter is ill and could not play this past weekend. According to co-captain Andrew Bogle, the absence of Satter really hurt the Camels last weekend. "It really made a big difference," Bogle said, "because he is the second seed and we all know he is not there everyone has to move up a notch. He is also a great motivator."

Bogle was quick to add that Conn won both of their matches the week before when Satter was playing and still ill. Satter should return to the team next week, and he will definitely play with the team in Nationals at Princeton in three weeks. Bogle is confident that with the return of Satter, the Camels will surprise many teams at Nationals, and perform better than their record reflects.

Men's Squash continues to struggle

By Julie Granor
Squash Sports Editor

The men's squash team continues to struggled this season, as they were shutout in their last four matches against Brown, Tufts, Amherst and Fethman.

One major factor contributing to the team's losing streak was the fact that co-captain Pat Satter is ill and could not play this past weekend. According to co-captain Andrew Bogle, the absence of Satter really hurt the Camels last weekend. "It really made a big difference," Bogle said, "because he is the second seed and we all know he is not there everyone has to move up a notch. He is also a great motivator."

Philosophers have been searching for thousands of years for perfection, but to no avail. The modern college student has continued this eternal quest. If a Conn College student was asked what he or she found perfection to be, the reply might be:

"Beer, as long as it's free and doesn't taste like colored water," The men's basketball team's, "Any class that doesn't meet on Friday." But the old saying does indeed go, "Nobody's perfect," and that includes the women's basketball team. However, with a 63-52 victory over Eastern, on 83-46 round- ing of Elmira, and a 68-53 whipping of Skidmore, the Camels upheld their record to 14-4, and their win streak to 11 straight, about as close to perfect as a team can get.

Eastern, in the Division III Final Four a year ago, played the early part of the game like a team determined not to become another mer- ciless Conn victim on Tuesday night. With 15:35 remaining in the first-half, the Warriors held a 10-9 lead, and their tight defense looked as though it may stop the high-octane Camel scoring attack. Erika Giffis would have none of that. The senior forward scored two of her 16 points on a pair of free-throws to give Conn its first lead, 11-10. A minute later, she grabbed a teammate's miss and put it in the net to extend the lead to 13-10. By the time she converted a lay-up to give Conn a 19-10 lead, the moment had shifted to the squad in white.

The win against Iona provided a much-needed lift, and according to Bogle, "We were playing a good team," said Stuan, "I tried to get up, and was able to work. BC you have to play through the pain."

Stuart's foul was assigned of what would happen to the Camels, who would also stumble before ultimately prevailing. The Warriors bullied in within 11 at the 12:00 mark, and were able to trim the deficit to eight points following two missed free throws by Berna Maglione (six points). After a Conn turn-over, Eastern was in close as five points, down only 54-46. But that was as close as they came to disaster.

"We were playing a good team," said Stuart, explaining why East-Sea Hawks pp 19

Women's basketball continues win streak

By Matt Bembaum
Associate Sports Editor

At the conclusion of last season, one of Connecticut College women's basketball team's goals was to win the America East Conference. In the eight conference games played, the Camels went 7-1, finishing second overall.

Getting into Saturday's contest against non-league opponent Iona, the Camels learned they would be without seven of their players who faced suspensions. Craig Johnson, Ray Woolcock, Matt Hopkins, Doug Jones, Bob Barrett and Kevin Magnani were all dealt one game suspensions for their extra-curricular involvement. In addition, Dan Fox was given a three game sus- pension for an alleged spiking inci- dence. Fox denies the incident ever happened. Nonetheless, the Camels played a strong game and shut out their opponents from Iona, 4-0. Rich Harding and Mark Rooney provided the first two goals of the game, followed by apair from Chris Hawk to wrap up the week- end. Harding, Rooney and Luke Murphy, to name a few, did an excellent job filling in for the suspended players.

The win against Iona provided a much-needed lift, and according to Bogle, "We were playing a good team," said Stuan, "I tried to get up, and was able to work. BC you have to play through the pain."

Stuart's foul was assigned of what would happen to the Camels, who would also stumble before ultimately prevailing. The Warriors battled in within 11 at the 12:00 mark, and were able to trim the deficit to eight points following two missed free throws by Berna Maglione (six points). After a Conn turn-over, Eastern was in close as five points, down only 54-46. But that was as close as they came to disaster.

"We were playing a good team," said Stuart, explaining why East-Sea Hawks pp 19

Athlete of the Week

This week's Athlete of the Week award goes to senior NUALA THOMPSON. In the Camels loss to Trinity last Saturday THOMP- SON placed second in both the 500 freestyle and the 1000 freestyle. THOMPSON cut her time by three seconds in the 1000 freestyle which qualified her for the New England Championship meet in three weeks.